MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the Radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

The Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

obtained for Inventors, in the United States, Canada and Europe, at reduced rates. With our principal Office located in Washington, directly opposite the United States Patent Office we are able to attend to all Patent Business with greater promptness and despatch and less cost than other patent attorneys, who are at a distance from Washington, and who have, therefore, to employ "associate attorneys." We make preliminary examinations and furnish opinions as to the patentability, free of charge, and all who are interested in new inventions and Patents are invited to send for a copy of our "Guide for obtaining Patents," which is sent free to any address, and contains complete instructions how to obtain Patents, and other valuable matter. We refer to the German American National Bank, Washington, D. C.; the Royal Swedish, Norwegian, and Danish Legations, at Washington; Hon. Joseph Casey, late Chief Justice U. S. LAME BACK. WEAK BACK.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER

Overwhelming evidence of their superiority over all other plasters. It is everywhere recommended by Physicians, Druggists and the Press.

The manufacturers received a special award and the only medal given for porous plasters at the Centennial Exposition, 1876, at the Paris Exposition, 1878.

Their great merit lies in the fact that they are the only plasters which relieve pain at once.

Every one suffering from RHEUMATISM, LAME BACK, OR WEAK BACK, COLD ON THE CHEST, COUGHS, or any local pain or ache, should use Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster, and be relieved at once. Price 25 cts. Sold by all Druggists.

PATENTS

obtained for new inventions, or for improvements in old ones. Caveats, Trade Marks and all patent business promptly attended to Inventions that have been rejected may still, in most cases, be patented by us. Being opposite the U. S. Patent Office, and engaged in Patent business exclusively, we can secure patents in less time than those who are remote from Washington, and who must depend upon the mails in all transactions with the Patent Office.

When Inventors send model or sketch we make search in the Patent Office and advise as to its patentability, free of charge. Correspondence confidential, prices low, and no charge unless patent is obtained.

We refer to Hon. Postmaster General D. M. KEY, Rev. F. D. POWER, to officials in the U. S. Patent Office, and especially to our clients in every State of the Union and in Canada. For special references, terms, advice, &c., Address

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION.

TUESDAY, March 30.

Parliament reassembled to-day after the Easter recess.

In the Senate Mr. Boyd, of St. John, N. B., the newly appointed Senator, was introduced.

In the House of Commons the Budget debate was resumed by Mr. Somerville, who criticised the claims of Mr. White (Cardwell) as a financial critic, and replied at some length to that member's defence of the duties on imported cigars, and in conclusion claimed that the tariff had not beneficially affected either the Dominion or manufacturers as a whole. He was succeeded by Mr. Fleming, who, from a revenue tariff standpoint, assailed the National Policy and criticized the Government's attempt to protect the agricultural industry.

Mr. Farrow followed in opposition to the views advanced by the two members who immediately preceded him.

After Mr. Farrow had concluded, there was a long pause. It was understood by the Government that Messrs. Mills and Anglin were going to speak, and so Sir Leonard Tilley, who had the right of reply did not rise. Here were cries of "Question!" and "Carried," and the Speaker, perhaps, not quite taking in the situation, declared the motion, which was the order of the day regarding the tariff resolutions, carried. On the reading of the first item, Sir Leonard Tilley rose to make a general reply, but had his courtesy in waiting so badly rewarded by an objection that he had no right now to speak on any but the item just read. After some discussion on this point, which it seemed ungracious to have raised, the Finance Minister decided to postpone his speech. After this, the tariff resolutions were read a second time, one by one, and passed with little discussion.

The Minister of Justice moved the third reading of the Bill providing for the appointment of two additional judges of the Supreme Court of British Columbia.

Mr. Blake moved in amendment to the effect that the Bill should not be then read a third time, but that it be resolved that by the equalization of the work in the judicial districts of the Province the present staff would not only be sufficient but its efficiency would be increased.

The amendment was lost on a vote of 43 yeas and 98 nays. The Bill was read the third time on the same evening.

The House concurred in the resolutions amending "The General Inspection Act, 1878," so far as it related to smoked herrings, and a Bill embracing the same was introduced and read the first time.

The House adjourned at eleven o'clock.

Astronomical Notes.

OBSERVATORY OF VASSAR COLLEGE.

The computations in the following notes are by students of Vassar College. Although merely approximate, they will enable the observer to recognize the planets. M. M.

POSITIONS OF PLANETS FOR APRIL, 1880.

MERCURY.

Mercury rises before the sun on April 1, but so near to the sun that it is not likely to be seen.

Mercury will be near Jupiter on the morning of the 8th, near Venus on the morning of the 15th, and will be at the greatest elongation west on the 26th. It rises at that time nearly an hour before the sun, and should be looked for about 12° south of the point of sunrise.

VENUS.

Venus rises on April 1 at 4h. 51m. A. M. Venus will be near Mercury on the morning of the 15th, and near Jupiter eight hours later.

On April 30 Venus rises at 4h. 19m. A. M., nearly at the same point in which Saturn rises, Venus being north of Saturn.

MARS.

Mars is the only planet visible to the eye which can be seen in the evening.

Its motions can be followed by connecting it with prominent stars in the constellations of Taurus and Gemini. On April 1 Mars rises at 9h. 15m. a. m., and sets 32m. after midnight. At meridian passage on April 1 Mars is 4° east of Beta Tauri, and 3° below that star in altitude. The crescent moon passes Mars on April 15.

On April 17 Mars will pass Mu Geminorum 2½° south of the star. On the 23d Mars will pass Gamma Geminorum 8½° above the star. On April 26 Mars will have the same right ascension with Sirius, but will be more than 40° above Sirius.

On April 30 Mars rises at 8h, 36m. A. M., and sets at 11h. 48m. P. M.

JUPITER.

Jupiter ranges so nearly with the sun that it is not likely to be seen until the latter part of April, when it should be looked for before sunrise. Jupiter will be near Venus April 15. Jupiter rises on April 30 at 3h. 44m. A. M., almost exactly in the East.

SATURN.

Saturn rises so nearly with the sun that it is not likely to be seen during the early part of April.

Venus, Saturn, and Mercury rise nearly at the same time on April 30.

URANUS.

Uranus is in very good position for amateur astronomers, and is easily found with small telescopes. On April 1 it passes the meridian at 9h. 47m. P. M., at an altitude, in this latitude, of 58°. It has nearly the same right ascension as Rho Leonis all through the month; it is 3° above this star on April 1, and 4° above it on April 30.

A telescope of low power, which would give a large field of view, would bring the star and the planet into the field together.

Uranus may also be found 6½° east of Regulus, and 2° south of that bright star, early in the month.—Scientific American.

Train up a wife, etc.—"I presume the lady is aware this is a smoking compartment?" "The lady is well aware of the fact; and, being my wife, she knows better than to object."

One of the Tay Bridge Cars Floats to Norway.

The following is a translation from the Norwegian newspaper Morgenbladet:—"By private letter from Utsue Island, on the western coast of Norway, is communicated to Dagposten the intelligence that on the 12th instant some fishermen pulled on the firth to haul their nets, and had hardly finished their labor when they sighted an extraordinary object some distance farther out. The superstitious fears of sea monsters, which have been written a great deal about lately, had them back for some time, but their curiosity made them approach to the sea monster, and, to their great surprise, they found it was something like a building. As the sea was calm they immediately commenced to tow it ashore, where it was hauled up on the beach, and was then found to be a damaged railway carriage. The wheels were off, the windows smashed and one door hanging on its hinges. By the name on it—Edinburgh & Glasgow Railway—it was at once surmised that it must have been one of the carriages separated from the train which met with the disaster on the Tay Bridge. In the carriage was a portmanteau containing garments, some of them marked 'P. B.' The carriage was sent on the 14th to Hangesund, to be forwarded thence to Bergen."

Taking Home Oysters.

THE USES OF THE PAPER BAG: ALSO OF A MAN'S VARIOUS POCKETS.

A First ward man was told by his wife to bring home a quart of oysters to fry for supper. He drank a few prescriptions of eggnogg, and then took a paper bag full of select and started for home. He stopped at two or three saloons and the bag began to melt, and when he left the last saloon the bottom fell out of the bag and the oysters were on the sidewalk. We will leave the man there, gazing upon the wreck, and take the reader to the residence where he is expected. A red-faced woman is putting the finishing touches to the supper table and wondering why her husband does not come with the oysters. Presently a noise as of a lead pencil in the key-hole salutes her ear, and she goes to the door and opens it and finds him taking the pencil out of the key-hole. Not seeing the oysters she asks him if he has forgotten the oysters "Forgotten noth—(hic)—ing," says he. He walks up to the table and asks for a plate, which is given by the unsuspicious wife. "Saddest accident you ever (hic) see," said the truly good man, as he brought his hand out of his overcoat pocket with four oysters, a little smoking tobacco and a piece of cigar stub. "Slipp'rysoysterey (hic)er was," said he, as he run his hand down in the other pocket, bringing up five oysters, a piece of envelope and a piece of wire that was used as a bail to the pail. "Got all my p(hic)ockets full," said he, as he took a large oyster out of his vest pocket. Then he began to go down in his pants pocket, and finding a hole in it he said: "Six big (hic)sters gone down my trousers leg. Spos'il find them in my boot," and he sat down to pull off his boot, when the lady took the plate of oysters and other stuff into the kitchen and threw them into the swill and then she put him to bed, and all the time he was trying to tell her how the bag busted just as he was in front of "All Saints Ca(hic)thedral."

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, APRIL 1.

Gold from "Tailings."

An announcement which was made in our telegrams of March 29th is, if correct, of vast importance to all who are interested in the gold mining industry, and in the Hastings district in particular. It is to the effect that Thomas Alva Edison, the famous inventor, whilst experimenting with the "tailings" or refuse from a crushing mill for the reduction of gold bearing rock, with the object of searching for platina therein for use in his electric lighting apparatus, hit upon a process by which all the gold can be extracted from the refuse matter from which it has hitherto been found impossible to separate it. In confirmation of this alleged discovery it is stated that Mr. Edison's agents have secured immense quantities of the hitherto worthless tailings, with the intention of securing the large quantities of gold which it is known they contain, but in which the precious metal is so mixed with worthless material which science has hitherto failed to furnish—although effort and research of the ablest of her devotees have constantly for many years been directed to that end—a means of getting rid of.

As the gold ores of this region are generally considered to be of a rather refractory character, and as the great bar to their development heretofore has been the difficulty in separating the gold from the dross, it will at once be seen how much interest the statement as to Mr. Edison's reported discovery has for the people of this district. It is to be hoped that the great problem which has baffled scientific and "practical" miners alike for so long has at length been solved, in which case an immense impetus must be given to gold mining wherever it is now carried on, and particularly in the district north of Belleville.

Political Notes.

VERY SATISFACTORY.

The Mail says :—"The St. John Telegraph, an out-and-out free trade journal, made a series of damaging admissions the other day. Speaking of a large furniture house in St. John, it said the N. P. had compelled them to stop importing from the States, and to manufacture at home ; and that in consequence they are now selling home-made furniture as cheaply as it can be made in New York, and more cheaply by 35 per cent.—the amount of the Canadian duty—than it could be imported for. In other words, our contemporary admits that the N. P. has established an important industry in St. John, while the consumer is also benefitted by a reduction in price—all of which is very satisfactory."

UNGRATEFUL.

The Globe continually decries the N. P., but the condition financially of that establishment appears to be anything but unsatisfactory. The annual meeting of the stockholders in the concern was held on March 30th, when, the journal in question states, "the annual statement to the 31st January laid before the meeting prepared by Mr. H. L. Hime, Auditor, showed that after the expenditure of a considerable sum in new plant and maintaining the machinery in full efficiency, a dividend of sixteen per cent. on the capital stock of $500,000 was paid, leaving a balance on hand of $1,736. The debts of the Company were shown to amount to $61,308. The balance sheet was shown to be prepared and dividends paid, not on estimates of the value of assets, but on actual cash receipts." The N. P. is, if we are credibly informed, entitled to some credit for this satisfactory exhibit, as the duty placed on imported show printing has put into the hands of the Globe Printing Company a large amount of work which would, under the old tariff, have been executed in the United States. If this statement be not correct, perhaps the Opposition organ will state the facts of the matter.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

SIR,—In reading the long letter in your issue of the 29th inst. signed Citizen, anyone would suppose he having so much confidence in the Government, and especially the Hon. Mr. Bowell, as he professes to have, would leave this matter entirely to their judgment and rest quiet and not allow the site of the proposed public buildings to trouble him.

The Government knows well enough without the unasked advice of Citizen where the proposed public buildings would best suit the wishes and convenience of the public generally.

Had Citizen owned property in the business centre, or between Dundas and Hotel streets, conscientiously he would point out and advocate Bridge street as being the most convenient locality to the business centre in the City to-day—as it was 30 years ago. There is no consideration taken in regard to the geographical centre in erecting public buildings in any city, but with a view to the convenience of the public generally.

If Citizen is an old resident of Belleville he will no doubt remember that during the last 40 years the Post Office, as well as the offices of the Customs Department have been moved from pillar to post, to please a few influential spirits of the day, the P. O. was in 1849 moved up on the north side of Hotel Street. But this place was found to be so inconveniently out of the way, that the voice of the people compelled its removal once more nearer the business centre, and established the post office on the corner of Bridge and Pinnacle Street, and on this street it has since remained during the political changes of every Government for more than 30 years. Still we find the Government offices on Bridge Street to-day, as being the most convenient location for all, particularly to the country people, since the market City Buildings were established. If the Public Buildings are erected on the corner of Pinnacle and Bridge Streets, it would be most convenient for Railway or shipping docks.

But all that Citizen or any one else may say in favor of or against any particular locality would avail nothing, as the Government is not likely to work against common sense, to please a few, as in 1849, but will make a selection of the site as may in their judgment be considered best.

MEYERS CREEK.

Belleville, March, 31, 1880.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR.—At a meeting of the Medical Society of the City of Belleville held on the 12th March inst., the following letter of condolence was directed to be presented to Mrs. Higinbotham, widow of the late Dr. Higinbotham, and a few days afterwards the accompanying reply was received. Kindly publish the same at your earliest convenience.

Belleville, March 29, 1880.

Letter of condolence from the Medical Society of the City of Belleville to Mrs. Higinbotham, widow of the late Andrew Higinbotham, Esq , M. D.

MADAM,—At a meeting of the Medical Society of the City of Belleville, of which the late Dr. Higinbotham was a member, held at the residence of Dr. Hope, March 12th, 1880, we, the members of the Society, individually expressed our personal regard for him, not only for his unobtrusive professional conduct, but also for his gentlemanly bearing towards his medical brethren.

His firm allegiance to the ethics of the profession won for him the respect of all, and while among us he exerted his best abilities to maintain its dignity and honor, to exalt its standing, and to extend the bounds of its usefulness.

Since it has pleased God to remove him from our midst we endeavor to convey to you in this manner a slight expression of the high esteem in which he was held by us. Knowing that it is impossible to supply that comfort which our sympathies would gladly give in this your sad bereavement, yet we hope that this humble expression of our respect may tend somewhat to soften your great affliction.

Permit us, dear madam, to convey to you this assurance of our regard and profound sympathy for yourself and family under this irreparable loss. We are, madam,

Most sincerely yours,

ROBERT STEWART, JAMES F. CURLETT, D. E. BURDETT, P. V. DORLAND, S. A. ABBOTT, GEORGE J. POTTS, Secretary, CHARLES N. RIDLEY, ROBERT TRACY, J. J. FARLEY, J. B. MURPHY, J. E EAKINS, WM. HOPE, President.

REPLY.

To the Members of the Medical Society of the City of Belleville:

GENTLEMEN,—I accept with very great comfort the letter of condolence addressed to me by the Medical Faculty of the City of Belleville, expressing their sympathy for myself and family in the sad loss we have sustained by the death of a good husband and father.

It is a source of great consolation for me to receive the very numerous evidences of the esteem in which my late husband was held by his many friends, but none cheers me more than that which I have just received from his medical brethren of this city.

Please accept my most sincere thanks for the very kind expressions contained in your letter, which I shall treasure up as a much prized and sacred memorial of my late husband.

Respectfully yours,

(S'd) MARY HIGINBOTHAM.

Belleville, March 27, 1880.

OUR NEW COMMANDER.—Major-General Luard has been appointed as successor to Lieutenant-General Sir Edward Selby Smith, who will leave Canada the latter part of April. The new commander entered the army in 1845, has served in the Crimea, in China and in India, and was at one time Military Secretary to General O'Grady Haly.

CANADA AND BRAZIL. — The Ottawa Citizen of the 30th ult. says :—"Mr. Bentley, who has been in the city for several days past on business connected with the Government and in relation to our commercial relations with Brazil, left last night for Montreal. The Emperor of Brazil it is understood has assented to his appointment as consul-general of that country in Canada to be located at Montreal. Mr. Bentley has taken a deep interest in improving the trade relations between Canada and Brazil. In a very few months a subsidized steamer will ply between the two countries, calling at the West India islands. A Montreal house purposes establishing an agency in Brazil with a view to the further development of trade with that country."

INTERESTED IN MINES.—The Kingston Whig says, during the past few days the city has been visited by men interested in mining. Some are Americans, others Canadians. The iron ore in the back country is looked upon as very valuable, but were it hematite rather than black ore its value would be largely increased. Extensive operations will be carried on during the ensuing summer.

The Fashions.

SPRING OPENING AT FOSTER & REID'S.

The spring exhibition of new styles in millinery, mantles, &c., at Messrs. Foster & Reid's to-day was quite in keeping with the high reputation which this young but enterprising establishment has gained for itself. In all departments there seemed to be full lines, and the goods displayed are not only pretty but so neatly arranged as to enhance their attractions.

From the head of the firm the representative of the INTELLIGENCER learned that brocaded effects on plain goods will be "the thing" in costumes this year, whilst polonaises and basques will be much worn, the basques being cut very low and the skirts not trimmed so much as previously. Two handsome dresses attracted attention. One of these was a very rich black silk underskirt, with brocade overskirt trimmed with jet trimmings. The other is a dove colored silk, trimmed with brocade to match, the combination of the two colors being very effective.

In the millinery department, we observe that the large poke shapes in bonnets of last fall are being superceded by small close shapes this spring. These are in cottage and fancy shapes, with beaded band in front or with brim drooping upon the hair in Spanish fashion, or else they are turban bonnets with scarcely more than a crown to them, though elaborately trimmed with scarfs of soft silk, with plumes or short tips in a cluster standing out from the crown and finished with lace strings. Gilt bands made of large beads that look like gold form the brim of many black bonnets. Elegant Tuscany braid or Leghorn bonnets, trimmed with triple plumes, by putting them erect on the lower part of the crown, curling upwards close against it, and starting under a cluster of roses that are massed across the curtain band. Velvet facings o brims of poke-bonnets find favor, but the pokes are of very small size, and are but slightly scooped in front. The novelty for these is pale Isabella yellow velvet, or else very light blue or heliotrope ; dark brown is used for brunettes, and either brown or black for elderly ladies. The velvet is put in smooth and plain—or often edged with a band of gilt braid, or else gilt lace of narrow width is laid on flatly. The chief novelties are the heliotrope shades combined with Marshal Niel yellow, cream, or white. Though many decry them as not becoming, this is not correct, for when artistically combined with yellow tints they can be worn by the most pronounced brunettes. Feathers will be very much used on large summer bonnets, but on small dress bonnets, flowers will be preferred. Maroon, heliotrope, lilac and yellow, are predominating colors.

Messrs. Foster & Reid have shown their zeal and enterprise by engaging to take charge of their millinery department an experienced American milliner, and the evidence of her taste and workmanship displayed on this occasion is proof that she is an artist in her profession of no ordinary ability. They claim to be the only house in the city who send their milliner and dress maker twice a year to visit the New York markets.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, APRIL 1

City and Vicinity.

PERSONAL.—Dr. Whiteford, of Ottawa, is in town.

IRON ORE.—Four cars of hematite ore from the Wallbridge mine, and three cars of magnetic ore from the McMinn mine, arrived this morning.

FIRE ALARM.—Between 9 and 10 o'clock last night the firemen were called out by an alarm, the cause of which proved to be a burning chimney in the upper part of the city, in Coleman Ward.

ALL FOOLS.—This is the one day of the year devoted to folly. The custom of making "April fools" is of great antiquity, and appears to have been derived by the Romans from some of the Eastern nations.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.—Unless an alteration be made in the regulations regarding weights and measures—which is not at all likely—no wine measure will be allowed in ordinary trade on and after May 1st next.

OTHELLO.—The performance of this tragedy by the members of the local Histrionic Association has been so extensively advertised that it is unnecessary to refer to it at length. The public ought by all means to patronize them liberally and encourage their efforts.

BARLEY.—Mr. A. N. Diamond, of Napanee, has shipped, the Standard states, twenty-two car-loads of barley for Albany and Boston, the first consignment of a contract for 50,000 bushels, which will be forwarded as rapidly as cars are supplied. This large quantity will require 200 cars for its transportation.

ANOTHER GREAT CALF.—Messrs. Green & Curtis showed to-day another splendid calf, which, although but fourteen weeks old, weighed 310 pounds. It was bred and fed by Mr. Robert Ross, of Ameliasburg, and was skilfully dressed by John Herring and John Harris.

PROMENADE CONCERT.—The promenade concert and ladies' sale of fancy and useful articles, which was held in the City Hall last night in aid of the Home for the Friendless, proved to be a gratifying success. There was a large attendance and almost everything that was offered found ready purchasers. The Oddfellow's band who kindly lent their services, contributed very largely to the evening's amusement by playing in their usual fine style a number of pleasing selections. A very cleverly arranged "art gallery" was a prominent feature, and must have been seen to be properly appreciated. The ladies who have undertaken this noble work are to be congratulated on their success.

ALBERT COLLEGE.—The exhibition given at the College last evening was well attended, and was one of the best that has been given by the Grammar School students. The programme was quite lengthy, and was well filled. It consisted of essays, debates, and music. The debates were good, and the sides well sustained, while the essays were rendered very nicely and the subjects were choice, although in some cases not well memorized. Mrs. Thomas gave some vocal selections, and Miss Young and Prof. Stanistreet rendered some instrumental music. The attendance at the College during the term was larger than that of the same term last year.

LECTURE BY DR. CLARKE.—A Stirling correspondent writes :—"On Tuesday evening, the 30th inst., the Rev. Dr. Clarke, of Christ Church, Belleville, delivered in the Town Hall at Stirling his very remarkable, interesting and instructive lecture on the "Pyramids." The Hall was well filled and the lecture listened to with pleasure and profit, and in a financial point the entertainment was a perfect success. The proceeds, amounting to between $50 and $60, are for the rent of the Parsonage in connection with the Church of England. After the lecture a vote of thanks was given the doctor.

THE GAME LAW.—The following is the new Game Law passed by the Ontario Legislature at its last session : None of the animals or birds hereinafter mentioned shall be hunted, taken or killed within the period hereafter limited. 1, Deer, elk moose, reindeer or cariboo, between the 14th day of December and the 1st day of October. 2, Grouse, pheasants, prairie fowl, or partridge, between the 1st day of January and the 1st day of September. 3, Wild turkeys or quail, between the 1st day of January and the 1st day of October. 4, Woodcock, between the 1st day of January and the 1st day of August. 5, Snipe, between the 1st day of January and the 16th day of August. 6, Water fowl known as mallard, grey duck, black duck, wood or summer duck, between the 1st day of January and the 15th day of August. 7, Other ducks, swans and geese, between the 1st day of May and the 15th day of August. 8, Hares between the 1st day of March and the 1st day of September.

SPECIAL SERVICES.—The special services in the Bible Christian Church are still progressing with success.—Service this evening.

VITAL STATISTICS.—The vital statistics of the city for the month of March, as registered with the City Clerk, were :—Births 24 ; Marriages 3 ; Deaths 18.

CLEAR.—The Bay was this morning reported clear to Stone Mills. There is but little ice in Picton Bay, and the navigation will be fully open by Saturday.

LATH FOR MADOC.—A car load of lath, from Rathbun's Ferry Point mill, for Madoc, was shipped to-day. The lath was brought over in a schooner, and the car was loaded on the railway dock.

GYMNASTIC.—Mr. Johnston and several pupils of the Mechanics' Institute Gymnasium, will give an exhibition of their skill, in Picton, on Monday night. They are deserving of a liberal patronage

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—The members of this society are requested to meet at the President's office on Campbell Street, on Friday evening next, to make arrangements for the coming celebration.

SIDEWALK.—The board walk along Moira Street on Yeomans Hill is loose and needs attention. Also on north Front Street the supports have given way, and the side walk sways, making walking very uncomfortable. The crossing at the junction of John and Bridge Streets is badly in need of repair.

ORGAN RECITAL.—We are authorized by the churchwardens of St. Thomas' Church to state that Mr. Oldham, the newly appointed organist, will give an organ recital on Friday evening next, commencing at 8 o'clock p.m., upon which occasion the church will be open to the public free of charge.

ACCIDENT.—The Napanee Standard says: "On Thursday last a young man named Gerow, of Massassaga Point, met with a serious accident at the cement works here. He was attending the bolt machine, cutting up staves, and was just finishing a bolt when a piece of ice adhering to it caused his thumb to slip beneath the knife by which it was severed at the first joint."

THE PRESS.—Mr. Geo. Keyes, for upwards of 13 years editor and proprietor of the Colborne Express, has sold his business to Messrs. F. J. Males, and F. C. Gordon. To Mr. Keyes, who has conducted the Express with ability, we tender the wish that he may be restored to health by the rest which he will now take from journalistic labor, and the new proprietors will, we hope, prove equally successful with their predecessor.

THE CHAMPION OARS.—It is to be remembered that Mr. Edward Hanlan, the champion sculler, subsequent to the concert given by the Rowing Club here, presented to the Club the oars with which he beat "old father time" on Chautauqua Lake in October last, by rowing five miles in 33 minutes 56¾ seconds. There famous oars were a few days ago received by Mr. E. G. Ponton and are now in his office. They are nine feet six inches in length and have blades 6 inches in width, and were made by Messrs Wharrin of Toronto.—No doubt they will be treasured by the Rowing Club, as a memento of Canada's wonderful sculler.

THURSDAY, April 1.

WINDOW BREAKING.

Thomas Keegand and Edward Short were charged with breaking in a window in the house known as the "The Farm," tenanted by Archemise Prosser. Defendants did not appear and were fined $5 and costs each, or two months in gaol.

Marine Notes.

The Kingston News of the 31st says:—"We are informed that there will be about fifty vessels loaded with ice for the west before navigation opens.

The steamer Pierrepont made a successful attempt to break through the ice to Garden Island this forenoon. The heat of the sun to-day had a great effect on the ice.

The Whig says, the schooner 'Milliard Fillmore' was chartered in Chicago on Saturday to carry corn from Chicago to Kingston for 10 cents. The rate for wheat will be a little higher.

IMPORTS OF SUGAR.—A statement submitted to the House of Commons shows the quantities of sugar entered at the ports of entry to the Dominion for the six months ending 1st January, 1880, and for the same period of 1879, to be as follows :—Ontario, 32,619,040 lbs.; Quebec, 19,826,532 lbs.; Nova Scotia, 5,817,637 lbs.; New Brunswick, 3,945,552 lbs.; Manitoba, 378,603 lbs.; British Columbia, 771,698 lbs.; Prince Edward Island, 515,410 lbs.; total, 63,872,472. 1880—Ontario, 9,685,012 lbs.; Quebec, 46,048,911 lbs.; Nova Scotia, 14,239,716 lbs.; New Brunswick, 2,228,719 lbs.; Manitoba, 16,979 lbs.; British Columbia, 495,858 lbs.; Prince Edward Island, 349,646 lbs.; total, 73,604,841 lbs.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

HIDES.—The price of green butchers' hides was advanced $1 per 100 lbs. in Montreal yesterday, and dealers are paying $9, $8 and $7 for Nos. 1, 2 and 3 respectively.

The Lake Superior copper mines paid $600,000 in dividends during February last.

Advices from Liverpool dated March 12th, report sales of 164 bags of Canadian potatoes at 6s, 3d, to 7s. per cental.

It is asserted on what we are inclined to consider good authority, that the increased earnings of the Canada Southern Railroad for the first quarter of this year will be about $325,000.—N. Y. Bulletin.

Dried apples are in good supply in Montreal now, about 2 carloads arrived there this week. They are selling at 8c to 8½c per lb in brls, to the city trade ; round lots would, of course, be sold at a concession on these prices.

Customs Returns.

The following is a statement of the business transacted in the Belleville Customs House during the month of March. Whilst a small increase in imports and a gratifying augmentation in the amount of the duty collected will be observed, a notable decline in the value of exports is observable. When, however, it is considered that no cheese was exported during the month of March, and that in March of last year the value of cheese exported was $24,569, it will be seen that the general business of this year shows a marked improvement. The reason why cheese was marketed last fall instead of being kept until spring, as last year, was because of the high prices paid in the autumn of 1879.

The English Elections.

Liberal Gains.

The Marquis of Hartington, Liberal leader, was re-elected to Parliament without opposition for North-East Lancashire. The Liberals gain members at Stamford, Evesham, Andover, Gloucester City, Grantham, and Lincoln City. The Conservatives gain at Horsham, Leominster, Barnstaple, and Taunton.

The Daily News says that the first day's polling resuletd in a great Liberal victory. There is a net Liberal gain of fifteen boroughs which voted to-day practically pronouncing the doom of the Beaconsfield Government. There is every reason to believe that the gains of to-day will be increased to-morrow.

The Times says the Conservatives must admit that the prospects are very grave and discouraging. The balance of gains and losses is, on the whole, decidedly in favor of the Liberals. It is obvious that if the tide of [illegible] as strongly as it did to-day in favor of the Opposition the whole Ministerial majority of 1874 will have melted away. This is more ominous for the Ministry because it is acknowledged that the loss of several seats in Scotland and Ireland—certainly a dozen, and, perhaps, a score—is inevitable.

Up to midnight the Liberals had elected 79, the Conservatives 53, and the Home Rulers 1, showing a net Liberal gain of 16 seats. The Liberals are jubilant, while the Conservatives are greatly discouraged. Westminister elected two Conservatives, Birmingham three Liberals, Hackney two Liberals, and Mr. Goschen has been returned for Ripon.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, April 1.—Polling will take place in 76 constituencies to-day and nomination in 48.

The Standard (Conservative organ) says it cannot be denied that yesterday's election possessed interest and significance, but minor defeats of Conservative candidate are are as likely as not to be succeeded by important victories.

The Telegraph (Liberal) says, no such sweeping change is manifested as that which struck down a great party in 1874. The result cannot be predicted from one day's polling.

It is reported that the delay in regard to the sentence of the assassin of the Russian Col. Commeraoff has caused the Russian representative to threaten to quit Constantinople it justice be not speedily done,

SAN ANATONIO, Tex., April 1.—An incendiary fire has occurred at Brown County Court house and jail, destroying the records and cremating several prisoners. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

BORDENTOWN, N.J., April 1.—Geo. Warner English, City Treasurer, while suffering from temporary mental abberation, hung himself this morning.

LONDON, April 1.—The Pall Mall Gazette admits that the Government is defeated.

The Echo says the total votes cast thus far aggregate 343,568 Liberal to 231,370 Tory.

An envoy of the the King of Siam is expected by the middle of May. It had been arranged that the King himself would come and invest Queen Victoria with the order of the white elephant, but his visit has been postponed, in consequence of the indisposition of the ex-regent, who would, in the king's absence, have had the reins of government.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, April, 1.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours : For the lower lakes, moderate to fresh winds, partly cloudy weather with local showers.

WASHINGTON, April. 1.—Indications : for Lower lakes, partly cloudy sccasionailly rain stationary to lower lakes.

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone ! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'Too likely, indeed,' returned the girl, with a fond and grateful look. It is not, every abandoned little thing that has come on as I have done. It could not have fared better with me if I had remained with my parents, even had they been the best and kindest, for father and mother could not have been better to me than you have been.'

'But I am your father, you know,' said the other, with a loving smile. 'You are Mary Woodford, and I am James Woodford, your poor lame father, whom you are supporting by teaching the Squire's school.'

'Ah, and who supported me before I was able to teach the Squire's school? Who taught me everything that was good, and saved me from a life which must have landed me in vice, perhaps in crime? We were not always called Woodford you know? In other days it was Tobby and Myra.'

'Hush, darling, hush. That is a secret which must not come out. We have got out of that line of life now, and no one must know or even suspect that you are not my own child. It would ruin you as school mistress, for people are so prejudiced.'

'I know, I know, but we can't forget the past ourselves, and I don't wish to forget it; for it was a dear happy time. You don't regret it, do you?'

'No darling, I don't, for we tried to do our duty then as we are trying now, and, as you say, we were very happy—if we had not lost Charlie.'

'Ah, yes, Charlie—poor Charlie,' sighed Mary. 'Oh, what must his fate have been?'

'God only knows,' said Woodford, in a broken voice. 'Perhaps he is dead. Alas, dead in the worst sense—dead to truth and virtue. But no, I will not speak so; I will even keep from thinking so. I couldn't bear to imagine him other than what we knew him, a brave and noble boy, full of truth and brightest promise. Let us always think of him just as he was when he disappeared. We shall never see him again on earth but I never cease to pray that we may meet him in heaven, and then dear Mary, we shall know what his fate has been.'

Little did the speakers imagine that the unconscious youth by whose couch they were at the present watching was he of whom they were speaking with such tender and mournful regret—the long lost Charlie whose unaccountable disappearance had filled them with such unspeakable grief.

How wonderfully had they come together again, yet in circumstances which would prevent them from knowing each other, for how should they dream that the son and heir of the Ravensworths is the boy who was taken from them? And how shall Charles, when he returns to consciousness, recognize in James Woodford and his daughter Mary the Tobby and Myra of his early days?

CHAPTER XX.

CHARLES AND HIS NURSES—PHILIP RAVENSWORTH GETS ON THE TRACK OF THE ROBBER.

When dawn had broken, and when the grey morning light was stealing in through the unshuttered windows of the cottage, Charles gave the first sign of returning consciousness by stirring uneasily on his couch. The room in which he lay had been carefully prepared for this return of sense and feeling through the avenues of life. The one window—besides having its wooden shutters fully closed—had been curtained over with many folds of dark cloth; the fire, which had been lighted to make the temperature comfortable, was screened round, and the one candle was set in a corner and shaded, so that no ray of its yellow light could fall upon the bed.

The first sensation experienced by Charles was that of a man awakening out of a heavy dreamless sleep. He had a strange confusion and indefiniteness of thought, a fitful struggle of the mind to comprehend his situation, a faint but growing conviction that his condition was unusual, and a burdened sense of dull pain and heavy oppressiveness.

His head was in that state called "dazed" a great heaviness was in his eyes, and a stiffness in his brow; and, as he struggled to understand his position, he had not power to hold the thoughts as they came to him. His mind was in a whirl and a chaos. For a moment he recollected something which preceded his encounter with the robber, and had he been able to follow the sequence of occurrences from point to point he would speedily have remembered everything up to the moment when he was stricken to the ground and into oblivion by the blow from the life preserver. But no sooner had a scene or a fact become present to his mind than it flitted away again, and he was left in bewilderment till another fact suddenly came and and as suddenly departed. So he gave up the effort in despair, and dwelt on the consciousness he did possess—the consciousness of two things—first, that he was in utter darkness, with something over his eyes, intercepting his vision, and second, that he was experiencing intolerable thirst.

Mechanically he raised his hands to his eyes, with the instinctive desire to remove the weight and obstruction which were upon them, but ere the intention could be carried into effect a hand met his own, gently withheld it, and for the first time he knew that somebody was beside him.

'Please don't remove the bandages, sir,' said a low, pleasant respectful voice, the very sound of which was soothing to his ear.

The Duck-hunter's Story.

(Detroit Free Press.)

"Speaking of duck-shooting on St. Clair Flats," sighed an old citizen as he took a seat in a gun store yesterday, "I don't think there are as many birds up there as there was ten or fifteen years ago. Why, sir, the channel used to be black with 'em, and they were so tame you could knock 'em on the head."

Everybody sighed to think those good old days and ducks could never return, and the veteran hunter continued:—

"I remember I was out one day in April. I got in amongst the bipeds, and how many do you suppose I counted?"

"Three hundred," ventured one of the audience, after a long interval.

"Three hundred! Why, I always killed over a thousand every time I went out! No, sir, I counted over 16,000 great big, fat, plump, delicious ducks, and then I had only counted those on one side of the boat!"

"How long did it take you?"

"I don't know sir, I had no watch with me. Time is nothing to a man counting ducks. I counted aloud, and when the ducks were small I counted two for one. By and by I got tired of counting and got ready for the slaughter.

"Well, now, I suppose I could lie about it and say I killed nine or ten hundred, but I'm getting too near the grave for that. No, I didn't kill a blasted one, and there's where the strange part of the story comes in. When I began to lift that gun up those ducks knew what I was up to just as well as a human being, and what did they do? Why, sir, about 200 ot them made a sudden dive, swam under the boat, and all raised on her port side at once and upset her! Yes, sir, they did, and there I was in the north channel; in ten feet of water, boat upset, night coming on, and I in my wet clothes."

"Well?"

"Well, I climbed up on the bottom of the boat, floated five miles, and was picked up by two Indians. We towed that upset boat to an Island, and here another curious thing comes in. Under the boat were 263 large, plump ducks. They had been caught there when she upset, and all we had to do was to haul and rap 'em on the head.

"Why—why didn't they dive down and get from under the boat?" asked an amateur duck-shooter.

"Why didn't they, sir—why didn't they. Well sir, I might have asked 'em why they didn't, but it was late, a cold wind had sprung up, and I didn't feel like talking! All I know is that I counted over 16,000 ducks; was upset, captured 264, and have affidavits here in my wallet to prove everything I have stated. Does any man here want to see the documents?" No man did. They all looked out of the window and wondered if they could lie that way when they had passed three-score years.

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidity increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately introduced. Boschees German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents. Sample bottle, 10 cents.

MR. M. GILES, Esq —Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition — meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

The Windsor Hotel

Is one of the finest hotels on this continent. It is a credit to the liberality of our Montreal friends and an ornament to our city. Its corridors are wide and beautiful. The parlors and dining rooms, with their costly embellishments, and the reception rooms, are "chefs d'œuvre." Its "menus" are unexcelled. It is a luxurious home for Montreal families who prefer to relieve themselves from the care of a household, and a caravansary which cannot be surpassed for visitors. Still, here as elsewhere, man is subject to the laws of health. Sickness will follow where indiscretion leads. An unseemly carouse tells as badly upon the occupant of this house as upon the dweller in a cottage. Men are apt to over-indulge where food is very tempting, and ignore the results. Happily the remedy for such indiscretions may be had in every drug store in the Dominion, in the shape of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS.

Over 15,000 Persons Successfully Treated since the establishment of our Institute in Detroit from all parts of the United States and Canada, for some of the various diseases of the head, throat and lungs. The only institute of the kind in Michigan specially devoted to the treatment of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, also diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heartt

Catarrh and Throat Diseases are every year becoming more prevalent and more generally fatal. As prevalent as they are, if left to themselves, their termination is Consumption and death.

A large portion of the deaths from throat and lung diseases are of young people—those who have not reached the meridian of life. Their hold upon life is strong and all the functions of the body active. If they were properly treated the great majority of them would recover. Such is my experience. But I have no faith in their treatment by the stomach. Cod liver oil is good nourishment, but it is not medicine. No medicine given by the stomach exerts a curative influence on the lungs.

We are positive in saying that three-fourths of the vast number who die of Consumption might be saved did they awaken to the true sense of danger when the disease first appeared in the head and throat; the best writers, and the ablest physicians of the age have expressed similer opinions.

With these facts before us we feel that we would be recreant to our responsibilities were we to remain silent and see our fellow-beings pass away like autumn leaves while there is hope for so many.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by medical inhalations, combined with proper constitutional and hygenic treatment.

If on account of distance, expense of travel or physical debility, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and when fully answered and returned remedies can be sent per express (duties free) together with full directions for use. CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anaemia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879, Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PROPRIETOR.

(PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED SINCE 1870.)

Over 15,000 Persons Successfully Treated since the establishment of our Institute in Detroit from all parts of the United States and Canada, for some of the diseases of the head, throat and lungs. The only institute of the kind in Michigan specially devoted to the treatment of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, also diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heart.

Catarrh and Throat Diseases are every year becoming more prevalent and more generally fatal. As prevalent as they are, if left to themselves, their termination is Consumption and death.

A large portion of the deaths from throat and lung diseases are of young people—those who have not reached the meridian of life. Their hold upon life is strong and all the functions of the body active. If they were properly treated the great majority of them would recover. Such is my experience. But I have no faith in their treatment by the stomach. Cod liver oil is good nourishment, but it is not medicine. No medicine given by the stomach exerts a curative influence on the lungs.

We are positive in saying that three-fourths of the vast number who die of Consumption might be saved did they awaken to the true sense of danger when the disease first appeared in the head and throat; the best writers, and the ablest physicians of the age have expressed similar opinions.

With these facts before us we feel that we would be remiss to our responsibilities were we to remain silent and see our fellow-beings pass away like autumn leaves while there is hope for so many.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by medical inhalations, combined with proper constitutional and hygenic treatment.

If on account of distance, expense of travel or physical debility, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and when fully answered and returned remedies can be sent per express (duties free) together with full directions for use. Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION.

WEDNESDAY, March 31.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Kirkpatrick introduced a Bill to amend the law of evidence in certain cases of misdemeanor.

In answer to Mr. Landry, Sir C. Tupper said the Government had decided to allow the construction of a high level bridge across the St. Lawrence at Coteau Landing.

Mr. Keeler, for Mr. Williams, moved for the report of the recent surveys made by D. Stark, C. E., of the proposed canal route from Port Hope to Rice Lake. Mr. McCuaig protested against any such surveys as this for new public works which the condition of the public finances would not justify the Government in undertaking. After some remarks by Mr. Mackenzie, Sir Charles Tupper said the examination was sufficient to show that the Government would not be justified in asking Parliament for a vote of money for the prosecution of the investigation.

After a large number of returns had been ordered, Mr. Girouard moved concurrence in amendment made in Committee the Bill to legalize marriage with a deceased wife's sister. Mr. Wallace moved that the Bill be referred back to the Committee with a view to striking out the words :—"But nothing herein contained shall effect any rights actually acquired by issue of the first marriage previous to the passing of this Act, nor shall this section render legal any such marriage when either of the parties has afterwards, during the life of the other, and before the passage of the Act, lawfully intermarried with any other person." The motion was carried, the Bill was submitted to the Committee and afterwards reported with the proposed amendment. At the request of Mr. Langevin, further consideration of the Bill was postponed until Wednesday next.

Mr. Orton moved the second reading of the Bill to regulate the encumbering of real estate by loans of money or otherwise. He remarked that the fact that a large proportion of the real estate of this country was encumbered by heavy mortgages had a very detrimental effect, not merely upon the agricultural classes, but upon the general community. The interest paid upon those mortgages to loan societies and other lenders was exorbitant, averaging from 7½ to 14 per cent., and it constituted a drain upon the resources of the country which ought to be stopped before it paralyzed more completely than it had done the energies of the farming community. There could be no return to the farmer who borrowed money from these societies at the very high interest they charged, and the effect of the present state of affairs was that the majority of our farmers were merely the tenants of the loaners of money, who were generally residents of a foreign land. He hoped that the Government, who had a large majority at their backs, would interpose on behalf of the oppressed borrowers of the country, especially as these iniquitous loan societies were already making their appearance in the North-West, there to complete the evil work which they had carried on so successfully in the older Provinces of the Dominion. He explained that the Bill provided that no higher rate of interest should be chargeable on loans or real estate than seven per cent., and that any more than that upon which a higher rate was charged should be null and void. It also restricted the charges for the valuation of property, and prevented agents from acting for both borrower and lender.

Mr. Platt objected to this Bill, as it dealt with money which, had it been left alone, would bring its value under any circumstances, and no more.

Mr. Mills contended that the matter was under the jurisdiction of the Local Legislature.

Mr. Sproule supported the Bill and Messrs. Lane and Casey opposed it.

Mr. Blake was opposed to any attempt to regulate the rate of interest. By the mode under which a particular sum was lent, principal and interest were mixed in one fixed sum, payable annually, and the borrower was not informed in any way what the real rate of interest on his loan was. (Hear, hear.) He thought that to overcome this evil it would be highly proper to provide that in any Loan Company's mortgage which was not for what was called a straight loan there should be a memorandum declaring what was the real rate of interest on the loan. (Hear, hear.) Thus the borrower would be protected by knowing what the real rate of interest was, and in the case of dispute in Court it would be easy to find how much the rate of interest charged was in excess of the rate mentioned. He considered the whole theory of the Bill vicious and should vote against it.

Mr. Plumb considered that an Act should be passed compelling these companies to state clearly the real rate of interest they were charging. He thought from the temper of the House that such a measure might be adopted, as some people were suffering for those who fell into the clutches of these societies and who were not themselves in a position to make their complaints.

Mr. White (Hastings) thought it was not gentlemanly, and he thought it was scarcely parliamentary for the hon. member for East Toronto (Mr. Platt) to throw out the taunts which he, as a rich man and lender had seen fit to throw out against those who were unfortunate enough to be compelled to borrow money.

Mr. Platt—You need not borrow unless you like.

Mr. White said that that was another remark which was not in very good taste, for unfortunately there were those whose circumstances compelled them to borrow. But surely these people were entitled to protection against the injustice and dishonest exactions of local and foreign capitalists (Hear, hear.) The hon. member who had thrown out the taunt of poverty against other hon. members was himself connected with the loan society which was notoriously the most unjust and exacting in Ontario—a society which could afford to pay its manager $7,000 a year from the money which they wrung out of the pockets of the poor.

Mr. White replied that it was true, and he would like to know how many bank managers got so large a salary. The trouble was that in this House there were some who were rich and too many who were poor; but the hon. member for East Toronto should be the last to attempt to crush down those who were poor. The lawyers also had a nice share of the spoil which these companies wrung from the poor man, for they generally managed to get a chattel mortgage on everything which the company had left for their valuable services in "getting through" the loan. The fact was that the lenders of money in this country were rapidly getting into the position of the land-owners of Ireland, and they now owned at least one-half the land in the country. The hon. member for West Durham, with his high legal attainments and his practical common sense, was well qualified to deal with this matter, and if he would bring in a Bill he would have his (Mr. White's) support and that of many other hon. gentlemen on both sides of the House. He thought it was time that the Government, with their 70 or 80 majority behind them, should come forward in the interests of the people, and prevent these companies from deceiving the public as they had been in the past.

Mr. Platt rose to deny that the manager of the company with which he was connected received $7,000 per annum.

Mr. Barrow—Perhaps the hon. gentleman will state what salary he does receive.

Mr. Platt—He gets $5,000 a year. (Hear.)

Messrs. Gault, Killam and Huntington opposed and Messrs. Ross (Dundas) Bourbeau, Arkell and Shaw supported the Bill.

Sir Charles Tupper said it was impossible to listen to this discussion without coming to the conclusion that there was a great diversity of opinion in the House. He believed the main feature of the Bill was entirely within the purview of this House, although some of its provisions, perhaps, interfered with civil rights. He hoped his hon. friend would be content with the general discussion which had taken place and withdraw his Bill. If not, as one member of the House he would be compelled to vote against the second reading.

Mr. Orton did not think he would be doing his duty by consenting to withdraw his Bill, after having brought it forward so frequently.

Messrs. Cameron (Victoria), Charlton, Smith (Selkirk) and Farrow spoke in opposition to the measure.

Mr. White (Cardwell) pointed out that in most of the States of the American Union the rate of interest was fixed. He approved of the general principle of the Bill, and thought it ought to be read the second time. Details might be amended or improved in Committee.

The House then divided, when the motion for the second reading was carried on the following division :—

YEAS—Messrs. Arkell, Bannerman, Beauchesne, Bechard, Benoit, Bergeron, Bolduc, Bourassa, Bourbeau, Brown, Casgrain, Chandler, Cimon, Costigan, Coughlin, Coupal, Cuthbert, Desaulniers, Dugas, Dumont, Elliott, Ferguson, Fiset, Fitzmaurice, Fortin, Geoffrion, Girouard (Jacques Cartier), Girouard (Kent), Grandbois, Hackett, Hall, Hesson, Hooper, Houde, Ives, Jones, Kaulbach, Kilvert, Lacerte, Landry, Larue, MacMillan, Masson, Merner, Methot, Montplaisir, Olivier, Orton, Patterson (Essex), Perrault, Pinsonneault, Poupore, Rinfret, Ross (Dundas), Rouleau, Routhier, Rykert, Sproule, Shaw, Stephenson, Strange, Taylor, Trow, Vanasse, Wallace (Norfolk), Wallace (York), White (Cardwell), White (Hastings)—67.

Treatment of House Plants.

Water, heat, air, and light are the four essential stimulants to plants; water, heat, and air to promote growth, and light to render that growth perfect.

Water, heat, and air man can command at pleasure by artificial means; but over light, as an element of the perfect growth of plants, we have less control. To be beneficial to plants, light must come directly from the sun; and therefore the plants should be so placed as that it may act upon them with as little as possible of that refraction and decomposition which it suffers when it passes obliquely through glass, or any other medium except the air.

Plants grown in the open air, and with such free exposure to the light as their habits require, not only develop all their parts in their proper form, but all leaves, flowers, and fruits have their natural colors, odors and tastes developed. Plants excluded from light have not their natural color, odor, nor flavor; they make little or no charcoal in the woody part; the leaves are not green, and if they do flower and fruit, which is rarely the case, the flowers are pale and scentless and the fruit is insipid.

This has been proved by many experiments, of which the blanching of celery and endive by earthing up, and that of cabbage by the process of hearting, are familiar instances. A geranium placed in a dark room becomes first pale, then spotted, and ultimately white; and if brought to the light it again acquires its color.

If plants kept in the dark are exposed to the action of hydrogen gas, they retain their green color, though how this gas acts has not been ascertained. Some flowers, too, such as the crocus and tulip, are colored though grown in the dark. Light seems fully essential to plants as air or heat, and while it acts beneficially on the surfaces of its leaves, it appears to be be injurious to the under surfaces, at least to some plants; for, in whatever way a plant is placed, it contrives to turn the upper surfaces of its leaves to the light.

Plants in rooms turn out not only their leaves but their branches to the window at which the light enters, and a plant may, by turning it at intervals, be made to blend successively to all sides; but such blendings weaken the plant, and thus it is an excessive or unnatural action. This turning of the plant to the light is always of course in proportion to the brightness of that light as compared with the other sides of the plant. Flowers, too, open their petals to the light, and close them in the dark, or in that of the crocus, when a cloud passes over the sun.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, APRIL 2.

That "Small Affair."

The dismissal of Mr. Ross from the position of License Inspector may be, as our Grit contemporary terms it, "a small affair indeed," as all such unjust dismissals under Grit rule are but "small affairs" in the estimation of Grit journals. But in this case the judgment of the public differs materially from such a conclusion, as that the dismissal of such an old and highly respected a citizen as Mr. Ross from an office which he has filled both with credit to himself and satisfaction to the public as well as the party which appointed him, and against whom no charge has been made, is "a small affair."

The MOWAT organ claims that we stated that "License Inspectors held office during their own pleasure." We never either said or insinuated any thing so absurd. What we claimed was that the position of License Inspector had, by the circular of the Provincial Secretary, ceased to be a yearly appointment, which was the only excuse ever made for Mr. Ross' dismissal, that it became an appointment during pleasure, which meant, as long as the official discharged the duties connected with the office acceptably to the Government. The fact that, by the circular, Mr. Ross was instructed to continue to discharge his official duties as before, is proof that our view of the matter is correct. In fact, no other interpretation of its language could be made than that it was a reappointment, to date from the commencement of the year, the office to be held during the good behavior of the official.

Now, as there is no charge made against Mr. Ross, he has certainly the right to claim that he filled the office acceptably. That our Grit contemporary heard nothing of the "joint letter" referred to shows that it has been playing at cross purposes with the leading members of the Reform Association and the leading members of the party which it supports, but in whose confidence it evidently does not fully share. Hence its confident assertion that there was "no disagreement" amongst the local members of the Reform party as to the License Inspectorship was untrue in fact, though probably made with the same degree of knowledge that has distinguished all its utterances on the subject.

If it was better informed it would know that the present License Inspector went to Toronto fortified with letters of recommendation for a Government situation from several Grit luminaries in the city, whose names also are appended to the "joint letter" in question.

Formerly License Inspectors were appointed at the beginning of the year, but at the close of the last official year, each License Inspector in Ontario received a notification that his appointment would not in future be made annually, but during pleasure. This is the form of appointment of all Government officials who are not appointed annually, and under which form of appointment there are appointees of that class now holding positions, which they have held for the last quarter of a century, and over longer. Is it not, therefore, reasonable to believe that the Provincial Secretary's circular should have been considered by those to whom it was addressed as a reappointment to the office which they held? If not, we should like to know whether the License Inspectors who held office last year and have not been dismissed, have been otherwise formally reappointed? We venture to say that they have not.

It was first claimed that Mr. Ross was not dismissed, but that at the end of his time another was appointed,—which the circular of the Provincial Secretary, as above shown, clearly disproves. And now the organ comes to the rescue with the Association that "Mr. Ross was not removed for political reasons." If not for political reasons, would it kindly inform the public for what reason he was dismissed? In a former issue it claimed that he was dismissed because "Mr. Mowat was forced to recognise the claims of his friends." Which is correct? that he was not dismissed for political reasons, or that friends had to be provided for? Surely the Grit party has come to desperate straits when the Premier is forced to supplant efficient officers at the dictation of a party oligue.

The organ which its party leaders repudiate in this matter; draws a comparison between this case and the disbandment of the Weights and Measures staff, caused by doing away with the old Weights and Measures Act, which Act was considered by all parties as being onerous and unjust, and for which reason it was done away with. The old Act was expensive, as well, as to work it required 120 Inspectors. Under the new act only 40 Inspectors are employed, and in filling the 40 offices 12 of the old officers were engaged.

The whole matter is one really beyond the region of party politics—it is something which is of interest and of consequence to the public; and despite the advice of the discredited organ that the affair is a family quarrel with which the INTELLIGENCER has nothing to do, we shall nevertheless do our duty in the premises, namely to expose a very discreditable transaction which has justly brought a hornets' nest about the ears of the Government and which their apologist vainly tries to justify.

The Tea Seizure.

The Mail, in a vigorous article, goes to the root of the matter in regard to the recent seizure of teas in Toronto. Our contemporary declares that "the American importers have found a way of violating the spirit of our law. The imposition of the differential duty was intended to revive direct importations by Canadian houses from China and Japan; but by making Toronto brokers their Canadian agents, or by giving them such an interest in the business as will enable them to say or swear that they are partners, the American importers are enabled to defeat that object. In the Lambe case, Heinemann & Co. belong nominally to Yokohama and Hiogo, but in reality to New York. They appoint Lambe Bros. nominally, or perhaps it will be more accurate to say technically, their partners in Canada, and ship to them, via New York, teas which they deem suitable for this market; and these partners, as the law now stands, can swear" to all that is necessary under the present regulations, namely that the teas in question are direct importations. That this, if our contemporary's statement be correct, is a violation of the spirit if not of the letter of the tariff regulations, there can scarcely be a doubt, and there will be few who will not agree with the Mail when it says:—"If the letter of the law may be evaded by a dodge such as that of a 'partnership' between American importers and Canadian brokers, it will be the duty of the Government to amend the regulations and render collusion of that kind impossible. The Canadian tea market must be secured to the Canadian importer at all hazards, and the differential duty strictly enforced against both the American importer and his Canadian agent. A Canadian importer who shipped teas direct from China or Japan, via Montreal, to a New York partner for sale in the United States, would be compelled to pay the American differential-duty; and there is no valid reason why we should treat the American importer better than his Governor ment treats us."

One thing is quite clear, namely that the Customs Department has seized these teas with the intention of preventing what its head has been led to believe is a dishonest attempt to evade the law, and the Department is entitled to credit therefor. If the Messrs. Lambe and Heinemann & Co. have not been attempting a "Yankee trick" they cannot suffer very heavily, and in any case there is no reasonable ground for the fury with which the leading Grit organ has attacked the Government in relation to this matter.

Scored a Point.

The following testimony as to the beneficial effects of the National Policy is from the Montreal Witness of the 1st April. "The National Policy scored a point in the location in this city of a branch establishment of the widely known manufacturers of electro-plated ware, Messrs. Simpson, Hall, Miller & Co., whose factory and warehouse, as already stated, is at No. 18 DeBresoles street. The firm occupy five flats of that large building, and already employ from twenty five to thirty-five hands. They ship goods to all parts of the world, including Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the continent of Europe, and to show their strength it may be stated that they have purchased from the celebrated firm of William Rogers & Co. the exclusive right to manufacture their goods for a number of years. The success of the branch here has, our reporter learns, exceeded the highest expectations of the firm, and we may soon look for a further increase of this new industry. The name of Samuel Simpson, the senior partner, is closely identified with the prosperity of Wallingford, Conn., where he resides, and where the principal factory is located. There is also a branch of the business in Union Square, New York. We are pleased to be able to chronicle the success of the firm's enterprise here."

THE INSOLVENCY LAW REPEALED.—The Act of Insolvency which was repealed by the Dominion Parliament, received the Governor-General's assent on the 1st of April, so that the office of official assignee will no longer be a sinecure. While few will question the wisdom of repealing the Insolvency Acts as they existed, leading business men all over the country believe that some kind of an Insolvent Law to relieve deserving bankrupts, is a necessity, and it is to be hoped some measures which will meet the general approval, will be passed before Parliament rises.

A GREAT INCREASE.—The Grand Trunk traffic receipts for the week ending March 27th were $209,862 as against $151,187 the corresponding period last year—an increase of $58,695. Deducting the Riviere du Loup receipts from last year, the week's increase is $62,805.

—A large proportion of the winter wheat crop in Peterboro' is totally ruined by the winter frosts.

Attempted Murder.

ANTHONY GOLDING SHOT AT.

The Would-be Assassin not yet Arrested.

On Wednesday, March 31st, Anthony Golding, who lives in the 8th concession of Tyendinaga, near Lonsdale, laid information before the Police Magistrate, charging George Litten, of the same township, with having attempted to murder him by shooting at him with a gun and a revolver on the previous day. Mr. Golding states that for the past ten years there had been bad feeling between himself and Litten, who lives on the farm adjoining. On Tuesday morning, he says, he was engaged in splitting rails in the bush on his place, when he heard the report of a gun, and a bullet struck a stump a few inches distant from his head. He looked about, and seeing the smoke from the gun went to the spot where it proceeded from—a distance of not more than twenty yards—where he found Litten lying behind a stump. He asked his assailant why he had fired at him, when Litten drew a revolver from his pocket and fired a shot at Golding, who picked up a stick and struck Litten with it. Litten then struck Golding with his gun clubbed, partially stunning him. The men then closed and had a desperate struggle, in which Litten secured the advantage, but a nine year old son of Golding who had been near his father, interfered and decided the struggle in his parent's favor by pulling Litten off, upon which Golding overcame his antagonist by giving him several blows. He left his assailant lying in the woods partially insensible and went home to get his wounds, which seriously affected his head, dressed. Golding's head and face, it may be stated, show a number of serious wounds.

On the next day he came to town, as above stated, and had a warrant issued for Litten's arrest. This document was placed by the Police Magistrate in the hands of a constable, and the arrangement was made that Golding should telegraph from Lonsdale as to when Litten was at home, so that the constable could go to make the arrest. On returning home on Thursday morning, however, he found that the culprit had come to Belleville, and returned here, but the constable to whom the warrant had been given could not be found. This is to be regretted, as the arrest could probably have been made yesterday without trouble. It is to be hoped, however, that the ends of justice may yet be met in this case.

SANTA FE, N. M., April 2.—A small raiding party of Apaches killed a soldier of the 9th cavalry carrying despatches from Fort Craig to Capt. Hooker's battalion on the San Matio mountains. They then attacked San Jose, a small village about 17 miles from Rio Grande, but two soldiers of the 9th cavalry and several Mexicans went out and drove them off; one soldier and one Mexican were killed.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The Tribune's London special says the result of the elections yesterday is a decisive defeat of the Beaconsfield Ministry. Lord Hartington, Liberal leader, in a speech yesterday in Lancashire said if a Liberal Cabinet is to be formed at once the question of Premiership should be decided by the party and wishes of the Queen. Gladstone was elected at Leeds, receiving nearly 25,000 votes, or more than 10,000 over the highest number polled for Conservative candidates.

The heavy decline in the Elevated Railroad stocks caused much comment in Wall Street yesterday. The Manhattan, which quoted 73 in November, yesterday brought 25. Rumors are circulated that the stock would soon be entirely wiped out. The Tribune says the Manhattan directors state that the company is not earning sufficient to pay 10 per cent interest on stocks of leased companies guaranteed. The Manhattan Co. leased provides that it shall be void on default for 90 days in payment of guarantee interest. The principal cause of the falling off in earnings, is the great loss caused by the second avenue line, recently opened.

Havemeyer Bros. & Co., and other leading sugar refiners publish a card calling the public attention to the adulteration of sugars with glucose, which they severely condemn, and urge prompt legislation to prevent the continuance of this imposition on the consumers.

The English Elections.

More Liberal Gains.

LONDON, April 1.—The Standard declares that the results of to-day's voting only served to increase the Government's losses. The Conservative majority has well nigh disappeared. The question no longer is whether the Ministers will be able to hold their own, but whether the Opposition will secure such a majority as will enable them to take office with a reasonable prospect of carrying on the business satisfactorily.

The Times says that about one-third of the entire number of members of the House of Commons have now been elected. The apparent result is that the Conservative majority will be replaced by a Liberal majority.

The net Liberal gain in the elections is now twenty-nine seats.

Notice to Machinist-Contractors.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned (Secretary of Railways and Canals) and endorsed "Tender for Lock Gates, Lachine Canal," will be received at this office until the arrival of the Eastern and Western Mails on THURSDAY, the 3rd day of JUNE next, for the construction of Gates, and the necessary machinery connected with them, for the new Locks on the Lachine Canal.

Plans, Specifications, and General Conditions can be seen at this office on and after THURSDAY the 20th day of MAY, next, where forms of tender can also be obtained.

Parties tendering are expected to provide the special tools necessary for, and to have a practical knowledge of, works of this class, and are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same; and, further, an accepted bank cheque for a sum equal to $250, for the gates of each lock, must accompany each tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfilment of the contract the party or parties whose tender it is proposed to accept will be notified that their tender is accepted, subject to a deposit of five per cent. of the bulk sum of the contract—of which the sum sent in with the tender will be considered a part—to be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General within eight days after the date of the notice.

Ninety per cent. only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the work.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order,
F. BRAUN,
Secretary.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, APRIL 2

City and Vicinity.

POLICE.—The cells contained only one inmate last night, a female prisoner charged with larceny.

FALSE ALARM.—The firemen were called out last night about 9 o'clock by another false alarm, which was apparently an "April fool" played on the brigade.

MILLINERY OPENING.—The spring millinery opening at Mr. Thomas Muir's (late Muir & Lawrance) is announced to take place on Thursday next, the 8th inst.

CHURCH PARADE.—No 1 Company of the 15th Battalion will have a church parade on Sunday, when they will attend divine service in the Bleecker Street Methodist Church.

A BIG TRAIN.—The evening express west on the Grand Trunk yesterday was made up of 10 passenger cars (one of emigrants) 2 baggage cars and an express car. Two engines were required to haul the train from Belleville westward.

REMINDER.—There are no less than three events set down for to-night, namely the production of Othello by the Belleville Histrionic Association at the Opera House; an organ recital in St. Thomas' church, admission free; and a meeting of the St George's Society at Mr. Hulme's office Campbell Street.

KNIGHTS OF THE MACCABEES.—There will be no change in the title of the Order of the Maccabees in Canada, the title, "Knights of the Maccabees of the World" being retained by Canadian Tents. The Buffalo faction will henceforth be known by the title, "Knights of the Maccabees," dropping the last words of the original title.

MARKET TOLLS.—The Picton Times says: —"The tolls to be collected on the Picton market for the year commencing on Monday next were put up for competition on Monday last. The bidding was somewhat spirited, but finally they were knocked down to Mr. Curry, the present lessee, for $494, being one dollar less than he paid for them last yea .

INLAND REVENUE.—The returns for the month of March present the following totals: spirits, $3,660.11; tobacco, $1,-416.80; malt, $199.57; other revenue $40; total $5,316.48. The receipts for the corresponding month of last were $5,082.62, thus showing an increase in favor of this year's collections of $233.86.

THISTLES.—The new "Act to Prevent the Spread of Canada Thistles" amends the present law by taking away the optional character, and making it imperative on pathmasters to see that its provisions are carried out without having first obtained the consent of the Municipal Council. It also requires the notice to the owners of land overrun with thistles to be served on them not later than the 25th of June.

THE IRON ORE TRADE.—It is stated that a considerable increase in the rate of freight on iron ore from Belleville to Buffalo has lately been made by the Grand Trunk Railway Company. The result of this is that shipments have been materially reduced, and if a reduction be not made a large quantity of ore will go forward by water so soon as navigation opens, provided rates by vessel, which are now on the rise, do not reach too high a point.

FOR MANITOBA.—A party of 125 persons left Toronto on the 31st ult., per G. W. R. Large additions to the party were expected at different stations along the line of the Great Western Railway.

RESIGNED.—The Rev. Stuart Foster has resigned the Anglican parish of Shannonville, and been appointed to the mission of Pittsburg and Storrington.

GRAIN ELEVATORS.—Preparations for the erection of an elevator at Campbellford and two at Stirling are now being made. The necessary stone for the foundation of each has been drawn to the sites, and as soon as the weather permits the work of erection will be begun.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.—The numbers of The Living Age for the weeks ending March 20th and 27th respectively, contain the following articles: Bishop Wilberforce, and The Romance of Modern Travel, Quarterly; British Lighthouses, Edinburgh. The Halcyon's Nest, Macmillan; A Wild Irish Girl, Temple Bar; The History of Writing, Something about Milk, and Artificial Production of Diamonds, Nature; Street discords, Saturday Review; Quarrel in a Library, and Mr. Bright as a Churchman, Spectator; with instalments of "He (is) is low while he hen lie may," by Mrs. Oliphant, and "Adam and Eve," by the author of "Dorothy Fox." As a New Volume begins with the number for April 3'1, this is a good time to subscribe. For fifty-two numbers of sixty-four large pages each (or more than 3,300 pages a year), the subscription is $8) is low; while for $10.50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies with The Living Age for a year, including the extra numbers of the latter, both postpaid. Littell & Co, Boston are the publishers.

Police Court.

(Before A. Diamond, P. M.)

FRIDAY, April 2.

ASSAULT.

Rachel Babcock charged Henry Babcock with assaulting her by throwing a stone at her. Defendant did not appear, and in consequence decision was postponed until to-morrow.

LARCENY.

Margaret Galvin was charged with stealing two silk dresses, the property of Mrs. Walter Fanning. There being some doubts as to the sanity of the prisoner, she was remanded until Monday.

Marine Notes.

The schooner Annie Mulvey—a trader well known here—was sold in Toronto on the 31st ult. for $4,600, and is considered very cheap at that figure.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, April 2.—Arrived out, the Victoria and Wyoming.

The Daily Telegraph (Liberal) says yesterday's elections afford undoubted encouragement to the Liberals, but in solid significance the vote of the city of London must be held to outweigh a dozen petty boroughs.

A Rome despatch says the Pope is disposed to accede to the wishes of the Archbishop of Baltimore for a large increase of church accommodation in his diocese, in consequence of the number of persons disposed to join the Romish Church and for special powers to facilitate the reception of such converts.

A St. Petersburg despatch says the success of the Liberals in England produced considerable satisfaction.

The indefinite postponement of Skobleff's departure, with the belief that no actual expedition to Turkestan will be undertaken this year, as well as the despatch of a Russian division to Kuldja is regarded as significant of indecision in Russian ministerial circles, probably in view of possible results from the ultimate success of the English Liberals.

LONDON, April 2.—The Times says the election tends to render it scarcely doubtful that the Government will encounter an adverse majority in the House of Commons. There is indeed another week's voting, and it would be premature to presume on the final result or on the course of the Prime Minister. In 1868, when the constituencies declared against him by an overwhelming majority, he adopted the somewhat unusual course of resigning before Parliament. His example was followed by Mr. Gladstone when defeated, but the ordinary course has been for the ministry to await the meeting of Parliament, but even if the final result of the present elections should be evidently adverse, the course Earl Beaconsfield will take need not be that which was pursued on the last two occasions. Sooner or later, however, there is now every prospect that the present Ministry will have to make way for a Liberal administration. Notwithstanding the generally adverse character of the returns, it is evident that they are far from involving that wholesale condemnation of the Government for which some Liberal speakers argued. In this respect the returns offer a conspicuous contrast to those of 1874 or 1868.

For Southwark, Copen (Liberal) and Prof Rogers, a rather extreme Liberal were elected to Parliament, receiving 9,693 and 9,521 votes respectively, against 7,163 and 7,674 for the Conservative candidates. This gives Southwark a Liberal gain of two.

LONDON, April 2.—For Chelsea, Sir Charles Wentworth Dilke, proprietor of the Athenæum (Liberal) was reelected, receiving 12,406 votes, and Firth, (Liberal), was elected, receiving 12,146 votes, a Liberal gain,—Conservatives receiving 9,666 and 9,488 votes respectively.

The Echo (Independent) this evening says the total number of Liberal votes polled up to last evening was 720,000; Tory votes 521,000, showing an increase in the Liberal vote over last election of 154,000, and in the Tory vote of 55,000.

The London correspondent of the Manchester Guardian (Liberal) says the results of the election have astounded the best judges on both sides. It may now be safely assumed that the Liberals will accept office. A strange idea prevails that the Queen will send for the Marquis of Hartington instead of Lord Granville. It is certain she will not summon Mr. Gladstone. A Ministry formed by Earl Granville would certainly include Mr. Gladstone, but the Marquis of Hartington, not Mr. Gladstone, would lead the House of Commons. If the Liberal majority should fall below 12 or 15 the next Parliament will probably be very short lived.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, April, 2.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the lower lakes, moderate to fresh winds mostly easterly to southerly, partly cloudy to cloudy weather, with local rains.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Indications: for cloudy, rainy, to warmer weather.

AN AMERICAN OPINION OF MR. JOSEPH HICKSON.—The American Stockman pays the following compliment to the Manager of the Grand Trunk Railway:—"The power of the railway king is great, even in Canada. The permission recently granted by the Canadian authorities for the transmission of American cattle from one American port to another through Canadian territory is, without doubt, not so much a concession to American stock dealers as a concession to the Grand Trunk Company, and, coming so close upon the completion of that Company's through line to Chicago, gives ample ground for the belief that Manager Hickson is a power behind the throne."

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,0 0 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

Pilgrimages to Buffalo, N. Y.,

are made by thousands of invalids annually to consult with the medical and surgical staff of the World's Dispensary and Invalid's Hotel, the largest private sanitarium in the world. All the chronic diseases are treated by scientific methods. The practice is divided among nine eminent specialists. Among the most popular discoveries and medicines in the land are those manufactured by this Association, among which are Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the greatest of alteratives or blood-cleansers, and Dr. Pierce's Pellets (little pills) that have largely superseded the old-fashioned coarse pills. Compound Extract of Sweet-Wood is deservedly popular as a remedy for diarrhœa, dysentery, flux, and kindred diseases; also a pain-killer and remedy for colds. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the great remedy for female weakness and associated derangements. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy is the "Old Reliable." Invalids' Guide-Book—10 cents, post-paid. CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'Water,' murmured Charles, with his parched lips.

Immediately a hand and arm were softly inserted between his head and the pillow and he felt his head tenderly raised, and a cup held to his lips. Oh, the delicious coolness of that blessed draught. How his lips closed till they lingeringly rested on the rim of the vessel, and what a grateful relief it was to allow the water to trickle drop by drop along his dry tongue, and down his feverish throat.

It was held to his lips till he emptied it, then, with a sigh of satisfaction, he leant back, and his head was lowered by the same hand upon the pillow, which, in the interval another hand had smoothed and elevated.

He was wonderfully refreshed and revived, and his senses gradually became clearer. He had not long to wonder now what was the matter with him, for bit by bit he remembered the events of his journey, his encounter with the man who was robbing the mail, his grappling with him, and being surprised into inaction by the recognition of his face as that of Hufley White. Then the blow came, and its blinding crash was the last thing which came within the range of his recollection.

It was doubtless from the effects of that blow he was lying there, feeling so weak and giddy, but the question was—Where was he? From the softness of the couch and the quietness around him he concluded that he was in a comfortable room, and he had just had evidence of how kindly he was being ministered to. But how had he been brought there, and who was watching by his bed? The voice that spoke to him was the voice of a man, though modulated almost to the sweetness and softness of a woman's, and his attentions were so delicately rendered that the youth could not mistake them for anything but the product of genuine kindness.

He lay for some minutes thinking over all this, and seeing strange shapes in the darkness, and waves of light, which now and then came upon his eyes with painful intensity, when his ear, preternaturally acute, caught the words, whispered in the sweetest woman's voice to which he had ever listened—

'Is he asleep?'

'I think he is,' was the response, equally low in its accents.

'No, I am not asleep, 'said Charles, and he was surprised at the weakness of his own voice. 'Will you tell me where I am and what is exactly the matter with me?'

'You had a stroke, sir, but the Doctor said you must be kept very quiet till he returned.'

'I'll keep as quiet as you like after you satisfy my curiosity, but the ignorance in which I am makes my mind restless. I remember being struck now. I remember everything up to the time of receiving the blow. What happened then?'

'Why, then, sir, you were taken inside the coach, and brought four miles along the road to our little cottage, where you are now. By good luck our doctor—Doctor Elliott—was in the coach, and he brought you here, and we were very willing, sir, to do all we could to help you—me and my daughter, sir. And I am glad to see, sir, that you have returned to consciousness.

'Did he—the robber I mean—did he escape?'

'Yes, sir, he got off, and I heard the guard say he had taken a valuable bank parcel.'

There was a pause, which in a few moments Charles broke by the question—

'Is Singleton Hall far from this?'

A Hen that Sings "Hold the Fort."

Glen Cove goes to the front with the "boss hen," not a mere common or ordinary egg laying hen, but a single hen, a hen that sings, "Hold the Fort" with all the unction of a Widow Van Cott at a camp meeting. This biped is the pet of a young lady of this village. She has taught the hen to accompany her as she sings the hymn and the pullet does it with a vim, a gravity and propriety really creditable to poultry nature. She has only to start the melody when the pullet joins in and sings along with her to the end, following the scale and minding the rests in a way that delight the most exacting choir master; and what is more, and to the hen's credit, don't giggle during the rehearsal, don't flirt, nor eat pennies or candy, nor munch chewing gum, nor get in a huff, nor manifest any other of the usual and soul harrowing eccentricities of musical genius. As a matter of genius, Glen Cove's singing hen is so far superior to the boasted egg laying hens as the lustre Aldebaran is to the glitter of a pinhead in the pinafores of beauty dancing at charity balls.—Glen Cove Gazette.

It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. 67th & Woodland Av.,
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

MR. M. GILES, ESQ.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition—meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

The Windsor Hotel

Is one of the finest hotels on this continent. It is a credit to the liberality of our Montreal friends and an ornament to our city. Its corridors are wide and beautiful. The parlors and dining rooms, with their costly embellishments, and the reception rooms, are "chefs d'œuvre." Its "menus" are unexcelled. It is a luxurious home for Montreal families who prefer to relieve themselves from the care of a household, and a sanctuary which cannot be surpassed for visitors. Still, here as elsewhere, man is subject to the laws of health. Sickness will follow where indiscretion leads. An unseemly carouse tells as badly upon the occupant of this house as upon the dweller in a cottage. Men are apt to over-indulge where food is very tempting, and ignore the results. Happily the remedy for such indiscretions may be had in every drug store in the Dominion, in the shape of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks. Night sweats, hectic symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS, SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

(PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED SINCE 1870.)

Over 15,000 Persons Successfully Treated since the establishment of our Institute in Detroit from all parts of the United States and Canada, for some of the various diseases of the head, throat and lungs. The only institute of the kind in Michigan specially devoted to the treatment of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, also diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heart.

A large portion of the deaths from throat and lung diseases are of young people—those who have not reached the meridian of life. Their hold upon life is strong and all the functions of the body active. If they were properly treated the great majority of them would recover. Such is my experience. But I have no faith in their treatment by the stomach. Cod liver oil is good nourishment, but it is not medicine. No medicine given by the stomach exerts a curative influence on the lungs.

We are positive in saying that three-fourths of the vast number who die of Consumption might be saved did they awaken to the true sense of danger when the disease first appeared in the head and by the best writers, and the ablest physicians of the age have expressed similer opinions.

With these facts before us we feel that we would be recreant to our responsibilities were we to remain silent and see our fellow-beings pass away like autumn leaves while there is hope for so many.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by medical inhalations, combined with proper constitutional and hygenic treatment.

If on account of distance, expense of travel or physical debility, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and when fully answered and returned remedies can be sent per express (duties free) together with full directions for use. LEARN TO SUFFER AND BE STRONG.

I long for pastures fresh and fair,
I long for days made free from care;
By crystal streams I fain could rest,
Where weary thoughts might fill the breast;
"But," saith the voice in his ear,
"Child, learn to suffer and be strong."

Tell me, can strength through suffering come?
Shall I through absence prize my home?
From fevrish nights of fretful unrest,
Shall the day-dawn find me refreshed?
O poet, what doth mean your song,
"Learning to suffer and be strong?"

Why, every waymark of my life,
Speaks of the lesson since
And memory bringeth oft to me
The words of hope that were to be.
I've learned life's lesson all along,
I've suffered yet I am not strong.

E'en life's bright days have been o'ercast
With tears of ill or griefs just past;
And when my dear ones I have pressed
With rapture closery to my breast,
Death claimed and took them—am I wrong?
I've suffered, but I am not strong.

And so I might keep counting o'er
Life's shipwrecks, e'en from shore to shore;
But Faith and Hope, with kindly hand,
Point the sad heart to that fair land,
Where we one day may join the song,
"Through suffering I have been made strong."

MY WORK.

ALL MEMBERS HAVE NOT THE SAME OFFICE.

I could not do the work the reapers did.
Or bind the golden sheaves that thickly fell.
But I could follow by the Master's side,
And watch the marred face I loved so well.
Right in my path lay many a ripened ear,
Which I would stoop and gather joyfully;
I did not know the Master placed them there—
"Handsful of purpose" that He left for me.

I could not cast the heavy fisher net,
I had not strength or wisdom for the task;
So on the sun-lit sands, with spray-drops wet,
I sat, and earnest prayer rose thick and fast.
I pleaded for the Master's blessing where
My loved ones toiled upon the wide-world sea;
Or ever that I knew His smile so fair
Came shedding all its radiancy on me.

I could not join the glorious soldier band,
I never heard the ringing battle-cry.
The work allotted by the Master's hand
Kept me at home, while others went to die.
And yet, when victory crowned the struggle long,
And spoils were homeward brought, both rich and rare,
He let me help to chant the triumph song,
And bade me in the gold and jewels share.

Oh, Master dear! the tiniest work for Thee
Finds recompense beyond our highest thought;
And feeble hands, that work but tremblingly,
The richest colors in the fabric wrought.
We are content to leave what Thou shalt give,
To work or suffer as thy choice shall be;
Forsaking what Thy wisdom bids us leave,
Glad in the thought that we are pleasing Thee!

Sunday Reading.

"I Have My Ticket."

I was lately passing the Railway Station at Worcester, when a young man entered the carriage where I was. As he sat down, I took out my ticket and showed it to him, saying,

"Young man, I have my ticket."

"Yes, Sir," he replied, "I see you have it."

I then added—"I do not hope to have it. I have not now to ask for one, or to wish I had a ticket. I have it—that is a certainty. Just like manner, I have salvation. I do not hope I have some day or other be saved; I have not to ask now to be saved—I have salvation. Through God's unspeakable mercy, I am saved."

The young man looked at me with astonishment, and said, "Well, this is very strange. I could have got to Birmingham for about half the fare by the other line; but somehow I could not look that way. Something said I must come by this train, and I felt I must get into this carriage. Now, I'll tell you; there is a man works in the same shop with me, and he says the same thing you say. He says he has 'eternal life;' and, mind you, he not only says so, but everything he does shows he has. Bless you! he has no fear of death at all; and when he has any trouble, it is having 'eternal life' makes him so quiet and happy, that I cannot help feeling that he has got something that I have not. And no matter how we chaff him, we cannot touch him: for he tel s us he has found 'eternal life' by reading and believing the Bible. For myself, I must tell you, I used to read Tom Paine and Voltaire; but somehow, when I got reading at night, I said, 'Tom Paine, thou canst not give me eternal life;' and I felt so miserable. I have put the book on the floor."

As he uttered this sentence, he suited the action to the word with great earnestness; and then putting his hand in his side pocket, he brought out a beautiful edition of a Pocket Bible, and said, "I have now got a book that makes known eternal life, but I cannot say that I have it. I want to feel that I have it."

I said to him in reply—"When the clerk laid your ticket on the window-board this morning, did you say, 'I must first feel that I have it, before I take it;' or did you first take it, and then feel that you had it?"

"Oh" said he, "I now see how simple it is! I must receive salvation, and then I shall feel that I have it."

We dare say many who read this little story have the very same difficulty that this young man had. They speak of Jesus as their Saviour; but if asked are they saved by him whom they call this name, they shrink from such an acknowledgement as most presumptuous. They regard salvation as only a distant, uncertain hope. They are led by feeling, instead of being led by faith. They reverse the order of things. They want to feel something, and then believe it; instead of believing it first, and then feeling it.

Now, reader, we appeal to you, would you act in this way in other affairs? If a kind friend came to you, and said, "I have lodged some money for you in the bank," what would you do? If you believed what he said, would you not feel happy and thankful, especially if you were in much want of the money? Would you not go and draw the money, and use it, and enjoy it? You would not surely say to your kind friend, "Well, I must first feel what you say, and when I have felt enough, I will believe it." Nor; if you were to speak in this way, we should suspect that you were not in your right mind. But men do not act in this manner about the things of this life. They are wise as to worldly things; but too often they are foolish and blind as to the things of the Lord. They want a right mind; they want a mind subject to the Word of God; they want a mind regulated by the Spirit of God.

Instead of believing the Word of God, which declares that "eternal life is the gift of God" (Rom. vi. 23) to those who really believe in Jesus as their Saviour, they look, and look, and look within to find some unknown amount of comfortable feelings in which they may rest, or rather, on which they may ground some hope of being saved at last. And they never obtain salvation in this way. Salvation is not to be had by looking into ourselves, but by looking in faith to Christ. A believing look saved the dying Israelite of old, and so a believing look saves the dying sinner now. (Numbers xxi. 6-9. John iii. 14-17.)

When the trembling jailer asked the apostle what he must do to be saved, the apostle did not tell him to look within, or to wait till he got better, and felt more comfortable. No; but he said to him with the authority of God, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved."

So with the poor woman of whom we read in the seventh of Luke. She had been a great sinner—a notorious sinner. She had no good works to look at, or to trust in. No; but she knew there was pardon for sinners. She had faith in him. And the Lord Jesus acknowledged that faith, and accordingly said to her, "Thy faith hath saved thee." (Luke vii. 50.) Salvation was to her a "free gift," through faith. It was her actual possession, and she went away in the enjoyment of it.

How simple is (God's way of salvation! Christ is the Lock given to us. I have only to receive Christ as my Saviour, and in him I have all I need. If I have received him, I have eternal life; for he is the eternal life." (1 John v. 20.) "He that hath the Son hath life." (1 John v. 12.) If I have received him, I have righteousness; for "he is made unto us, of God—righteousness." (1 Cor. i. 30.) If I have received him, I have salvation; for he is God's "salvation" (Luke ii. 30) unto the ends of the earth. "Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, bless his holy name."

Reader, we know not whether you are a believer or not. If not—if you will not believe God—if you will not receive Jesus as your Saviour—you reject salvation, and "the wrath of God abideth on you." But if, through grace, you do believe, then you have Christ for your Salvation, for your life, your righteousness, your eternal portion; and having him, you should rejoice in him, as "all your salvation, and all your desire."

Do not give way to the evil heart of unbelief, which insinuates itself in the guise of a false humility. Do not take counsel with your own feelings, that veer about like the changing winds of heaven. But treasure up in the precious words we have been repeating, which are more steadfast than the everlasting hills. Remember, if you are "in Christ Jesus, there is no condemnation" to you. (Rom. viii. 1.) If you really believe in him, you are forgiven, for "all that believe are justified from all things." (Acts xiii. 39.) It must be so, for God has said it.

Walking, then, continually in the renunciation of self, and in the realization of what Christ is to you, you will be happy in the Lord, and the joy of the Lord will be your strength. It will be your strength in communion—in service—in suffering, if you are called to endure. Thus, you will glorify God in the peacefulness of your conduct—in the joyfulness of your heart, and in the holiness and devotedness of your life. Amen.

Ups and Downs.

Rumors from the cradle to the grave since "needful changes" form a portion of our human life; over occurring, like the ebb and flow of the great ocean—one period, calmly gliding away in gentle murmurs; at another, wildly dashing upon the shore, each wave leaving some sad memento of past storm and strife; or else the deep blue skies of heaven, under which we walk serene and fearless, unheeding the dark clouds gathering around, until the tempest's flash bursts forth in threatening violence.

Ups and downs! Who has not encountered these? Into whose existence have they not entered? From the lowly-born serf to the monarch on his throne, not one is exempt. They are the allotted condition of humanity, though some there are to whom life appears one long holiday—over whose path ever seem scattered fair, bright flowers—whilst there are others whose way is dim and rayless, as they perforce toil onward over the rocky ridges, through the briary waste. Why should there be such contrasts? We cannot answer. Tis hidden from our finite view, amid

"these mysteries which heaven
Will not have earth to know."

But these cases are exceptional, the greater number of our fellow-beings having a mingled existence, woven in the warp and woof of destiny—prosperity and adversity, health and sickness, joy and sorrow, a contrast in every phase of life's recurring years—at times, with lifted head, pouring forth loud peals of gladness; at others, with clasped hands and downcast eyes, uttering low tones of grief.

I would believe these ups and downs of life are sent in mercy—"counsellors, that feelingly persuade me what I am;" for, without them, we might become too worldly, too self-reliant. Neither should we so value the sunshine of our many blessings, did we not also pass through the gloom of the dark shadows. Would they be so radiant had there been no fear? or smiles deemed so precious were tears unknown? And what would constitute the blissful meeting had not our hearts been tried by the parting sorrow?

"Why, then, dread these ups and downs,
Since they bring us nearer
To the center where abide
Where the light grows clearer?
Nearer to the hand of Him
Who, with love guiding
Leads through all life's weary ways,
Into peace abiding."

Words of Cheer.

Few persons realize how much happiness may be promoted by a few words of cheer spoken in moments of despondency or words of encouragement in seasons of difficulty; for words of commendation when obstacles have been overcome by effort and perseverance.

Words fitly spoken often sink so deep into the mind and the heart of the person to whom they are addressed, that they remain a fixed, precious, and often recurring memory —a continuous source of lighting up years, perhaps, after the lips that have uttered them are sealed in death.

A whole life has been changed—exalted, expanded and illumined by a single, expression of sympathy, falling timely upon a sensitive and ambitious nature.

Words of cheer cost nothing to the speaker. On the contrary, they are to him as well as to the hearer a source of great happiness to be had for the mere effort of uttering them. The habit of speaking such words, at appropriate times, is easily acquired, while at the same time it is of so much importance that it should be sedulously cultivated by all.

Man discovered in himself an impulse to morality. He discovered it. He did not invent it.

"God kindly gave his blood a moral flow,"

And so morality becomes religious. Without consciously affirming God, a man may still be moral. But without the God whom some cannot affirm there could be no morality; no man, no universe.

Mother's Special Corner.

Children should be taught to esteem their parents most highly, but this can only be done by setting before them the example of a beautiful life.

As bright children may be spoiled by slothfulness, so dull ones may be made bright by industry. The mighty force of labor is nowhere more apparent than here.

Children should be taught to obey their parents promptly and lovingly. Parents on the other hand should not ask unreasonable things and should make their requests in the spirit of love rather than hate.

Parents often surfeit their children with advice and correctness, the advice may be good but children cannot assimilate it all at once. It is like overloading the stomach with food and produces a condition which nullifies the good effect of all the precepts.

Are you less untrue to your child when you wish something of it? Do you promise it nothing, or are you presently prepared to carry it with you when it comes back, meanwhile going off, and leaving it behind you. It is true you will not see its grief when you are away and when you have forgotten it altogether. The child will intensely watch the movements of the elder person, even take hold of it in its progress, if your call does not intimidate it. It will watch the countenance of the mouse and its cunning eyes, if the anxious cry of the mother does not convert the little animal into a monster. It will note your presence, promise to come with you when it comes back, meanwhile going off, and leaving it behind you. It is true you will not see its grief when you are away and when you have forgotten it altogether, but, unobserved distrust of the words of its mother creeps into its little heart, and truthfulness, that pearl of price in human soul, becomes a matter of levity. And yet you complain when your child does not keep its promises to you or when it repeatedly deceives you, as you have before deceived it, and declare that you have always taught it the sin of lying.

No child should cry from fear. A child does not know fear until it has learned it from others: no animal will make a child timid or terrified until it has first seen your timidity. Fear is an impulse contagiously. The child will intensely watch the movements of the elder person, even take hold of it in its progress, if your call does not intimidate it. It will watch the countenance of the mouse and its cunning eyes, if the anxious cry of the mother does not convert the little animal into a monster. If in the other hand, the fear of any little animal is easily overcome if you show how prettily it moves on the hand and how it behaves itself, in your presence every motive of courage or fear which the mother shows, acts contagiously on the child.

But is not fear a means of discipline? you ask. If nothing else succeeds in making the obstinate child submit, how dare we the threat of the nurse or of the mother? There comes the "black man," or the "policeman will put you in his pocket," "hear, hear, he is knocking" and now a knock is heard or some unnatural sound produced, and actually the child runs and hides its little head in your lap and does what you have commanded. Now you are satisfied, and to-morrow you will do it again. We, however, are by no means satisfied, and maintain that it is a sin against the spirit of the child thus to deceive it, and to change its frank fearless nature into a timid cowardly one,—sin against the spirit of the parents to transfer obedience which is the fruit of love and reverence from themselves to some hideous creature of the imagination. What have you gained: if the child is afraid of itself you have taken its will, and daily, hourly, you must continue to break it, and newly excite its fear. Soon, however, it observes that the Black Man never comes,—that the knocking has been done by the parent or by the nurse. Then it knocks and threatens you with its little hand, and cries, but does it not occur to you, dear parents, that this easy means of government may have a bad influence on the tender nature of the child—that without reference to the sad consequences often produced by fear, you lay a foundation for faults and crimes which later in life it will be difficult, perhaps impossible, to cure!

Gems of Thought.

Live this day as if the last.

First realize your cant then cast it off.

Avoid an angry man for awhile—a malicious man for ever.

The imagination is of so delicate a texture that even words wound it.

It is better to create than to be learned. Creating is the true employment of life.

Ignorance is the curse of God; knowledge is the wing wherewith we fly to heaven.

Dark clouds roll up and obscure the sun, but we know that there is light above the clouds.

A sound discretion is not so much indicated by never making a mistake as by never repeating it.

God is on the side of virtue, for whoever dreads punishment, suffers; and whoever deserves it, dreads it.

He that doeth a base thing in his zeal for a friend burns the golden thread that ties their hearts together.

If I study my science it is that which treat of the knowledge of myself, and instructs me how to live and die well.

Nothing is more ruinous for a man than when he is mighty enough in any part, to right himself without right.

The object of all ambition should be to be happy at home. If we are not happy there, we cannot be happy elsewhere.

It is better to judge between strangers than between intimates; for by the first one is sure to gain a friend, and by the other an enemy.

There is danger that a clergyman's mind may become the highway of sentiment, instead of the fruitful field of generous affections.

The world is the book of women. Whatever knowledge they may possess is more commonly acquired by observation than by reading.

What is the true test of character, unless it be its progressive development in the bustle and turmoil, in the action and reaction of daily life.

As I approve of the youth that has some thing of the old man in him, so I am no less pleased with the old man that has something of the youth.

Virtue is reproached as design, and religion as only interest. The best of qualities must not pass without a but to allay their merit and abate their praises.

Deep learning will make you acceptable to the mind and the heart of the person to whom they are addressed, that they remain a fixed, precious, and often recurring memory —a continuous source of lighting up years, perhaps, after the lips that have uttered them are sealed in death.

A whole life has been changed—exalted, expanded and illumined by a single, expression of sympathy, falling timely upon a sensitive and ambitious nature.

Words of cheer cost nothing to the speaker. On the contrary, they are to him as well as to the hearer a source of great happiness to be had for the mere effort of uttering them. And so morality becomes religious. Without consciously affirming God, a man may still be moral. But without the God whom some cannot affirm there could be no morality; no man, no universe.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, APRIL 3.

The N. P. and the Price of Wheat.

By dint of audacious misrepresentation a hundred times repeated, the bully of the Grit press has tried to force it down the throats of the Canadian public that the N. P. has robbed the farmers in the prices of their produce. "Plundering the farmers," the "wheat robbery," and the "hog swindle,"—these are some of the captivating titles which have of late done duty at the head of Globe articles on farmers' prices. The point sought to be established is that by putting duties on American produce we have caused prices of our own produce to fall. Most people of common sense might suppose that keeping foreign produce out of our market would cause prices here to [illegible] when we keep the foreign article out. For instance, before the N. P. the price of American oats "on the track" at Toronto was quoted almost daily there on 'change, and then Canadian prices were satisfactory, but now, says the Globe, since no more American oats are coming in, our prices have fallen and the farmer suffers because of the N. P. The brazen confidence with which the Globe has spoken on a subject wherein it is now shown to be clearly in the wrong, is something to wonder at. It has bullied and browbeaten all before it on the question of farmers' prices under the N. P., but we fancy the carefully prepared statement which we publish in another column will force the organ to play a milder tune. The statement deals with one article only—No. 2 spring wheat—that being the particular grain and the particular grade of it, on which the Globe rested what it supposed to be its strongest case. The Globe made the reckless assertion that the N. P. was causing a loss to our farmers of ten cents on every bushel of wheat brought to market. In refutation of this it is shown, taking exactly one year before the change and one year after as the test, that whereas before the N. P. Toronto prices averaged only ¼ cent higher than Chicago prices, under the N. P. they have averaged 3½ cents higher. It is further shown, and this appears to be the most important point in the whole statement—that in making up a price for 1878, that is, before the N. P., for Toronto, the Globe overstated the truth by 16 cents and more! The price for the first week of September that year was $1.02, but the average for the crop-moving season of six months—September to February inclusive—was only 85¼ cents, leaving the Globe's figure for that year wrong by over 16 cents. Comparing that period with the corresponding one under the N. P., a gain of 2¾ cents in the Toronto price, as compared with the Chicago price, is shown. "No Tory journal," said the Globe a while ago, "has attempted to deal with these figures"—that is, the figures in which the price for 1878 was overstated by 16 cents. It will be for the organ now to deal as best it can with the very clear proof elsewhere given of its own misrepresentations as to the price of "No. 2 Spring."

MILITARY EXPENDITURE IN EUROPE.—The military and naval expenditure of the leading European nations during the current year will be as follows:—Russia, $158,475,000; France, $186,825,000; England, not including the expenditure on the Indian army, $131,150,000; Germany, $115,000,000; Italy $60,800,000; Austro-Hungary, $56,050,000. The cost of these charges per head of the population of the several countries is:—France, $4,96; England, $3,82; Germany, $2,57; Italy, $2,17; Russia $1,95; and Austro-Hungary $1,70. The Russian and Austrian accounts, as here reported are the least trustworthy, chiefly on account of their deranged currency and for other reasons. Nor can it be overlooked that money purchases least in England, more in Germany, still more in France, Italy, Austria, and most in Russia. The national debt of every country, moreover, includes large amounts caused by fortifications, barracks, indemnities, and other so-called unproductive expenses. France is apparently in the worst condition, but bears its burdens with great cheerfulness and comparative ease.

NO. 2 SPRING WHEAT.

COMPARATIVE STATEMENT OF PRICES, AT TORONTO AND CHICAGO, BEFORE AND AFTER MARCH 15TH, 1879.

(Prepared for the Intelligencer.)

The following is a statement of Toronto and Chicago market prices for No, 2 spring wheat, the figures being all wholesale quotations on 'change. They are for the Wednesday of each week, being taken from the weekly market review, which regularly appears in the Toronto morning papers of Thursday. All the Chicago quotations, and nearly all the Toronto quotations, are taken from the Globe. When the Globe and Mail quotations differ materially, which does not often happen, those of the Monetary Times one day later, are resorted to, and from the three authorities together the right quotation for the day is determined. For example, the second week of March, 1880, the Globe quoted No. 2 spring wheat at $1.23 in Toronto, the Mail at $1.25 to $1.27—say $1.26, and the Monetary Times at $1.26. Saturday's papers reported a sale of 5,000 bushels at $1.25, but this was spoken of as an exceptional transaction. Balancing these different quotations together, it appears safe to put down $1.26 as the right figure for the week.

The Toronto Globe, January 9th, 1880, gave a comparative statement of prices for 18 weeks, from 6th September, 1879, to 3rd January, 1880. These quotations in the Globe are all for Saturdays, and the average of the 18 weeks is—for Toronto, $1.17¼ and for Chicago $1.15½, which is 1¾ cents higher for Toronto. And this period is compared with—what? With the corresponding period of 1878-79? No, but with only the first week of that period. The only figures quoted are these, all for No. 2 spring wheat:

1878.	Toronto.	Chicago.	Diff.

To show precisely how the Globe has gone wrong and where, the following table of prices is presented. It covers two crop moving seasons, of six months each, commencing the first of September in 1878 and 1879 respectively:

The Globe quotes the Toronto price at $1.03 on Sept. 1 (which was Sunday), and at $1.00 on the 6th (which was Friday). In the six months' statement above given the price on Sept. 4, 1878, (Wednesday) is $1.02, so that as regards the price for that week there need be no dispute. But the average of the six months—1878, '79—is only 85¼ cents, against the Globe's unwarrantably assumed figure of say $1.01½ (the medium between $1.03 and $1.00), which is wrong by no less than 16¼ cents! The Globe has chosen the crop-moving season following Sept 1st, 1879, upon which to found a comparison, and has quoted figures down to the date of Jan. 17, 1880, (see Globe of Jan. 9 and Jan. 20). Having gone so far, why not go to the end of February at once, and complete the record of the six months next after harvest? When this is done, and the figures compared with [illegible] year before, then the truth of the matter is made to appear. The results of the two comparisons made above may briefly be stated, as follows:

Average price of No. 2 Spring Wheat for 52 weeks, or one year, next before March 15. 1879,

Toronto	.. ..	$ 93.16-100
Chicago	.. ..	92.93-100

Before the N. P., Toronto say ¼ cent higher.

The same, for 52 weeks, as one year, next after March 15, 1879.

Toronto	.. ..	$ 1.10
Chicago	.. ..	1.06½

Net gain to Toronto under the N. P., 3¼ cents on the average.

The Globe of Feb. 11, 1880, says:—"We had a large crop of wheat—probably 25,000,000 bushels. The bulk of it has been marketed since last September." That makes a good reason for quoting prices during the crop moving season following the harvest of 1879, but it is equally cogent as a reason for taking into the comparison the whole of the corresponding season a year before. When this is done, it is seen that while before the N. P. Toronto averaged only ¾ cent higher than Chicago, for the six months under the N. P. Toronto averaged 3½ cents higher. The Globe's quotations are not always as true to the figure for the day and date as they should be, but the great error of all lies in an enormous misstatement of prices, or of an implied average price, for 1878. Instead of there being a loss to Canadian farmers, under the N. P., of ten cents or more per bushel on wheat, as stated by the Globe (Feb. 11, 1880), the six months' comparison shows a net gain of 2¾ cents, and the year's comparison a net gain of 3¼ cents.

The Globe says (Jan. 29, 1880), that Chicago wheat is sold "in store," and Toronto wheat "free on cars," and that therefore three cents should be added to the Chicago quotations, for cost of shipping. Supposing the difference to be just as stated, it applies to both periods alike, and does not affect the comparison.

On Jan. 20, 1880, the Globe said:—

"The markets (for wheat) have commenced to fall, and the first thing the decline proves is one which we have always said it would prove, viz., that the N. P. in severing our connection with Chicago, had only prevented our crops from following the upward turn there. As soon as the fall came our markets reflected it the same day."

It seldom happens that a bit of pretentious theorizing is so promptly refuted by facts. At the opening of the year Toronto and Chicago prices for No. 2 spring wheat stood about even—at or near $1.28½. What followed may be seen below:—

On February 11, 1880, the Globe said, in an article on "The Wheat Robbery":

"For nearly six months Toronto prices have ruled nine, ten, or twelve cents below the prices which would have ruled had the connection with Chicago been maintained. This fact is indisputable. There is not a particle of doubt that in wheat alone the new tariff has cost our farmers millions of dollars. We had a large crop of wheat—probably 25,000,000 bushels. The bulk of it has been marketed since last September. On every bushel sent to market since that time our farmers have lost about ten cents. Practically the whole of the crop has been thus taxed."

Between the Globe and the facts let the public judge.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 3.—The diplomatic note replying to the refusal of Hartmann's extradition has been toned down so that its terms are merely judicial refuting the reasons of the French Government for refusing the extradition. It will probably be forwarded to-day. The refusal and reply will then be published contrary to the advice of several high personages.

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK, April 3.—The Tribune's Philadelphia despatch says that the leader of the new Irish revolutionary movement and signer of the call for the coming convention, says the revolutionists intend to throw 100,000 rifles into Ireland, in the hands of a trained army of veterans. It is proposed to raise two or three millions of money before commencing operations.

The World's Edinburgh despatch says that several months ago Gladstone had a full understanding with Hartington as to the results of the triumph if won. Neither the Liberal party nor Hartington will consent to the reorganization of the Government under any other head than Gladstone.

The Times Washington special says the war between the lottery managers, La., and Kentucky bids fair to result in developments which do not redound credit to post office administration. An officer of the department very near to chief is said to have received $10,000; Chairman of an important committee house 50,000; two correspondents of influential newspapers $8,500 each, while in addition a sum was distributed among the lobby.

LOS VEGOS, N. M., April 3.—Last evening desperadoes, David Rudabugh and John Allen, entered the jail, fatally wounded the jailor and attempted to rescue one Webb, a prisoner under a death sentence for murder. The rescuers [illegible] Posse in pursuit, and if captured they will be lynched.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Cable returns of the elections in 218 constituencies in Great Britain show that the Liberals elected 206 members; Conservatives 122; Home Rulers 12; The Liberals gained 58 seats and lost 15 The Home Rulers gained 3.

At the New York Conference yesterday, Bishop Wiley, in addressing a body of young ministers, said: If there is a deeper and hotter place in the world below where man will go, and ought to go, it is reserved for that preacher who, under guise of his office as a minister and man of God, enters a household and becomes a betrayer and wrong doer.

The American Union Telegraph and other Companies for rehearing in the case of Page against the Western Union Co., presented Judge Blatchford yesterday. Petitioners claim if it is sustained the Page patent would in effect not only destroy the claim of Morse and destroy the fame of that great inventor, but would show that for more than 40 years telegraph companies have been using stolen devices.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, APRIL 3.

City and Vicinity.

City Council.—The Council will hold a regular meeting on Monday night.

Bible Christian Church.—The closing Sermon of the special Services will be preached D. V. to-morrow evening.

Fishing.—The fishermen had good hauls yesterday, lots of pike and suckers being sold on the market this morning.

Mails by Railway.—The Prince Edward County Railway will hereafter carry the mails between Trenton and Picton. A great improvement on the present system.

Celebration.—It is proposed to have a grand celebration in Trenton on Dominion Day, when that place will be proclaimed a Town, with new and enlarged boundaries.

The By-stander.—The April number of this ably written magazine presents the following table of contents:—The Financial Statement, the Tariff Amendments, Reciprocity, Increase of Paper Currency, the Pacific Railway, Sir A. T. Galt's Montreal Speech, Ontario Legislature, Building Societies, Third Term, the Panama Canal, the Struggle in England, &c. Toronto: Hunter, Rose & Co. Price 10 cents.

Personal.—Mr. Geo. E. Henderson, Q. C., of Belleville, will have charge of the criminal business at the coming Wentworth Assizes which commence on Monday, April 5th.

Railroad Freight.—Five cars of iron ore, one car of cordwood and two cars of hop poles—the latter for shipment over the dock here—arrived per the North Hastings line this morning.

Organ Recital.—The organ recital given in St. Thomas' Church last night by Mr. Oldham the newly appointed organist, was not largely attended, but was a highly enjoyable performance. Mr. Oldham demonstrated that he is a very able performer, and he exhibited the powers and beauties of the fine instrument satisfactorily.

Lumber Shipments.—The ice being nearly out of the bay, Messrs Gilmour & Co., of Trenton, will shortly commence the shipment of about 7,000,000 feet of lumber, which they have sold to dealers in the United States at remunerative figures. This will make a busy season for vessels at Trenton, and we learn of a contract having been made at $1 per m. from Toronto to Oswego.

Parlor Shoe Store.—The corner store so long in the possession of Messrs. Barber, Brignall & Co., has been transformed into a Parlor Shoe Store, and is occupied by Messrs. Roblin & Bayeur, who removed about a month since from their premises opposite Campbell Street. Their new store is admirably adapted to their business, being commodious, well lighted, and centrally located—indeed, for situation it is one of the best stands in the city. They have it filled with one of the largest and finest stocks of boots and shoes, suitable for all ages and classes, ever brought into the city, and they also keep in stock a full supply of trunks, valises, satchels, &c. Selling good stock, and at low prices, there is little wonder that their business has largely increased since they removed to their new premises—showing, we understand, over one-third more than the corresponding month of last year. Look at their advertisement and call and inspect stock.

Othello.—The performance of this tragedy by the Belleville Amateur Histrionic Association in the Opera House last night attracted a considerable audience, though the galleries were but thinly occupied. A pressure upon our space forbids an extensive criticism of the merits of the individual performers, but it is only bare justice to say that Mr. Carmichael gave what, for an amateur, may be termed a splendid rendering of the role of the Moorish general. His make-up was appropriate, voice well suited to the part, ennunciation clear and distinct, gesture and by-play appropriate and significant, and withal his notable powers were used with discretion. Mr. McFee as Iago—a part which he played here several years ago—showed that he is still a fine actor and the applause which was liberally bestowed on him was certainly well deserved. The other gentlemen generally did well—some of them performing with much ability—but there was a superfluity of gesture observable in several cases, which fault is easy of correction, and will no doubt be corrected when they have had more experience. The ladies—Mrs. Carmichael and Miss Irwin—performed fully as ably as could be expected, the latter indeed acting with spirit in several of the scenes. The costumes were of a superior order, and in every respect the play was well produced, every attention having seemingly been paid to detail. The Association have now in rehearsal "The Merchant of Venice."

Street Railway.—We once more call the attention of the Public Works Committee to the bad condition of the Street Railway throughout almost its entire length. In the vicinity of the ferry dock it is said to be in so bad a state as to seriously interfere with the numerous vehicles which are obliged to cross it.

Passed.—We observe by the report of the examination at the Ontario Veterinary College, Toronto, that Mr. S. Brenton and Mr. B. Way of Belleville figure in the list of those who were awarded diplomas. The gentlemen named are to be congratulated on their success.

The Iron Trade.—A correspondent writing from Kinmount to the Bobcaygeon Independent says:—"We look for a very large iron trade this year. Two merchants are expected to open store at the Snowdon Iron Mine. Pusey & Co. are the men who really mean business in the iron trade. They have a lot of men at work, and have already a considerable quantity of ore ready for shipment."

Horses for Export.—The Trenton Advocate says: "Messrs. T. Holbrook and J. E. Smith have a very fine stud of horses in their stables which they intend taking to New York City the first week in April. The horses are as fine a lot of animals as we ever saw. One team stands over 17 hands high. Mr. Holbrook has 17 horses in all, and being a good salesman as well as buyer, cannot help but make the undertaking pay."

England's Patron Saint.—The coming anniversary of England's patron Saint will be celebrated in the usual manner on St. George's day, a meeting of the Society which took place last evening at the office of the President, having so decided. A procession will take place in the afternoon, and a supper will be given in the evening at the Dafoe House.

A Foul Murder.—A despatch from Arthabaskaville Quebec, gives particulars of a most revolting murder. A young woman aged 22 universally respected had occasion to go to a neighbor's, and as she did not return the same day, her friends became alarmed, and search was made. Her body was found in a well fearfully hacked, and giving evidences of a desperate struggle with her assailant. Efforts are being made to discover the murderer.

Marine Notes.

The steamer Flight has been refitted and will again run between Napanee and Picton.

The steamer Armenia was to attempt to reach Belleville from Mill Point to-day but her success was doubtful.

Vessels at Kingston are getting ready for active service.

A Napanee despatch says: The steamer Pilgrim, of Mill Point, arrived here this morning. She will make three trips daily during the season between Napanee and Mill Point for the accommodation of passengers, &c.

The British Elections.

The returns received this morning leave little doubt of the defeat of the Beaconsfield Government. According to the figures thus far the Liberals have gained 52 seats. As might have been expected the news of the Liberal success was received with great delight in St. Petersburg, while at Berlin, Paris and Vienna, great disappointment and uneasiness were felt.

With regard to the new Ministry, the Times says it will be for Lord Beaconsfield to advise the Queen, who is to be official chief Parliamentary leader of the Liberals. If Lord Granville, who has every claim on the ground of past services, rank and ability, becomes Premier, Lord Hartington will hold an important position in the Cabinet and lead his party in the Commons.

The Times says a feeling of despondency pervaded the Stock Exchange yesterday, in consequence of the unexpected result of the Parliamentary election. Egyptians were especially depressed by vague fears that a Liberal Government will in some way damage the chances of bondholders. Water companies stock, bought in expectation of a Government victory, fell heavily, some over $20.

Row Amongst Navvies.

80 Railway Laborers in a Free Fight.

Bottles and Other Weapons Freely Used.

Not since the memorable row which occurred at the Corner of Front and Bridge Streets in 1861 has there been so extensive a free fight as that which occurred at the Grand Trunk Station here this forenoon. It originated amongst and was taken part in solely by from 60 to 80 railway laborers, from Montreal, who were on their way westward, having been engaged in the commercial metropolis to work on Section B of the Canada Pacific Railway. The party, which numbered in all about 300 men, the majority of whom (185, it was stated) were French Canadians, and the remainder chiefly Irishmen, left Montreal last night on a special train of five cars. They were in charge of Mr. Shields, one of the contractors, accompanying whom was Sergeant O'Keefe, formerly of St. Catharines and Ottawa, who has been engaged as peace officer on the important section of the railway known as Section B., on which a very large number of men are employed. Knowing that ill-feeling frequently arises between the French and Irish from Quebec, Mr. Shields took the precaution of separating them, placing the different nationalities in cars by themselves.

Previous to the start, as one of the men informed our reporter, the latent ill-feeling spoken of above broke out, in consequence of some of the party having indulged too freely in whiskey (numerous bottles of which were taken by the laborers on the train with them), and one man—a Frenchman—exhibited a pair of black eyes which he said were caused by a blow dealt him before the start. After the train was on its way, the whiskey being freely partaken of by many, exerted its influence, and light skirmishing was indulged in by the different nationalities during the night. It was not, however, until this morning, after the supply of whiskey had been renewed at Napanee, and many of the men began to feel maddened by their night's carouse, that war broke out in earnest. Just how this occurred it is impossible to say, as the accounts are of the most conflicting character. The Irishmen claim that as one of their number was passing through one of the Frenchmen's cars, he was struck with a bottle and severely hurt, and that they as his fellow countrymen assailed the "Canadians," in consequence. The Frenchmen, on the contrary, state that the row was begun by a young Irishman, who entered one of their cars and hit one of their compatriots with a bottle, and that when they proceeded to execute summary vengeance on the aggressor, the Irish sought to defend him, and a grand fracas was the result.

At all events, whichever of these stories is true, there was some fighting at Napanee, and a continual jangling was kept up until the train reached Belleville at 10:15. The men of both nationalities, to the number of 70 or 80 jumped from the cars to the platform and renewed hostilities. Bottles, sticks and stones were freely utilized as weapons of offence, and two razors are also said to have been used. Some of the rioters were severely wounded by weapons, whilst others were badly kicked. The Grand Trunk officials and several of the employees interfered, and the Chief of Police and officers Hayes and Newton, who had been sent for, quickly arrived and succeeded in quelling the disturbance. The latter officer was for some time in danger, he having arrested a man whom his companions wished to rescue. He beat off one assailant with his club, and Sergt. O'Keefe, who drew his revolver, overawed the others until the prisoner was placed in a conveyance. The Chief and Officers made at this time four arrests and later the Chief made one more arrest. The men were taken to the police station house, where they now are.

Subsequently the row was resumed near the west switch, but the riot was soon quelled.

The cars, after the fight, showed that quite a struggle had been carried on in them. The end windows of one car were broken, and on its platform and within the door lay the fragments of a broken bottle.

After peace had been restored, our representative passed through the cars, in order to gather particulars from the men themselves. Of the Irishmen, it was found that the following were injured: Jas. Wilson, struck on the head with a bottle whilst passing through a Frenchmen's car, without, he said, giving any offence; Thomas Abbey, hit with a bottle on the face; John Abbey, kicked on the face and badly cut, though accidentally, by a bottle which was being thrown from a window; Thomas Collins (who is said to have used a razor on his opponent) badly kicked and had a bottle broken over his head, but without cutting him. Of the Frenchmen, Louis Legard had a pair of black eyes, which he received at Montreal; a man who refused to give his name, had received a terrible blow from a bottle under his left eye, but was still under the influence of liquor and very fightable; Joseph Richard was badly hurt by a kick under the chin, whilst Baptiste Chenier and Jean Noel had also been kicked, the former appearing to have been cut on the chin with a razor. Napoleon Petell, quite a young lad, with tears rolling down his cheeks, deplored the loss of his little all, amounting to $31.50, which he said had been stolen from his pocket when he left the car to see the row, in which, however he did not engage. The men of both nationalities, it may be said, unanimously ascribed the row to whiskey. They seemed to generally feel sorry and ashamed of what had taken place, and it appeared probable that no further trouble would occur unless the demon whiskey were again introduced amongst them.

The train left again after about three hours' detention, all being then quiet on board. The local police, the Grand Trunk authorities, Sergt. O'Keefe and Mr. Shields are entitled to great credit for their exertions in putting an end to the disgraceful riot. The prisoners will probably be tried on Monday.

WAITING AND WATCHING.

"It was late last night when you retired?"
"Yes, papa," I said with a yawn
Behind my fan; "for the horrid man
He just talked on and on;
The more I hinted, the more he stayed—
I knew you were wakeful, too,
And I told him so but he would not go—
And what could a poor girl do?"

"It was late when you retired!?"
"Yes, papa," I frankly said—
"For the man you see, just talked to me,
Though I yawned till my eyes were red;
And I went so far when the clock struck twelve,
As to count the strokes all through—
But the stupid, he just wouldn't see
And what could a poor girl do?"

"It was worse than late when you retired! !!"
"Why, I tell you, pa," I cried,
"If I hinted once to the tiresome dunce,
'Twas a hundred times beside!
Why, I even said you'd been in bed
For at least five hours, I knew!
But he tipped his chair and still sat there—
And what could a poor girl do?"

"Well, goodness gracious, were you up all night?"
"Why, pa," I humbly plead,
"Don't thump so! there's a man below,
And he sent you his card and said
That the reason why he stayed all night,
Was he wanted to see you too,
That he might ask for the hand I gave—
For what could a poor girl do?"

CURIOUS FACTS ABOUT LOCOMOTIVES.

(From an Exchange.)

"He's been in the dumps because his locomotive has been 'off' for three or four days," said a railroad man at the Union Depot the other day, as he pointed to an engineer who looked as sour as any dyspeptic.

"How off?"

"Go and ask him."

It took a quarter of an hour and a cigar to clear the cloud from the engineer's face, and then in reply to the query he said:

"It is a queer thing. There's my engine, one of the best on the road, in perfect order, only twelve years old, and able to run or pull with the best of them. A month ago I hadn't the least bit of trouble in making time, no matter how the track was or the weight of the train. She was ready at the word, held her steam beautifully, and she seemed to understand every word I said. To-day she is down in the round-house, growling and sputtering and acting if she wanted to pick a fuss with a gravel-pit."

"Anything out of gear?"

"Not a thing. She's been looked over twice, and we can't find the least excuse for her conduct. She'll get over it in a day or two perhaps. If she don't we'll punish her."

"How?"

"Put her before a freight or stock train. I've seen it tried a dozen times, and it most always worked well. Here she is now, bright as a new dollar and as handsome as a picture, and I'll bet $50 that there isn't the least thing out of order. She's simply sulking, the same as a child or a woman, and I know what started it. Three weeks ago, while on my run in with the night express, she just wanted to light right out for all she was worth. She took the bit like a running horse, and if I hadn't choked her off she'd have beaten schedule time by twenty minutes. She acted mad right away, and in running twenty miles she gave me more trouble than I ever had with her in a run of three hundred. She lost steam, tried to foam over, choked her pipes, and when I wanted more steam she'd slide on her drivers. She went right back on me that night, and has been sulking ever since."

"Do all engines do this?"

"Not all, but many of them. Some folks laugh at us and call it superstitious, but they never lived in an engine-cab."

Do Not be Afraid.

Sidney Smith never said a truer thing than that a great deal of talent is lost to the world through want of courage.

Young men should cultivate courage; they should acquire the habit of fearlessness—for, to a certain extent, it is a habit. Dare and do—always taking care to be in the right.

At the worst, you can but fail; while if you abstain from action through fear, there is no possibility of your ever achieving anything.

Fear is a bugbear, not to be harbored in a manly heart.

And now out of the writings and sayings and deeds of those who loudly proclaim the "rights of man" and the "rights of liberty," match me, if you can, with one sentence so sublime, so noble, one that will so stand at the bar of God hereafter, as this simple, glorious sentence of Paul's, in which he asserts the rights of Christian conscience above the claims of Christian liberty.—"Wherefore, if meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no flesh while the world standeth, lest I make my brother to offend."

He who has most wisely used and most richly enjoyed the varied resources of our present existence, drawing out of its material and evanescent elements all the love and all the beauty, all the wealth and power and happiness, which the Spirit enabled him to find in them, as the conditions of a higher blessedness to come,—he has best fulfilled the high purpose of his being; he best deserves the name of Christain; he will most clearly discern as he stands on the silent shore of time, across the dark waters which roll before him, the dim-discovered hills of his future home, and he will be best prepared for entering at once on the full enjoyment of the great inheritance which awaits him there.

Sheridan once declined to take a walk with a troublesome female admirer, on the plea that the weather would not permit, and being caught by the lady as he was sneaking off for a stroll, countered her remark that the weather seemed now to have cleared up, with the bold assevertion, "Yes, madam, enough for one, but not enough for two."

There was a man who had a clock,
His name was Matthew Mears,
He wound it regular every day
For four-and-twenty years.
At last his precious timepiece proved
An eight-day clock to be,
Then a madder man than Mr. Mears
I would not wish to see.

Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION.

THURSDAY, April 1.

His Excellency the Governor General attended to-day in the Senate Chamber and gave formal sanction to the Act for the repeal of the Insolvent Act.

A Bill to repeal the Act amending the Maritime Jurisdiction Act of 1877 was introduced by Mr. Patterson, Essex; also a Bill by Mr. Richey, providing for the sentencing of juvenile offenders to confinement in the Halifax Industrial School; and a Bill by Sir John Macdonald providing for the appointment of a Canadian High Commissioner to the United Kingdom.

Mr. Masson moved the second reading of the Bill to amend the Acts relating to Militia and Defence of the Dominion of Canada. The principal feature of this measure is a clause practically substituting the Governor-in-Council for the magistracy in calling out the militia in cases of civil disturbances, and further providing that each militiaman so called out shall be a special constable without taking any oath of office, and shall be amenable only to the orders of his immediate commanding officer.

Mr. Mills objected to the Bill as unconstitutional, because it provides for the appointment of special constables or peace officers, which was a matter pertaining to the administration of justice and within the province of Local Governments.

Messrs. Blake and Mackenzie objected to the clause of the Bill referred to in the preceding sentences, because it was an attempt to substitute martial for civil law in certain cases, and remove the maintenance of order from the magistracy or municipal authorities to the Governor-in Council.

This led to a long discussion, in which the principal features of the Bill were criticized, after which it was read the second time.

The remainder of the sitting was occupied in considering a Bill by Hon. Mr. Baby consolidating and amending the Acts respecting the Inland Revenue. As several of its clauses dealt with the excise duties on native tobacco, a debate in French relative to the encouragement of tobacco-producing and manufacture was carried on. Ultimately the Bill passed its second reading, and was considered clause by clause in Committee of the Whole, after which progress was reported, and the House adjourned at midnight.

GETTING TO THE REAR.—The following related by an officer of the Stonewall Brigade, may interest some of our soldier friends:

While Jackson's corps was cautiously moving to the flank and rear of the Union army at Chancellorsville, the Confederate cavalry in advance became engaged with the enemy. Soon a wounded and bleeding trooper was seen emerging from the woods in front. After looking around, he moved in the direction from which the infantry were marching as if seeking the rear, or, as the average gray-jacket would say, the r'ar. Soon afterwards rapid firing explained that the blue-jackets had closed in behind Jackson, and it was not long before the poor cavalryman was seen coming back again. When opposite the "Stonewall," another cavalryman from the front also arrived. No. 1 at once recognized him, and said, "Hallo, Bill—wounded?"

"Yes," said No. 2, "but not bad. Let's git to the r'ar."

At which No. 1 exclaimed: "This is the dardenest fight I've bin in yit. It hain't got no r'ar."—EDITOR DRAWER, in Harper's Magazine for April.

A poet is thought to observe everything from a higher sphere, and to transport his spectators to this point of view.

A Cross Baby.

Nothing is so conducive to a man's remaining a bachelor as stopping for one night at the house of a married friend and being kept awake for five or six hours by the crying of a cross baby. All cross and crying babies need only Hop Bitters to make them well and smiling. Young man, remember this.—Ed.

The Windsor Hotel

Is one of the finest hotels on this continent. It is a credit to the liberality of our Montreal friends and an ornament to our city. Its corridors are wide and beautiful. The parlors and dining rooms, with their costly embellishments, and the reception rooms, are "chefs d'œuvre." Its "menus" are unexcelled. It is a luxurious home for Montreal families who prefer to relieve themselves from the care of a household, and a caravansary which cannot be surpassed for visitors. Still, here as elsewhere, man is subject to the laws of health. Sickness will follow where indiscretion leads. An unseemly carouse tells as badly upon the occupant of this house as upon the dweller in a cottage. Men are apt to over-indulge where food is very tempting, and ignore the results. Happily the remedy for such indiscretions may be had in every drug store in the Dominion, in the shape of Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS.

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidity increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately introduced. Boschees German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents. Sample bottle. 10 cents.

MR. M. GILES, ESQ.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition—meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

Epileptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility; Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and effectually.

(PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED SINCE 1870.)

Over 15,000 Persons Successfully Treated since the establishment of our Institute in Detroit from all parts of the United States and Canada, for some of the various diseases of the head, throat and lungs. The only institute of the kind in Detroit, specially devoted to the treatment of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, also diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heartt

Catarrh and Throat Diseases are every year becoming more prevalent and more generally fatal. As prevalent as they are, if left to themselves, their termination is Consumption and death.

A large portion of the deaths from throat and lung diseases are of young people—those who have not reached the meridian of life. Their hold upon life is strong and all the functions of the body active. If they were properly treated the great majority of them would recover. Such is my experience. But I have no faith in their treatment by the stomach. Cod liver oil is good nourishment, but it is not medicine. No medicine given by the stomach exerts a curative influence on the lungs.

We are positive in saying that three-fourths of the vast number who die of Consumption might be saved did they awaken to the true sense of danger when the disease first appeared in the head and throat; the best writers, and the most eminent physicians of the age have expressed similer opinions.

With these facts before us we feel that we would be recreant to our responsibilities were we to remain silent and see our fellow-beings pass away like autumn leaves while there is hope for so many.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by medical inhalations, combined with proper constitutional and hygenic treatment.

If on account of distance, expense of travel or physical debility, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and will be fully answered, and returned remedies can be sent per express (duties free) together with full directions for use. Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION.

FRIDAY, April 2.

In the House of Commons,

Mr. Wallace (Norfolk) introduced a Bill providing for the equitable distribution of the estates of defaulting debtors.

In Supply, several hours were occupied in the consideration of the following items: $40,955 on account of Administration of Justice; $13,000 for Dominion Police; $813,711 for Penitentiaries. On the item of $288,963 under head of Legislation,

Mr. Mackenzie wanted to know if the Speaker had been entirely silenced by the Government in the matter of appointments. The Speaker in a very sensible, apt and moderate way, made all the explanations that were necessary as to the expenditures under his charge. A good deal of grave Parliamentary chaff was passed across the floor regarding the expenditure for salaries of clerks, &c., but this is always the custom on such occasions. An item of $50 on some salary caused a ripple of excitement in the Opposition benches and was debated for a long time. Mr. Blake persisted in nagging at the Speaker and the Government concerning the appointment of extra clerks. He misrepresented, with very little authority, the present Government's policy regarding a change in the service. The Premier explained how the present Government had found a bad system in existence and had improved it. He refuted very properly some singular idea that Mr. Blake had entertained that a promise had been given to clerks from both the political parties This would at once admit the principle of political selection, which Mr. Blake professed to wish to avoid. The Speaker also exposed the nonsense of such a notion as that entertained by Mr. Blake by showing what a position it would place the Speaker in. In the course of the night, Mr. Anglin denied that he had ever misused his power, but at the same time he confessed, if they were properly treated the great majority of them would recover. Such is my experience. But I have no faith in their treatment by the stomach. Cod liver oil is good nourishment, but it is not medicine. No medicine given by the stomach exerts a curative influence on the lungs.

We are positive in saying that three-fourths of the vast number who die of Consumption might be saved did they awaken to the true sense of danger when the disease first appeared in the head and throat; the best writers, and the most eminent physicians of the age have expressed similer opinions.

Caught in its own Trap.

Nothing could exceed the partizanship, the deliberate misrepesentation, and the unscrupulous recklessness of the Globe in dealing with the National Policy. The organ and those which follow its lead will stop at nothing if they only make a point against the Tory Government. But, unfortunately for them, they often do so at the expense of their own consistency. One day the Globe points out that the decline in the quotations of bank stocks has nothing to do with the National Policy, but is simply the result of the operations of speculators, and then, when it suits its purpose to play a different card, so to speak, it raises a wail and declares that the National Policy is ruining the market. One day it truthfully, but possibly inadvertently, tells the truth, says that business is reviving and that the people are hopeful, and soon afterwards, ignoring its previous utterances, proclaims that the country is rapidly going to ruin. In fact, it has become as great an adept at giving the lie to its own recorded words as Sir Richard Cartwright has at doing the same thing, or at condemning acts of the first Government of the Dominion for which he himself voted. The Montreal Gazette exposes the Globe's latest contradiction of itself, and a flagrant case it is; and in order that the matter may be fully understood we publish the Gazette's article in full, as the case is occupying attention at the present time:

"The Globe, in political controversy, is guided by two rules, 'Expediency is better than principle,' and 'Sufficient unto the day are the statements thereof.' This is admirably illustrated in the course of our contemporary in its discussion of the tea duties as framed by the present Government. Writing on March 10th, the Globe said:

'New York and Boston importers have established agencies in Montreal and Toronto for the sale of their teas. We assert positively that two firms of jobbers, mere commission agents, though nominally independent firms, have sold more green and Japan teas, such as do not come via London, in Toronto during the past eight months than all the legitimate Canadian wholesale trade have put together.'

This assertion was repeated on March 20th in these words:

'At the present moment a firm in Toronto tea brokers, Acting for American importers has 4,000 boxes of tea in warehouse at the G. W. Railway station. In six months more the American brokers will have gained the entire wholesale trade of the Dominion. The effect of Sir Leonard Tilley's change in the tea duties has been to hand over to Americans a trade formerly done by Canadians.

"There can be no mistaking the meaning of the statements in the above extracts. It is positively asserted that mere brokers of American firms have been established in Canada for the purpose of evading the ten per cent. differential duty on tea imported from the United States, and that the object has been successfully accomplished. This dogmatic statement, made for the purpose of injuring the Government, has attracted general attention to the subject of these importations, for which a debt of obligation is due the Globe by Canadian importers, and the Minister of Customs at once instructed his officers to examine into the declared evasion of the law, and as a result of their labors, nearly 3,000 boxes of tea were seized by the authorities. This act was certainly quick, the wind out of the Globe's sails. Our contemporary, in its eagerness to make a point against the tariff, had jumped to the conclusion that the discriminating duty against American imports had proved a failure, and found the ground suddenly cut from it, by the prompt action of the Customs Department. Our contemporary was equal to the occasion. No possible act of the Government could be worthy of credit in its eyes, and we have, therefore, a complete change of base, and this assertion coolly made in the Globe of Tuesday:

'On Saturday $90,000 worth of tea, previously passed by the Custom House and consigned to R. Lantalum & Co., was seized by the Custom House authorities. This tea had been shipped by a Japan firm, via New York, to Lambe & Bro., as agents of the firm here.

This accompanied by the necessary consular certificates and invoices showing that it was a "direct importation" within the meaning of the Tariff Act. Two months before its arrival the consignees knew that part of it for future delivery, thus establishing the fact that the tea was a Canadian importation, that it was to be en route, and that it was not a mere purchase in the New York market.'

Let it be remembered that the firm characterized on March 10th and March 20th as 'commission agents,' 'American brokers acting for American importers,' is the same that the Globe now calls agents of a Japan house, making a direct Canadian importation of teas, and the dishonesty of the statements of the Liberal organ are made manifest. Either the assertions of the Globe in its former articles were deliberate misrepresentations, or its latest utterances are untruthfully made in the hope of wreaking importers against the Government. Our contemporary may choose whichever horn of the dilemma it deems wise to select. If the first statements were correct, the Government has in them the fullest possible vindication of the seizure; if, on the other hand, the Messrs. Lambe, as now asserted by the Globe, were direct importers, then the tea duties framed by Sir Leonard Tilley have accomplished their full purpose."

This is a complete expose of the Globe's unblushing trickery; but the organ will pursue the even tenor of its way undisturbed. It will falsify, misrepresent, and contradict itself in the most unblushing manner all the same, utterly regardless of consequences. Such is its present policy, such has been its policy in the past, and we might as well expect the leopard to change its spots as it to change its manner of dealing with political opponents and their policy.—Kingston News.

ARRESTED FOR MURDER.—Another investigation has taken place into the cause of the death of Wm. McMullen, of Scely's Bay, and the result has been the arrest of John McMullen, the son, and Mrs. Daly, daughter of the deceased. After hearing evidence the Magistrate committed them for trial, and the case may come off before the present Kingston assizes.

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical assistance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

A FOUL MURDER.—A despatch from Arthabaskaville Quebec, gives particulars of a most revolting murder. A young woman aged 22 universally respected had occasion to go to a neighbor's, and as she did not return the same day, her friends became alarmed, and search was made. Her body was found in a well fearfully hacked, and giving evidences of a desperate struggle with her assailant. Efforts are being made to discover the murderer.

Compound Extract of Smart-Weed is deservedly popular as a remedy for diarrhœa, dysentery, flux, and kindred diseases; also a pain-killer and remedy for colds. BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, APRIL 5.

The British Elections.

Although up to Saturday only 334 constituencies in the United Kingdom had returned representatives to the House of Commons, which is composed of 652 members, and though but little more than one-half of the House had then been chosen, there can be but little doubt that the Beaconsfield Government has been defeated. The Liberal gains so far aggregate 51 which is much more than sufficient to overcome the Conservative majority in the last House, and hence the advent to power of a Liberal Government is assured. This result will be very much regretted by the people of Canada, as there is very little hope that the Radicals will extend any assistance to Canada in the building of the Pacific Railway, which might have been expected with certainty from Earl Beaconsfield's administration. Apart, however, from this selfish feeling, the great majority of Canadians, who, irrespective of party, coincide with the Conservative policy, namely that Great Britain shall exercise due weight in the councils of Europe, as opposed to the Radical policy of isolation, will regret that the country will necessarily ose the services of the great Earl, who, during his seven years' tenure of office restored the waving prestige of his country and won for himself a leading, if not the foremost position amongst the statesmen of the world.

The victory of the Opposition is not, however, so great as it appears on the surface. Their majority can at best be but small, and their party is made up of so many discordant elements that their Government, when formed, will be forced to conduct itself with moderation. It is principally in the small boroughs that their gains have been made, and as the great constituencies which are in reality the heart of the nation, have sustained Earl Beaconsfield's foreign policy, there will probably be less departure from it than would have been the case had the metropolis pronounced against it. The Times, as will be seen by the following extract from its comments on the subject, thus warns the Liberal leaders as to their future course:—

Notwithstanding the generally adverse character of the returns, it is evident they are far from involving that wholesale condemnation of the Government, for which some Liberal speakers have argued. In this respect the returns offer a conspicuous contrast to those of 1874 or 1868. The Government has received very significant support from several most important constituencies. The vote of the City of London is extremely remarkable. There has been no such overwhelming preponderance of opinion in the city since the time of the Reform bill. Its verdict affords a conclusive proof of the confidence in the policy of the Ministry. A similar conclusion must be drawn at Westminster, and the return of the Conservatives at Sheffield is clear. The Liberals cannot afford to despise their adversaries. If they are wise they will conduct affairs with conspicuous moderation, and so avert a revulsion of opinion. They are now given the vote for which they have so long been struggling, but they are mistaken if they suppose that the present vote involves a reversal of the decisions of the last Parliament, or a change of opinion throughout the country on the questions that have been at issue. They will be strong in the future in proportion as they are respectful to the past.

LAND SOLD IN THE NORTH-WEST.—A return from the Dominion Land Office in 1880 shows that the total number of acres of land sold in Manitoba and the North-west was 247,315, and the number of purchasers 882. 83,490 acres were purchased by 123 persons; five persons purchased more than 960 acres each and one person. There were 7,667 acres sold where the aggregate purchasers amounted to over 960 acres to each purchaser, and upon which a portion of the money remained unpaid, and payable in annual instalments.

—No trace has yet been found of Mr. Kero, lessee of the Royal Opera House, Toronto. It is feared he has met with foul play.

Political Notes.

THE FURNITURE TRADE.

The Essex Review shows by the trade and navigation returns that the imports of cabinet ware from the United States for 1878 were $386,924. In the year ending June 30th, 1879, they were $237,760, a falling off, during the first three months the National Policy was in force, of $149,164. Again, the Bowmanville Furniture Co., who, being good Grits, cannot lie, say they are now doing a large trade with the Maritime Provinces, in the better class of goods, such as were imported from the States previous to last year.

AN INSOLVENCY MUDDLE.

Says the London Free Press: "The answer given by Sir John Macdonald last week to a question from Mr. Mackenzie, leads to the supposition that it is the intention of the Dominion Government to introduce a Bill for the equitable distribution of insolvent estates among the creditors. The Act of the Ontario Legislature, under which creditors whose claims have matured become preferential, is so manifestly unjust that there is much occasion for the Dominion Government to take the matter up. If it be allowed to lapse to the tender mercies of Mr. Mowat, a pretty state of things will result. Creditors will never have a chance of fair play or of a just division of an estate. It Mr. Mowat's scheme were to pass unchallenged there would soon be one law for Ontario, and different laws for the other provinces. It would give rise to disconnected procedure upon a matter in which specific action should exist. Seeing that inter-trade is one of the chief bases of Confederation, care should be taken that unity of procedure should be observed in the matter of insolvent estates. The example set by Mr. Mowat is a very bad one in this particular, that it introduces not only an unjust procedure, but that it initiates a Babel-like policy. A man in Montreal selling goods in London, or London manufacturers shipping goods to other provinces, Manitoba and elsewhere, would find themselves entangled by diverse modes, based upon opposite theories of commercial policy. Such a line of action would break up that business unity which it was one of the objects of Confederation to establish, and which the costly Intercolonial Railway was intended to promote.

VACANT HOUSES.

In order to make it appear that the N.P. had wrought ruin to Hamilton, the Times of that city recently stated that there were at that time 528 vacant houses in the city or 117 more than there were in 1878. This statement was eagerly grasped at by Grit newspapers and orators and trumpeted abroad over the whole Dominion. But the assertion, like many others of the same kind, proves to be made out of whole cloth. The Spectator conclusively disproves it by a comparison of the returns of the assessors for 1879 (which were the last made before the present tariff came into operation) and for 1880. These show that the number of vacant houses in 1879 was 427 and in 1880, only 414 (not 528, as stated by the Times). When it is further stated that 198 houses were erected in the "ambitious city" during the year 1880, it will be seen that there were 211 more houses occupied in Hamilton in 1880 than in 1879. Now as the Grit press have, on the Times' false statement, held the N. P. responsible for the alleged injury to Hamilton's prosperity, to be consistent, now that the facts are known, they ought in fairness to credit the tariff with the prosperity which the manufacturing hub of the Province evidently enjoys. There is, however, little prospect of their doing so, as their cardinal principle is never to show fair-play towards their political opponents.

THE ENGLISH ELECTIONS.

What the Hamilton Grit organ don't know concerning English political affairs would fill a great many volumes. It says: "Ever since the passage of the Reform Bill of 1832, the great strength of the Conservative party has been found to exist in the English boroughs, or cities and towns." Considering that the Conservative party has been called by the Liberals "the country party," and sneered at as being composed chiefly of country squires who represent the English counties, the Times' information would seem to be exactly the reverse of correct, which in verity it is. If our contemporary had paid attention to the history of the times, it would know that the constant endeavor of the Liberal party in England has been to reduce the franchise in the agricultural constituencies, so that the votes of the villagers and cotters, who are supposed to be radical in their sympathies, might be able to swamp those of the land-owners and tenant-farmers.

Our Iron Industries.

The County of Hastings is not the only place in Ontario where iron ore exists in large quantities. Not only on the line of the Kingston and Pembroke Railway, back of Kingston, and on the line of the Midland Railway in rear of Port Hope, has iron ore been discovered in paying quantities; but in the valley of the Ottawa, we have accounts of valuable discoveries and operations for development on an extensive scale being made. Here is an article from the Ottawa Free Press of the 31st inst., which will afford food for reflection:

"Mr. Pew, of New York, has closed with Mr. Philip Thompson for the purchase of the Forsyth and Baldwin iron mines in the County of Ottawa. The consideration is said to be something in the vicinity of a hundred thousand dollars. The mines are very valuable, and it is estimated that eighty million tons of ore can be unearthed before they are exhausted. The purchaser is subject to the contract entered into between Mr. Thompson and Messrs. S. C. & D. Church, of the United States, for 15,000 tons annually for five years, and on which there is a royalty of $1 per ton paid. Mr. Pew intends to put the furnaces already erected at the mines, and having capacity of 100 tons per day, in operation immediately, and should the return be satisfactory, will erect furnaces with a smelting capacity of one hundred thousand tons per annum. A gang of men will be set to work at once to take out twenty thousand tons, which have been sold to a Cleveland firm for $9.25 per ton. This will be shipped from the Gatineau to Kingston in barges, and from thence in schooners. The Baldwin mine contains two hundred and forty-nine acres, and the Forsyth seventy acres. There are also forty houses on the premises.

Did it ever occur to the solid men of Belleville, that the opportunity of this city for becoming a great iron manufacturing depot was theirs—and if they wanted to take advantage of it and reap the benefits, that now was the time to act? Extensive developments are being made in iron in Snowdon in the West, and in Addington and Ottawa in the East, and already we hear of preparations being made to establish smelting works in Port Hope, Kingston, and Ottawa. If either of these places take the lead, build coal smelting furnaces, and establish iron manufactures, good-bye to the prosperity of Belleville. Will our enterprising business men and capitalists not wake up, and take advantage of their opportunity?

Delay a few months or weeks, and the opportunity may be lost forever. The question has been agitated over and over again, and with the details of the whole subject the people are entirely familiar. And we are satisfied the people of Belleville—although already heavily taxed—would be willing to increase their burden if some tangible, genuine scheme for securing the centralization of the iron interests of the country in this city were presented. Will not our City Fathers take some action in the premises?

Bleecker Street Church.

Yesterday morning No. 1 company, 15th Batt., under the charge of Capt. Bleecker, marched out to this Church accompanied by their fine band. The seating capacity of the church was crowded, and some additional seats were brought in to accommodate the people. The sermon was preached by Rev. O. R. Lambly and was a very able one and the whole service was very appropriate.

The Rev. gentleman took as the subject of his remarks the "11th verse of the 6th chapter of Ephesians." "Put on the whole armor of God that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil." He said that in order to understand this exhortation we must look into the circumstance and position of Paul, who was at this time a prisoner and was chained to a Roman Soldier who was ever at his side. He said these words bring before us two thou hts, the armor of the christian and the position to be maintained by the soldiers of the cross. All armor is designed and is used chiefly for defence, and if this fair land of ours, Canada, was invaded we should see the truth of this, but the armor and soldiers are of but little use as when there is no need of defence. The chief desire of Paul was that every Christian soldier would be so fully equipped with the whole armor of God and that after all the trials would stand strong in the strength of God. He spoke of the soldier to whom Paul was chained, of the completeness of his armor to evade the swiftest sword of the foe and said that every Christian man is a Christian soldier and girded with the girdle of truth he is strong to resist the flood of falsehood and all manner of wickedness. His motion must not be but forward, not forward to kill but to save, to save souls. He must take the shield of faith, for without it he would never wear the crown of glory or the palm of victory.

He said with the breastplate of righteousness, the girdle of plain gospel truth, the shield of faith, the helmet of salvation and the sword of the Spirit, we need not fear the issue of the conflict. With these we would be able to overcome the world, self and sin, and the wiles of the devil.

In following up the second thought of the text, he said that on the field of battle all depends on our being able to stand, and so these words "that ye may be able to stand" mean that taking our stand in the battle field of life and maintaining that position. He told an incident of the battle of Waterloo where everything depended on the carrying out of the order "stand firm" to a squadron of soldiers, which they did and died, but death was not defeat. So in the battle of life death does not mean defeat.

In closing his remarks, he said that to-day he would hoist another flag, the star of Bethlehem. Rally around this flag and put on the whole armor of God, that you may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil.

A Different Story.

A few days ago the Opposition press tried to make a great deal of capital out of a statement which evidently had its origin in the fertile brain of the Globe's Ottawa correspondent, namely, that an emigrant train which passed west was carrying 400 Canadians to Dakota and three to Manitaoba. The statement was evidently manufactured out of whole cloth, for the Mail gives this fact concerning it: "We have it on the authority of a gentleman whose business takes him to Manitoba twice a month, that the 400 went to Manitoba and the three to Dakota—quite a different story. Furthermore emigrants from Minnesota, Dakota and other North-Western States, are pouring into our territory, and a large colony from North Carolina, the pioneers of which settled in Manitoba last fall, will go in there this season."

Plans, Specifications, and General Conditions can be seen at this office on and after THURSDAY the 20th day of MAY, next, where forms of tender can also be obtained.

Parties tendering are expected to provide the special tools necessary for, and to have a practical knowledge of, works of this class, and are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same; and, further, an accepted bank cheque for a sum equal to $250, for the gates of each lock, must accompany each tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfilment of the contract the party or parties whose tender it is proposed to accept will be notified that their tender is accepted, subject to a deposit of five per cent. of the whole sum of the contract—of which the sum sent in with the tender will be considered a part—to be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General within eight days after the date of the notice.

Ninety per cent. only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the work.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Secretary.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, APRIL 5

City and Vicinity.

City Council.—The City Council will hold a fortnightly meeting to-night.

Thursday.—Messrs. Geo. Ritchie & Co. will exhibit their Paris and London patterns on Thursday, the 8th April.

Contract Let.—Messrs. Johnston Bros., of this city, have received the contract for the brick work of the new hotel which is to be erected by Mrs. Moon in Madoc village.

Cricket Club. — A meeting of the Cricket Club will be held to-night at Hambly's for the purpose of reorganizing for the season. All lovers of the game are invited to attend.

Daily Mail.—A daily mail will soon be established between Madoc and Queensboro. This, the Review says, is a boon which all parties have been wanting for some time, and one which will give all parties satisfaction.

Railway Projects.—The Peterborough Review of the 2nd says:—"Mr. Bickford and Mr. W. H. Ellis, the railway contractor, were in town yesterday. They have been making an examination on behalf of the Grand Junction Railway Company of the Cobourg Railway Company's bridge across the river here and of the track between Rice Lake and Chemong Lake. Negotiations are proceeding between the two companies, but the report of an arrangement having been made was premature."

Spring.—Under the influence of the genial rains which prevailed at intervals from Friday night until this morning, spring seems to have come in with a bound and a smile. This is evidenced by the opening buds on the shade trees, the upspringing of the green grass, the improved appearance of the fall-sown crops, and the melodious voices of the birds of passage, which have returned to their summer home and are getting ready for their house building. The swallows are here in myriads, blackbirds and robins are plentiful; blue-birds, grey-birds and other small chatterers are numerous, and the beautiful season of spring has fairly commenced.

Vennor Again.—Mr. Vennor writes us on a postal card the following:—"May will be a wet and backward month in Belleville and vicinity, with frosts towards the middle of the month. Wet seasons will continue until 10th of June. After that very fine and dry weather." This is the first time to our knowledge that Vennor has ventured to prognosticate the weather for precise localities, and we are not sure the people of this section of country will thank him very much for the hopeful prospect he gives them for May. But then this prediction may turn out very much as most of his other forecasts, if so our farmers will have no cause to complain.

Fall Wheat.—Reports as to the condition of this important crop—of which a much greater breadth than usual was sown last season in the Bay district—are so conflicting that it is safe to say no positive opinion on the subject can yet be pronounced. An opinion which is entertained by not a few shrewd and experienced farmers is that the crop is really in a much better state than it appears to be, and that timely rains will yet put it in a satisfactory condition. It is certainly to be hoped that this hopeful view of the matter is correct, as the crop is this year a most important one to many.

Personal.—Mr. Sanford Baker, is in the city.

Irish Relief.—The Mayor has called a meeting of the Irish Relief Committee, to be held at the Police Court to-morrow night at 8 o'clock. Let there be a full attendance, as it is full time that the matter was brought to a conclusion.

Early Closing.—The early closing movement of the barbers has come to an end through some of the parties having broken through the contract, so that the barber shops in future will not be closed before nine o'clock.

Promotion.—We learn that Mr. S. J. Bull, ledger keeper of the Bank of Commerce in this city, has been promoted to the important position of teller in the Ottawa branch of this Bank. While his many friends will regret his removal, they cannot but congratulate him on his well deserved promotion.

Personal.—We regret to announce the death of Mr. Joseph Wilson of this city, who had been for many years a resident of Belleville and was a pioneer in the journalistic business in Belleville and in Picton, in both of which places he established journals both of a political (Reform) and a literary character, his ventures in that line here being the Plaindealer and the Victoria Magazine. Mr. Wilson carried on business here as a trunk maker, and was generally respected. He expired last night after having suffered from a very painful illness for several weeks.

Police Court.

Monday, April 5,

THE STATION ROW.

Thomas Quinn, Michael Reed, William Burns and James Chevalier were charged with engaging in the row at the station. No one appeared to prosecute. Quinn said he had not been fighting, but was arrested when fooling with his comrades, and Reed told a similar story. The chief said these men had been pointed out to him as having been active participants in the row. Burns and Chevalier were also innocent, according to their own account, but the Chief said the latter was riotous when he arrested him.

Thomas Collins, another of the party, arrested for being drunk, said the Chief kept him until after the train left.

The prisoners were remanded until 3 o'clock in order to see what the intentions of the Grand Trunk authorities are—whether they intend to prosecute, after having ordered the men to be arrested.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.

Joseph Lapointe, charged as above, was allowed to go, this being his first offence.

WIFE BEATING.

William Connors was up again on the old charge of beating his wife. Prisoner was sent gaol for a month.

LUNACY.

James McGinnis, whose exploits are narrated elsewhere, was committed to gaol as a dangerous lunatic.

3 p. m.

The prisoners held for the riot at the railway station were liberated and took their way up street with the intention of departing on this evening's express for the west.

THE NAVVIES' RIOT.

Further Particulars.

The following particulars subsequent to the departure of the special train which conveyed the men who engaged in Saturday's riot here, will doubtless be read with interest by many of our readers:

At 12.40 p. m. on Saturday the train proceeded westward and when it reached the Canifton crossing a number jumped off Many of them—provided with bottles of whiskey—went to the depot, where they made themselves generally disagreeable to all with whom they came in contact by their disgusting acts, manner of speech and general unseemly conduct.

Officer Hayes was on duty in that vicinity, but notwithstanding that, the rowdyish character of the navvies, when under the influence of liquor, manifested itself in various disgusting ways, and in many unmentionable offensive manners.

One Thomas Collins made himself particularly obnoxious and the result was that Hayes had to take him under his protecting arm for the purpose of escorting him to the police station. The navvy objected to such a course of procedure and the exerting influence of the "comealongs" had to be brought into requisition to induce him to visit the City Hall precincts, to which he was escorted in a street car. He made the fifth of the party who were under arrest and seven of the same gang visited the police station and were registered under the head of protection. Several of the others were sent west on the Saturday evening's train.

The conviviality of the party under arrest in the cells manifested itself in singing, filthy talk and general ribaldry until sobriety began to exert its presence, and then followed loud and frequent demands for water, with which their thirst was assuaged. A general noise was kept up until sleep claimed them for its own.

One of the party, named John Ryan, who had been hit on the head with a bottle—which act he states had been done without intent at Brockville whilst he was looking out of a window of the car in which he was seated—suffered greatly from the effects of the injury inflicted on him and Dr. Curlett, the city physician, had to be sent for. On the latter's appearance shortly before nine o'clock, Ryan was brought from his cell into the front hall and placed in a chair. Whilst his head was being washed, the blood flowed in a stream from a cut which had been made in an artery over the right temporal bone, and during the process of binding the wound the unfortunate man gave vehement expressions of pain of a character more forcible than polite. Soon after, however, he with the others was oblivious to all surrounding things, and the night passed without any other intonations of life in the cells than the "balmy snore."

Three of the party who had remained here left for the west yesterday on a "go as you please" over the ties, whilst those who were more sober than they went by the express train on Saturday evening to join their comrades.

Ryan's injuries were considered so serious that he was to-day sent to his home in Montreal.

—An organized attempt was made to burn down several of the city churches in Ottawa. One of the Presbyterian churches was damaged to the extent of about $3,000.

Building Operations.—Matters in this line are as yet rather dull in town, but there is a prospect of a fair amount of business being done during the season. Mr. H. E. Holden is building four new detached dwellings of brick on Church Street, a small brick house has been built on Railway Station Street, a double frame house on Pinnacle Street is being plastered outside and renovated inside, and some dwellings are about to be commenced on Murney's hill. Besides this, there will be Mr. Lee's new flour mill, and several other building projects which are as yet in embryo.

Ontario Commercial College

Great improvements are being made in that part of the McAnnany Block occupied by the Ontario Commercial College. The main stairs leading to the college are being remodeled, and the college rooms are being enlarged and made more convenient and elegant.

The Institution has always possessed very attractive premises, but when the new arrangements are completed it will have the finest suite of rooms for Commercial College purposes that can be devised.

In noting these improvements we are pleased also to note the present prosperity of the College.

The attendance during last winter was larger than for the past four years, and the number of students entering now is larger than usual at this season.

Among the latest to enter are one young man from Bermuda, West Indies, one from Omaha, Nebraska, and one from Albert College. Three are coming this month from Halifax, Nova Scotia, one from Pennsylvania and one from Michigan.

An institution whose fame attracts so many young men from distances so great reflects credit on our city, and it has been a pleasure to us as journalists to record from time to time for the past twelve years its great and ever continued success.

There has just been printed at the Intelligencer job office the latest circular of the College, in which appear the names of about 50 recent graduates and the positions held by them to-day in banks and business houses.

It is a record to be proud of, and one that proves the practical nature of the teaching imparted, which enables young men to step out of the College into good positions.

Ontario Commercial College is not a mere "commercial department" of a college or academy, but is a purely commercial institution conducted by practical accountants.

The principals are known to the business community of the Dominion as accountants in the front rank of the profession, and their works on book-keeping—the "Canadian Accountant" and Johnson's Joint Stock Co. Book-Keeping—are the standard works on the subject.

We strongly advise all young men to take a course at this Institution.

Marine Notes.

The Kingston Whig says:—The announcement that the 'Hastings' would only run to Picton is premature. The intention is to run to Belleville as before, unless it is found that the Prince Edward Railway prevents her running there daily, in which case she will make as many trips per week to Belleville as business demands.

The prop. "Kincardine" will run this season on the old route, between Belleville and Oswego.

The schooner Mary Foster, ice laden, will take a deck load of hop-poles.

The schooner British Queen, also ice laden, is leaking quite badly.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

New York, April 5.—Arrived, the Viking, from Antwerp.

London, April 5th.—The Times says: It is manifest that the Opposition has now secured a clear working majority, even if the Home Rulers are entirely left out of the account.

The Queen, it is reported, will return between the 16th and 22nd April.

The Colonial Secretary left on Saturday for Baden Baden, to act as minister in attendance on the Queen. From this visit it is inferred by some that he will communicate the Cabinet decision to resign immediately.

Constantinople, April 5.—The Sultan has approved of the Cabinet's proposal to accept the arrangement proffered by Montenegro, whereby Gusinje and Plava are to remain in possession of Turkey, Montenegro receiving compensation in territory to the north east of lake Scutari. An important step has thus been taken towards solving a question which threatened to disturb the peace of Europe.

New York, April 5.—Arrived, the Graf Bismarck from Bremen.

Sofia, April 5.—The Bulgarian ministry has resigned. Zancoff will probably form the new Cabinet.

Manchester, April 5.—The Guardian's correspondent at Constantinople hears that Batoum, which, according to Russian declarations at Berlin, was to be a free port, is rapidly being converted into a Russian stronghold.

London, April 5.—The Times says the name of Lord Northbrook, formerly Governor-General of India, suggests itself as being Lord Lytton's successor as Viceroy of India. Lord Lytton has been so identified with the present Government that his prolonged tenure of office is as little possible as desirable. Lord Northbrook does not wish to return to his old post. Regarding the instructions which the new Viceroy will take out with him, peace will be made with the least possible disturbance of our normal relations with Afghanistan.

If, as is likely, there must be some annexation of territory, what is done will be with the sole view to the safety of India. We shall hear no more of the projected cession of Herat to Persia, and of the entangling alliance which must have attended it.

Boston, April 5.—Rear Admiral Henry K. Thacher, retired, is dead.

London, April 5.—The Bucharest correspondent of the Times says it is several weeks since the American Minister at Vienna sent a detailed commercial treaty between the United States and Roumania here, for signature. As the Roumanians have all the Oriental affection for negotiation, they were utterly unprepared to sign the document which had never been duly haggled over.

Their newly fledged national dignity was ruffled by the idea that the Americans proposed to accomplish in a brief correspondence what England's representative had not been able to do in a year.

WEATHER REPORTS.

Toronto, April, 5.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the lower lakes, fresh to brisk westerly to northerly winds, partly cloudy, slightly cooler weather.

Washington, April. 5.—Indications: for lower lakes, rain areas, followed by colder, clear or partly cloudy weather.

THE AFGHAN SITUATION.

Mahommed Jan and two other Chiefs Killed.

Cabul, April 4.—Mahommed Jan attacked 250 Hazaras near Ghuznee. The Hazaras, having killed Mahommed Jan and two other chiefs, were cut up. Hard fighting followed with other Hazaras, ending in a total defeat of the Afghans.

A Dangerous Lunatic.

He Seizes a Doctor's Team, and is Himself Captured.

He Assaults a Fellow-Prisoner in the Cells.

Yesterday morning James McGinnis, a lunatic living in the 6th concession of Tyendinaga, and who has been under the careful supervision of his friends, succeeded, with the cunning peculiar to those mentally afflicted, in escaping from the control of his keepers, and mounting a horse rode off at a furious rate. After going a considerable distance the horse fell from exhaustion on the 4th concession road. Very shortly after this event Dr. McLaren, of Shannonville, who had been called to visit a patient in the 4th concession approached with his team of ponies. He stopped, seeing that McGinnis was in distress, and the lunatic, seizing the animals' heads, turned them so short that the buggy was upset, throwing Dr. McLaren out. McGinnis at once righted the vehicle, sprang on board, and lashing the ponies set off at their best speed. He had driven but a short distance, however, when the reach of the buggy broke, and the lunatic then unharnessed one of the animals, and mounting on its back set off again, but was caught at Richard Howell's by some of his relatives, who had pursued him on horseback. He was brought to Belleville, and lodged in the cells.

His demeanor here up to about 6 o'clock this morning was quiet. He was placed in a cell with William, alias "Spot" Connors, and at the time named Constable Hayes, who was on duty, was aroused by cries from Connors of "Murder!" "Help!" "He's murdering me!" The officer at once entered the cell, and found Connors struggling in the grasp of the madman, who is a very powerful fellow, and who in accession of fury, had seized his fellow prisoner and was evidently determined to do him serious harm. After much difficulty Hayes, with the aid of his baton, succeeded in making the furious lunatic release his grasp, but he followed Connors into the corridor and again attacked him. Hayes again succeeded in making the madman release his desperate clutch, and locked him up in the cell by himself. Altogether the scene was a most exciting and dangerous one, Connor's clothing being seriously torn by his frantic assailant.

The British Elections.

Several more elections took place on Saturday which still further increased the Liberal majority. The returns of all the elections held up to Saturday night give 235 Liberals elected as against 137 Conservatives and 16 Home Rulers.

It is rumored that the Queen will send for the Marquis of Hartington, but in the best informed quarters it is expected that Lord Granville will suceed Beaconsfield. Gladstone and Granville are perfectly agreed, and Hartington will lead the Commons.

Daily Intelligencer.

Oh, dear, no, sir. We live on the estate. My daughter teaches the Squire's school You are our new Squire's son, sir, I believe.

'Ha, how know you that?'

'We guessed it by the name on your travelling bag, which is here, sir. After the doctor sees you again, he is going up to the Hall to inform your friends. He would not do it before, hoping to take them better news. Now, sir, I hope you have heard all you wish to knew. The doctor said you must be kept very quiet.'

'Yes, thank you. I am satisfied now. You are very, very kind to me.'

'Don't mention that, sir. We are only sorry for your own sake that you have got such a blow. We will gladly do everything we possibly can for your comfort.'

Charles smiled gratefully, then in a few moments his face contracted.

'Oh, that light,' he whispered. 'Would you close the shutters?'

'The shutters are close, sir, and the room is very dark.'

'Is it so? Then I understand—my—my—head.'

He turned deadly pale, for he had swooned, and the next thing he was conscious of was a delicious coolness on his face, and a reviving fragrance from a handkerchief steeped in eau de cologne passed over his features with the gentlest of touches. A woman's hand alone could pass so lightly and daintily, and so soothing was the effect that the sufferer speedily fell asleep.

He was in this condition when the doctor called, and the latter, after looking at him, feeling his pulse, and receiving an account of the nurses, smiled with satisfaction, and reported, to the immense relief of his hearers, that the patient showed favorable symptoms.

'He can't be removed for some time, though,' he observed. 'It would be death to convey him even the short distance between this and the Hall, and I may tell you at once that it will be weeks ere he is able to quit your cottage. The most incessant and careful nursing will also be needed, but doubtless his parents will see to that, only.——

'Doctor,' cried Mr. Woodford, earnestly, 'don't think for a moment that we will grudge the young gentleman lying here till he is better, and use your influence with the Squire and his lady to make them consent to let me nurse him. I will watch him night and day, doctor, and follow your directions to the letter. You can trust me, can't you?'

'There's nobody I could trust more, returned the doctor. 'And depend upon it I shall strongly advise Mr. and Mrs. Ravensworth to allow you to go on as you have begun. I must away to the Hall at once, lest the news reach them in a worse way. The story of the mail robbery is already flying over the district, and it is known that the young man who was wounded is the son of the new Squire. No doubt they will have him dying or dead before the tale travels far.'

Saying which, with a short nod the doctor quitted the room, and leaving the cottage walked along the road for a short way in the direction of the village, till he reached the massive entrance gates of Singleton Hall, through which he went, and passing the lodge, went at a rapid pace up the long avenue.

For many hours Charles slept profoundly and peacefully, and awoke stronger and more collected. No sooner had he began to move than he felt a hand affectionately pat his breast, and a voice he knew whispered to him—

'My poor boy, this is a dreadful thing that has happened you.'

It was Mrs. Ravensworth, and her husband was on the other side of the bed. He did not speak, but he put his hand into that of the youth, and lovingly pressed it.

Then Charles knew that he too, was there and their presence made him happy.

Few words were spoken, for the doctor was in the room likewise, and he had charged them beforehand not to converse much with the patient. At that juncture the greatest quietness, he said, was essential to the youth's critical condition, and he easily prevailed on them to grant the earnest request of the kind Woodford to be allowed to nurse him. Their hearts strongly prompted them to take that office on themselves, for they thought no one could minister to him as they would, but the doctor spoke with such emphatic praise of the little man's unsurpassed ability as a nurse, and Charles himself so warmly echoed the commendation, that they were fully assured their loved one could not be left in bettter hands.

And so it was arranged. And a beautiful sight it was to see that warm-hearted fellow limping noiselessly about the room, ever watching the blindfolded face on the bed, and assiduously attending to his patient's every want—ever cheerful, ever faithful to his trust, always intently watchful as a mother over her sick child, and doing it all so ungrudgingly, seeking almost no rest for himself and looking always, with his bright cheering face, as if his beneficent ministrations afforded him sincere personal pleasure. It was work done out of that true and warm hearted heart of his—work for which he sought no human praise nor supposed that he deserved it.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

MR. M. GILES, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, 77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition—meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

A Cross Baby.

Nothing is so conducive to a man's remaining a bachelor as stopping for one night at the house of a married friend and being kept awake for five or six hours by the crying of a cross baby. AUGUST FLOWER.

The immense sale and great popularity of Green's August Flower in all towns and villages in the civilized world has caused many imitators to adopt similar names, expecting (a real) a harvest for themselves at the expense of the afflicted. This medicine was introduced in 1868, and for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, with their effects, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Stomach, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart, vertigo, etc, etc., it never has failed to our knowledge. Three doses will relieve any case of dyspepsia. Two million bottles sold last year. Price 75 cents. Samples 10 cents.

The Windsor Hotel

is one of the finest hotels on this continent. It is a credit to the liberality of our Montreal friends and an ornament to our city. Its corridors are wide and beautiful. The parlors and dining rooms, with their costly embellishments, and the reception rooms, are "chefs d'oeuvre." Its "menus" are unexcelled. It is a luxurious home for Montreal families who prefer to relieve themselves from the care of a household, and a caravansary which cannot be surpassed for visitors. Still, here as elsewhere, man is subject to the laws of health. Sickness will follow where indiscretion leads. An unseemly carouse tells as badly upon the occupant of this house as upon the dweller in a cottage. Men are apt to over-indulge where food is very tempting, and ignore the results. Happily the remedy for such indiscretions may be had in every drug store in the Dominion, in the shape of Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS.

ST. PAUL, MINN., JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
DEAR SIR.—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to say with assurance of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible; I am, sir, yours very respectfully,
D. WALKER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars, and as the case sounded to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this after any description.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PROPRIETOR.

(PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED SINCE 1870.)

Over 15,000 Persons Successfully Treated since the establishment of our Institute in Detroit from all parts of the United States and Canada, for some of the various diseases of the head, throat and lungs. The only institute of the kind in Michigan specially devoted to the treatment of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, also diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heart.

Catarrh and Throat Diseases are every year becoming more prevalent and more generally fatal. As prevalent as they are, if left to themselves, their termination is Consumption and death.

A large portion of the deaths from throat and lung diseases are of young people—those who have not reached the meridian of life. Their bold spelling is the utter ruin of all the functions of the body active. If they were properly treated the great majority of them would recover. Such is my experience. But I have no faith in their treatment by the stomach. Cod liver oil is good nourishment, but it is not medicine. No medicine given by the stomach exerts a curative influence on the lungs.

We are positive in saying that three-fourths of the vast number who die of Consumption might be saved did they awaken to the true source of danger when the symptoms first appeared in the head and throat; the best writers, and the ablest physicians of the age have expressed similar opinions.

With these facts before us we feel that we would be recreant to our responsibilities were we to remain silent and see our fellow-beings pass away like autumn leaves while there is hope for so many.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by medical inhalations, combined with proper constitutional and hygeic treatment.

If on account of distance, expense of travel or physical debility patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and when fully answered and returned remedies can be sent per express (duties free) together with full directions for use. A TRIP TO EUROPE AND AFRICA.

ALGIERS, Africa, 13th March, 1880.

MR. EDITOR,—As you expressed a wish to receive an occasional letter from me, from Europe and Africa, for publication in your valuable paper, I now proceed to give you a very brief account of my travels up to the present date. Notwithstanding my love for Canada, the approach of winter created in me a swallow like propensity to migrate to some warmer clime. Official obligations, however, detained me till the 14th of January last, when I left Trenton for my winter trip. Although New York was duly reached on the 16th and I went aboard the steamer the following morning, I was detained in the harbor till Monday, the 19th of January, on which day at noon our steam-ship—the Britannic of the White Star Line—one of the best steamships on the Atlantic—left Sandy Hook for Liverpool with 106 cabin and 31 steerage passengers. The storms which had prevailed upon the ocean with unusual severity for some months, were now succeeded by summer-like weather and we reached Liverpool early on Wednesday, the 28th of January, having had on the voyage a most agreeable passage, without a storm at sea, or other incident to disturb the ordinary rounds of amusements indulged in by those who go down to the sea in ships.

After lunch at the Adelphi Hotel and a few hours' rest, my wife and I drove about the city of Liverpool, visiting the different places of interest, and we were agreeably surprised by the bright sunshine and the countless numbers we saw skating in the city parks enjoying the Canadian winter-like day.

On the evening of the 28th of January last Mr. Whitley, the Conservative candidate for the City of Liverpool, was entertained by his political friends at a banquet at the Adelphi Hotel, and as Lord Ramsay was to speak that date, was then stopping there, he received and accepted an invitation to attend the same. I learned from the gentleman next to me, at supper, the speeches, &c., passed off quite pleasantly. The rule in England is for each political candidate to treat his opponent with marked politeness and respect. Canadian politicians would do well to copy this example.

There was a mass meeting of about 15,000 of the electors in front of the hotel in the morning of the 29th to extend the time for purpose of hearing a political speech from Mr. Gladstone, who was to address them from the balcony. They were doomed to be disappointed however, for Mr. Gladstone had become too feeble from ill health and family bereavement (his sister having been buried the day before) to fulfil his agreement.

Mr. Gladstone, one of the leading veteran politicians on the Liberal side, merely appeared on the balcony, bowed to the electors and retired. He is now apparently an old and very feeble man, but notwithstanding this he will contest Midlothian against the Earl of Dalkeith at the next general election.

Lord Ramsay made a short speech and Lady Ramsay appeared on the balcony and bowed to the electors, who, with the characteristic gallantry of English men, cheered lustily.

I have learned since that Lord Ramsay was defeated by over 2,000. The Liverpool voters are about 50,000.

Leaving Liverpool for London, at noon on the 29th of January, a bright cold day, in a drawing-room car on the Midland Railway, thus having a fair opportunity of viewing the country through which we passed, I was much impressed with the beauty of English rural scenery, the high state of cultivation of the fields, which quite surpassed anything I have hitherto seen. The trim hedgerows, the great variety of mansions, cottages and parks, which dotted the landscape.

One naturally concludes that the scenery cannot be excelled, in the summer time, but it must be borne in mind that there are very few fine days in which to admire it.

As we approached London the fog settled down and quite obscured our view of the country, and when St. Pancras depot was reached objects three yards away were not visible. The dense and almost impenetrable fog which prevailed during our stay in London precluded the possibility of visiting but few of the various places of interest, or doing that duty justice. I regret that London should visit London during the prevalence of a fog, no matter how zealous an artist he might be, he would doubtless abandon the work prescribed for him by the prophetic historian and perhaps invest in a photograph or steel engraving of St. Paul's.

We attended a solemn and impressive afternoon service on the first day of February, ult., at Westminster Abbey, and heard an able sermon by Sir F. Gore Onseley from 7th chapter and 7th verse of St. Mark. The part of the Abbey occupied by the worshippers was crowded to excess, and although lighted by gas was rendered gloomy by fog. In this narrative of my travels I will not attempt a description of Westminster Abbey—the temple where England honors her illustrious dead.

Leaving London on the South Eastern Railway for Paris, via Folkstone and Boulogne, we duly reached our destination about 7 p.m. Here also the fog prevailed to such an extent as to render our visit to Paris very short and quite unsatisfactory. As I have visited Paris for the first time under most unfavorable circumstances, I will therefore refrain from expressing an opinion about it, more particularly as I understand it is the Paradise to which good Americans hope ultimately to go.

Having left Paris by the 8.30 a.m. train on the Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean Railway, on the 4th of February we reached Marseilles at midnight, having had, after passing the fount of Fontainebleau (to which the fog obscured the scenery) a delightful ride in the section of the country through which we passed, and although the hour frost in some places covered the fields, vines and shrubs, and the olive was like our Canadian November weather, the peasants were everywhere at work in the vineyards and gardens.

Marseilles is the oldest place in France, was founded 600 B. C., by the Greeks and is now its third city; population 310,000. Having remained there sufficiently long to have seen the chief objects and places worthy of notice, viz.—the harbor, Prado, Museum, Cathedral, Hotel de Ville, and Triumphal Arch, &c., and having had a view from the Vista hills of the picturesque position of the city, we left there at 5.30 p. m. on Saturday, the 7th ult., for Algeria per steamship Peluse. The sun was setting as we left the harbor and after dinner the deck became crowded with passengers. The night was fine and there was a warm summer-like air, the moon and stars shone brilliantly and the Mediterranean was nearly quite calm.

The sky, the sea, the warm pleasant atmosphere were so enjoyable that it was late indeed before the hum of voices ceased and the passengers sought their staterooms. On Sunday, 8th ult., I found the day very fine and the sea still calm, the steamer running about thirteen knots an hour. In the afternoon we passed between the isles Minorca and Majorca and quite near them, the former on the left hand—the latter on the right.

Keeping steadily on our course with very little head wind or stormy sea, we reached the harbor of Algiers about 5 a. m. on Monday the 9th ult.

As the anchor was dropped and the Deluse steamer emerged from the lower regions and reached the deck, where all was uproar, tumult and confusion. As I had heard the approach to Algiers ranked in beauty with the Bay of Naples, I closed my ears against the buzzing babel of many voices and had my first view of the African coast and of the harbor and City of Algiers. The view from the sea is at all times beautiful and was particularly so at the hour I first saw it. The city brilliantly lighted with gas and situated as it is (rising from the sea) on the Sahel range presented the appearance of a vast amphitheatre. The numerous stars which shone in lustrous splendor adding an additional charm to this oriental picture.

The scene which ensued on the steamer's deck was of bewildering tumult. The jargon of Arabic, French, and various European tongues and the many conflicting sounds soon dispelled my reverie.

Half nude Arab porters rushed on deck from small boats, in which we were to land, with their turbans and white burnouses presenting a truly picturesque appearance, but the muscular way those children of the Desert handled trunks and baggage would soon convince the most sceptic that they are not only flesh and blood, but in fact "on their muscle." After waiting for the crowd which pressed eagerly forward to descend the steep ladder by the vessel side, we followed and made our way in the darkness with much difficulty into a small boat and soon after gained the shore and were instantly encircled by a battalion of Arabs, two of whom I selected to convey our baggage to Hotel de Orient, where I had secured a room by telegraph from Marseilles and where in due course we safely arrived. Algiers, the capital of the Province of Algeria has a population of about 53,000 consisting of Arabs, Jews, French and every variety of the European race. The ancient name of the city is Icosium.

No one unfamiliar with the features of oriental life can fail to be deeply impressed by a first visit to Algiers. The striking contrasts, the various costumes and races,—the jostling of widely differing forms of life and manners, present altogether a most forcible picture. Here stalks along the Bedouin Arab, his thin dress consisting of but a white cloth, bound round the crown by a fillet of twisted cords and his tall figure picturesquely draped in the folds of a large burnuous.

There is a Jew, you may know him from his face, which exhibits the Arab characteristic features borne everywhere by his race, a fez, around which a black silk handkerchief is twisted to turban fashion covers his head. His dark jacket is encircled at the waist by a silk sash, grey baggy trousers reaching below the knee, blue stockings, highheeled shoes, and steel buckles complete his dress. Here again is a Jewess with muslin handkerchief about her chin, with rich robes, gold band about her neck and stockingless feet, which are covered by low heeled shoes. There is a Moor with a somewhat handsome face, dressed in white turban, jacket, crimson sash, lavender trousers and white stockings.

Moorish women with winding sheet-like scarfs, negresses with anklets encircled with bracelets, swarthy Spaniards, half clad Arabs, epaulleted French officers and Zouaves compose the motley street crowd.

Another striking feature of a street scene is the droves of heavily laden camels and donkeys with their Arab drivers which may be seen at all times on the streets and roads in and about Algiers. The Arab sanatory commission here, consists of a tame lioness and three very religious Arabs, who, one on either side of her and one holding her tail visit at certain intervals the Marabouts' tombs (tombs of Mohammed saints) in the vicinity and then the houses of the faithful, who may be sick, whereupon—presto—health is forthwith restored.

There are seven Mohammedan religious fraternities existing here at present. The most barbaric of which is the Aissaona—the Dignis or Demon worshipers. Mohammedans usually worship Allah, but the Aissaona worship the Devil and Assyri, giving as a reason for their peculiar views, that a beneficent Creator demands or requires no prayers and only evil spirits should be appeased. I have witnessed two of those religious fetes—one in a flagged court of a Moorish house in the Rue Kleber—the other on the sea shore near Saint Eugene, outside of the city. I will merely give a short description of the former. The Aissaona, a sect which I believe are a kind of diabolical offshoot from the Mohammedan faith, commenced their fete in the presence of several hundred people, by an overture on quaint oriental instruments followed by a demoniacal chorus, which became quite frantic and continued till some of the worshipers dropped on the floor. The Mokaddon or Priest then sacrificed 12 fowls, 4 goats, 2 sheep and 1 bull in a butcher like manner. When the floor was cleared of the victims and blood with which it was smeared, another mad dance followed, and then one of the performers with an iron spike forced his eyeball beyond the socket—another rubbed burning embers from a brazier between his naked feet, a third pressed a red hot poker several times against his forehead—a fourth stood barefooted on the edge of a sabre—a fifth filled his lips with needles, and a sixth ate live scorpions. All these revolting scenes were performed amid the burning of incense and the savage roars of the worshippers, mingled with shrill cries of delight from the female occupants of the pit, second, third, and fourth galleries of the quadrangular court. As I became quite disgusted with the revolting horrors, the fumes of incense, &c., I left, satisfied that to the lovers of horrors Algiers could furnish an ample feast. To the western traveller Algiers is full of surprises. Let it suffice to say that the most unsavory odors unpleasantly prevalent, the zealous tourist will be amply repaid by visiting the Kasba or Citadel (situated on the highest portion of the city, and which was formerly the Palace of the Deys,) the Fort de l'Empereur, the Palace of the Governor General, the Mosques, Synagogues, Museums, Schools, Bazaars, and Courts, particularly the Arab Court in part of the Palace of the Dey, founded over by the Cadi, seated on a low divan clothed in large white turban and bright red scarf, jacket &c., assisted by three Adels, clothed in silk pelisses and gigantic turbans.

Opposite the Cadi's Court is the Court of Appeal presided over by the Mufti. The Arab porter will admit no one unless he be a litigant. I therefore cannot tell what causes were set down on the peremptory list on the day of my visit.

I have now been here nearly five weeks, and have fully explored the city and vicinity, and I must say that the magnificent view of the bright blue Mediterranean—the Metidga plain, and the snow-capped peaks of the Atlas mountains, from the palaces of the villa where I now reside (half way up the Sahel range)—surpasses any view I have ever yet beheld, and I am sure it has few rivals. Trees, plants, flowers and fruits are nearly the same in this country as in Florida.

I cannot recommend the climate of Algeria to invalids. The weather is often rainy and cold. There were 39 rainy days in 5 months, and the temperature has varied from 70 to 50 Fahrenheit during my visit. The winter here, therefore, cannot be called tropical, but still the climate is certainly much better than on the European shores of the Mediterranean, but as a health resort it is not at all comparable to Florida.

To be continued in my next.

Yours truly,
C. FRANCIS.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, APRIL 6.

That "Small Affair."

With a pertinacity which resembles that of the scold who is determined to have the last word, the local Grit paper keeps up its attempted defence of the dismissal of the late License Inspector for West Hastings. That this course of conduct is highly embarrassing to the party to which it professes adhesion there can be no doubt, for the subject is a sore one, and will cost the Ontario Government dearly in a political way when the opportunity offers. The wound which it has inflicted on the party in West Hastings, like that which Mercutio received from Tybalt, may not be as deep as a well or as wide as a church door, but it will suffice to cripple the party most effectually, so far as this division is concerned.

In its latest flounderings on the subject, the apologist of this unwarrantable act is rather more prudent than previously in that it makes no further damaging admission as to the Government's having been forced to remove Mr. Ross in order to make room for one of Mr. Mowat's friends—in other words, for an active political agent instead of a man who confined himself to the duties of his office. However, it professes to compliment itself, though with a very pitiful aspect, on a supposed advantage in the discussion which has taken place on the subjet. Let us see what this self-gratulation amounts to :

We asserted that Mr. Ross had been dismissed without cause, to which it was replied that there had been no dismissal, as his year had expired. Thereupon we showed that Mr. Ross had been reappointed at the commencement of the year (when the appointments had been made previously) by a circular from the Provincial Secretary dated December 30th, 1870, instructing him to continue in the discharge of his duties "during pleasure," which means during good behavior.

We stated that the dismissal of Mr. Ross was the act of a petty clique and had been severely condemned by a number of leading members of the Reform party, upon which their would-be organ met this statement with the confident assertion that there was no disagreement of the kind in regard to the matter. This denial we showed to have been penned in ignorance of the fact that a petition to the Government had been drawn up by a leading Reformer, setting forth that the dismissal of Mr. Ross and the appointment of Mr. Grainger were acts which had been done without any intimation to the local Reform Association and certain prominent members of the party, and asking the reinstatement of Mr. Ross. This petition was not forwarded, but a joint letter, signed by a number of influential members of the party remonstrating with the Government on the subject, was sent. The apologist of Messrs. Frazer and Mowat may learn how closely it has enjoyed the confidence of the leading members of its party in this connection by applying to Mr. J. J. B. Flint, President of the Reform Association, or to Messrs. Thos. Holden, John Lewis, Dr. Hope, S. B. Burdett, and others whose position in the party cannot be disputed.

Thus it can be seen how far and to what extent our contemporary has cause to exult in the discussion into which it has rashly entered without knowledge of the most important facts in regard to it.

It expresses surprise at our statements that certain members of its party who gave letters to the present License Inspector recommending him for a Government situation, should have signed the joint letter protesting against the dismissal of Mr. Ross It says:

"There's logic for you. They must have been luminaries, indeed, who would give the present License Inspector letters of recommendation, and then sign that 'joint letter' protesting against his appointment."

Now although we know that Grit politicians do frequently perform actions remarkable for their inconsistency, yet that charge does not lie at the door of the gentlemen concerned in this instance, despite the manner in which the journal which supports their party attacks them. The recommendations were, we have good reason to believe, given with the object of securing to Mr. Grainger any vacant office, and not for the purpose of procuring the dismissal of another person in office to make room for him. The best proof that the writers of those letters could give of their disapproval of the manner in which their recommendations were used was the signing of the joint letter, and if our contemporary were not so obtuse this explanation would at once have suggested itself.

The agitation of this subject cannot fail to do good. It has shown that the License Inspector has been dismissed because he attended to his duty instead of to politics. The fact that the Ontario Government have determined to make a political machine of the Licence law is thus clearly evidenced, and further proof of the same fact is the appointment of Grits only as License Commissioners in the various divisions of this County. How these officials discharge the work which they are expected to perform in the interest of their party will shortly be shown by the result of the applications for licenses.

Meanwhile the "small affair" has grown to very considerable dimensions, and the end is not yet.

CITY COUNCIL.

MONDAY, April 5.

The Council met at 8 o'clock.

PRESENT—His Worship the Mayor, Messrs. Brennan, St. Charles, Proctor, McIninch, Geen, Vandusen, Jas. Smith, Ostrom, Farley, A. L. Smith, Costello, T. Holden, Jellett, Grant, Robertson, Dickson, D. Holden.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

PETITIONS, ETC.

Several accounts were also presented.

REPORTS.

Of the Printing Committee, recommending an account for payment.

Of the Poor and Sanitary Committee, recommending some accounts for payment, in connection with the hospital, the petitions of Mrs. Dewsbery and Joseph Easton were not entertained.

Both the above were referred to the Finance Committee.

Of the Finance Committee, as to the payment of advertisements in the INTELLIGENCER; that H. G. Gillespie be appointed, at a salary of $3 per week, he to perform the extra work required by the Council and act as Secretary to Committees; that the Grand Junction debentures should bear interest from the date of their issue only, and be issued immediately; that Mrs. Patterson's land be purchased for the opening of Ann Street, for $260; that the cost of putting down block pavements be ascertained; that W. F. Meudell be refunded $30 as per his petition, taxes paid on salary as a Dominion official; that Joseph Maiden's account be not paid; that the fines and fees re the Snow By-law, be remitted or refunded as the case may be; that the bridges be painted, and the breaking of hard head stone be left to the Public Works Committee to settle details, also that sundry accounts be paid.

The Auditors' report for 1879 was handed in, and shows receipts from all sources to have been $73,725, and expenditure $73,594.

The requisition for School purposes was read, also statement of amount due by the Corporation to the School Board.

Ald. Farley said the Market Committee had decided to take no action re resolution regarding the slaughter-house.

Of the Fire Committee, that P. O'Brien be paid $50 for cancellation of lease of premises occupied by No. 4 fire engine; that the large chemical engine be placed in charge of James Macoun, and placed in a building owned by Chas. Doran, at an annual rental of $18; that the small chemical engine be located in Coleman Ward, near the Grand Trunk, if a responsible person will take charge of it, the Corporation to pay for rent and repairs; that two or three fire-stands be erected in Coleman and Murney Wards; that the cost of fire-tanks would be as follows: to hold 25,000 gallons, $325; to hold 50,000 gallons, $450; to hold 100,000 gallons, $600; and they recommend that tenders be asked for, for a 50,000 gallon tank to be erected at the south-east corner of Hotel and William Streets.

NOTICES.

The By-law for the adoption of the assessment was allowed to stand over, also Ald. A. L. Smith's and Petrie's notices.

BY-LAWS.

Ald. T. Holden introduced a By-law to encourage the planting of shade trees.

Ald. Jellett introduced a By-law for the appointment of a Collector of taxes.

MOTIONS.

Ald. Ostrom moved, seconded by Ald. A. L. Smith, for a written report in detail from every Committee, at each meeting of all matters coming before it.

The motion was put and carried after some discussion.

Ald. Proctor moved, seconded by Ald. St. Charles, that the Solicitor communicate with the Grand Trunk engineer in reference to removal of the railway bridge on North Front Street.—Carried.

Ald. St. Charles, in answer to Ald. Jellett, said the Chief Engineer had not been entirely satisfied with the quality of the Eureka fire hose. It was not, however, certain, and the manufacturers having been communicated with, one of them would be here to-night. He would have a full statement to lay before the Council at the next meeting.

BY-LAWS.

The rules were suspended to allow of the second reading of the By-law regarding shade trees, and to pass that for the appointment of Collector of taxes.

Council went into Committee on By-laws. Ald. Costello in the chair.

The latter By-law was first taken up.

Ald. Dickson moved in amendment to the first clause, that there should be two Collector , which system he urged would be more advantageous than the present one. He proposed to put the whole roll into the hands of the Collectors, giving them the advantages of the percentage of discount. The rolls are in an unsatisfactory state, which was not the fault of the present Collector, but of the system. The rivalry between two Collectors would be to the advantage of the city, and save not only loss in interest, but loss in uncollected taxes as well.

Ald. Jellett approved of some of Ald. Dickson's remarks, but thought the By-law would pass without amendment. For next year he would favor two Collectors, but this year, as they had received a large amount of the taxes and as he proposed to reduce the rate for collection from 5 to 3 per cent., he did not think that two responsible men would under those circumstances be found to take the matter up. It was necessary to appoint a Collector, as property owners complained to him that their tenants took advantage of there being no Collector to run away and leave their taxes unpaid.

Ald. Geen thought there were too many rolls in Mr. Ockerman's hands now, and he favored the collection of the taxes by the Treasurer, who would send out his bailiffs as well as the Collector could, and a saving to the City would result.

Ald. Robertson thought any change undesirable, as the present Collector knows the circumstances of the people better than any one else

Ald, Geen said he believed it was not the poor people, but the prominent men of the city who had kept back the rolls.

Ald. Jellett stated that the Collector is using every effort to secure the collection of the taxes due.

Ald. Holden stated that up to January 1st, 1877, the total amount reported by the Auditors as being due for taxes on the Collector's roll was $2,959, and the total amount up to January 1st, 1879, was $26,543. This included municipal and school taxes, and all that the Collector was responsible for. He thought it wise policy now to get the matter straightened up, and considered that whilst Ald. Dickson's motion was right, this was the wrong time to propose it. On this point his remarks coincided with those of Ald. Jellett.

Ald. D. Holden opposed the amendment, speaking to the same effect as Messrs. Jellett and Holden.

Ald. Jellett said another effect of appointing another Collector this year would be, that persons who could not pay their taxes would have to pay the cost of two warrants instead of one.

Ald. Dickson withdrew his amendment, expressing himself satisfied with the discussion which it had evoked.

The By-law was then passed, Mr. Ockerman being appointed Collector, and the rate for collection placed at 3 per cent, an amendment Ald. St. Charles to make the compensation 4 per cent. being lost.

The By-law to encourage the planting of shade trees was read. It places all trees under the care of the Street Surveyor; forbids interference with trees or saplings already planted without written permission; no poplar, balm of gilead or cotton trees to be planted in public places; objectionable trees to be removed or trimmed as deemed desirable; horses not to be fastened to shade trees or boxes around them; 25 cts. to be paid for each shade tree planted under instruction of the Street Surveyor.

The By-law was referred to the By-law Committee.

Committee rose and reported.—Adopted.

The By-law appointing Collectors was read a third time and passed.

WAYS AND MEANS.

Council went into Committee on Ways and Means. Ald. Dickson in the chair.

The report of the Finance Committee was taken up.

On the clause regarding printing, Ald. Geen moved to refer the matter to the Solicitor.

Ald. T. Holden said that the opinion of the Solicitor had been obtained by the Finance Committee.

Ald. Robertson stated that the President of the INTELLIGENCER Printing Company had conceded the point at issue as to the advertising space.

Ald. Geen said this did not satisfy him. He wished that whoever had charge of the printing should have some control over it, he desired the account examined by the Solicitor as to their liability for parts of it.

Ald. Jellett said that the Solicitor stated that the Corporation is liable for the work done, and the items were properly initialed.

Ald. Geen said the Solicitor told him they ere not liable for part of the account. He wished the matter finally disposed of by paying what they were liable for and repudiating the rest. He was also told by the Solicitor that the INTELLIGENCER Printing Company themselves had what they had no claim for a part of the account.

Ald. Dickson wished that the account should be rejected altogether, so that the INTELLIGENCER could sue and the frequent talk about the account put a stop to.

Ald. Geen's amendment was put and lost and the clause adopted.

The clause regarding the railway debentures was passed.

On that regarding the employment of Mr. Gillespie,

Ald. T. Holden opposed the clause, considering the circumstances of the Corporation too straitened to warrant such an appointment.

Ald. Jellett thought Mr. Gillespie would perform the duties well, and that his services were required and would be much appreciated by Chairmen of Committees; he would also do the extra work, assistance in which had to be paid for annually.

Ald. Geen opposed the clause, considering that there were now too many officers, and the salary would not remain at $3 per week.

Ald. D. Holden spoke to a similar effect.

Ald. Robertson and Ostrom contended that, by Mr. Gillespie doing the extra work in the Clerk's and Treasurer's offices, a saving would be effected.

The time was here extended for one hour.

Ald. Proctor opposed and Ald. Brennan supported the clause, which was carried.

Several other clauses were adopted, and Ald. Vandusen moved to strike out the clause regarding the breaking of hard-head stone.

Ald. Jellett Proctor, and Costello spoke in favor of the amendment, and Ald. Geen opposed it.

The amendment was carried, and the remainder of the report was adopted.

Ald. Robertson moved to offer a reward of $25 for the conviction of the party or parties who lately cut and injured a number of shade trees on and near Hotel Street.—Carried.

The report of the Fire Committee was taken up. On the clause relating to the large chemical fire engine, Ald. Ostrom claimed that the large engine be given to Coleman Ward. The clause was passed, and the rest of the report passed without question.

Committee rose and reported—Adopted.

Council adjourned.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—When, at the commencement of the present year, the members of our City Council were seeking the suffrages of the electors, loud were their professions of their love of economy, their keen desire to personally supervise the administration of municipal matters, and their honest intention to supply to the management of our civic affairs at least as much intelligence and worldly wisdom as an average business man deems necessary for the successful conduct of his own affairs. When reading our worthy Mayor's inaugural address a gleam of hope flitted across the public mind that, peradventure during this year, even the public interests might occasionally be considered, and when our Finance Minister initiated his regime by lowering the rate of our interest, confiding enthusiasts fondly hoped that the time had arrived when Property Holders' Associations might well become but a memory of the past.

Time has however told the old, old story that our hopes were only nourished to be blighted.

If there is one municipal department of which public impatience and dissatisfaction universally exist, certainly it is the tax collector's.

The memory of man hardly reaches back to a time at which this office can be said to have been conducted with an enlightened regard to the interest and convenience of the public.

I do not wish to enter into details which are notorious to every property holder in the city, but in view of the accumulation of unpaid taxes, the universality of the complaints, and the personal knowledge many members of the Council have of their accuracy, I with many others protest against the rolls for another year being handed over to a Collector who for seven long years hasn't been able to find time to make the returns for even a single year. If our receipts so far exceed all possible outlay that the collection of the taxes is a matter of indifference, unreasonable ratepayers who do pay their taxes will be found to suggest a reduction in the rate of taxation; but if on the other hand the poverty of our municipal treasury is so chronic as to have become almost proverbial; if we are annually paying enough in interest to provide our city with water works, then it does not require the astute mathematical mind of a Finance Minister to see the advisability of having our taxes faithfully collected, and such returns made that it will not require a prophet nor the son of a prophet to see where we are and whither we are drifting.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, APRIL 6.

City and Vicinity.

IRISH RELIEF.—All members of the Committees ought to attend the meeting at the Police Court at 8 o'clock to-night, which is for final action.

RECOVERED.—Travellers on the B. & N. H. R. R. were pleased yesterday to see Conducter David Hayes once more at his post after his severe illness.

TO ADVERTISERS.—Those who have contracts for space in the Daily INTELLIGENCER must bring their changes in the day previous, in order to insure their publication.

PASSENGER TRAFFIC. — The passenger traffic over the Grand Trunk is very heavy at the present time. This morning's express for the west consisted of thirteen cars and was drawn by two locomotives.

SUCCESSFUL.—Prof Johnston and pupils had a good house at their athletic entertainment in Picton last night. The audience was highly appreciative and Mr. Johnston formed a class of 30 scholars.

FOR AUSTRALIA.—We are informed that Messrs. Rathbun & Son will shortly ship 10,000 doors which have been manufactured at their extensive sash, blind and door factory at Mill Point, for Sydney, Australia.

COSTELLO'S OPENING.—It will be seen by advertisement that Mr. R. Costello will have his grand opening day on Thursday next, April 8th, when he will exhibit all the leading spring styles in hats, bonnets, flowers, laces &c.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.—Another successful temperance meeting was held in Bleecker Street Church last night. The programme consisted of singing, and speeches, by Messrs. J. P. Asselstine and W. Deacon, and readings by Messrs. A. Wensley, T. Hall and J. H. Robinson.

YACHTING.—A letter sent from Kingston to the Chicago Inter-Ocean announces that the yacht Countess of Dufferin is shortly to be brought to that port for repairs, prior to going to Chicago for a race with the yacht Idler. As the Idler is probably the fastest schooner yacht in the United States, such a match would be productive of a very great degree of interest.

THE A. B. C. RAILWAY GUIDE.—We have received the first number of the A.B.C. Railway and Steamboat Travellers' Guide, published by J. Theo. Robinson, Montreal and Toronto. It contains routes, distances, through and local passenger time tables, stage lines, hotels, travel notes, and general information for travellers by land and water, and is represented as the official time table standard of the Commercial Travellers' Association. The time tables it publishes may be correct, but it cannot be considered a very correct guide when it omits from its pages altogether the routes of the Belleville and North Hastings Railway and Grand Junction Railway, which have been running nearly a year. In alluding to Belleville it gives it a population of 7,305, instead of over 11,000. If the other information is no more correct than this, this the guide is not worth much.

TROUBLE FOR ASSESSORS.—An exchange says:—"Under the provisions of the amendments to the Public School Law, passed at last session of the Ontario House, and assented to by the Lieutenant-Governor on the 5th of March, it is rendered compulsory upon assessors to include in their assessment a complete census of the children of school age residing in the municipality of which they are the assessors. The Assessment Act, Section 42, page 1833, expressly stipulates that "Every Assessor shall begin to make his Roll in each year not later than the 15th day of February," and is to have it completed in every respect on or before the first day of May. This Act, making it compulsory on each assessor to take a School Census, was passed on the 5th day of March this year, so that, if an assessor did his duty,—supposing he was perfectly aware of the passage of this Act, which not one in a hundred was—between the day he commenced his work and the day it became law, he ought and in nearly all cases was, actually at work nineteen days, or sufficient to about half do his work. It would be natural to suppose that in view of the fact that the Government was aware of the provisions of the Assessment Act, this compulsory clause of the School Act would have been made to take effect in 1881, but such is not the view of the Government, as the Minister of Education has ordered it to be taken this year, so that almost equal work will have to be done over again by the assessors without their pay—which is low enough in all conscience—being proportionately increased."

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS. — Messrs. Brown shipped to-day a car load of seed drills, manufactured at their works here, for Campbellford. They will make another similar shipment at an early date.

BELLEVILLE CRICKET CLUB.—At the annual meeting of this Club, which was held last night at Hambly's, there was a good attendance. The following officers were elected for the present year: Patron—Alex. Robertson, M. P. P. President—C. J. Starling; 1st Vice—N. B. Falkiner; 2nd Vice—J. P. Reeves; 3d Vice—S. G. Beatty; Secretary—W. H. Biggar; Treasurer—R. F. Benjamin; Captain—E. Corby. Committee of Management—H. McKinnon, W. N. Thomas, A. M. Kemp, Geo. Maybee, E. W. Davy, Jas. Jenkins. Honorary members—W. Peden, Jas. D. Clarke, E. R. Benjamin and Jas. Corby. The Club will meet again at Hambly's on Friday night to arrange matches for the coming season.

Marine Notes.

Navigation is at length open on the Bay of Quinte, 19 days earlier than last year.

The first vessel to clear this season was the schooner Florence, which sailed yesterday afternoon with ice for St. Catharines. Big Bay was found to be clear.

A Picton despatch says the Bay of Quinte is clear of ice. The schooner Nellie Theresa arrived this morning from Mill Point.

The prop. Kincardine is receiving a thorough overhauling at Gurney's old wharf, Toronto. Capt. Asa Ribble is himself overlooking the repairs to the machinery and engine, and Mr. Alex. Coghill is attending to those on the hull.

Mr. Arthur Downey, of Napanee, purchased yesterday at Toronto the schooner D. Freeman for $2,340.

The schooner David Andrews cleared this morning with 10,000 bushels of rye for Toronto.

The schooner British Queen is taking a deck load of hops poles for Charlotte and will proceed thence to St. Catharines with her load of ice. The Mary Foster also takes a deck load of hop poles and a cargo of ice, both for Charlotte. These vessels were to sail this afternoon if the wind served.

The schooner Wm. Elgin is having her canvas bent, preparatory to an early departure.

The steamer Armenia—the first arrival of the season—reached here this morning from Picton. The steamer looks well, having been neatly painted. She brought a number of passengers and some freight. No ice was encountered on the way up. The Armenia is commanded by Captain Johnson, well and favorably known in the bay trade.

County Court Without Jury,

MONDAY, April 5.

This Court opened at noon to-day, before Hon. Geo. Sherwood. There are 14 cases on the docket.

JOHNSTON vs. MORAN.—Action on pro. note for $178. Deft. is sued as endorser on note made by W. B. Johnston, formerly a merchant at Brighton; deft. is father-in-law of W. B. Johnston, and at his request, on 31st Dec'r, 1878, endorsed the note sued on. Next day W. B. Johnston left for parts unknown. The day after Johnston left, the plaintiff and deft. met at Brighton. Deft. said to pl'ff, "W.B. Johnston has left me in a fix," meaning by getting his endorsement. Deft. was then anxious to have this note taken out of the way, as there were other notes in circulation, said to have his endorsation on. Pl'ff alleges that he paid the note, at request of deft. Defence, not protested—not paid at his request. Verdict for —Clute and McMahon for pl'ff; Burdett and Eyre for deft.

BURDETT vs. MALLORY.—Action on pro. note given by deft. to one Brown, deceased. Deft. pleads payment to Brown during his lifetime, and balance into court. Verdict for Clute and Burdett for pl'ff; Preston for deft.

Sunday night most of the City churches were guarded in case the incendiary should continue his sacrilegious work. Active measures are being taken to discover the parties who set fire to the churches, but no arrests have been made as yet.

THE NEW SENATOR.—It is announced by the Ottawa Citizen that the Hon. T. N. Gibbs has been called to the Senate, vice-Senator Seymour, deceased.

A "Hard Crowd."

FURTHER AS TO THE RIOTERS.

Information which has been received concerning the gang who engaged in the row at the railway station here on Saturday confirms the impression created by the appearance of many of the men, namely that they numbered amongst them several of the worst ruffians to be found in Montreal. It was not long after leaving Belleville, following the conclusion of the row, till their characteristics began to develop themselves. Before reaching Cobourg one of the Irish party had stolen a Frenchman's coat, and when caught with it on his back loudly claimed that it was his own. He was put off the the train at Cobourg, but went west by the regular train on the same evening.

Another, named Wilson, became frantic through excessive whiskey drinking, and tried to cut his throat. With a razor which he carried he made two gashes in his throat, but did not injure himself dangerously. His wounds were dressed at Toronto station and he was forwarded with his fellows. This man is said to have been concerned in the notorious Griffintown murder, in which it will be remembered one woman hacked another to pieces.

There were also in the party one of the gang who murdered young Hackett in Montreal, and a number of well-known thieves, several of whom exchanged greetings with a detective who boarded the train at Toronto and to whom they were known.

Montreal will be greatly relieved by the departure of so considerable a proportion of its habitual criminals, but Sergt. O'Keefe will have a hard task, in his capacity as peace officer on Section B., to maintain order amongst so many desperate and reckless ruffians.

Those of the gang who were discharged from custody here yesterday afternoon went west on the evening express.

The Mail of the 6th relates the following concerning the gang:—"When nearing Torronto they directed their attention to a Swede named Anderson, whose destination was the same as their own. They suggested that he should be hanged for the amusement of the rest, and went so far as to produce the rope, which so worked on the fears of the unfortunate man, that he jumped from the train when it reached the esplanade, and drawing a butcher knife attempted to cut his throat.

"His explanation of the affair was that he would prefer dying in that way rather than suffer the more prolonged torture of strangulation. He was taken to the hospital, where the wound on his throat was dressed The attendants at this institution are of opinion that he has become insane. Some efforts should be made to find the jokers, and a term in the Central Prison might teach them that it is possible to carry a practical joke too far."

Bridgewater Items.

A very good specimen of asbestos, which was taken from Wm. Buddreau's land, was shown here to-day. Mr. Thos. Greatrix has it on his land also, and several others claim that they can show good specimen on their lots.

Mr. W. L. Clapp, who, a short time since, found iron on his farm, has leased it to a company for 20 years.

Many good specimens of iron ore have been shown here from time to time by parties living in this Township who have found it on their property.

The British Elections.

Nearly all the elections of the 5th were held in the country constituencies, a majority of the members elected being Conservatives. Of the 27 returns 15 were Conservatives, 9 Liberals, and 3 Home Rulers. The contest in Midlothian resulted in the election of Mr. Gladstone by about two hundred majority over the Earl of Dalkeith. The net gain of seats by the Liberals is now 59.

A Constantinople despatch says there is great excitement and delight here at the result of the elections in Great Britain, especially among the Greeks.

The Times says as soon as the Queen returns to England Ministers will doubtless place their resignations in her hands and she will commission the leader of the Liberals to form a Cabinet. The Daily News says it is impossible Mr. Gladstone should hold any office except Premier.

The Pall Mall Gazette says it is estimated the new House of Commons will consist of 317 Liberals, 271 Conservatives, and 63 Home Rulers. The Liberals will thus have a majority of 46 over the Conservatives, or of 109 with the Home Rulers, but the Conservatives and Home Rulers combined will outnumber the Liberals by 17.

Some of the more important elections occur within a few days, and are as follows:—To-morrow, Cardiff, East Derbyshire, Hereford, West Middle Kent and West Aberdeenshire. On the 8th, West Essex, West Gloucestershire, Huntingdonshire and East Kent. On the 9th, North East Lancashire and West Staffordshire; and on the 12th, North Lancashire and North Leicestershire. The places above mentioned have had in the last Parliament, a joint Conservative majority of sixteen, and they have only to hold their own to reduce by that number the present Liberal majority in the Kingdom. It is further anticipated that several seats in Ireland may yet be retained by the Conservatives, on account of Mr. Parnell's action in forcing ultra-Home Rule candidates in several boroughs and towns where moderate Home Rule or Liberal candidates have been favorably received by the people.

RAILWAY SCHEMES.—An Ottawa report says:—"The real promoters of the Ontario Railway scheme are said to be the Canada Central Railway Company, the Grand Junction Railway Company and a party of gentlemen who desire to get control of the North Shore Railway. The Canada Central Railway Company are asking for power to build a branch to Madoc or Tweed near which places connection could be made with the Grand Junction for Peterboro."

THE COBOURG RAILWAY.—The Cobourg, Peterboro,' and Marmora Railway Company made their first trip from Cobourg to Harwood on Saturday. Mr. Barber, superintendent, who has just returned from England, and who accompanied the train, reports the road in passable condition.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

Frequently he was assisted in his loving ministrations by Mary Woodford, and between the two Charles, tedious time of pain and weakness was made pleasantly endurable. Philip and Lydia were daily attendants in the sick room, and Lady Eagleheart and Dora drove frequently from the Grange to see him. Seldom is an invalid surrounded by such a host of anxious and affectionate friends as our hero had during the protracted period of his illness; and thanks to all these alleviating circumstance and to his own natural strength of body and mind, the serious consequences began to be surmounted, and a process of improvement went slowly but surely forward.

As he grew stronger, instead of shrinking from the light darkness became to him a privation, and he pled with the doctor to have the bandage removed from his eyes that he might once more behold the light of day and see the faces of those kind friends who had so tenderly and affectionately ministered to him. The doctor told him to have patience a little longer and his wish would be gratified.

At length the latter named the day when he would allow the bandage to be removed, and Charles lay and counted the hours which must intervene, and wondered if his conception of the appearance of Mr. Woodford and Mary would turn out to be like the reality as it was disclosed to his eyes. Judging by voice and action he had formed a notion on this point, and had set it down in his own mind that Woodford was a little active man with a smiling benevolent face, and that Mary was a fair blooming girl, as beautiful as she was good.

The hour came, and they were revealed to him. Slowly and by minute degrees the light was allowed to break upon his long-sealed eyes, and out of the dim but ever-decreasing obscurity their features were shown to him as, smiling and happy, they stood by his couch watching the interesting change.

It was no less interesting to them than to him, for the noblest portion of his face had hitherto been concealed from them by the hideous black bandage, and therefore its true and full expression they had not yet beheld—his broad high brow and fine dark blue eyes—those attractive eyes which had ever drawn forth interest and admiration. There they were now, and a powerful influence the sight of them had on Woodford and Mary, as he with kindly eagerness and she with blushing shyness watched their unveiling, and the breaking forth of that intelligence which the eyes alone can give to the countenance.

There they were, and to the two gazers there was no strangeness in them. They both thought them like eyes they had seen long ago—eyes set in a face they had dearly loved. Not for one moment did they connect the youth before them with the boy-face wherein appeared the eyes of which these reminded them, for all else was changed from the Charlie of the past. The brown hair had become darker, the features larger and stamped with manhood, and that broad massive brow the seat of matured intellect. It was impossible, therefore, for them to recognize in that handsome face the long lost Charlie, whom they still so regretfully remembered; and even had the likeness been strong enough to make them think definitely of him it would have been considered no more than a chance resemblance, for how could they suspect any indentity between the son and the air of the new squire of Singleton hall and the friendless child that had been carried away so mysteriously from them in London? Not the faintest suspicion of this possibility ever crossed their minds, and yet the sight of these fine blue eyes stirred strange emotions in their hearts.

But how shall we describe the feelings of Charles as their two faces grew into distinctness on his vision? Did he find his conception justified? Yes, fully justified. Mr. Woodford was singularly like what the youth had imagined, though Mary was lovelier far than he had dreamed. The beauteous child called Myra had developed into a girl of exquisite charms and maidenly gracefulness, in which the loveliness of childhood had been not lost, but transformed.

It was Mr. Woodford, however, on whom Charles at first fixed his lingering gaze, That form, that face, was most certainly not new to him, and as he continued to look it seemed as if memory was just about to identify them with some one known long ago, and when near the point of recognition it failed in its power, and left him puzzled and in doubt. But when, after cordial greetings and affectionate congratulations, and a renewal of grateful thanks had been exchanged, Mr. Woodford began to move about the room, his limp, and the peculiar springing appearance of his motions, brought the strugglings of memory to an end.

'I have it now,' murmured the youth to himself, 'he bears a strong resemblance to my dear old protector Tobby Spratt—a wonderful resemblance indeed. He is more refined in appearance and older-looking than what Tobby was, but he has the same beaming, cherry, sprightly expression, and warm generous heart. I could not have believed that two men could exist so like each other.'

From this inward soliloquy it will be seen that Charles had no suspicion of the truth that it was Tobby himself, as indeed how should he? What possibility was there of Tobby and Myra, two poor wandering show folks, being changed into Mr. and Miss Woodford—he a genial well-clad gentleman and she the teacher of the Squire's school, The wildest imagination could not have conceived of a change like this.

And so these old friends renewed acquaintance, and for the present at least, did not recognise each other.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

The Windsor Hotel

is one of the finest hotels on this continent. It is a credit to the liberality of our Montreal friends and an ornament to our city. Its corridors are wide and beautiful. The parlors and dining rooms, with their costly embellishments, and the reception rooms, are "chefs d'œuvre." Its "menus" are unexcelled. It is a luxurious home for Montreal families who prefer to relieve themselves from the care of a household, and a caravansary which cannot be surpassed for visitors. Still, here as elsewhere, man is subject to the laws of health. Sickness will follow where indiscretion leads. An unseemly carouse tells as badly upon the occupant of this house as upon the dweller in a cottage. Men are apt to over-indulge where food is very tempting, and ignore the results. Happily the remedy for such indiscretions may be had in every drug store in the Dominion, in the shape of Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS.

A Cross Baby.

Nothing is so conducive to a man's remaining a bachelor as stopping for one night at the house of a married friend and being kept awake for five or six hours by the crying of a cross baby. All cross and crying babies need only Hop Bitters to make them well and smiling. Young man, remember this.—Ed.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

MM. M. GILES, ESQ.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purgo-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition — meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, whichever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned f I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

AUGUST FLOWER.

The immense sale and great popularity of Green's August Flower in all towns and villages in the civilized world has caused many imitators to adopt similar names, expecting to reap a harvest for themselves at the expense of the afflicted. This medicine was introduced in 1868, and for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, with their effects, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Stomach, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart, vertigo, etc.etc., it never has failed to our knowledge. Three doses will relieve any case of Dyspepsia. Two million bottles sold last year. Price 75 cents. Samples 10 cents.

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

Epileptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

DETROIT THROAT & LUNG INSTITUTE.

DETROIT, MICH.

M. Hilton Williams, M. D.

(Graduate of Victoria College at Toronto and Member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.)

PROPRIETOR.

(PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED SINCE 1870.)

Over 15,000 Persons Successfully Treated since the establishment of our Institute in Detroit from all parts of the United States and Canada, for some of the various diseases of the head, throat and lungs. The only institute of the kind in Michigan specially devoted to the treatment of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, also diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heart.

Catarrh and Throat Diseases are every year becoming more prevalent and more generally fatal. As prevalent as they are, if left to themselves, their termination is Consumption and death.

A large portion of the deaths from throat and lung diseases are of young people—those who have not reached the meridian of life. Their hold upon life is strong and all the functions of the body active. If they were properly treated the great majority of them would recover. Such is my experience. But I have no faith in their treatment by the stomach. Cod liver oil is good nourishment, but it is not medicine. No medicine given by the stomach exerts a curative influence on the lungs.

We are positive in saying that three-fourths of the vast number who die of Consumption might be saved did they awaken to the true sense of danger when the disease first appeared in the head and throat; the best writers, and the ablest physicians of the age have expressed similer opinions.

With these facts before us we feel that we would be recreant to our responsibilities were we to remain silent and see our fellow-beings pass away like autumn leaves while there is hope for so many.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by medical inhalations, combined with proper constitutional and hygenic treatment.

If on account of distance, expense of travel or physical debility, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and when fully answered and returned remedies can be sent per express (duties free) together with full directions for use. Parties tendering are expected to provide the special tools necessary for, and to have a practical knowledge of, works of this class, and are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same; and, further, an accepted bank cheque for a sum equal to $250, for the gates of each lock, must accompany each tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.

The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfilment of the contract the party or parties whose tender it is proposed to accept will be notified that their tender is accepted, subject to a deposit of five per cent. of the bulk sum of the contract—of which the sum sent in with the tender will be considered a part—to be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General within eight days after the date of the notice.

Ninety per cent. only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the work.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION.

MONDAY, April 5.

In the House of Commons,

A Bill to prevent and punish wrongs to children was introduced by Mr. Richey.

The measure providing for the winding-up of the Stadacona Fire and Life Insurance Company, passed through its final stages.

Mr. Charlton moved certain resolutions declaring the expediency of disposing of the public lands of Canada by selling them as far as practicable, to actual settlers only. Mr. Charlton, in opening, laid down the principle that it was imperative in the interests of the country to secure the most rapid settlement of the public lands possible, and proceeding, he claimed that the result of the Government's land regulations was the very reverse of that. Another consideration of paramount importance was that the territory should be held in as many hands as possible, but he held that the land regulations in practice tended to build up large land monopolies. After quoting an array of evidence and facts in support of these views, he condemned the alleged locking up of lands by speculation as a most discreditable pursuit; and one which no Government really desirous of maintaining the interests of the country would tolerate.

Sir John Macdonald put a test to Mr. Charlton's merit on this matter by remarking in opening, that he was unable to gather from Mr. Charlton's speech what were Mr. Charlton's real objections or what was Mr. Charlton's better plan. Mr. Charlton had not stated what he wanted. He wanted to give the lands away for nothing yet he wanted to get a revenue. He wanted to develope the country but he did not want any capitalists to go into it. Sir John Macdonald reminded the Opposition that the North-West land question was not a problem to be solved in a speech before dinner. It required a good deal of experiment and experience. The secret of the development of the North-West was to be found in railway building. Now it had been the policy of the two past Governments to build the railway by means of the land, and the land was to be given to railway companies in large blocks. This had been the policy of both Governments. The present Government stood, partly as a result of the action of the late Government, in the position of at once Government and Company. The late Government had reserved for railway purposes all the lands, without exception, along the railway line excluding settlement on easy terms along that belt. The present system was far more liberal to actual settlers than the late Government's system. The present system of land preemption is more liberal than that of the United States. Sir John's defence of the preemption clauses was perfect in its force and aptness. He utterly demolished Mr. Charlton's rigid rules as contained in his resolution by showing that they would result in completely stopping all sales as long as free grants existed, and if free grants were not given, the Opposition would certainly be more offended than before. As to Mr. Charlton's comparison of the land systems of the two countries, Sir John pointed out that the systems were precisely alike in most points, while where difference existed, the difference was greatly in our favor. For instance, the homesteader in Canada obtained his pre-emption lot on far more favorable terms than in the United States. In the United States the preemption lot was only to be purchased at $2.50 per acre in cash. In Canada he gets it on more favorable terms and had four years to pay for it. At least twenty thousand people went into the North-West under the direction of the Department of Agriculture last year, so that there was no serious checking of the growth of population. Fifty thousand would probably go in this year.

Sir John at this point of his speech asked Mr. Mackenzie if he did not really believe 25,000 would go into the North-West this year. Mr. Mackenzie hesitated for a moment but then boldly took up the cudgels and denied it while blushing a good deal at his own audacity. Sir John calculated that at least 25,000 emigrants would go in this year. At least three thousand heads of families would buy homesteads and pre-emption lots, that fifteen hundred heads of families would buy railway lands, and that fifteen hundred more would go to work without lands. This was a modest estimate, not one attractive to speculators. The average price would be about three dollars per acre, and the income for the next year would probably be about $1,240,000. By 1890 it was calculated that the full returns for lands in cash would be, with interest, at least $38,000,000.

After recess,

Sir John continued his speech concerning the North-West and concluded as follows: My hon. friend will perhaps see that we are talking about this matter seriously. The road will certainly not cost us from Lake Superior to the Pacific over $75,000,000 according to the most rigid calculation that can be made. We hear that the Engineer-in-Chief (Mr. Sandford Fleming) is one of the most extravagant possible, and I think under these circumstances his calculation should be taken, as at all events not below the mark. Well, if we finish the road for $75,000,000, and sell within the first ten years half of what we estimate, and only receive half of what we believe we will receive from the Dominion lands, where is the burden upon the people? still this would not make a very serious invasion into the large tracts of land we have to sell, and as the road is improving, the new sales of land, which will of necessity follow, will be more than sufficient for all possible outlay, and then, in addition to that, Mr. Speaker, we must remember that we are filling that country with an enormous population, who will at once become consumers of duitable goods and contributors to our revenue. (Hear, hear.) We shall be receiving a large revenue from that country altogether irrespective and independent then of the proceeds of the lands. (Cheers.) Where, then, Mr. Speaker, is there any danger of this country being over ridden with taxation? Where is the danger of this country being oppressed? There is none, Sir. I believe that under the scheme of the Government, we will settle that country rapidly, that the sale of the lands will meet their own engagements as they progress, that the sales of these lands will meet the interest of the money pledged to build the road, and that the scheme generally will enable us to construct the road without adding one farthing to the taxation of the people of this country. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Anglin, contended that the Premier had in his estimates left out of consideration the increasing interest on the capital expended on the road, which this year amounted to $750.000, and in 1889 would amount to $3,500,000.

After an able speech from Mr. Plumb in defence of the Government's policy.

Mr. Domville moved in amendment that the House do pass to the order of the day.

Mr. Casgrain argued that the Government should take steps to prevent the depletion of the population of the Province of Quebec, independently of its efforts to induce emigrants to go to the North-West.

Mr. Thomas White presented a defence of the land regulations from a Ministerial point of view, and after advancing charges of unpatriotic and disloyal conduct against the Opposition, he moved an amendment to the amendment endorsing the Government's land regulations and affirming them to be beneficial.

Mr. Scriver referred to the exodus of Canadians to the United States, and he said that while a portion of those who went were merely on a temporary visit, yet it was undoubted that others intended to reside there permanently.

After a few remarks from Mr. Boultbee,

Mr. Mackenzie in a vigorous speech took up the Ministerial cry of disloyalty against the Opposition.

The debate was continued by Mr. McLennan.

Mr. Donald A. Smith stated that the Government made a mistake in introducing their first regulations, but although they were better now still they would bear improvement.

Mr. McDougall expressed a desire to vote for the amendment, because he did not care to affirm, as the amendment to the amendment did, that the present regulations were the best regulations. However, for reasons which he gave, he determined ultimately to vote for the latter.

Mr. Charlton closed the debate.

A vote was taken on Mr. White's amendment to the amendment, which was carried on the following division:—Yeas, 120; Nays, 40. Majority for, 80. The pairs were J. H. Pope and Huntington, and M. C. Cameron and Blank.

The main motion as amended was carried on the same division, and the House adjourned at 1:15 a.m.

Mr. White's Speech on the Mortgage Bill.

(From the Official Report.)

MR. WHITE, (East Hastings)—I believe that the mover of the Bill deserves great credit for bringing it forward, his experience shewing how much a member should consider such a step before taking it. It appears that there are many connected with the Loan Societies in this House. It was certainly painful to hear the remarks of the hon. member for East Toronto in regard to the mover of the Bill. I would like to ask why should a member of this House, because he introduces such a Bill, be told by the representatives of Loan Companies in Toronto that he had to pay them fines and consequently felt sore? I think it is not fair, just, becoming or parliamentary, to use such language towards a member. The fact is, the member for East Toronto (Mr. Platt) is President of a Company which only puts into the pockets of its stockholders 12 per cent at the expense of the unfortunate borrowers of the country. The poor people must suffer that a man like him should be "monarch of all he surveys."

MR PLATT—I am not President of any such company.

MR. WHITE.—If not President, the hon. gentleman is a Director of one. I think it unfortunate that men that have to borrow—and such include the men who keep business going in the country, the farmers and mechanics—should have to pay any such interest. The moment a man borrows money from such corporations, they commence to watch him; but they have no right to open their mouths to comment on his poverty and straitened circumstances. The hon. gentleman says they did not ask us to borrow; but men borrow through necessity, and are often afterwards deceived in the scale of interest they have to pay. Does not the hon. member for West Durham say so also? Did not the House listen silently to his language in this sense? The hon. member for East Toronto knows that the Canada Permanent Society of Toronto pays its Manager $7,000 per annum.

DR. PLATT—It is not true.

MR. WHITE.—Mr. Mason, Manager of that Society, gets $7,000 per year, and it pays 11 per cent. per annum to its shareholders.

MR. PLATT—That is not true.

MR. WHITE—I refer you to the report of that Company. How many of the banks in the country pay 11 per cent., and the manager $6,000 or $7,000 a year? I do not rise to say an unkind word of the hon. member for East Toronto, because I believe he is as kind hearted a gentleman as any gentleman sitting in this House, but I want to tell him that the trouble is that there are members in the House—too many—who are disposed to crush the fallen and the poor. The hon. member for West Durham, in his eloquent, practical way, says the present system is an evil; are all the gentlemen on the treasury benches to listen to such language, and permit that evil to continue? Unfortunately there are only a few of the Ministers present. When such an evil is brought prominently before the House and country did they know the urgency of this they would be in their places to deal with it, and both the Opposition and the Ministerial party should combine to place the people of the country in a proper condition in regard to this matter. Not only have borrowers to pay large commissions to the agents of those Loan Societies, many of whom are lawyers, but high rates of interest as well. I do not desire to specially condemn the lawyers, but they now and again deserve a little rub.

Those agents get one or two per cent., some lawyers putting the loans through by endorsing or promising to pay the first two payments. They promise to put the loan through for a fee of $60 or $100, as the case may be, requiring in addition a chattel mortgage against the goods of the borrower—this also in addition to what they receive from the Company. Not only do the Companies get security on the lands but on the goods and chattels. One half of the residents of the different counties have not only their lands, but their chattels mortgaged to those Companies. That surely is a matter that the hon. member for Gloucester (Mr. Anglin) should give ear to, I believe he is against the landlords of Ireland; but so far as the Loan Companies of Canada are concerned, they occupy a similar position in Canada to that of those proprietors. If the hon. member for West Durham (Mr. Blake) would bring in a practical Bill to deal with this evil, I believe he would get the support of the members following the Government.

Some Hon. Member—Would the hon. gentleman support his Government?

Mr. WHITE—I have said I would support him in a Bill of this kind, as I would like to see an honest Irishman at the head of such a movement. I would like to follow such a leader in this direction. I believe the hon. gentleman would gain the support of the majority on both sides of the House on a Bill of this kind, and he certainly should have mine. It is high time that the Government of this country, with their majority of 70 or 80, should see that they have a duty to perform to the people of this country—unfortunately under the power of the Loan Companies—Companies which should be restricted to a moderate rate of interest. Why keep silent in the matter? These Loan Companies take away the interest trade of the Banks, which get only 6 or 7 per cent. for their money, as against the 9, 10, and 11 per cent. of these Companies. I am glad the hon. member for Centre Wellington (Mr. Orton) has broken the ice in this matter. If he brings in a bill in some other shape to remedy this evil, and the Government do not take hold of it, he will get a majority of all the independent men who have money to loan.

Mr. PLATT,—I wish to correct the hon. gentleman who has just spoken, by saying that our Secretary does not get $7,000 a year.

Mr. WHITE (Hastings,—I said your manager got that.

Mr. PLATT,—That is not true, nor is it true that the company pays 11 per cent.

Mr. ORTON,—What does the manager get?

Mr. PLATT,—$5,000.

Mr. WHITE,—I referred to the salary of the Manager of the Canada Permanent Loan Society, and I am correct in saying he receives $7,000 a year, and the company pays 11 per cent to its shareholders, and for the correctness of my statements I refer to their last annual report.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 7.

Reciprocity.

The Globe has, ever since the question of protection was brought forward in the Canadian Parliament, contended that a tariff which would give protection to home manufactures would not only seriously injure if not destroy the connection between the Dominion and the mother country, but also cause the United States to impose retaliatory duties on Canadian products, such as lumber and grain, and would shut them out of their markets. The effect of the National Policy, so far at least, has been to show the absurdity of the Globe's prediction as to our commercial and political relations with the mother country, the volume of our trade with which has decreased very slightly, whilst that with the United States has fallen off very largely. Events in the latter country are now taking such a shape that the Opposition organ's predictions in that regard bid fair to be given their quietus as surely as they have been in regard to our relations with the Empire. Proof of this is supplied by the Globe itself, which journal, in its issue of the 6th inst., publishes a special despatch dated Washington, April 5th, in which it is stated that "the argument made last Friday by Congressman Bowman, of Massachusetts, and J. C. Bates, member of the Boston Board of Trade, in favour of Congressional action looking towards the negotiation of a commercial treaty with Canada, has left a strong impression on the minds of members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee."

The report goes on to show that the N.P. is having the effect which its supporters and advocates desired it would have, namely, the bringing of our neighbors to a due sense of the equities of the case,—as the report continues:

"But that which seemed particularly to interest the Committee was the pointing out of the danger to which our trade is subjected, owing to the retaliation and restrictive character of the new Canadian tariff. During the past year our exports to the Dominion have fallen off some 25 per cent. In commenting on the object of the new tariff, Sir Alex. Galt, Resident Agent of Canada in London, had said:—

"It has been made, first, undoubtedly in the supposed interest of Canada, and next with the view of excluding Americans from our markets until they place our trade on a footing of reciprocity and fair play."

Beyond a doubt the Committee was "interested," and, to a very large extent, at this exhibition of the effects of a spirited policy on the part of Canada—a policy which, but for the earnest teachings of the Conservative party and a few patriotic Reformers—would never have been inaugurated. Our neighbors had begun to believe—and certainly the Globe and its satelites and the leading members of the Grit party did their best to encourage the idea—that the Canadians were poor, spiritless creatures, who were content to bow to the behests of the United States in matters commercial at all events. Had their manufactures and products been admitted as freely to our market as before, they would have continued to laugh at all efforts on the part of Canada to secure reciprocal trade relations. But they have been rudely awakened from their pleasant reveries, and finding their own weapons turned against them with serious effect, they begin to perceive their errors and fall quite naturally into a penitential mood, for, quoting again from this interesting report, for which the Opposition organ is entitled so thanks, we learn that

"Messrs. Bowman and Bates contended that the action of Canada in this matter ought not to excite our pride and keep us aloof from all our efforts to bring about a more satisfactory condition of affairs. We have for sixteen years been in the wrong, and have done nothing but repel our northern neighbors, and they are now but following the example which we have so long placed before them. It is we who should take the initiative, and show a willingness to come to such an understanding in regard to commercial relations as would be mutually beneficial to the people of both countries."

It is a pity that our neighbors did not discover all this before; but then, under the beneficent administration of Messrs. Mackenzie and Cartwright, they had matters all their own way and had no such scruples as to "spoiling" the Canadians as the sharp pressure of Sir Leonard Tilley's tariff has compelled them to feel. Therefore it does not at all surprise us that Mr. Cox, the Chairman of the Committee—who is a free-trade Democrat—is confident that the majority of that body will sustain him in favor of a resolution which shall provide in substance for the appointment of three Commissioners, "to ascertain and "report on what basis a treaty of reci- "procal trade for the mutual benefit of the "people of the United States and Canada "can be established."

This is, it is true, but a short step towards a treaty, but it is a much longer step than the United States would have taken without solicitation from Canada, and much more likely to result in securing the desired object, than could have happened for fifty years to come under a tariff so favorable to them as that which was swept out of existence in March, 1879, and which, had the theories of the Grits been followed would still have been in force. Canada is now comparatively unconcerned on the subject of reciprocity with the United States though still desirous of a fair basis of trade, and will become less anxious on that subject as other markets are opened to our products, which enterprise the present Government are doing all in their power to encourage. All advances in that direction must come from our neighbors, and now that we have something to offer in return for favors sought, a treaty may be arranged which will do justice to both parties. The Globe meanwhile can recast its predictions or devote its prophetic attention more profitably to some other subject.

The Great Tea Case.

The Ottawa correspondent of the Montreal Gazette, writing under date April 3rd, says:—"The great tea case has been brought to a settlement to-day. The owners have furnished evidence which seems to establish that the tea from "Yokohama" was a direct importation, and this has, accordingly, been released. Seventeen hundred and thirty-six half chests from "Hiogo," however, are retained, the seizure being, in the meantime, confirmed, as the evidence seems conclusive that this lot was imported on American account, its destination being changed after it left the port of export. It is said the Minister offered to accept a bond for the full amount and release the tea, and it is not known whether this offer will be acted upon. The Government, throughout, have shown the utmost determination to protect the legitimate direct importer in the advantages which they intended to confer upon him."

The following additional information respecting the great Tea seizure is from the same correspondent, dated Ottawa, April 5:

"I have obtained some particulars of the action of the Minister of Customs in connection with the great tea case. It appears that on Saturday last Mr. Lambe, accompanied by two gentlemen from New York, agents of the Netherlands Trading Company through whose houses advances were made for the purchase of the teas which were under seizure, interviewed the Minister of Customs. These gentlemen brought with them the invoices and consular certificates of the Consuls at Yokohama and Hiogo, showing that the importation of teas from Yokohama and part of the cargo from Hiogo were really and in fact direct importations to Canada, and were intended so to be when the teas were shipped to Japan. The Consular certificate, however, which was intended to cover 1,700 half-chests of tea shipped from Hiogo, and upon which the whole seizure was based, was not satisfactory, and these teas are held for further and satisfactory evidence of this being a direct importation, failing which the lot will be confiscated. The evidence in the department is to the effect that the certificate from the consular agent at Hiogo, which was produced to the Customs authorities, was not a correct one, certain parts of the original certificate being omitted in the copy, showing either an attempt at fraud or a piece of very remarkable and incomprehensible carelessness. It will be necessary for the parties under the circumstances, to establish that this remarkable change in the certificate given in Hiogo to cover the 1,700 half-chests now held under the seizure, was not made for the purpose of defrauding the law of Canada, before the tea will be given up. The evidence produced on Saturday seemed to make the fact clear that the Yokohama importation was direct, although there is a rumor this evening that further information was received to-day, and that orders were given not to deliver up the teas until to-morrow, so that the character of this information can be investigated."

Madoc Notes.

CONCERT AND SUGAR SOCIAL.

A very successful concert and sugar social was held on Tuesday evening in the Masonic Hall in aid of the parsonage fund of the St. John's Church. The musical part of the entertainment was under the direction of Prof. Weiss, who duly discharged his arduous duties, as did also Mrs. Poole, who presided at the piano. The sweets provided having been disposed of, a choice selection of songs were sung by Miss Ross, Miss Kerr, Mrs. White and Miss Simmons, whose efforts were well received. A solo by Rev. Mr. Poole and several songs by Mr. Breakell were loudly applauded, as was also a duet by the same two gentlemen. Several instrumental selections by Mr. and Mrs. Weiss and Mr. Wellington, added much to the evening's entertainment which was under the charge of a number of young ladies in the village, who by their energy succeeded in thus securing between forty and fifty dollars in aid of a laudable object.

THE STATION.

The station yard at the village has become so impassable that the train stops at the road before reaching the station. A good subject for debate for the village debating club (provided they have one) would be, whether it would be cheaper to repair the station yard or remove the station building.

Marmora.

(From a Correspondent.)

The first Public School examination in Bailey's School House took place on Thursday, March 25th, and was well attended by those interested in the subject of education. The several classes underwent a thorough examination in reading, spelling, definition, geography, arithmetic, grammar (including analysis and parsing), English and Canadian history, by their respected and popular teacher, Miss C. Murray, who seems to use the most improved methods in imparting knowledge to the young. When the labors of the day were over, the audience was addressed for a short time by Messrs. F. Beddome and S. Armstrong. The former showed what a vast improvement both teachers and pupils had obtained since the days of Mr. Squeers, &c., also during the space of the last fifteen or twenty years. Some useful and amusing dialogues were then taken part in by a few of the pupils, and after singing two or three pieces the proceedings terminated.

Captain Mitchell, who superintends the workmen at the Dufferin mine, it is said intends employing 500 men during the ensuing summer.

Messrs. B. B. Beddome and C. Istead set off on Tuesday, March 30th, for Manitoba.

As a number of men were on Tuesday March 30th, engaged in drawing materials wherewith to build a dam on Beaver Creek, about seven miles from the village, with a valuable team belonging to Messrs. Gilmour, the ice unfortunately broke and the horses were drowned.

Mr. G. Leonard during the past winter has bought a large number of cattle which he intends to fatten for the Montreal markets, and he is still engaged in the same business.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 7.—The Indianapolis and Evansville railroad company have elected Hugh J. Jewett, of New York President. The line will be rapidly pushed to completion.

The Tribune's West Point special says Gen. Schofield stated that Whittaker will graduate with honor next year. There is no doubt that his assailants were cadets, and Schofield feels sure he will detect them. the Corps of cadets openly express the greatest indignation over the matter. One of the professors said this thing passed beyond the dignified charge of hazing,—this is an offence equalled only by acts of masked burglars and robbers from the slums of New York city. Another professor stated that a year ago Whittaker was officer of the day, and reported a cadet for misconduct, and the cadet was expelled; he was sent back shortly after. Another time a cadet insulted Whittaker, and the latter responded with a blow. Whittaker is very modest and unassuming.

The Sun's Indianapolis special says the constitutional amendment is to be ratified; which the Republicans assert will insure them 5,000 additional votes in the Presidential contest.

Last evening 19 boys were gathered from homes of poverty and sent by Whitelaw Reid to Winchester, Va., to find homes with the farmers. This is the first party Reid has has sent south.

The Bill is aimed at the Canadian railway system, especially the Grand Trunk, Great Western and Canada Southern roads.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 7.

City and Vicinity.

THE HORSE TRADE.—A horse buyer is at present visiting this part of the country purchasing horses for the Montreal market. The prices paid are said to be moderate.

ATHLETICS.—A meeting of those interested in getting up a series of athletic games for the Queen's Birthday will be held at the Mechanic's Institute on Friday night. All are invited.

FOR MANITOBA.—Two trains, made up of 26 cars, with emigrants from the Ottawa and Prescott districts for Manitoba, together with their baggage and implements, passed here last night.

THE ICE TRADE.—Ice-buyers are becoming more liberal in their offers for the stocks in store. An offer of $2.50 per ton has been made to one seller here, and refused, and $3.25 has been paid for the cargo of the schooner Benedict at Kingston, delivered at Sandusky, Ohio.

THE FASHIONS.—No less than three establishments will have their spring openings of millinery, etc., to-morrow, namely Messrs Geo Ritchie & Co., R. Costello and Thos. Muir (late Muir & Lawrance.)

CURE FOR FELON.—Here is a cure for a felon: Take a pint of common soap and stir in air-slacked lime till it is of the consistency of the glazier's putty. Make a leather thimble, fill it with this composition and insert the finger therein, and the cure is certain. This is a domestic application that every housekeeper can obtain promptly.

CONTRACT LET.—We learn that at a meeting of the Directors of the Grand Junction Railway Company, held on the afternoon of the 6th inst., tenders for the construction of a Howe truss bridge across the Trent river at Hastings were opened, and that the contract was awarded to Mr. Dinwoodie. Mr. Dinwoodie, in building the Campbellford bridge, proved himself to be a capable and energetic contractor, and we have no doubt he will satisfactorily complete the bridge at Hastings within the stipulated time.

RAILROAD NOTES.—The express train from the east due here last evening at 6:10 was an hour and three quarters behind time. The train was a very long one and comprised thirteen cars, and as the train was very heavy the delay may be attributed to that. Two engines were required to draw the train westward from here.—Two cars of cattle for Montreal and one of horses for Ogdensburg, New York, passed eastward last evening.—A car load of cattle came in over the Grand Junction Railway this morning.—A car load of wheat was forwarded to West Huntingdon to-day per Belleville & North Hastings Railway.

THE IRISH RELIEF FUND.—The meeting held in the Police Court last night for the purpose of making final arrangements as to the amount collected in this city for the relief of the suffering people of Ireland, secured but a small attendance. The Mayor, who has acted as Chairman and Treasurer throughout, announced that the sum of $812.70 had been collected, and on motion he was authorized to telegraph that amount to the Dublin Mansion House Committee. Votes of thanks to the Mayor as Chairman and Treasurer and to Mr. Eugene McMahon as Secretary brought the proceedings to a close. Belleville has done well in this matter, the total contributions from this city, including $600 contributed by the congregation of St. Michael's Church, footing up the handsome sum of $1,412.70.

INSPECTION.—Brigade Major Worsley visited here yesterday and inspected the armories, with which he expressed himself well satisfied.

MEETING.—A special meeting of the Bay of Quinte Rowing Club will be held in the St Georges restaurant to-morrow evening at eight o'clock. The election of officers will take place and other important matters will be presented to the meeting.

A SUGAR FEED.—On the 31st inst., by invitation of Mr. Charles Johns of Seymour, a number attended a sugar feed which took place in Mr. R. B. Bennett's woods. Several of the Seymour East hunting party were present with their tents and songs, speeches and recitations. A very pleasant afternoon was spent.

LAUNCH.—Capt. Cuthbert launched from his yard at Trenton, on Monday, the yawl which he built during the winter for Capt. Murray, of Toronto. She is a staunchly built craft and promises to be very stiff under canvas. The spars, rigging and sails are all ready, and the new craft will visit Belleville on Friday or Saturday on her way to Toronto, whence she will go during the summer for a cruise on Lake Superior.

SUDDEN DEATH.—A young girl, thirteen years of age, daughter of Mr. Geo. Merrill, of North Front Street, was found dead in bed at her father's residence, about 9:30. She yesterday was afflicted by a slight illness, and the medicine which had been prescribed therefor had been taken by the girl, but without beneficial results. She is supposed to have died from convulsions. Dr. Willson was sent for, but under the provisions of the present Coroner's Act he could not take the required oath, and left the the matter of holding an enquiry into the cause of the girl's demise to the decision of the County Attorney, who was to give his decision in the premises. We since learn that an inquest will be opened at 4 p. m.

16—61.—As an evidence that the business of printing is not one of the most unhealthy, one of the oldest of the staff of the INTELLIGENCER, Mr. Miles, informs us that the above figures indicate (although like a puzzle to him) the date 45 years ago of his renowned type-setting feat in Kingston, and the fact that to-day—also a birthday—he is able to accomplish his "thousand an hour" in good health. He says that during those 45 years, many he knew have been on the chase after quoins, which sometimes were not adapted to the furniture,—others have endeavored to justify without a proper case or rule,—very many have failed to register, and got out of sorts; but that success had followed where Franklin's simple rules had been adhered to, nothing could be plainer.

GAS INSPECTION.—Although the photometer has not yet arrived, and the quality of gas supplied by the Gas Company cannot as yet be tested, the machinery for the testing of meters is in complete order, and this branch of the business was begun on Friday last. A considerable number of meters have been tested, with the result that several have been found to work too slowly and one or two others to operate too fast—the slow ones of course giving the advantage to the consumer and the fast ones to the Company. The apparatus is quite complex, and the tests can be made with perfect accuracy, about one hour being occupied in testing each meter. A variation of 4 per cent. from exactitude in fast meters and of 3 per cent. in slow meters is allowed, and the law requires that any meter in use shall be tested and stamped by the Inspector. This is higly satisfactory both to consumers and to the Company, as the former have complained that their meters were too fast and the latter that they were too slow, and the Government will be thanked by the public at large for establishing the machinery here. Mr. Johnson, Inspector of Weights and Measures, personally conducts all tests, and will gladly welcome all who wish to see the interesting process of testing the accuracy of gas meters.

THE STREET RAILWAY.—We understand that Mr. Marsh, the owner of the Belleville Street Railway, with a view of increasing the traffic, intends issuing tickets, which will entitle the passenger to the round trip, viz. from the wharf to any point on the road to the station and return, at 5 cents each. These tickets to be valid, must be used the same day, and can be had at the drug stores, at the ferry boat and at the office of the Street Railway at the Station. This is a considerable reduction on former rates, and we have no doubt will have the effect of largely increasing the traffic and at the same time be profitable to the owner. We understand that positive instructions have been given to the drivers to make correct time at the different points, so that parties may rely upon the arrival and departure of the cars at the time mentioned in the tariff.

ANOTHER OLD RESIDENT GONE.—We regret to announce the death of Mr. James S. Pake, one of the old residents of this city, who died last night in his 82nd year. Mr. Pake was a son of a U. E. Loyalist who came from the State of New York and settled on Big Island, where the subject of this notice was born. Mr. Pake served as an artilleryman in the rebellion of 1837-8, and received an honorable discharge. He came to Belleville in 1849 and had since resided here. His death was very sudden, he having been down street yesterday morning and seemingly in his usual health, having done some work at Northcott & Alford's sash factory, but about 1 p. m. he was seized with an apopletic fit from which he did not rally, and death ensued some ten hours later. Deceased leaves a widow and one son. The remains will be interred on Big Island.

Marine Notes.

The steamer Hastings will run three trips per week to Belleville until June after which it is probable that she will make daily trips.

The steamer Alexandra will make her first from Belleville to Montreal on the 19th.

The Mary Foster and British Queen did not start yesterday. They were expected to get off this afternoon.

Complaints are made as to the slowness of the steamer Armenia, which occupied five hours yesterday and 6 hours to-day on the trip from Picton up.

The British Elections.

The elections held yesterday show that sixteen Liberals, six Conservatives and fourteen Home Rulers were elected. So far the Liberals have made a net gain of sixty-five seats. The newspapers continue to speculate on the composition of the new Ministry, and there seems to be a very general opinion that Mr. Gladstone should be offered, and that he should accept, the Premiership

Messrs. T. Dillon and Patrick Smith, Home Rulers, have been elected to Parliament for Tipperary county, a Home Rule gain of one. For Cork city, Daly and Parnell, Home Rulers, have been elected, receiving 1,923 and 1,505 votes respectively, defeating Mr. Goulding, Conservative, and Mr. Murphy, Liberal.

It is generally believed Lord Beaconsfield will only announce his resignation in the first sitting of the new Parliament. On the formation of a new Cabinet, Parliament will adjourn for a fortnight, to permit of the re-election of Ministers holding seats in the House of Commons.

Latest returns from all over show the election of 277 Liberals, 163 Conservatives and 35 Home Rulers, giving a net Liberal gain of 68.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Arrived, the Labrador from Havre.

LONDON, April 7.—Dr. Commens and Mr. O'Kelley have been elected for Roscommon County, a Home Rule gain of two.

A Berlin correspondent says the news of Bismarck's resignation created a sensation, but no one believes that he earnestly desires to withdraw, as he has too much unfinished work on hand, nor is it believed that the Emperor could accept his resignation. The Chancellor probably does not care about the proposed receipt stamp tax, but in its rejection he discovers a convenient opportunity for altering a state of things in the Federal Council which has long annoyed him. A fundamental change of the Imperial constitution affecting the Bundesrath is probably his real object.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—J.M. Schaberleon, of Ann Arbor, Michigan, reports the discovery of a comet yesterday, with a tail 3 minutes long.

NEW YORK, April 7.—In the walking match, at noon the score was: Hart, 270; Dobler, 268; Pegram, 249; Howard, 238; Allen, 238; Meritt, 233; Krohne, 217; Hanwaker, 202; McIntyre, 196; Jaybee, 110.

SWINEY, Ohio, April 7.—A negro tramp put off the Bee Line Railway yesterday for refusing to pay his fare, fired at the conductor and the bullet killed Joseph Lehman, of Houston, Texas. The negro fled.

LONDON, April 7.—A Vienna despatch says the Governor General of East Siberia has telegraphed to St. Petersburg that it was irregular Tartars who invaded Russian territory. They unsuccessfuly attempted to cross the Amoor. The Chinese Government will punish the Tartars sharply.

An Open Letter. It Speaks for itself.

WEST TOWNSHEND, VT.

Mr. Editor: Having read in your papers reports of the remarkable cures of catarrh, I am induced to tell "what I know about catarrh," and I fancy the "snuff" and inhaling tube makers (mere dollar grabbers) would be glad if they could emblazon a similar cure in the papers. For 26 years I suffered with catarrh. The nasal passage became completely closed. "Snuff," "dust," "ashes," "inhaling-tubes," and "sticks," wouldn't work though at intervals I would sniff up the so-called catarrh snuff, until I became a valueable tester for such medicines. I gradually grew worse, and no one can know how much I suffered or what a miserable being I was. My head ached over my eyes so that I was confined to my bed for many successive days, suffering the most intense pain, which at one time lasted continuously for 168 hours. All sense of smell and taste gone, sight and hearing impaired, body shrunken and weakened, nervous system shattered, and constitution broken, and I was hawking and spitting seven-eighths of the time. I prayed for death to relieve me of my suffering. A favorable notice in your paper of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy induced me to purchase a package, and use it with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, which applies the remedy by hydrostatic pressure, the only way compatible with common-sense. Well, Mr. Editor, it did not cure me in three-fourths of a second, nor one hour or month, but in less than eight minutes I was relieved, and in 3 months entirely cured, and have remained so for over 16 months. While using the Catarrh Remedy, I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify my blood and strengthen my stomach. I also kept my liver active and bowels regular by the use of his Pleasant Purgative Pellets. If my experience will induce other sufferers to seek the same means of relief this letter will have answered its purpose.

Yours truly,

S. D. REMICK.

Monthly Report of the Women's Christian Association.

The hardest month of the winter has now gone by, and our readers will see how great has been the strain on our small resources, by the many calls made on them each day.

Twenty three (23) families have been relieved by the expenditure of $30.57, wood, soup (given out from the home,) and clothing. The Jail and Magdelene Committees still feel that their work is doing good and report a deep impression made on the minds of many. Several have been persuaded to make a new start in life, and one girl has been taken to the Reformatory at Toronto. The Ward Committees have been active in their work, relieving, as laid in their power, the necessities of the poor and afflicted and also in soliciting new members, 17 of whom have been added to the Association this month.

We have now eleven inmates in the home; eight adults and three children, two women having been received since our last report, and we hope it will be remembered by all, that it is the earnest wish of the Committee in charge that the children should be provided with a comfortable home, either by adoption or otherwise.

The Suppiy Committee has expended $30.; the furnishing Committee 5.50; fuel $21.75: rent and Matron's salary $15.00; miscellaneous expenses $17.20; soup kitchen $2.12; total $91.57.

An entertainment was held for the benefit of the building fund of the new home on Tuesday, the 31st of March, when the sum of $160.00 was realized. And we cannot close this report without thanking most heartily all who took so kind an interest in it, and helped so materially towards its success.

The soup kitchen has assisted about 35 families, and given out about 75 quarts of soup per week. The following gifts have been received, which we acknowledge with many thanks:—May Moxom, 50c.; Mrs. Dion, 25c.; Mrs. J. Becket, 25c.; Mrs. Shortley, 25c.; Mr. A. McFee, $1.00; Mrs. Sills, 25c.; May Dick, $1.00; Mrs. McAnnany, clothing; Mrs. Robertson, two chairs, washstand, carpet, and toilet stand; Mrs. Preston, 4 yds. flannel; Mrs. Tickell, 2 straw mattrasses; Mrs. McLean, house linen, and clothing; Mrs. Carmichael, bedstead and pair of pillow slips; Mrs. Para, bedstead; Mrs. Francis Clarke, clothing; Mrs. Ross, chintz curtains; William E. Holton, top boots and slippers; Mrs. G. Holton, clothing; Mrs. Jamieson, clothing; Miss Usborne, clothing; Mrs. Peters, mattrass; Miss Gould, clothing; Mrs. McArthur, clothing; Miss Bilbrough, half dozen towels; Mrs. Phillips, clothing; Mrs. Hicks, washstand; Mrs. Phippen, clothing; Miss Marshall, clothing; Mrs. Sutherland, clothing; J. Wilson, tea and tobacco.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

Meanwhile the utmost exertions of constables and officers had failed to secure the capture of the robber of the mail. A keen search had been instituted in every direction. The Government offered a reward for his apprehension, and so did the bank whose parcel he had stolen, and which had contained the magnificent sum of fifteen hundred pounds. It was suspected by the authorities that the daring crime had been committed by a convict who sometime before had made his escape from the hulks, and defied capture, notwithstanding that he had been keenly sought for; but as no description of the mail robber could he had, they could not be certain that this escaped convict was the man who had done the deed, The driver of the coach was the only one who was supposed to have got a glimpse of the fellow, and that was so slight and momentary that he altogether failed to give any indications of his appearance by which he could be traced. No one imagined that Charles had got a distinct view of his face. Therefore no questions were put to him on the subject, and he had as yet said nothing himself, though he knew well enough who the man was, even to his name. Charles had reason for this silence. Huffey White was singularly connected with his own early history. He had never forgot that but for this man's interference, M'Koul would have murdered him that night when he came so unwittingly on the three burglars in the Glasgow bank, and wretch though he was, Charles had forbearing feelings towards him on that account. From Huffey White's conduct towards him on that occasion had sprung all the events of his strange, yet, on the whole, fortunate history, and, viewing him through such a medium, it is not very wonderful if he had no violent inclinations to denounce him. Still Charles could not forget that this White was a desperate and daring man, a criminal of the very worst class, and that he owed it as a duty to society to do what he could to have his injurious career terminated. Eventually, therefore, as he grew stronger, he resolved to disclose the truth to Mr. Ravensworth.

The latter had taken a keen interest and an active part in the unsuccessful pursuit of the daring highwayman. The blow he had given to Charles—disfiguring his countenance, reducing him to weakness, and endangering his life—had fearfully enraged him, stirring up feelings of wrath in his bosom which those who knew him did not think him capable of cherishing. Even Lydia, who was aware that he had passionate depths in his nature, was surprised at the intensity of his wrath, and the strength of his desire for the capture of the robber. In addition to the rewards offered by Government and the bank, Mr. Ravensworth added another of fifty pounds; but notwithstanding the zealous activity called into force by these powerful inducements, not the slightest trace of the offender could be had, and Philip chafed angrily at the thought that he might escape the punishment he so richly deserved.

One afternoon as he sat by the bedside of the youth, expressing bitter regret at the failure of the officers to obtain any information of the identity or whereabouts of the ruffian, Charles, whose strength was now returning, and who was growing stronger every day, smiled quietly up at him, and observed—

'I know the fellow well enough.'

'You know the fellow?' repeated Ravensworth, with a wondering look.

'Yes. I saw his face and recognized him.'

'Good gracious, Charles, are you serious?' exclaimed the other, starting back in his seat, and gazing with doubt and amazement.

'Perfectly serious. It was the seeing and recognizing him that gave him the advantage whereby he was able to strike me. The shock of the surprise was so great that involuntarily I quitted my hold. It was then he drew the weapon and struck the blow.'

Philip sat gazing at Charles in silent uncertainty, fearing that his mind had begun to wander. The youth saw, and, interpreting the expression on his face, smiled again.

'I am not raving,' he remarked. 'I could have told this at the first, but cared not to do so. On reflection, however, I find my scruples are not justifiable, and for the sake of society the man should be brought to punishment. You have heard me speak of him before, His name is Huffey White.'

'What!—one of the Glasgow Bank robbers?

'The one who gave me over to Silas Morgan.'

'Hush!' said Ravensworth, looking round in alarm. 'Woodford may hear you, and the fact so important to conceal may be discovered, that you are not my son. Wait a moment till I see if he is at hand.'

The sight of Woodford working in the garden allayed his apprehension, and, closing the door of the chamber, he returned eagerly to the side of the couch.

'Why did you not reveal this sooner, Charles?'

'Because, laugh at me as you may, I have a grateful feeling towards that man; for I cannot forget that but for his interference that night I would have been murdered. The other two wanted to kill me, but he persuaded them against it, and took me away to the showman's caravan.'

'That was out of no kindness to you returned Philip. Your murder would have increased their danger tenfold, and he saw that, and so disposed of you in another way.'

'Probably, but he saved my life nevertheless.'

'It was not his fault that he did not take it on a later occasion, then,' said Philip, pointing to the other's bandaged brow. 'This is folly, Charles—utter folly. To screen a wretch like that, is to do a grievous wrong to society.'

'I feel it so, and therefore I speak now.'

'But are you certain this mail robber and White are the same? You were a mere child when you first encountered him, and I am not aware that you have seen him since, till the night of the mail robbery.'

'No, but his is a face which once seen—particularly in the circumstances in which I first saw it—is not to be forgotten. His broken nose, and the peculiar squint in his left eye, give an expression to his countenance which——Why, what's the matter?'

'A broken nose and a squint in the left eye, did you say?' exclaimed Philip breathlessly.

'Have you seen a face of that kind?'

A young man fell into an opening on the street, the other night, and when he got out said it put him in mind of some of the dry goods advertisements, headed "fall openings." He was illustrated with "cuts."

The Windsor Hotel

Is one of the finest hotels on this continent. It is a credit to the liberality of our Montreal friends and an ornament to our city. Its corridors are wide and beautiful. The parlors and dining rooms, with their costly embellishments, and the reception rooms, are "chefs d'œuvre." Its "menus" are unexcelled. It is a luxurious home for Montreal families who prefer to relieve themselves from the care of a household, and a caravansary which cannot be surpassed for visitors. Still, here as elsewhere, man is subject to the laws of health. Sickness will follow where indiscretion leads. An unseemly carouse tells as badly upon the occupant of this house as upon the dweller in a cottage. Men are apt to over-indulge where food is very tempting, and ignore the results. Happily the remedy for such indiscretions may be had in every drug store in the Dominion, in the shape of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

MR. M. GILES, ESQ.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition—meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned f I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

AUGUST FLOWER.

The immense sale and great popularity of Green's August Flower in all towns and villages in the civilized world has caused many imitators to adopt similar names, expecting to reap a harvest for themselves at the expense of the afflicted. This medicine was introduced in 1868, and for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, with their effects, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Stomach, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart, vertigo, etc, etc., it never has failed to our knowledge. Three doses will relieve any case of Dyspepsia. Two million bottles sold last year. Price 75 cents. Samples 10 cents.

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

LACHINE CANAL.

Notice to Machinist-Contractors.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned (Secretary of Railways and Canals) and endorsed "Tender for Lock Gates, Lachine Canal," will be received at this office until the arrival of the Eastern and Western Mails on THURSDAY, the 3rd day of JUNE next, for the construction of Gates, and the necessary machinery connected with them, for the new Locks on the Lachine Canal.

Plans, Specifications, and General Conditions can be seen at this office on and after THURSDAY the 20th day of MAY, next, where forms of tender can also be obtained.

Parties tendering are expected to provide the special tools necessary for, and to have a practical knowledge of, works of this class, and are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same; and, further, an accepted bank cheque for a sum equal to $250, for the gates of each lock, must accompany each tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfilment of the contract the party or parties whose tender it is proposed to accept will be notified that their tender is accepted, subject to a deposit of five per cent. of the bulk sum of the contract—of which the sum sent in with the tender will be considered a part—to be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General within eight days after the date of the notice.

Ninety per cent. only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the work.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

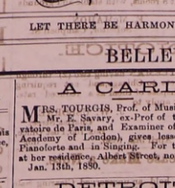
DETROIT THROAT & LUNG INSTITUTE.



253 WOODWARD AVENUE.
DETROIT, MICH.

M. Hilton Williams, M. D.

(Graduate of Victoria College at Toronto and Member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.)

PROPRIETOR.

(PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED SINCE 1870.)

Over 15,000 Persons Successfully Treated since the establishment of our Institute in Detroit from all parts of the United States and Canada, for some of the various diseases of the head, throat and lungs. The only institute of the kind in Michigan specially devoted to the treatment of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, also diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heart.

Catarrh and Throat Diseases are every year becoming more prevalent and more generally fatal. "Aggravated as they are, if left to themselves, their termination is Consumption and death.

A large portion of the deaths from throat and lung disease are those of young people—those who have not reached the meridian of life. Their hold upon life is strong and all the functions of the body active. If they were properly treated, a great majority of them would recover. Such is my experience. But I have no faith in their treatment by the stomach. Cod liver oil is good nourishment, but it is not medicine. No medicine given by the stomach exerts a curative influence on the lungs.

We are positive in saying that three-fourths of the cases of Consumption in this country might be saved did they awaken to the true sense of danger when the disease first appeared in the head and throat; the best writers, and the ablest physicians of the age have expressed similar opinions.

With these facts before us we feel that we would be recreant to our responsibilities were we to remain silent and see our fellow beings pass away like autumn leaves while there is hope for so many.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by medical inhalations, combined with proper constitutional and hygenic treatment.

If on account of distance, expense of travel or physical debility, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and when fully answered and returned remedies can be sent per express (duties free) together with full directions for use. Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION.

TUESDAY, April 6.

In the Senate the Hon. T. N. Gibbs, the newly appointed member was introduced.

In the House of Commons, Sir John Macdonald introduced a Bill for the final settlement of claims to lands in Manitoba by occupancy.

The Government's resolution providing for the payment of certain officials, &c., in the North-West Territories was read in Committee, and afterwards incorporated in the proper Bill.

A number of returns were laid on the tables.

Sir Leonard Tilley took the opportunity of making his unfairly interrupted speech on the occasion of introducing some further amendments of a slight character to the tariff, of which the Mail gives the following clear summary: He contended that he had dealt with the finances of the country in his former speech in a spirit of fair play, and completely free from personal enmity towards his predecessors. The estimates for the year 1881 are $25,007,203. There are some supplementary estimates for North-West purposes of about $200,000, and the sum of $25,207,103 will be the full estimates for the present year, so far as at present ascertained. In presenting these figures, Sir Leonard made a comparison of them with his estimates of 1873-4, and with the estimates of subsequent years, showing how nearly the estimates of his last year compared with those of his successors. He dealt next with the taxation of the people from 1868 to 1869. The taxation had apparently increased one dollar per head in consequence of the assumption of the debts of the larger provinces and the rearranging of the debts of the smaller provinces; but this was not really taxation in addition, as what was taken with one hand was given to the provinces with the other. The Intercolonial railway also made necessary some additional taxation as one of the necessities of Confederation. The Post office also called for extra expenditure over its receipts. The lighthouses, the fisheries, the Pacific railway, the new Lieutenant-Governors, and other expenditures account for the gradual extension of expenditure. Of course, the main item in the expenditure has gone on increasing also, partly naturally, and partly in consequence of the expenditures referred to. From 1869 to 1873 there had been an increase of $6,000,000 on the ordinary expenditure of $24,119,880. The leading items of this increase were as follows:—Intercolonial railway, $14,110,000; debt arrangements, $13,190,000; total, $27,300,000. In fact, these two necessary and inevitable items made by themselves a larger sum than the whole increase of debt from 1867 to 1873. On the other hand, there had been an increase of debt from 1873 to 1878 of $29,000,000. If we add to this the expenditure for contracts made by the late Government to the extent of $6,951,000, we get a total of $54,783,607 as the real increase of debt under the late Government. The present Government had to provide for the completion of Mr. Mackenzie's railway contracts in the North-West, building the missing link and saving the expenditures of Mr. Mackenzie from being ruinous, thus completing them with more energy than he had shown. In relation to this Pacific railway matter, Sir Leonard expressed his amazement at Mr. Mackenzie's opposition to the British Columbian section, and directed the attention of the House to the weakness of Mr. Mackenzie's position.

In the course of his speech, Sir Leonard developed more fully than ever before in the course of this session the Pacific Railway policy of the Government. He said that in the course of the next two years they would expend at least two millions per annum in opening the railway from Lake Superior to Winnipeg and 200 miles beyond, including the British Columbia section. This would make $20,000,000, and after this no more than five millions per annum would be expended, including the British Columbia work. It was calculated that the whole cost of the railway from Lake Superior to the Pacific Ocean would be no more than $60,000,000. It was also calculated that the sales of lands and the revenue derived from them would, even taking a less hopeful view than was taken by Sir John Macdonald, pay all interest on cost, and even more than that.

Sir Leonard, after dealing with the Pacific Railway, took up the question of the tariff, discussed the singular petition that was presented on the day he made his budget speech, and defended his position in New Brunswick. He stated that New Brunswick actually received as much from the Dominion as she paid into it. The manufacturing interests of New Brunswick have always been underrated; as a matter of fact there have always been a good many prosperous industries there. At present they are all prosperous. A sugar refinery is to be opened at Moncton, machinery for which is now being purchased in England.

At this point Sir Albert Smith demanded to know how many men the sugar refinery would employ. Sir Leonard seldom indulges in a joke, even under superior advantages, but Sir Albert was really too tempting, and so the Finance Minister replied that it would employ so many men and encourage so much industry that Sir Albert would be likely to be returned at the next election. He cornered another radiant Reformer by defending the name of a single man who had been driven into insolvency as a result of the National Policy. How could we tell that I said Mr. Weldon or Mr. Burpee, and that gave the Finance Minister an opening, and he put this question, "If you cannot find that out, how comes it that the Opposition are always telling us that bankruptcies are the result of the National Policy?" But the Opposition are not given to entering into details. A good general yarn does duty too well to be weakened by facts. The Finance Minister was very minute in his criticisms of the Opposition, following them into almost every detail of their charges against the National Policy and giving them day and date, facts and figures, statistics and statements in a way that quite silenced Mr. Mackenzie and even Mr. Anglin.

After recess the Finance Minister, in reply to Mr. G. W. Ross, repeated the refutation he had previously made of the member for Middlesex's statements concerning the increase of the rate of customs and excise per capita payments. Mr. Ross had greatly overstated the present per centage of customs payment in the various Provinces. He also read telegrams from the sugar refining company, the nut-lock company, &c., all tending to show that the industries in question were in a state of encouraging progress. An article from the St. John Telegraph, the ablest of the eastern journals, caused a certain amount of discussion. The Telegraph stated editorially that certain furniture could be bought now in St. John cheaper than in New York and Boston. Sir Leonard read it and Mr. Guthrie suggested that the Telegraph's leading article was paid for as an advertisement but Sir Leonard Tilley denied that Mr. Elder had been bought. The Finance Minister dealt with the change that has manifested itself in the Opposition tone as to the effect of the tariff on English and American trade. At one time they told us our tariff was un-English. When it appeared plainly that it was not un-English, then we were told it was not a National Policy at all. He denounced at the end of speech the unpatriotism of rejoicing at the defeat of Lord Beaconsfield's Government, because it was understood that somehow this would break up certain supposed arrangements between Sir John Macdonald and Lord Beaconsfield. The vehemence with which Sir Leonard denounced the want of patriotism was warmly accepted by the House, and when he closed at 9:15, after speaking from four o'clock, he was greeted with repeated cheers. Adjourned.

Sir Albert Smith followed. He reviewed the ante-Confederation utterances of Sir Leonard when he was advocating the entrance of New Brunswick into the Confederation, and claimed the utter failure of his predictions. Alluding to the stigma cast by Sir Charles Tupper upon Sir Richard Cartwright, that he was the king of deficits, Sir Albert said that Sir Alexander Galt had had to declare when Finance Minister the largest deficits within the experience of this country, and yet he was now the man whom the Tories delighted to honor. In conclusion he dwelt at length upon the alleged prejudicial operation of the tariff on the lumbering and shipping interests of the Maritime Provinces, and especially New Brunswick.

Mr. Tasse followed. He dealt with a great variety of topics connected with the National Policy. Mr. Tasse sought high game and dealt with the arguments of Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Richard Cartwright. Naturally enough, he devoted some time to a discussion of the lumber trade. He accused the Liberal party during the Ontario campaign of having in the Globe published an alleged "French domination." The Globe has sneered at French Canadians all through the campaign. Mr. Tassee read extracts from the Globe to denounce them for their inimical dealing towards the French Canadian people. He repudiated and resented these extracts from the Globe, and wanted to know what Messrs. Laurier and Casgrain thought of them. He dealt also with the Pacific Railway, showing that the late Government had fully committed itself to that project. He read an effective quotation from one of Mr. Blake's campaign speeches in May last, in which that gentleman advised that "until" our own experience was added to the experience of "other nations," it would not be wise to reverse the National Policy. He concluded in an eloquent peroration which was very warmly applauded.

The debate was continued by Mr. Gilmour (Liberal). He dwelt more particularly on the effects of the National Policy in New Brunswick and in other Provinces, and gave figures to show that the shipping and lumbering interests had been seriously affected by the Government's fiscal policy.

Mr. Killam moved the adjournment of the debate, and the House rose at 1:15 a. m.

Practical Hints for April.

Barley.—A fine condition of the soil is indispensable for this crop. Old barley growers know all about this, but many want to grow barley (because it is a profitable crop when successful. It will succeed in any good, well prepared soil, but a mellow clay loam which can be brought to good tilth is to be preferred. But good crops of bright grain may be grown on lighter loams if manured in good heart. It may be made an excellent soiling crop to follow clover, and as a change from oats. We prefer to sow thickly, say 2½ bushels per acre, but opinions vary in this respect, and from 1½ to 2½ bushels is the range.

Oats.—Early sown oats in our hot climate are, as a rule, better than the late sown. Our climate is not so favorable for oats as the cooler northern and northeastern ones. There oats are heavy and yielding, and seed from Canada, Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick, will produce well for two or three years. By using seed from these northern localities, oats may be grown in the Middle States weighing from 35 to 45 pounds per bushel.

Corn.—This is one of those crops which require a warm soil, and which suffer from a late frost. But the ground may be prepared in season to help one in the planting afterwards. As good a crop may be grown on stubble as on sod if the right method is followed; and this is simply to give sufficient manure and thorough cultivation. 100 bushels per acre may be produced, and this means double or treble pay for the same labor. Far larger crops than this have been grown, and of late years, thanks to the general diffusion of scientific knowledge through the best of the agricultural journals, the average yield of this grain has been doubled. A yield of 75 or 80 bushels is now secured where 30 or 40 used to satisfy farmers. The use of fertilizers and good methods of cultivation have effected this; but the same means may be made available for even larger yields, and one should never stay satisfied with a large crop, but try for still greater ones. The time of planting of course varies with the latitude, and these remarks apply when corn-planting is in season.

Oxen.—Garget and abortion trouble the dairyman. We believe in prevention. The former may surely be prevented by due care. As soon as the udder contains milk, it should be relieved by drawing off a part of it, if there any tendency to hardness. These diseases are often a consequence of weakness. A fat animal may be weak for want of food. When a cow's time approaches and the feed is suddenly reduced, disturbance of the system is caused. Circulation becomes irregular, and congestion occurs in the most susceptible organs. The udder is the principal one of these at this period, and an attack of garget is very sure to occur. This may not always be so, but long experience and observation convinces us that it generally is. This remedy is obvious.

Swine.—Corn is high, but so is freight, and as 800 lbs. of corn may be carried in a pork barrel, it is a question if it will not pay to feed 50 cent corn to 4 cent pigs. Every bushel of corn fed relieves the market of a surplus, and makes the remainder more saleable. This is to be considered. Also the fact that there is a kind of pig that may be fed the most profitably and that one kind is the one to discover and choose. Hereafter farmers will save their profits in all probability, just as is done in other manufacturing business. Animals are living farm machines.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, APRIL 8.

The License Inspectorship.

The Grit organ has retired from the discussion of the dismissal of Mr. Ross, and now manfully declares that it "would be pleased to see Mr. Ross in the office he has been removed from"—not very complimentary to the new occupant of the situation, but still straight-forward in condemnation of the appointment.

A Government that would make such an unwarranted dismissal is not likely to repeat except forced to do so, as they were compelled, by public sentiment, to refund a portion of the people's money expended in the ever famous corkscrew expedition to Manitoba.

The organ concedes all we have said, except that it still denies Mr. Ross' reappointment by the circular of Dec. 30th, 1879. It has been already so clearly shown that the circular reappointed all the Inspectors that it is only necessary now for the public to pronounce judgment on the subject. Further it condemns itself by saying it would like to see Mr. Ross occupying the position from which he has been causelessly and unjustly removed, but as it approved of the appointment of Mr. Grainger, such hypocrisy can be taken for all it is worth. It is another instance of that dubious state of the feelings which the poet has fittingly immortalized in the familiar lines,

"How happy could I be with either
Were 'tother dear charmer away."

Mr. Ross and his friends will scarcely be soft-soaped in such a way, and the public, irrespective of party, will not allow their just indignation to be soothed by a hypocritical expression of sympathy which has heretofore found no expression from the same quarter.

The New Senator.

The fitness of the appointment of the Hon. T. N. Gibbs, of Oshawa, to the Senate as successor to the late Hon. Benjamin Seymour, of Port Hope, will find few to question it. Mr. Gibbs is not only the most prominent supporter of the Government, but the ablest and most influential Conservative in that section of the country, hence the appointment was looked for, and has given general satisfaction. The following biographical sketch of Mr. Gibbs will be interesting at the present time:—Senator Gibbs is of Norman descent, being a son of Mr. Thomas Gibbs, who came to Canada from Kingsbridge, Devonshire, England, in 1819, who, on his arrival in this country, settled at Terrebonne, Province of Quebec, and in 1832 removed to Oshawa, Ontario. His cousin, F. W. Gibbs, Esq., C. B., was formerly a tutor to H. R. H. the Prince of Wales. The new senator was born in Terrebonne, Quebec, on the 11th March, 1821. He was educated in England, and in August, 1843, he married Almira, youngest daughter of the late Joseph Ash, Esq., of Cobourg, Ontario. He was elected first Reeve of Oshawa in 1850, and first Warden of Ontario in 1854. In the latter year he unsuccessfully contested North Ontario at the general election. He sat for South Ontario in the Canada Assembly from 1866 until the Union, when he was returned to the Commons, where he continued to represent South Ontario until the general election in 1874, when he was defeated. On the 14th June, 1873, he was sworn in as a member of the Privy Council, and was Secretary of State from that date until the 1st July, when he was transferred to the Inland Revenue Department, where he remained until the resignation of the Government on the 5th November the same year. Upon the death of the Hon. Malcolm Cameron on the 1st June, 1876, he was returned for South Ontario. He has also occupied several other prominent and influential positions, among which are President of the Dominion Telegraph Company, director of the Confederation Life Association, President of the Standard Bank, and Chairman in Canada of the English and Scottish Investment Company of Canada.

A Sensible View.

A very sensible view of the new financial policy inaugurated by the Government of Canada is taken by Herapath's Journal, one of the leading and most influential of the railway and commercial journals of London, England. In alluding to Sir Leonard Tilley's budget speech the journal in question says:

"Canada would never have gone to Protection if the United States had not led the way, but the truth is that Canada was compelled to adopt it in self-defence, and we think it would have been extreme folly on the part of Canada if she had not. She is now prospering under her sensible defensive measure."

This is undoubtedly true, as is shown by Nos. 3 and 4 of the tariff resolutions, which provide for practical reciprocity with the United States. The shock to the feelings of English free traders caused by the fact that a general addition was made to the rate of duty payable on imports into Canada has no doubt subsided, now that reflection has shown them that no other course was open to Canadians, unless they wished to become commercially dependent upon, and as a sequence to transfer their allegiance politically as well as commercially to, the United States. The effect of the change has therefore been to show to our neighbors that we wish to remain independent of them in all respects and to compel them to trade with us on equal terms, as well as to demonstrate once more to the people of the mother country that our love for British connection remains unchanged and unalterable, and that Canadians are determined to maintain their present political status at all hazards. By the wise method in which the alterations in the tariff have been made the increased duties have not only been made to practically favor British manufacturers as compared with those of the United States, but beside this, home manufactures and the other great interests of the Dominion have been encouraged, and the result has been highly encouraging. Defence not defiance, has been the motto of the Government, and it will, we have no doubt, be steadily adhered to by the present administration, despite the outcry of our neighbors and those unpatriotic journals and individuals that are doing their best to forward the interests of Yankee manufacturers.

Madoc Notes.

THE IRON FOUNDRY.

The iron Foundry of Mr. John White is being enlarged to accommodate the rapidly increasing business. Material is on the ground for an extension of two wings to the Foundry of three stories in height, one of which is to be 26x35 feet and the other 30x40 feet.

Mr. White has made extensive purchases of new machinery from the Joseph Hall Works. One car load of the new machinery was brought to the village on Monday last. In all between two and three thousand dollars worth of new machinery is being added for the manufacture of reapers and mowers and the manufacture and repairs of mining machinery.

The men in the foundry are actively engaged in fitting patterns and placing the machinery in position, as they expect by June 1st to have reapers and mowers of their own manufacture in the market.

Mr. White is deserving of support for the enterprise he has exhibited in extending his manufacturing business, which cannot fail to be of great benefit to the village and surrounding district.

SIDEWALKS.

The sidewalks in the village are in a bad condition, so that pedestrians after night fall find great difficulty in picking their way along the streets without falling, particularly as gas of the illuminating description is yet in embryo.

LIVERY.

The two livery stables in the village drive a flourishing trade. Opposition is said to be the life of trade, but does not hold true in the case of the opposition liveries in question, as we noticed prices cut down to a fine thing for a farmer in Thurlow who wished to drive some distance into the country.

HOTELS.

There will be no lack of hotel accommodation this summer for the comfort of the speculators who are expected to flock into the village this season. Besides the extension to Simmons' Hotel, Mrs. Moon is preparing, as we before noted, to build, and the store formerly occupied by Mr. Cross, nearly opposite the branch store of Messrs. Foster & Reid, is being tastefully fitted up for a hotel by Messrs. Conley & McNeil, who expect to open in a few days.

The Wabash System.

Reported Lease of the Great Western of Canada.

A THROUGH LINE TO NEW YORK.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE MAIL.]

NEW YORK, April 7.—It is reported here on good authority that the Wabash system, of which Jay Gould is the controlling spirit has leased the Great Western Railway of Canada, guaranteeing the bondholders a certain rate of interest. This will give Gould a through line from the West to New York, the Erie road being in his hands.

CONSULAR RETURNS.—The Kingston News publishes the Consular Returns of exports for the three months ending 31st march, 1880, for Kingston, Picton, Napanee and Gananoque, which shows a considerable increase over the corresponding quarter of last year. The exports from Kingston were $99,978; Picton, $16,088; Napanee, $65,965; Gananoque, $25,114. Of this amount barley was the chief item, the value being $139,700, or considerably more than half the exports.

—John Johnson, a patient in the general Hospital, Ottawa, committed suicide on the 7th inst. by cutting his throat.

The Spring Fashions.

Display at Leading Houses.

The display of spring fashions and novelties at the leading houses, is this season fully as early as usual, and quite as brilliant and attractive, the leading establishments keeping up a spirited rivalry as to which of them shall supply the most stylish articles for the smallest price.

MESSRS. GEO. RITCHIE & Co. made, as usual, a very complete display in every department, and their spacious premises were early thronged with visitors, chiefly ladies, of course. Mr. Ritchie desired that no extended notice be made of the display, and this is the less necessary, as all the votaries of fashion visit this establishment, whose facilities for securing the latest novelties and purchasing at the cheapest rates, are well known. It may be mentioned that the stock of carpets is very large, and that heavy importations which are now on their way will shortly be added,—whilst, although a large portion of the stock is to arrive, the store is already crowded with stock from cellar to roof. The business of this old-established house seems to be larger now than ever before.

COSTELLO'S.

At Mr. Richard Costello's establishment the display of fashionable millinery is as usual large, and in the best taste, embracing the newest styles from Paris, London and New York. Very large hats are worn again, and the small Normandy bonnets are the favorite shapes. Favorite styles in hats are the Cape May, Columbia and Island Queen—the latter for Misses' wear. For trimmings Oriental silks and ribbons are generally used, and flowers are more used than formerly. Jet trimmings are likewise much favored, also Breton laces, whilst fancy feathers, birds, tinselled trimmings and other ornaments are fashionable. Every variety of taste can be suited at Costello's, and all admirers of the beautiful in millinery, &c., ought to visit there.

MUIR'S DISPLAY.

This establishment, whilst specially confining itself to millinery wear, is worthy of special notice in that it presents a fineness, variety and character of exhibits equalling any other place of business. A great variety of hats, bonnets, ribbons, flowers were shown. The hats were of the Japanese styles, with all their characteristic ornations and adornings in almost every color and shade—rustic, cashmere pattern, &c., &c., &c. The shapes of the hats were very numerous and their styles were of almost every conceivable shape and pattern, whilst their trimmings and ornamentations were in strict keeping with the "shaping innovations." In bonnets there was as usual a large display of styles and materials In the former were the "Diadem" and "Beatrice," which were made particularly attractive by the manner of their trimming and general ornamentation, and fully attested the handiwork of one well skilled in her business. There has been a great change in the mode and character of trimming and in the styles of the trimmings used. The shell pink, old gold, cashmere and other trimmings are particularly conspicuous in variety of color and manner of manufacture. Altogether the display of this establishment is an excellent one and well worthy the attention of all who wish to attire themselves in the forthcoming novelties.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

LONDON, April 8.—The hundreth anniversary of the birth of Channin was celebrated last night at St. John's Hall, 2,000 persons were present. The platform was adorned with American and English flags. A letter from Lowell, the American Minister, was read, excusing his absence on account of the illness of his wife. Doctor Collyer, of the United States, delivered the final address.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 8.—It is reported that the Russian troops in Southern Siberia have been ordered to march to the Chinese frontier.

AMERICAN.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Secretary Ramsay instructed General Schofield to employ detectives to work out the cadet Whittaker outrage case.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The Herald's fund is now providing a daily full meal for 13,305 children.

The Sun's Cohoes special says the striking spinners at Harmony Mills are weakening.

Washington specials:

The Herald says that Consul Mosby, at Hong Kong, writes to a friend that he has been threatened with dismissal for uncovering the frauds in China, and that he wishes to give the administration a chance of carrying out their threat. Mosby adds that he continues to hold his post because he has not completed his investigation.

The World says the House Pacific Railroad Committee in all probability will favor the forfeiting 36,000,000 acres of land not already earned by construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad. These lands are claimed to be worth to the Government over $100,000,000.

The Sun says that the culmination of a series of disgraceful exhibitions of personal ill temper was reached in the house yesterday when Sparks called Clymer a liar. The House unquestionably would have been treated to a free fight had it not been for the gentlemanly manner in which Clymer behaved under very trying circumstances. The Democratic majority cannot be too severely censured for the manner in which certain of its members have conducted themselves since Congress met.

—A man was in Ottawa yesterday passing $1 0 Consolidated Bank bills. The bank, which is now defunct never issued any $10 bills, $70 000 of that denomination having been stolen before the bank commenced business, and, in consequence no bills were issued higher than $5.

Marine Notes.

The schooner Philo Bennett arrived this morning from Mill Point. She will load barley at Brennan & Vandervoort's.

The schooner Mary Foster left this morning for Charlotte, with hop poles and ice.

The steam barge Saxon, which has been repaired at Mill Point, was launched yesterday and is now loading ice.

The steamer Deseronto has also been launched and is now running between Mill Point and Napanee.

The steamer Hiles is expected to resume her route between Trenton, Belleville and Picton on Saturday next.

Raid.—The police made a raid last night on several houses of ill-fame and captured ten of the keepers and inmates. The parties were brought before the Police Court this morning and all pleaded guilty, except four, who were acquitted. The keepers of the houses were fined $50 each or 6 months in gaol, and the inmates $20 each or 3 months in gaol.

Drill Association. — Brigade Major Worsley has made arrangements for the organization of a Drill Association in connection with the High School here. The corps will be uniformed by the Government, and a drill instructor from A Battery will give instructions for two months, after which the officers of the local battalions will instruct the boys in their drill

Another for the N. P.—We have it on good authority that the business of the Weber piano manufactory in Kingston has so largely increased under the N. P. that the number of workmen in that establishment will shortly be doubled. Mr. T. H. B. Purdy, who represents the company in this district, to-day made arrangements for bringing in from Madoc over the North Hastings Railway, 10,000 feet of maple and birch lumber to be worked up in the manufactory in question.

Railway News.—The Hastings Star says:—"Mr. Ellis, the engineer of the Grand Junction, in company with Mr. H. Fowlds, walked over the proposed line between this village and the narrows. From the cursory examination made, it is believed that a very good line, with easy gradients, can be located. The survey will, we understand, be proceeded with at once, and it is expected the line will run a few rods north of the churches. The traffic for the month of March from this station per the Grand Junction Railway amounted to thirty one cars as under. Grain, 10; Flour, 8; Wood, 1; Cattle, 1; Lumber, 5; Sundries, 6. Total cars, 31."

DEAD OR ALIVE?

A Question Which the Doctors Have Decide.

The Intelligencer yesterday recorded the sudden death of Miss Mary Merrill, (aged 23, not 13, as stated) who was reported to have been found dead in bed in her father's house, and was supposed to have died from convulsions. By direction of the County Attorney, Dr. Willson held an inquest in the evening, and, the Coroner and Dr. Curlett having viewed the body, and testified that death had resulted from convulsions, a verdict to that effect was returned.

This morning a report spread—where originating could not be learned—that the young lady was not dead, but in a trance, and that though apparently not breathing, her heart beat very faintly. The body is said to have presented so life-like an apperrance that, despite the medical testimony given at the inquest, the parents resolved to have a further examination made, to determine whether or not their hopes had any ground. Drs. Tracy, Ridley and Allan were accordingly called in, and at about 1 o'clock this afternoon commenced their examination with the object of determining the question which heads this narrative. A representative of this journal visited Mr. Merrill's residence, which is a short distance north of the railway bridge on North Front Street, at a few minutes after 1 o'clock, but was refused admittance to the house and could get no further information than that the doctors were then engaged in their task and that the indications were hopeful.

The medical men concluded their examination at about 2:30, and Drs. Ridley and Tracy stated that beyond doubt death had ensued. The case, however, presented some interesting and unusual features, and they used every means to restore animation, but without success.

A gap in the carving knife betokens that a spring chicken has been in the house.

It is strongly suspected that it was Ananias who invented the circus poster.

The weather is cold enough for February. The wheels of the ferry steamers iced up considerably yesterday, and the streets, some of which were in bad condition for travel, are now in good order.

The Liberal successes in the English and Scotch counties increase the surprise occasioned by the borough elections. A Liberal majority, independently of Home Rulers, is now assured. The specific charges of intimidation of undue influence by sub-agents among Lord Derby's tenantry are in favor of Liberal candidates are published. It is stated that Parnell will retain his seat for Cork city, for which he has been returned in conjunction with Daly. O'Gorman, Home Ruler, who was defeated for Waterford City, will stand as a candidate for Meath County, for which constituency Parnell had been nominated. Bitter contests are waging in the Counties of Mayo and Cork, where Parnell's candidates were brought forward at the last moment, and are opposing Moderate Home Rulers. Parnellites already elected for other constituencies are stumping these Counties, and inflamatory placards and broadsides are being distributed, bitterly attacking the moderates.

An Open Letter. It Speaks for itself.

West Townshend, Vt.

Mr. Editor: Having read in your papers reports of the remarkable cures of catarrh, I am induced to tell "what I know about catarrh," and I fancy the "snuff" and inhaling tube makers (mere dollar grabbers) would be glad if they could emblazen a similar cure in the papers. For 26 years I suffered with catarrh. The nasal passage became completely closed. "Snuff," "dust," "ashes," "inhaling-tubes," and "sticks," wouldn't work though at intervals I would sniff up the so-called catarrh snuff, until I became a valueable tester for such medicines. I gradually grew worse, and no one can know how much I suffered or what a miserable being I was. My head ached over my eyes so that I was confined to my bed for many successive days, suffering the most intense pain, which at one time lasted continuously for 168 hours. All sense of smell and taste gone, sight and hearing impaired, body shrunken and weakened, nervous system shattered, and constitution broken, and I was hawking and spitting seven-eighths of the time. I prayed for death to relieve me of my suffering. A favorable notice in your paper of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy induced me to purchase a package, and use it with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, which applies the remedy by hydrostatic pressure, the only way compatible with common-sense. Well, Mr. Editor, it did not cure me in three-fourths of a second, nor one hour or month, but in less than eight minutes I was relieved, and in 3 months entirely cured, and have remained so for over 16 months. While using the Catarrh Remedy, I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify my blood and strengthen my stomach. I also kept my liver active and bowels regular by the use of his Pleasant Purgative Pellets. If my experience will induce other sufferers to seek the same means of relief this letter will have answered its purpose.

Yours truly,

S. D. REMICK.

Nothing is so conducive to a man's remaining a bachelor as stopping for one night at the house of a married friend and being kept awake for five or six hours by the crying of a cross baby. CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'I have, I have!' cried Ravensworth, greatly excited. 'I have seen such a face, and only recently. Where was it? Confound it! where was it? Ha! Yes, I remember. At the inn at Bridlington—the Beresford Arms. Is this Huffey White a stout man, with a thick short neck, and a head round like a bullet.'

'Ay,' and with glossy black curls—at least he had these when I last encountered him, though not on the first occasion.'

'The very fellow!' cried Philip with uncontrollable excitement. 'He was at the Beresford Arms not a week ago. I saw him in the public room there, as if he sing and a little jig. The consummate scoundrel! to lurk in the last place where he is likely to be sought for—almost next door to the bank whose parcel he so cleverly secured. I'll ride over at once, and if he is there still I'll have him apprehended.'

'Don't be too hasty, though,' counselled Charles. 'This may not be the man you think, and if you unwarrantedly bring against him a charge of that serious nature, you will bring yourself into an awkward position.'

'Never fear. I'll be wary, and make myself sure before I seek the aid of the constables. But we must be late. The fellow may be gone. At all events there is not a moment to lose. I'll ride over this very afternoon. It is but sixteen miles away. Good bye, Charles. I'll come down the moment I return, and let you know the result of my journey.'

The last words were uttered in the passage, as he was in a great haste departing from the cottage. In less than half-an-hour thereafter he emerged from the western gate, mounted on the most active horse in his stable, and galloped away on his road to Bridlington.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

For the Intelligencer.

Spring Brook,

Died, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. John Kating, Catharine Armstrong, relict of the late William Ferguson, of West Huntington.

Mrs. Ferguson was a very old woman. She was born in the County of Longford, Ireland, in the year 1785; she was 12 years old at the time of the rebellion of 1798, which will make her age 94. She well remembered the stories of her grandfather, who lived to the age of 107, and her father to the age of 97, and one of her ancestors, Captain Wm. Armstrong, who had an engagement with Lord Clare's dragoons on the 26th of July, 1668, and put them to rout near Lisnaskea in the County of Fermanagh, Ireland, after which he returned to Enniskillen with several horses and ammunition, which he wanted at the time, and this was one of the first engagements of the Enniskilleners with the bigoted Irish rebels. In the words of a poet—

Amongst our loyal heroes,
That day but two had fall,
That was Captain Robert Curry
With Ensign William Ball.

I was one of the bearers who laid the deceased by the side of her husband on the one side, and that of her brother on the other, who was well known in Belleville as Mr. Irwin Armstrong, one of the heros of Waterloo, a County of Fermanagh man and a loyal ENNISKILLENER.

DEPT. OF RAILWAYS & CANALS, Ottawa, 1st April, 1880. 283

The Windsor Hotel

Is one of the finest hotels on this continent. It is a credit to the liberality of our Montreal friends and an ornament to our city. Its corridors are wide and beautiful. The parlors and dining rooms, with their costly embellishments, and the reception and ball rooms, are "chefs d'oeuvre." Its "menus" are unexcelled. It is a luxurious home for Montreal families who prefer to relieve themselves from the care of a household, and a caravansary which cannot be surpassed for visitors. Still, here as elsewhere, man is subject to the laws of health. Sickness will follow reckless indiscretion in food. An unseemly carouse tells as badly upon the occupant of this house as upon the dweller in a cottage. Men are apt to over-indulge where food is very tempting, and ignore the results. Happily the remedy for such indiscretions may be had in every drug store in the Dominion, in the shape of DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS.

LeCount & Perkins Mfg. Co.—Limited, Philadelphia & New York.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

MR. M. GILES, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, 1877, just received, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to set off) and then with the powder put her in good condition—mean-while trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. I know that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—" Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

AUGUST FLOWER.

The immense sale and great popularity of Green's August Flower in all towns and villages in the civilized world has caused many imitators to adopt similar names, expecting to reap a harvest for themselves at the expense of the afflicted. This medicine was introduced in 1868, and for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, with their effects, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Stomach, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart, vertigo, etc.etc., it never has failed to our knowledge. Three doses will relieve any case of Dyspepsia. Two million bottles sold last year. Price 75 cents. Samples 10 cents.

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the sole fee for which is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned (Secretary of Railways and Canals) and endorsed "Tender for Lock Gates, Lachine Canal," will be received at this office until the arrival of the Eastern and Western Mails on THURSDAY, the 3rd day of JUNE next, for the construction of Gates, and the necessary machinery connected with them, for the new Locks on the Lachine Canal.

Plans, Specifications, and General Conditions can be seen at this office on and after THURSDAY the 20th day of MAY, next, where forms of tender can also be obtained.

Parties tendering are expected to provide the special tools necessary for, and to have a practical knowledge of, works of this class, and are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same; and, further, an accepted bank cheque for a sum equal to $250, for the gates of each lock, must accompany each tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfilment of the contract the party or parties whose tender it is proposed to accept will be notified that their tender is accepted, subject to a deposit of five per cent. of the bulk sum of the contract—of which the sum sent in with the tender will be considered a part—to be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General within eight days after the date of the notice.

Ninety per cent. only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the work.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order,
F. BRAUN,
Secretary.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form greatly palatable and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE:— 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach, which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1878. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and have no hesitation in declaring that for the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail, and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but in my general health I continued to grow worse, and in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to death's door, and was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning, coughs, night sweats, short breath, and extreme debility and physical prostration. My physician prescribed Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I was fast losing all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of SCOTT'S EMULSION, and before it was all taken I was better. I have taken those bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 113 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine than SCOTT'S EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, "what cures?" and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; he is improving wonderfully, and is now attending the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879, Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:— LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses: it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach. I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am fully convinced it will entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

Epileptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effect of your medicine. I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever read, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in perfect health. Her fits have left her, and she must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do not hesitate to believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me. I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, and consequently kept growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars, and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained 20 rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

(PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED SINCE 1870.)

Over 15,000 Persons Successfully Treated since the establishment of our Institute in Detroit from all parts of the United States and Canada, for some of the various diseases of the head, throat and lungs. The only institute of the kind in Michigan specially devoted to the treatment of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, also diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heart.

Catarrh and Throat Diseases are every year becoming more prevalent and more generally fatal. As prevalent as they are, if left to themselves, their termination is Consumption and death.

A large portion of the deaths from throat and lung diseases are of young people—those who have not reached the meridian of life. Their hold upon life is strong and all the functions of the body active. If they were properly treated the great majority of all these would recover. Such is my experience. But I have no faith in their treatment by the stomach. Cod liver oil is good nourishment, but it is not medicine. No medicine given by the stomach exerts a curative influence on the lungs.

We are positive in saying that three-fourths of the vast number who die of Consumption might be saved did they awaken to the true sense of danger when the disease first appeared in the head and throat; the best writers, and the ablest physicians of the age have expressed similar opinions.

With these facts before us we feel that we would be recreant to our responsibilities were we to remain silent and see our fellow-beings pass away like autumn leaves while there is hope for so many.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by medical inhalations, combined with proper constitutional and hygenic treatment.

If on account of distance, expense of travel or physical debility, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions" which will be sent free of charge, and when fully answered and returned remedies can be sent per express (duties free) together with full directions for use. Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION.

WEDNESDAY, April 7.

In the House of Commons, after routine,

In reply to Mr. Ives, the Premier announced that in addition to the Provincial corps there would attend the review at Quebec on the Queen's Birthday a regiment from St. Johns, Brunswick and one from Ontario, but the regiments had not yet been selected.

The afternoon was taken up with the discussion of certain matters relative to the employment of Dominion Fishery officials in the protection of game without authority. The question was discussed during the fall in a series of letters in local papers. It was contended in the department that the utilization of Dominion officials for a provincial purpose was not legal, and a circular was sent out by Mr. Whitcher, the Commissioners of Fisheries, under whose instructions the complaints of late had been made, informing the officials that the practice would be no longer continued. The member for West Northumberland, however, brought the matter up in the House and made a long statement of the facts from his point of view, Mr. Patterson, of Essex, and Mr. White, of Renfrew, discussed the matter in defence of Mr. Whitcher. Hon. William Macdougall gave a hearty tribute to Mr. Whitcher's sincerity of purpose, no matter what mistakes of judgment he might have shown in the controversy. The general line of the debate, and the result of the discussion, was that the practice complained of was irregular and ought to be discontinued, but that it was adopted no doubt with an earnest desire to preserve game as well as the fisheries by the same agency.

Last year Mr. Rochester moved for a committee to examine and investigate into certain charges made by Mr. Rochester, member for Carleton, in his place in the House, respecting interference and intimidation by the Hon. D. W. Scott, a member of the Senate, and then occupying the position of Secretary of State, in the last election of a member for the County of Carleton. Mr. Rochester continued speaking until recess, when the debate was interrupted, and the order remained on the paper.

After recess the debate on the proposed motion of Mr. Macdonnell (Inverness) that the House resolve itself into Committee of the Whole to consider certain resolutions declaring the Provinces of Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island to have each claims and rights to distributive shares of the amount of the fishery award to the Province by the Government of Canada, on the same principles on which the claims and rights of Newfoundland were recognized, &c., was resumed by Mr. Richey, who, after some discussion on a point of order raised by Mr. Blake, argued that the Fishery award should be either specially appropriated for the benefit of the Provinces at the seaboard, including Quebec, or handed over proportionately to the Executive of each Province. In conclusion he moved an amendment embodying his contentions, claiming that each Province's proportion of the award should be handed over to its executive.

The debate was continued for several hours, being principally confined to Maritime Province members, who, all appeared to agree on the main propositions, although slightly differing in opinion as to whether the award should be handed over to the Local Governments or funded for the benefit of the Provinces.

Business Success.

Among the rare bits of worldly wisdom uttered by Major Eastburn, one of the former magnates of State street, whose familiar face and form as he stood at his office door at noonday will be recalled by many, none may be more profitably considered at the present time than his comment on making haste to be rich. "I've stood here on State street," said he, "for forty years, and I have seen men accumulate fortunes by speculation, and I've seen these fortunes disappear. I have seen men go up in worldly wealth, and go down, and I've always noticed that these persons who were content with slow gains and six per cent. interest came out ahead in the long run." The greatest of proverbial philosophers has also said, "A faithful man shall abound with blessings but he that maketh haste to be rich shall not be innocent," and again, "He that hasteth to be rich hath an evil eye, and considereth not that poverty shall come upon him. He hastens best who hastens slowly; not lazily, for there must be work, but work by method, perseverance, intelligent self-denial, and thorough business habits. Believers in business impossibilities are not as numerous as formerly. For years we seemed to be living in the atmosphere of venture and great undertakings, and our whole industry was tinged with the unearthly light, but of late years we have been suffering from a collapse of these great hollow ideas, and there is hope for a return of the staple prosperity of earlier times."

The past six years of depression has solidified all branches of business. Confidence and economy are the motto of the successful merchant. The misfortunes of the past did not come for naught. It is a delusion to suppose that success is attained by any kind of patent process. Books are sometimes advertised with such taking titles as "The Secret of Success," "The Road to Wealth," etc., but they make the path of success no plainer or easier for those who are looking for a short road to wealth, power, honor, and influence. These come only of years of intelligent labor and devotion to business, prudence, economy, honest dealing, courage and perseverance. He that would have true and lasting success must deserve it. A fortune won by blunder or accident, by short cuts, by strategy, or close bargains is not success, and is likely to leave its possessor as quickly as it came. Success must be conquered in a legitimate way. The man who enters business only for plunder and gain, with no thought of his reputation or character, is not a good business man, and is never regarded by his fellows as a successful man. The truth is that real success does not mean wealth, social position, or political honors alone. To these must be added honesty, a hearful consideration for others, civility, promptitude of thought and action, intelligence, sobriety and every manly virtue.

The truly successful business man is one who is complete in everything that belongs to his calling. He has a thorough knowledge of what has been done in his business, and applies this knowledge with untiring diligence to the undertakings before him. He watches and studies the markets, knowing how much is produced of the commodity in which he deals and the amount consumed; he is prompt in decision and execution, truthful in word and conduct, and keeps his credit unimpaired. In all that he does he commands the respect and confidence of all with whom he deals, and maintains a high and noble character before the world, which is beyond all price. The principal of the "survival of the fittest" is nowhere more applicable than in business matters. The unworthy and incapable are sure in the long run to sink to their proper level.—American Manufacturer and Exporter.

Interesting to Butter Makers

A leading Montreal firm of butter dealers have just issued a circular giving instructions on butter-making, which if strictly followed might prove of infinite value in the future to the large number of butter makers throughout Canada. We quote as follows:—

"The poor tubs that have been used in some parts of the Townships the past few years have hurt the sale of the butter. A sawn stave tub is not fit to keep butter in; it is too heavy, gets dirty quickly, and cannot possibly be kept clean in shipping. Poor fitting lids, with small sawn rims are almost worthless, and break up like pipestems. All tubs should be made from the best wood, split staves (never sawn on any account), and every package covers with a broad rim. The proper height of a tub holding fifty (50) pounds of butter measured on the outside with the lid on, is fifteen (15) inches. Farmers that will insist upon putting their butter into cheap tubs must not expect to sell their butter at a cheap price, as the English market is getting very particular about the kind of tubs used. A dairy, if possible, should keep their milk in, and a cool place to churn in, and a cool place to keep your butter in, are all indispensable for good butter making. Remember the bottom principle of good butter making is, clean temperature all through. New pans and new systems work poorly without the above requisites, whilst most any system works well with them. Better cows—better feed, and greater care would add much to the profits with little cost.

Timely Topics.

A FEW HINTS ABOUT HOUSE-CLEANING.

Exchange:—Copperas mixed with whitewash put upon the cellar walls will keep vermin away.

To polish stained floors rub them thoroughly once a week with beeswax and turpentine.

Strong brine may be used to advantage in washing bedsteads; hot alum is also good for this purpose.

Hellebore sprinkled on the floor at night destroys cockroaches; they eat it and are poisoned.

Drain pipes and all places that are sour and impure may be cleansed with limewater, copperas water or carbolic acid.

When horse-cleaning be sure and take nutritious food at least three times a day, and it will go far towards enabling you to keep strength and temper.

Carpets should be throughly beaten on the wrong side first, and then on the right, after which spots may be removed by the use of ox-gall or ammonia and water.

The healthiest way to cook beans is as follows: Parboil a pint of beans with a little saleratus in the water. Then boil them in another water until quite tender; put in a quarter of a pound of butter, salt to taste, a little pepper, and a coffee cup of new milk. Let them simmer a short time after the seasoning is put in.

Where hard finished walls have already been kalsomined, the soiled coats should be washed or scraped off before a new one is put on. This is the most disagreeable part of the process. The furniture should be covered, as lime makes spots that are removed with difficulty, especially upon black walnut.

Furniture needs cleaning as much as other woodwork. It may be washed with warm soap suds, quickly wiped dry, and then rubbed with an oily cloth. To polish it, rub it with rotten-stone and sweet oil. Clean off the oil, and polish it with a chamois skin. For ordinary woodwork use whiting to rub the dirt off, which may be removed from paint by soap and water. Mortar and paint may be removed from window glass with hot, sharp vinegar. Grained wood should be washed with cold tea.

In washing painted walls, it is a good plan to remove from the room everything that can be injured by steam, and then hang sheets wrung from hot water in the room. The vapor, condensing on the walls, softens the dirt, which may be wiped off with woollen cloths, wrung from soda water. Ceilings that have been smoked by a kerosene lamp should be washed with soda water. If the wall above the stove has been smoked by the above, cover the black patches with gum shellac, and they will not strike through either paint or kalsomine.

Paint your plastered walls and they will not absorb odors. You can easily clean them with soda and water. Soap and water spot them. When paper and plaster become saturated with effluvia nothing but entire removal will clean them. Insects will not harbor in painted walls. Before paint or kalsomine is applied to walls every crack and crevice should be filled with plaster or cement made of one part water to one part silicate of potash mixed with common whiting. For the kalsomine put a quarter of a pound of white glue in cold water over night and heat gradually in the morning until dissolved. Mix eight pounds of whiting with hot water, add the dissolved glue and stir together, adding hot water until about the consistency of thick cream. Use a kalsomine brush and finish as you go along.

The Anglican Bishop of Manchester, at a recent ordination service, spoke very plainly on the subject of ritualism. In Paul's time, he said, men were content to be experts in godliness, rather than in controversy; to be religious, rather than theological. He confessed that it was impossible for him to become interested in many questions which were agitating the church, it made no difference to him, strange to say, what the color or shape of a vestment was, whether the bread administered in communion was leavened or unleavened, whether the wine was tinted or unmixed. None of these things seemed to him to concern the weightier matters of the Gospel.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, APRIL 9.

That Exodus.

A stranger reading the Grit press of the day would be led to believe that the country is being so quickly depopulated by the exodus of its inhabitants to the States, that scarcely an able-bodied man was left to fight that terrible monster the N. P., which, it is claimed, is so fast driving the larger portion of the population across the lines. Would our Grit contemporaries tell us what class of our people are so terribly dealt with by the protectionist policy of the country? Surely it is not the farmers, for grain has not been so high for years; nor the factory hands, for Canadian factories have not been in such a flourishing condition since 1873. In fact the Globe calls our flourishing factories monopolies. And is it not a little remarkable that in their flight those who are alleged to have made their exodus because of the N. P., should jump out of the frying pan into the fire, by fleeing to a country oppressed, as the Grit organs might say, with a protective duty at least 50 per cent in excess of ours, a country that we have been told over and over again was ruined by its protective policy. The fact is that the alleged hegira is a humbug. There will always be an interchange of population between countries so closely contiguous as Canada and the United States, but this interchange is not now being carried on to a greater extent than usual. The great bulk of those who are leaving the older Provinces are farmers bound for Manitoba and our new North-West Territories, into which a considerable influx of population is flowing from the United States as well. The same thing has happened in the United States, their territories in the West and on the Pacific slope having been largely populated by former denizens of the Eastern and Middle States, and therefore Canada's experience is not by any means a new one, nor does the movement of our population give cause for the outcry which the Grit press are raising about it.

The Agricultural Commission.

The Globe announces that Mr. Mowat's Agricultural Commission, the appointment of which was authorized last session, will be composed of the following gentlemen, viz:—Hon. S. C. Wood, Commissioner of Agriculture (Chairman) ; Thomas Ballantyne, M. P. P., Stratford ; J. B. Aylsworth, Vice President of the Agricultural Association, Newburgh ; William Brown, of the Agricultural College, Guelph ; John Watson, Ayr ; Thomas Stock, Waterdown ; Andrew Wilson, Maitland ; John Dryden, M. P. P., Brooklin ; Wm. Saunders, London ; Eli H. Hilburn, Master of the Dominion Grange, Uxbridge ; J. P. Wiser, M. P., Prescott ; John McMillan, County of Huron ; Wm. Whitelaw, Guelph ; Richard M. Gibson, Middlesex ; Francis Malcom, Oxford ; Edward Bryne, Burgess, and A. H. Dymond, of Toronto—making seventeen in all.

This will be a really good thing for Mr. Dymond, who is the only member of the Commission who will receive pay beyond his expenses. The ex-member for North York has already enjoyed a fat berth in connection with the Cornwall Commission, and Mr. Mowat's Government seem determined to compensate him pecuniarly for the loss of his seat in the Commons and his situation on the Opposition organ.

The subjects to which the attention of the Commission will be specially directed will, according to the last report of the Minister of Agriculture, be as follows :—

1. The soil, climate, topographical features, cultivable areas, and products of the several sections of the Province.
2. The progress and condition of husbandry in Ontario.
3. Grain-growing in its several agricultural and economical aspects.
4. Stock-raising in its several agricultural and economical aspects.
5. Dairying in its several agricultural and economical aspects.
6. Fruit-growing &c., in its several agricultural and economical aspects.
7. Bee-keeping.
8. Forestry.
9. Cultivation of special crops (flax, &c.)
10. Drainage.
11. Manures, natural and artificial.
12. Insects and insectivorous birds.
13. Employment of labor, and use of labor-saving appliances.
14. The ownership system as compared with renting.

Olivia was also sold last week to Captain George O'Brien and D. Sullivan. Capt. O'Brien will sail her. Price, $3,000. The schooners now in harbor are : The Picton, Capt. P. D. Ostrander ; Kate, Capt. The scow formerly known as the Mary Fox is rebuilding here. She will be a good A 2 schooner. She is owned by G. C. Curry of Picton ; capacity 7,000. Capt. Bongard will sail her."

The Whig of yesterday says : The schr. Grantram left here yesterday for Oswego with a load of barley.

The first arrival of the season from a distant port was the sch. Iona which arrived from Toronto, light, yesterday afternoon.

By Capt. Allen's survey the repairs to the schr. E. Blake, at Mill Point, will cost $3,200. Other repairs will be necessary, which the survey will not cover.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK April 9.—The Pelican Dives group silver mines, Georgetown, Colorado, have been acquired by a syndicate of prominent capitalists company with a capital of $5,000,000, organized here. N. Green, President of the Western Union Telegraph, is President of the new corporation. Among the trustees are A. B. Chandler, President of the A. & P. Tel., and H. B. Plant, President of the Southern Express. The mines are among the richest in the country.

BELLAIRE, O., April 9.—The train on the Bellaire and Southwestern Railroad jumped a trestle yesterday, and a car went over a 15 feet embankment. It is reported that Danford, postal clerk, son of ex-Congressman Danford, was killed, and others badly injured.

BALTIMORE, April 9.—John Petrie, who committed suicide yesterday, was a gardener in good circumstances, aged 55, who on Tuesday married a wife aged 20. He was to have been married to her a year ago, but the day before the ceremony he refused to be wedded and pacified the bride by a gift of $5,000.

CHICAGO, April 9.—Among the directors of the new Chicago and Grand Trunk Railroad are D. J. North, Albany, N. Beardsley, Auburn, and W. G. Shepard, Bath, N. Y.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., April 9.—The explosion at Preston colliery yesterday was caused by fire damp. Five men were terribly burned, and it is believed three or four will die.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The brewers of New York and vicinity have advanced the price of lager beer from $8 to $9 a barrel.

During a fight on Tuesday, John Morris aged 14, was fatally beaten by a playmate named Solomon Bassic. The latter was arrested.

It is now discovered that Williamson, Dr. Dix's persecutor, last December obtained the jewelry from firms in this city and elsewhere by means of forged drafts.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The Central syndicate concluded its labors yesterday by closing out the balance of the 350,000 shares purchased from Vanderbit. The balance on hand, 110,000 shares, was offered by private circular yesterday, and the subscriptions were so large that only 10 per cent. can be given to subscribers. There were only 21 subscribers, headed by Gould, who subscribed for 70,000 shares, and received $56,000.

Russell says Dillion, Field, and others connected with Gould's operations, also subscribed heavily. The World again reports the probable election of Gould and Dillion as Central Directors next June.

The Times says that Vanderbilt has invested 36,000,000 in four per cent. bonds, since the original agreement to sell his Central stock, all of which is believed to have been derived from that sale. There is no longer any doubt that the Gould clique hold 350,000 shares or over one-third of the entire capital stock between them. It is probable that Gould and Vanderbilt are working together in harmony for the completion of Gould's idea of a grand railway monopoly from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Arrived, the Rhyland from Antwerp.

CANAL TRAFFIC.—The supplementary report of the Department of Inland Revenue, giving canal statistics for the season of navigation, 1879, has been distributed. The decrease in the revenue of the canals has been $14,965. The decrease in the Welland canal was $35,833, while the St. Lawrence canals show an increase of $8,849, and the Ottawa canals of $6,033.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS.—Several elections were held yesterday, the result now showing Liberals, 300 ; Conservatives, 191 ; Home Rulers, 39.

Miss Merrill's Death.

WHAT DR. ALLEN SAYS OF IT.

A REMARKABLE STATEMENT.

Dr. Thomas E. Allen, homœpathic physician and surgeon, was called upon this morning by a representative of the INTELLIGENCER, and freely conversed concerning the case of Miss Merrill, which has attracted so much public attention, and with which his name has been prominently connected.

The Doctor stated that at about 8:30 on Wednesday night he visited Mr. Merrill's house after the inquest had been held, and examined the body of Miss Merrill. The body was laid out and covered with a sheet, in a cold room the windows of which had been opened during the whole of the day. He, not believing that death had taken place, placed a glass over the mouth and nose, and saw plain traces of moisture from breath on the glass. He next placed his ear to her chest and could hear a faint pulsation of the heart, and then placing his hand on the carotid artery felt that the blood was circulating. Directing those who were present to place the body in bed and to use warm water, bottles warmed with water and warm irons as the means of restoring animation, he left, and returned at about 11 o'clock. At this time, he says, he again applied a glass to the nose and mouth and found plain traces of moisture. The pulsation of the heart could be plainly distinguished by placing the ear to the chest, and on putting his hand on the carotid artery he counted 37 beats to the minute. The doctor says that Messrs. Mott and Ladow (his student), Mr. N. Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong and others also heard the beating of the heart. He then drew the under eyelid down and it flew back as it would do naturally, and pinched the skin and it returned to its natural shape, showing normal elasticity (the skin loses its elascity, he says, four hours after death). The eyes were not glazed at all, but set firmly, as also were the jaws. All the deep muscles were set firmly, and those near the surface frozen stiffly, when he first saw the body, but under the treatment which he had prescribed these latter became lax, having been thawed.

On Thursday morning, at about 7 o'clock he returned and found the symptoms improving, the body being quite warm under the axillary, the skin still possessing all its previous elasticity and the breath being plainly perceptible on the glass. At 9 a. m. the temperature under the axillary was 67 degrees, the warmth of the body having increased by 5 or 6 degrees.

Between 1 and 2 o'clock p. m., in company with Drs. Tracy and Ridley, he again examined the subject. A spirit thermometer was applied to the mouth, and the spirit went up about an inch from the bulb, indicating a temperature of about 70 degrees. It was resolved to apply the test of electricity, and Dr. Allen proceeded to Dr. Tracy's house for a battery, on returning with which he found that a coldness appeared over the face, the skin was generally colder, there was no temperature in the mouth, and the eyes were glazed, showing, in his opinion, that death had resulted during his absence. The cause of death he says was a cataleptic fit which threw the patient into a trance, in which she died.

Dr. Ridley, who was also seen, stated that he coincided with Dr. Allen as to the last stage of the case.

Dr. Tracy, who was also asked declined to express any positive opinion on the subject.

Mr. N. Davenport, in reply to an interrogation, said he could not say that he heard Miss Merrill's heart beat, as stated by Dr. Allen. He applied his ear to the chest for but a moment, and as there was not perfect quiet in the room, he could not hear any sound. However, he was confident that he saw moisture on the glass when it was withdrawn from the mouth and nose of the seeming corpse.

There is, as will thus be seen, a very wide divergence of opinion amongst the medical men as to this case, which is certainly one of great interest not only to the public, but to the medical profession.

The funeral of Miss Merrill will take place to-morrow at 10 o'clock a. m.

CARPETS.

WE are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers.

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealers telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, 5c., 10c., and even 25c. is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

As a contrast, we may mention that Mr. James Warham has a black and tan pup three months old, which weighs 1 lb. $2\frac{1}{2}$ oz.

ODDFELLOWS' ANNIVERSARY.—The members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows in this city will celebrate their anniversary on Monday, the 26th inst. At 1 p. m. a procession will be formed at their hall and will proceed, headed by their band, to St. Andrew's Church, where a sermon will be preached by the Rev. M. W. McLean, M. A. A conversazione will be held in the Oddfellows' Hall in the evening.

A BAD FOUR.—On Saturday night a young lad entered the store of Mr. James McGuire and purchased two dozens of eggs, for which he tendered in payment what appeared to be a $4 bill. It was accepted as such by Mrs. McGuire and change given in accordance, but on the bill being examined on Monday it proved to be a $1 bill which had been altered. This is an old trick, but if people would remember that there are no Dominion "fours," it would be impossible to play it with success.

A CHANGE.—It was announced in these columns about a week since that the City of Belleville would run on the Georgian Bay during the coming season of navigation. This programme has, however, been altered and she will run on the bay plying between the ports of Picton and Kingston. This steamer has recently been provided with false sides to make her more buoyant and upright in sailing, and she has also been fitted with a new wheel of smaller dimensions than its predecessor.

POETIC JUSTICE.—On Monday night last Samuel Pope, who resides in the vicinity of Ross' Corners, lost a valuable black mare, a halter and bridle, all of which property had been surreptitiously appropriated by some unknown person. Mr. Pope advertised his loss in this journal, and through other channels acquainted his neighbors, friends and the public generally that there was an unfilled stall and an unoccupied peg in his stable. He made extra efforts to again secure possession of his missing equine by informing the police of his loss and using his own endeavors to find the whereabouts and who the person who had taken her was. He fancied he discovered a clue and went to Madoc yesterday, only to return to-day, and find that a great surprise awaited him. The knowledge of his loss and the consequent cost did not leave an inspiring effect on him, but when the information of the return of the mare was imparted to him he was more than pleased. The beast was found in Mr. Pope's barnyard this morning with a harness on and hooked to a democrat waggon. Mr. Alexander Elliot a few nights since lost a similar vehicle, and probably the individual who stole the mare captured his waggon. At all events Mr. Pope feels cheerful, and particularly so that he has his spare stall filled and the extra room in his waggon-house occupied, besides having a set of harness to lend to any importunate neighbor.

Marine Accidents.

THE "PICTON" AGROUND.

The schooner Picton arrived here this morning to load lumber at Flint & Holton's mill, but when entering the west channel she ran aground, and under the influence of a strong west wind which prevailed at the time, she drifted farther in towards the west side of the island, where she now lies. The tug Bonar tried to get the Picton off, but her efforts were unavailing, and nothing can now be done to assist her until the present blow dies away.

THE "ARMENIA'S" MISHAP.

Shortly after 11 o'clock this morning the steamer Armenia, whilst on her regular trip up the bay, sustained an accident to her machinery when nearly opposite Firman's island, about a mile and a half distant from the harbor. Her officers at once sent up the usual alarm signal, and the services of a tug had to be secured. Some delay occurred, owing to the absence of Capt. Palmer, and in the mean time the Armenia drifted to the vicinity of Massassaga Point.

About 12:45, the Bonar steamed out to her assistance and went to the scene with all possible despatch. A line was at once put out and with extra steam on the Armenia was towed to the mill on the opposite side of the bay, where both boats arrived safely. The wind blew a perfect gale, whilst "white caps" profusely predominated on the surface of the bay.

The ferry steamer Mary Ethel was forced to discontinue her trips. The Prince Edward ran regularly until noon when, the storm caused her to run irregulary afterwards. The wind is now blowing a "living gale."

LATER.

On the arrival of the Bonar with her tow at the Point, the passengers, to the number of twenty-five, embarked on the Bonar, which at once began her journey to the city. She made very rapid progress, but the wild weather made her pitch and roll considerably, and the passengers were anything but pleased with their trip. They, however, on arriving at the dock expressed great relief.

From one of the officers of the Armenia, one of our representatives learned that the accident was due to the bursting of a defective boiler flue, which had been found leaking on the trip up. The passengers were astonished when they learned of the mishap—the male portion grew excited, whilst the ladies were generally alarmed, and as the steamer drifted on eastward some of the latter fainted. At last both anchors were let go and but a short time elapsed ere they became fast and thus the boat remained until the tug came alongside. The tow line was made fast, but progress at first could not be made, owing to the difficulty of heaving the anchors, but after a time that trouble was got over and the boats then proceeded to the Eagle Mill, as noted above.

All the passengers and baggage were brought to this city, arriving at Campbell's dock at 2:45 this afternoon.

The damage to the Armenia's boiler is not considered to be of any great moment, and when completed, which is expected to be done this afternoon, she will return to Picton. The necessary repairs will be made by workmen from G & J Brown's foundry in this city.

Mining Notes.

(Madoc Review, April 8.)

We are informed that Mr. Pusey is making arrangements to have the various iron mines in which he is interested connected by telephone in a short time. This is practical enterprise which we are sure will have good results.

So far, we learn, about one hundred tons of gold bearing quartz have been crushed at the Bannockburn mills, from the Vanskleek, Maitland & Co. mine. It yielded, we are informed, about $5 or $6 to the ton. It may be mentioned, however, that about thirty tons of this was refuse ore that got hauled down and crushed by mistake, which would of course, considerably reduce the yield.

THE AFGHAN SITUATION.

THE KOHISTANIS JOINING ABDUL-RAHMAN KHAN.

CABUL, April 8.—Abdul-Rahman Khan has reached Ghazi on the road to Charikar. He has written to the Kohistanis to join him, and already 3,000 irregulars have left in obedience to this order.

A PERILOUS ADVENTURE.—A dramatic story comes from St. Petersbug to the effect that Lord and Lady Dufferin with persons belonging to the Imperial Court were hunting in a forest the other day, when suddenly a ferocious bear, which had been concealed in the underbrush, sprang upon Lady Dufferin. She would undoubtedly have been killed, the report states, had it not been for the gallantry of Lord Hamilton, an attache of the embassy, who came to the rescue. After firing several shots from his revolver he succeeded in despatching the brute.

The British Elections.

The elections in Great Britain have so far resulted in the return of 300 Liberals, 191 Consesvatives, and 39 Home Rulers, or a net Liberal gain of 85 seats. It is expected that Lord Beaconsfield will recommend Her Majesty to send for Earl Granville, but there is a feeling throughout the country that none but Mr. Gladstone should be entrusted, at the present juncture, with the formation of a Cabinet. Mr. Gladstone, however, still declares his unwillingness to hold office, though he may probably give way to the urgent representations that are being made to him.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

There is a fair demand for leather in Montreal at better prices.

Hides are high in Montreal at $10, $9 and $8 for No's. 1, 2 and 3, respectively. Calf skins 13c per lb. Sheepskins $1.50 to $2.00.

CHEESE.—The market is firm, holders showing every confidence in their position, and refusing to meet buyers, or sell under 70 to 72s. There has been a fair retail demand this week at the above prices and as (without doubt) the country dealers are almost all with very low stocks, a good demand may reasonably be anticipated all through the month of April.

AN ENORMOUS INCREASE.—The traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk Railway for the week ending April 5th were $203,498, as against $154,223 the corresponding period last year, showing the enormous increase of $49,375, and deducting the Riviere du Loup receipts from 1879, the increase is $53,475. The aggregate increase for fourteen weeks is $373,971.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

MOVILLE, April 9.—Arrived, the Bolivia.

LONDON, April, 9.—Arrived, the Greece.

Irish associations last night appointed a committee to organize a public reception for Parnell. All the Irish organizations in the metropolis will be invited to participate.

The Duchess of Marlborough's relief fund amounts to £107,871, of which £86,622 has been expended.

PARIS, April 9.—Kropotkine, a brother of Gen. Kropotkine, who was assassinated by Nihilists at Kieff, but who is himself editor of a Nihilist organ at Geneva, has been invited by Cantonal authorities to quit Geneva and move to Montreaux.

PANAMA, March 31.—It is reported that the Chilian Minister of War, Satomayor, who is a lawyer, undertook to surprise the Peruvians near Moquegua with four regiments of infantry, but was drawn into ambush by the Peruvians and one of his regiments cut to pieces, the Chilians losing 1,300.

During the engagement off Arica Feb. 27th it is stated that the Chilian iron clad Huascar suffered severely, losing twenty-five killed and wounded, including its Captain and two other officers. Another Chilian iron clad bombarded Arica, demolishing several houses and killing several women and children.

roubles, stated to have been derived from the sale of false passports, which had been fabricated during the past eight years, numbering 14,000.

In 1877 the Peruvian Government assumed the responsibility of all paper money then circulating in compensation for the heavy debt due by the Government to the associated banks of Lima. The Government now orders the banks to redeem in silver all the notes then issued and promises that the debt cancelled in '77, will be paid to the banks in silver. Silver is scarce and the new order has caused a panic.

It is reported that England has expressed to the Chilian Government its profound displeasure with its mode of warfare against Peru and Bolivia.

The Chilian gunboats, on March 14th, destroyed all loading apparatus, launches and lighters at Labras, Guano Island. Men were diembarked and allowed to plunder the extensive stores of the loading company, which is an English enterprise.

VIENNA, April 9.—Information from St. Petersburg leads to the belief that notwithstanding the apparent calm revolutionists are preparing for a great outbreak in Moscow and other prominent places.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 9.—Details are now furnished of the arrest of the Courier of Prince Deliven, one of the Secretaries of State, charged with forging passports. His wife is seriously implicated in revolutionary proceedings. There was found in their possession 92,000

CHAPTER XXI.

MR JONAS PODGERS—AN EXCITING SCENE AT THE BERESFORD ARMS

It was nearly dusk when Ravensworth entered the public room of the Beresford Arms in Bridlington. Here a pretty large company of commercial men and others were collected, some of whom were seated in corners reading newspapers, two or three surrounded a broad table at one of the windows busy with their order-books, making up therefrom letters to the wholesale houses which they represented, and striving to have these ready for that night's post, while at a smaller table near the other window two ruddy-faced, burly men were deeply absorbed in a game of draughts, with quite a group around them watching the silent battle. At the large table in the centre of the apartment a dozen or so were seated, drinking, smoking, and talking, in loud, hearty, well-emphasised English.

Ravensworth's entrance, if not entirely unnoticed, made no visible impression, the coming and going of strangers in such a place being so constant as to give rise to no remark. Quietly, therefore, he took his seat in a spot which, while well out of observation, itself commanded a view of the whole room.

He looked round the apartment with a careless air, yet with a keen glance, and saw not the face he sought. The landlord, who knew him to be now the new Squire of Singleton Hall, waited on him with obsequious attention, and with his own hand brought the repast he had ordered.

'You seem pretty full to-night, Jenkins?' he observed, opening a conversation which mine host was nothing loth to continue.

'No more than usual, I don't think, sir. We have always pretty fair company at the Beresford Arms of an evening. Old established house, you know, sir, and well known as respectable and comfortable.'

'Ah, just so—a new set every day, I suppose—here to-night, away to-morrow.'

'Just so, sir. An inn ain't like a lodging house. Most of our customers are birds of passage, though now and again we have gents as stay days, and even weeks with us. There's one just now, for instance, we have had for a month. Ah, he ain't in the room just now, I see—gone for a walk most likely.'

'A commercial man is he?' said Ravensworth, with no particular appearance of interest, yet secretly hanging on every word that was spoken.

'Well, no, sir, I don't think he is. I can't just make out what his profession may be, or if he has any at all. He has not what I would call the ways of a gentleman; no nor the looks of one either, though he is sharp and clever, and not to be put down by nobody.'

'He's out of health perhaps, and finds the air of Bridlington agree with him?' suggested Philip, by way of another feeler.

'Oh, bless you, no, sir. He's as stout and strong and eats as hearty as anybody in this room. He says as how he has taken a fancy to the place, and, in course, as he pays regular, I haven't no objection to his staying. It don't look as if he had any friends anywhere, for he has not got one letter since he came, and nobody has ever been to call on him.'

'Perhaps he's a foreigner.'

'English, sir—a Londoner, I should guess. His name is Mister Jonas Podgers, and—well talk of—ahem—there he is, sir, a coming into the room now.'

Philip glanced towards the door, and could not forbear starting violently when his eye lighted on the face of the man who was at that moment entering. That was the face of which he was in search—there was the broken nose, and the squint in the left eye, and the profusion of black curls.

He took all this in at a glance, and with an instinctive exercise of prudence turned his eyes in a moment on his plate, as if the individual in question was to him an object of the utmost indifference. Should his suspicion be correct, he was well aware that Mr. Jonas Podgers would easily take alarm if he observed that any one was directing particular attention towards him. It was important, therefore, that at the present state Ravensworth should give no sign of being particularly interested in him; and ere the new comer had time to cast a quick, suspicious glance round the room, which Philip did not fail to notice, the latter had withdrawn his gaze, and was apparently giving his whole attention to the feast he was consuming.

'Will you require a room to-night, sir?' asked the landlord, as he was bowing himself away.

'Ye—yes, I rather think I will,' answered Ravensworth, slowly.

'Thank you, sir. I am glad, sir, that our best bed-chamber is untaken. I will have it prepared immediately.'

Left now to himself, Philip directed furtive glances towards the man who bore the cognomen of Jonas Podgers. He had sauntered towards the group which surrounded the draught players, and stood looking on their playing. As his face was in full view Ravensworth had ample opportunity of studying not only it but the man's general appearance.

He was rather stylish dressed, but the dress was not a good fit, and sat ill on the broad shoulders and thick set limbs. From his shoulders upwards, however, was the portion of his body which Philip studied most particularly. And he thought he had never looked on a more villainous face and head. Of neck, indeed, there was almost none, and what there was was thick, and wholly concealed by a high shirt collar which rose up to his huge purple ears. Then came the head—round and large as a cannon-ball, and set in the front of it that singularly remarkable and repulsive face which has often been described—high cheek bones, thick lips, and bridge of the nose broken, and an ugly squint in the left eye. To complete the harmony of the ill-favored physiognomy the globular crown ought to have been surmounted by a crop of hard, coarse, black hair; but instead of this it was covered with a profusion of glossy curls, which fell down to his shoulders and over his brow.

'No wonder,' thought Ravensworth, 'that the landlord said he had not the look of a gentleman. Why, he is the most brutal and ruffianly-looking fellow I ever beheld. Any one may see at a glance that the curls are not his own hair; and I haven't the slightest doubt that, if one pulled them away, the prison stubble would be found beneath.'

There is a curious diversity of taste among smokers as to the kind of pipe they prefer. Some like the clay pipe best, others prefer the briar root, others again the meerschaum, some must have their pipe well seasoned before they can enjoy it, others again must have a new pipe and throw it away whenever it becomes a little old. But though this diversity of taste among them is curious, it is not at all curious that there is substantial unanimity among them about the kind of tobacco to be used, experience has proved to them that the "Myrtle Navy" brand of Messrs. Tuckett & Billings is the genuine article.

The Windsor Hotel

is one of the finest hotels on this continent. It is a credit to the liberality of our Montreal friends and an ornament to our city. Its corridors are wide and beautiful. The parlors and dining rooms, with their costly embellishments, and the reception rooms, are "chefs d'oeuvre." Its "menus" are unexcelled. It is a luxurious home for Montreal families who prefer to relieve themselves from the care of a household, and a sanctuary which cannot be surpassed for visitors. Still, here as elsewhere, man is subject to the laws of health. Sickness will follow where indiscretion leads. An unseemly carouse tells as fatally upon the occupant of this house as upon the dweller in a cottage. Men are apt to over-indulge where food is very tempting, and ignore the results. Happily the remedy for such indiscretions may be had in every drug store in the Dominion, in the shape of Dr. Herrick's Sugar Coated Pills.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

Mr. M. Giles, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition next week, while trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and Horse Tea has done her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a walking for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

Geo. K. Crumbacker.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

AUGUST FLOWER.

The immense sale and great popularity of Green's August Flower in all towns and villages in the civilized world has caused many imitators to adopt similar names, expecting to reap a harvest for themselves at the expense of the afflicted. This medicine was introduced in 1868, and for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, with their effects, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Stomach, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart, vertigo, etc, etc., it never has failed to our knowledge. Three doses will relieve any case of Dyspepsia. Two million bottles sold last year. Price 75 cents. Samples 10 cents.

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,0 0 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

CONSUMPTION
CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

Messrs Scott & Bowne: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.
Gents,—I have frequently prescribed Scott's Emulsion or Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.
C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively Scott's Emulsion or Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent coughing, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your Emulsion and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your Emulsion and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 18 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879, Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne: Lynn, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, as prescribed that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the Emulsion in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach. I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of Fellows & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anæmia, Intermittent Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

Gents.—We have used your Fellows Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites with gratifying results in cases of Ague and cheerfully recommend it to physicians, and all others, as a reliable, and agreeable preparation in ague.—Intermittent Fever, first and second stages of Pulmonary Consumption of American origin, General Debility. We should recommend it as the best thing we know of.

Epileptic Fits"

St. Paul, Minn. January 4th, 1878.
James I. Fellows, Esq.
Dear Sir,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine. I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.
D. Walter Oakes.
Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
James I. Fellows, Esq.
Sir,—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and worse until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.
I remain respectfully,
Lawrence Doran.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PROPRIETOR.

(PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED SINCE 1870.)

Over 15,000 Persons Successfully Treated since the establishment of our Institute in Detroit from all parts of the United States and Canada, for some of the various diseases of the head, throat and lungs. The only institute of the kind in Michigan specially devoted to the treatment of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, also diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heart.

Catarrh and Throat Diseases are every year becoming more prevalent and more generally fatal. As prevalent as they are, if left to themselves, their termination is Consumption and death.

A large portion of the deaths from throat and lung diseases are of young people—those who have not reached the meridian of life. Their hold upon life is strong and all the functions of the body active. If they were properly treated the great majority of them would recover. Such is my experience. But I have no faith in their treatment by the stomach. Cod liver oil is good nourishment, but it is not medicine. No medicine given by the stomach exerts a curative influence on the lungs.

We are positive in saying that three-fourths of the vast number who die of Consumption might be saved did they awaken to the true sense of danger when the disease first appeared in the head and throat; the best writers, and the ablest physicians of the age have expressed similer opinions.

With these facts before us we feel that we would be recreant to our responsibilities were we to remain silent and see our fellow-beings pass away like autumn leaves while there is hope for so many.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by medical inhalations, combined with proper constitutional and hygenic treatment.

If on account of distance, expense of travel or physical debility, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and when fully answered and returned remedies can be sent per express (duties free) together with full directions for use. DRUNK IN THE STREET.

"Drunk, your worship," the officer said :
"Drunk in the street, Sir!" she raised her head.
A lingering trace of the olden grace
Still softened the lines of her woe worn face,
Unkempt and tangled her rich brown hair,
Wet with the furrows and stains of care—
The years of anguish, and sin and despair;
The child of the city was passing fair.

The ripe, red mouth, with lips compressed,
The rose and fall of the heaving breast—
The nervous fingers so taper and small,
Crumple the fringe of the tattered shawl.
As she stands in her place at the officer's call.
She seemed good and fair, she seemed tender and sweet,
The fallen woman found drunk in the street.

Does the hand that once smoothed the ripple and wave
Of that tangled hair lie still in the grave!
Is the mother who pressed those red lips to her own
Dead to the pain of their smothered moan?
Has the voice that chimed with the lisping prayer
No accent of hope for the lost one there,
Bearing her burden of shame and despair?

Drunk in the street?—in the gutters found—
From a passionate longing to crush and drown
The soul of the woman she might have been—
To fling off the weight of a fearful dream,
And awake again in the homestead hard by
The wooded mountain that touched the sky;
To linger awhile on the path to school,
And catch in the depths of the limpid pool,
Under the willow shade green and cool,
A dimpled face and a laughing eye,
And the pleasant words of the passer-by.

Ys men with sisters and mothers and wives,
Have ye no care for these women's lives?
Must they starve for the comfort ye never speak?
Must they ever be erring, and sinful, and weak—

Staggering onward with weary feet,
Stained in the gutters, and drunk in the street?

THE DOCTOR'S STORY.

Mrs Rogers lay on her bed,
Bandaged and blistered from foot to head,
Bandaged and blistered from head to toe,
Mrs. Rogers was very low.
Bottle and saucer, spoon and cup,
On the table stood bravely up;
Physic of high and low degree;
Calomel, catnip, boneset tea—
Everything a body could bear,
Excepting light and water and air.

I opened the blinds; the day was bright,
And God gave Mrs. Rogers some light,
I opened the window; the day was fair,
And God gave Mrs. Rogers some air.
Bottles and blisters, powders and pills,
Catnip, boneset, syrup and squills;
Drugs and medicines high and low,
I threw them as far as I could throw.
"What are you doing?" my patient cried;
"Frightening Death," I coolly replied.
"You are crazy!" a visitor said;
I flung a bottle at her head.

Deacon Rogers he came to me;
"Wife is comin' round," said he,
"I re'lly think she'll worry though:
She scolds me just as she used to do.
All the people have poohed and slurred—
And the neighbors all have had their word;
'Twas better to perish some of 'em say
Than be cured in such an irregular way."

"Your wife," said I, "had God's good care,
And his remedies—light and water and air,
All the doctors, beyond a doubt,
Couldn't have cured Mrs. Rogers without."

The deacon smiled and bowed his head;
"Then your bill is nothing," he said,
"God's be the glory as you say;
God bless you, doctor, good day! good day!"

If ever I doctor that woman again,
I'll give her medicine made by men.

Sunday Reading.

Mr. Hammond's Meetings.

On Monday evening Mr. Hammond, who had issued a special invitation to free thinkers and infidels to be present, read the following reply of Chaplain McCabe to Colonel Ingersoll. The dream frequently provoked the laughter of the congregation :—

I had a dream, which was not all a dream. I thought I was on a long journey through a beautiful country, when suddenly I came to a great city with walls fifteen feet high. At the gate stood a sentinel, whose shining armor reflected back the rays of the morning sun. As I was about to salute him and pass into the city, he stopped me and said :

"Do you believe in the Lord Jesus Christ?"

I answered : "Yes with all my heart."

"Then," said he, "You cannot enter here. No man or woman who acknowledges that name can pass in here. Stand aside!" said he, "they are coming."

I looked down the road, and saw a vast multitude approaching. It was led by a military officer.

"Who is that?" I asked of the sentinel.

"That," he replied, is the great Col. Robert I——, the founder of the City of Ingersollville."

"Who is he?" I ventured to inquire.

"He is a great and mighty warrior, who fought in many bloody battles for the Union during the great war.

I felt ashamed of my ignorance of history, and stood silently watching the procession. I had heard of a Colonel I——, * * * but, of course, this could not be the man.

The procession came near enough for me to recognize some of the faces. I noted two infidel editors of national celebrity, followed by great waggons containing steam presses. There were also five members of Congress.

All the noted infidels and scoffers of the country seemed to be there. Most of them passed in unchallenged by the sentinel, but at last a meek looking individual with a white necktie approached, and he was stopped. I saw at a glance he was a well-known "liberal" preacher of New York.

"Do you believe in the Lord Jesus?" said the sentinel.

"Not much!" said the doctor.

Everybody laughed, and he was allowed to pass in.

There were artists there, with glorious pictures; singers, with ravishing voices; tragedians and comedians, whose names have a world-wide fame.

Then came another division of the infidel host—saloon-keepers by thousands, proprietors of gambling hells, brothels, and theatres.

Still another division swept by: burglars, thieves, thugs, incendiaries, highwaymen, murderers—all—all marching in. My vision grew keener. I beheld, and lo! Satan himself brought up the rear.

High afloat above the mass was a banner on which was inscribed : "What has Christianity done for the country?" and another on which was inscribed : "Down with the churches! Away with Christianity—it interferes with our happiness!" And then came a murmur of voices that grew louder and louder until a shout went up like the roar of Niagara; "Away with Him! Crucify Him! Crucify Him!" I felt no desire now to enter Ingersollville.

As the last of the procession entered, a few men and women, with brad-brimmed hats and plain bonnets, made their appearance and wanted to go in as missionaries, but they were turned rudely away. A zealous young Methodist exhorter, with a Bible under his arm, asked permission to enter, but the sentinel swore at him awfully. Then I thought I saw Brother Moody applying for admission, but he was refused. I could not help smiling to hear Moody say, as he turned sadly away :

"Well! they let me live and work in Chicago; it is very strange they won't let me into Ingersollville."

The sentinel went inside the gate and shut it with a bang; and I thought, as soon as it was closed, a mighty angel came down with a great iron bar, and barred the gate on the outside, and wrote upon it in letters of fire, "Doomed to live together six months." Then he went away, and all was silent, except the noise of the revelry and shouting that came from within the city walls.

I went away, and as I journeyed through the land I could not believe my eyes. Peace and plenty smiled everywhere. The jails were all empty, the penitentiaries were without occupants. The police of great cities were idle. Judges sat in the court-rooms with nothing to do. Business was brisk. Many great buildings, formerly crowded with criminals, were turned into manufacturing establishments. Just about this time the President of the United States called for a day of thanksgiving. I attended services in a Presbyterian church. The preacher dwelt upon the changed condition of affairs. As he went on and depicted the great prosperity that had come to the country, and gave reasons for devout thanksgiving, I saw one old deacon clap his handkerchief over his mouth to keep from shouting right out. An ancient spinster, who never did like the "noisy" Methodists—a regular old blue-stocking Presbyterian, couldn't hold in. She expressed the thought of every heart by shouting with all her might, "Glory to God for Ingersollville!" A young theological student lifted up his hand and devoutly added, "Esto Perpetua." Everybody smiled. The country was almost delirious with joy. Great processions of children swept along the highway, singing,

"We'll not give up the Bible,
God's blessed Word of truth.

Vast assemblies also reformed inebriates, with their wives and children, gathered in the open air. No building would hold them. I thought I was in one meeting where Bishop Simpson made an address, and as he closed it a mighty shout went up till the earth rang again. O, it was wonderful! and then we all stood up and sang with tears of joy,

"All hail the power of Jesus' name!
Let angels prostrate fall;
Bring forth the royal diadem,
And crown Him Lord of all."

The six months had well nigh gone. I made my way back to the gate of Ingersollville. A dreadful silence reigned over the city, broken only by the sharp crack of a revolver now and then. I saw a man trying to get in at the gate, and I said to him, "My friend, where are you from?"

"I live in Chicago," said he, "and they taxed us to death there; and I've heard of this city, and I want to go in to buy some real estate in that new and growing place."

He utterly failed to remove the bar, but by some means he got a ladder about twelve feet long, and with its aid he climbed up upon the wall. With an eye to business, he shouted to the first person he saw :

"Hallo, there!—what's the price of real estate in Ingersollville?"

"Nothing!" shouted a voice; "you can have all you want if you'll just take it and pay the taxes."

"What made your taxes so high?" said the Chicago man. I noted the answer carefully; I shall never forget it.

"We've had to build forty new jails and fourteen penitentiaries—a lunatic asylum and an orphan asylum in every ward; we've had to disband the public schools, and it takes all the city revenue to keep up the police force."

"Where's my old friend I——?" asked the Chicago man.

"Oh, he is going about to-day with a subscription paper to build a church. They have gotten up a petition to send for a lot of preachers to come and hold revival services. If we can only get the wall, we hope there's a future for Ingersollville yet."

The six months ended. Instead of opening the door, however, a tunnel was dug under the wall big enough for one person to crawl through at a time. First came two bankrupt editors, followed by Colonel I——himself, and then the whole population crawled through. Then I thought, somehow, great crowds of Christians surrounded the city. There was Moody, and Hammond, and Earle, and hundreds of Methodist preachers and exhorters, and they struck up, singing together :

"Come, ye sinners, poor and needy."

A needier crowd never was seen on earth before.

I conversed with some of the inhabitants of the abandoned city, and asked a few of them this question :

"Do you believe in Hell?"

I cannot record the answers—they were terribly orthodox.

One old man said : "I've been there on probation for six months, and I don't want to join."

I knew by that he was an old Methodist backslider. The sequel of it all was a great revival, that gathered in a mighty harvest from the ruined City of Ingersollville.—Montreal Witness.

The Time to Save.

The extraordinary activity displayed in every department of trade and industry, the general rise in prices and wages, and the prevailing feeling of confidence among all classes, stamp the present as an era of remarkable prosperity in this country. How long it may continue no one can tell, but that we should make the most of it while it lasts goes without saying. After the long period of depression which succeeded the panic of 1873, it is very pleasant to note the signs of improvement on every hand. Capital seeks and finds profitable investment, and labor is constantly employed and fairly recompensed. Farm products command higher prices than at any previous time during the past seven years. In some special departments of manufacture, as, for instance, iron, steel and paper, the advance in prices, based partly on increased demand and partly on speculation, has been exceptional and most extraordinary. Cotton and woollen mills that were either closed or run at a loss for years, are now running on full time and making large profits. The demand which has sprung up within the past six months for almost every form of manufactured product in this country surpasses anything in our former experience. It almost seems as if the whole people had suddenly resolved to go into the market at the same time to bid against each other for everything in sight. The natural result of this sudden demand is an inflation of prices in some cases beyond the bounds of reason. It will be followed, sooner or later, by a contraction that may culminate in a collapse quite as disastrous as that of 1873.

The history of commerce is simply a succession of inflations and collapses. Good times and bad times alternate as regularly as the ebb and flow of the ocean tides. When business is brisk everybody spends as he goes, credits are expanded, enterprises of doubtful outcome are set on foot and speculation rules the public mind. When the bubble bursts and depression comes, everybody begins to save, demand falls far below production, confidence disappears, credits are contracted and even legitimate enterprises are shunned by capital, while speculation almost entirely disappears. If some of the excessive confidence which is displayed in good times could be carried over into periods of dullness and some of the excessive caution which marks the advent of hard times could be utilized in periods of buoyancy, we would all the better off in the long run. Extraordinary activity and extraordinary lethargy would be merged in the level of slow but certain and continuous prosperity. We hardly expect that this theory will be acted upon by the majority at present. Everybody is so eager to make up the losses suffered during the late depression that nothing but another collapse can check the rising tide of inflation and speculation apparent in all branches of business. This may come next year, or it may not come for five years, but it will come in time. The wise will keep this fact constantly in view.

In 1876 the balance of trade between the United States and Europe turned in our favor. From that time until within a few months our exports of commodities steadily increased, while our imports as steadily diminished. Low prices at home and a heavy foreign demand for our surplus breadstuffs, provisions and cotton favored trade with our neighbors. We would sell to them at a profit, while they could not find a remunerative market for their wares with us. But since the boom in prices in this country began, six months ago, the conditions which were so favorable to us have been seriously modified. It is true that there has been no decline in the value of our exports as yet, but our imports are increasing with astonishing rapidity, and the probability now is that before the year is out the balance of trade will be against us. Until the last quarter of 1879 we imported very little steel or iron from Europe for three years. Now the iron and steel mills of England have been set in operation by the vast orders sent from this country, and the price of steel and iron rails has been doubled there in the past few months. The extraordinary advance enables the British manufacturers to realize a handsome profit in this country. What is true of iron and steel is also true of many other branches of manufacture, and the result is plainly visible in the growth of our imports.

The unusual demand for our breadstuffs and provisions in Europe will insure high prices for these commodities at home for the ensuing six months, but are abundant harvest abroad will make our outlook for next year rather dubious. A drop of 40 cents per bushel in wheat and $4 per barrel in pork would make a vast difference to our farmers, yet it is among the possibilities which should be taken into consideration at the present time. With high prices for all manufactured articles in this country, imports will continue even after exports have declined, and it may happen that we will have to export the gold which came to us so freely during the closing months of last year. Such a change would react unfavorably on business in the United States. It is well to bear these facts in mind at a time when everything seems so favorable to a long continuance of prosperity if we can only succeed in averting the danger that threatens us. A strict adherence to wise business methods, and the exercise of a fair degree of caution in making new ventures, will do much to save the country from the perils of over-speculation and too great inflation of prices. Reasonable economy on the part of the working classes now, when they are making money, will enable them to look forward to the inevitable "rainy day" when less fear for its evil results. In times of calm it is well to prepare for possible storms.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The word "Wife."

What do you think the beautiful word "wife" comes from? It is the word in which the English and Latin languages conquered the French and Greek. I hope the French will some day get a word for it instead of that dreadful word femme. But what do you think it comes from? The grand value of Saxonwords is that they mean something. Wife means "weaver." You must either be house-wives or house-moths; remember that. In the deep sense you must either weave men's fortunes or embroider them, or feed upon and bring them to decay. Wherever a true wife comes home is always around her. The stars may be over her head, the glow-worm in the night cold grass may be the fire at her foot; but home is where she is; and for a noble woman it stretches far around her, better than houses ceiled with cedar and painted with vermilion, shedding its quiet light far for those who else are homeless. This I believe to be the woman's true place and power.—Ruskin.

Gems of Thought.

Luxury increases the luggage of life, and thereby impedes the march.

A generous man will place the benefits he confers beneath his feet; those he receives, nearest his heart.

If you wish to appear agreeable in society, you must consent to be taught many things which you know already.

We may do a very good action and not be a very good man, but we cannot do a very ill one and not be an ill man.

He who truly wishes the happiness of any one, cannot be long without discovering some mode of contributing to it.

If a cause be good, the most violent attacks of its enemies will not injure it so much as an injudicious support of its friends.

Life is a casket not precious in itself, but valuable in proportion to what fortune, or industry, or virtue has placed within it.

Proud men never have friends; neither in prosperity because they know nobody, nor in adversity because nobody knows them.

To feel much for others and little for ourselves, to restrain our selfish and to indulge our benevolent affections, constitute the perfection of human nature.

The utmost excellence at which humanity can arrive, is a constant and determined pursuit of virtue without regard to present dangers and advantages.

Endeavor to have as little to do with thy affections and passions as thou canst; and labor to thy power to make thy body content to go of thy soul's errands.

Affections are the medicine of the mind. If they are not toothsome, let it suffice that they are wholesome. It is not required in physic that it should please, but heal.

Every man has in his own life follies enough, in his own mind trouble enough, in his own fortunes evil enough, without being curious after the affairs of others.

The occupations of men are unfortunately, for the most part, such that they shut out all deep thought while they are going on, and yet make no ennobling claim on the mind.

There is no mean work save that which is sordidly selfish; there is no irreligious work but that which is morally wrong, while in every sphere of life "the post of honor is the post of duty."

GERMAN PROVERBS.—One has only to die to be praised. Handsome apples are sometimes sour. Little and often makes a heap in time. It is easier to blame than to do better. It is not enough to arm, you must hit. Would you be strong, conquer yourself. Speak little, speak truth; spend little, pay cash. Better go supperless to bed than run in debt. Better free in a foreign land than a slave at home.

Political Notes.

AN UNPATRIOTIC PARTY.

Under this heading the Montreal Gazette has the following trenchant remarks :—"The Clear Grits are rejoicing over the defeat of the Conservative Government in England and at the return of the Liberals to office. It is perhaps a natural feeling on their part, and one concerning which no one has any right to complain. Their sympathies are with the Liberal party. The triumph in England has for them some consolation in the position in which they now stand in this country. But when we come to understand the grounds of their rejoicing the case is somewhat different. Here, for instance, is a despatch from Toronto to the Liberal papers throughout the country, which affords some indication of the grounds upon which our Liberal friends rejoice at the change in England :—

TORONTO, April 1.—The Liberal gains in England are received with demonstrations of joy by the Canadian Reformers. Should Beaconsfield be defeated, a demonstration is being contemplated by the leading Reformers of this city. It is felt that a change of the Ministry in England will be fatal to the Canada Pacific Railway and strengthen Mr. Blake's hands in his assaults upon the Government policy.

The obligation to build the Pacific Rail. way is one from which the people of Canada cannot escape. It is an obligation which must be fulfilled both on grounds of honesty and honor, as well as on grounds of self-interest. It is, therefore, a matter of great consequence that Canada should have, if it can be possible to have, assistance at this moment. Whether Lord Beaconsfield, if he had remained in office, would grant that assistance or not is not known. The impression has grown strongly in the public mind that he was to some extent committed to the granting of aid, and it is evident that our Clear Grit friends have shared in that impression. It seems, therefore, an extraordinary thing that they should rejoice in an electoral incident which has resulted in depriving this country of substantial aid in the development of its Great Northwest Surely that party must be a very unpatriotic one which can make such a subject the ground of rejoicing, simply because it may add force to the party onslaught which it is proposed to make upon the Government in connection with the Pacific Railway.

THE ALLEGED EXODUS.

The Montreal Post (Independent) says : The Liberal journals are full of emigration to the States, and are magnifying and multiplying the numbers as rapidly as they can. As a matter of course the whole blame is laid upon the National Policy. There is no use in denying the fact that a number of people are leaving Canada for the United States and the Northwest, though not in such proportions as the Globe would lead us to believe, and not certainly in numbers as great as at former periods. A season of prosperity in the States has always the tendency to attract people from Canada, some of whom stay there, but most of whom return with some means, and the present "exodus" is due entirely to such natural causes. If the National Policy had not been inaugurated, there would just now be a real exodus.

AN IMPROVEMENT IN TRADE.

The Syracuse (N. Y.) Journal observes : —"There is a marked improvement in trade in Canada. The customs receipts for March were nearly $300,000 more than in the corresponding month of 1879. The inland revenue receipts also give a large increase. The railroad returns show greatly augmented traffic." But what is patent enough to outsiders and unbiased Canadians, will not be admitted by journals of the Globe stripe, which think they elevate themselves by making little of the country.

—A Rangoon despatch says intelligence has been received that Theebaw, King of Burmah, died with small-pox at Mandalay. There are fears of a civil war in Burmah.

The Lumber Business.

MILL AT FERRY POINT.

Eagle Mill at Ferry Point, the property of the Messrs. Rathbun, presents just now a busy scene, work at the mill and in the yards being in full blast. During the winter the mill underwent a thorough renovation, and a quantity of new machinery for the manufacture of moulding slats, blind slats and panels, was added. There being an ample supply of logs in the boom—over 50,000—operations were commenced on the 22nd of March, being rather earlier in the season than usual, and at present employment is given to between 65 and 70 men and boys. In a few days this number will be increased to 85 or 90. The mill is in capital condition, is supplied with all machinery for cutting, in addition to ordinary lumber, barrel headings, lath, &c., its working capacity being 75,000 feet every eleven hours, but averaging about 60,000 feet. Power is supplied by two engines of 40 horse power each. There are three immense boilers and by an ingenious contrivance the saw dust, which is utilized for fuel, is conveyed by elevators and fed from the top of the boiler. A new feature for keeping the boilers free from scale, and which was introduced at the suggestion of Mr. Geo. Robb, inspecting engineer o the Canadian Steam User's Association—is said to work admirably. A pipe is placed at the rear end of the boilers, to which is attached a blow pipe, and when the boiler is full and the water is agitated the tap is opened, the sediment is drawn into the pipe and expelled.

Excellent facilities are furnished for putting out fires, there being in addition to a large supply of buckets and immense tanks kept constantly filled with water, a chemical engine and a stationary steam engine, with 3,000 feet of hose, which can force the water over the mill and over six piles of lumber.

The yard is one of the finest and largest in the country, being supplied with a network of tramways, and every convenience for hauling, piling, &c. At present there is about 4,000,000 feet of lumber on the grounds, in addition to lath, headings, &c. Shipping will commence probably in about two weeks.

During the past winter 600 feet has been added to the docks, which now have a frontage of over 1500 feet, and with 16 to 18 feet of water, gives one of the finest and most extensive dockages to be found in the Province. At the western end a steamboat dock has just been completed, of the most substantial character, and here the depth of water at the present time is about 16 feet. Mr. Ralph Murray has charge of the mill, and Mr. Lake is bookkeeper and in charge of the yards. Both are men of large experience, and well qualified for the positions they occupy. We understand that with the exception of about a dozen men, all the parties employed in and about the mill are residents of Ferry Point and vicinity.

FOR MANITOBA.—Two special trains left Ottawa for Manitoba and one from Toronto on the 7th inst., making forty-seven cars of live stock and household goods. On leaving Sarnia 740 passengers were booked. Mr. T. Ford, the G.T.R. travelling passenger agent, went as far as Port Huron. Mr. H. C. In 1879 there passed through the Canal 124 tons flour ; 300 tons wheat ; 95 tons corn ; 16 tons barley ; 316 tons oats ; 1,360 tons rye ; all other foods, 208 tons ; lumber, 14,778 tons—total, 17,197 tons. During 1878, 15,994 tons passed through.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS.—The result of the elections yesterday was the return of 19 Liberals and 8 Conservatives. The Daily News says, the results already achieved ensure a liberal majority in the next Parliament of at least eighty, independent of the Home Rulers. The Liberal net gain is now 97. It is expected that a Cabinet Council will be held on Monday.

The propeller Oswego Belle has been rechristened and will hereafter be known as the Emerald.

The schooner Picton is loading lumber at Flint & Holton's.

The Armenia made her trip this morning, arriving at 10:30.

On Monday Capt. Yott will commence to fit out his schooners the O. S. Storrs and M. O'Gorman, which have wintered at Rednerville. This work will be completed by Wednesday, when the vessels will at once commence the carriage of lumber from Gilmour's mill at Trenton to Oswego, each of the schooners having been engaged to take six cargoes at a rate understood to be $1 per thousand feet.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—While we, of Belleville, are too modest to lay claim to being perfect, a legitimate pride may be taken in the noble work which is being done at the "home for the friendless." The commencements of such an institution are presumably humble and necessarily difficult, yet none but the excellent ladies who so devotedly conduct the work can tell the amount of good it has already achieved. I was this afternoon permitted to take a glance through the various apartments of the "home," and was struck by the neatness and order of the place—the inmates, 13 in number, looking particularly happy. The culinary department is not the least interesting to the boarders, and is paid due attention to by those in charge. In reaching the kitchen, I found Mrs. Flint presiding at the confection of a boiler of soup of no ordinary dimensions. Every Saturday morning, the poor who have secured tickets from any lady of the committee, can procure a quart of that article. Last Friday Mrs. Mackie, who has been taking a deep interest in the home, furnished all the requisites for the weekly potage, and no less than 60 quarts were dealt out. Mrs. Walker, the lady in charge, deserves great credit for the excellent manner in which she keeps the establishment. Yours, &c.,

VISITOR.

CARPETS.

WE are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers.

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealers telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, 5c., 10c., and even 25c. is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, APRIL 10.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE.—Last night's record shows that there were nine tramps and no prisoners in the cells.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—A regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held on Tuesday night.

BIBLE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.—Rev. Mr Schuster will deliver a sermon on "temperance" in the above church to-morrow evening.

CRICKET.—At a meeting of the Cricket Club last night, it was resolved to put the old grounds on the bay shore in order again. No arrangements for matches were made.

THE UPPER FERRY.—The reason why the steamer Mary Ethel stopped running on the upper ferry route yesterday was the breakage of part of the dock on this side of the bay, against which the boat struck when going at a good speed. The necessary repairs were made and the steamer ran to-day as usual.

PRINCE EDWARD RAILWAY.—Arrangements have been made by which the mails from Trenton to Picton and along the line of railway will be carried by the Prince Edward Railway. The change in service will be made in a few days. We are glad to learn that the business of the railway during the winter season has been equal to the expectations of the managers, and that there is a prospect of a steady increase during the summer season.

INCREASE OF STATION ACCOMMODATION.—The increase of traffic on the Grand Trunk at Belleville has been so great that a very large addition to the accommodation for passengers and freight has been rendered necessary, and is about to be undertaken. Plans have been prepared for an addition to the east end of the passenger station, which will be equal in size to the present building, at the west end of which, and twenty-five feet distant, a new stone building of the same width as the old station will be erected. The freight shed will also be extended to the extremity of the platform which now exists at its east end. For the accommodation of through passengers over the Grand Junction and Belleville and North Hastings Railways, the connection of the line which those railways use in common, with the Grand Trunk will be greatly simplified, and their passengers will be landed on the platform on the south side of the station buildings, where they will effect the necessary change of cars by simply crossing the platform to the main line of the Grand Trunk. It will thus be seen that these changes, when carried out, will be of great importance and of much convenience to the travelling public. One more improvement ought to be made, namely the establishment at Belleville station of dining rooms, for which this city is the most convenient locality between Toronto and Prescott, owing to the several trains arriving here at meal times, namely the morning express for breakfast, the noon express for dinner, and the evening express for supper. We are quite sure that this last proposed change would be much appreciated by travellers, and therefore it is to be hoped that it will be made.

POLICE COURT.—There was no business in Court to-day.

LAUNCHED.—Messrs. Tisdale launched to-day the catamaran or double hulled yacht, which they have built for Mr. J. J. B. Flint. This is the first craft of the kind ever built here, and it naturally excites a great deal of attention. The hulls are twenty feet in length, and each is but half of a boat, the inner side being flat. The extreme beam is 9ft. 4in., and draught of water 8 inches, whilst the rig will be of the lateen style. Ample space for quite a large party will be afforded on the deck, which is enclosed by a railing two feet in height. The hulls are painted white, with a blue stripe and green and yellow beads. Altogether the catamaran, though not very taking to the eye when compared with single hulled yachts, is yet viewed favorably by many. Its speed will doubtless be tested at an early day. The builders have done an excellent job, their work being sound and strong as well as neat.

NEW YACHT.—The new centre board yacht built at Trenton by Cuthbert for Capt. Murray of Toronto, paid a brief visit to the harbor yesterday evening on her way to Toronto. Her principal dimensions are: Length over all 33 ft. 10 in.; length from fore part of stem to after part of stern post 28 ft. 10 in.; breadth of beam 9 ft. 10 in.; draught of water aft 3 ft. 1 in. The cabin is not large, but is quite comfortable, and all the appointments of the craft are first class. The rig is comparatively new in these waters being known as the yawl, namely jib mainsail and jigger, or mizzen sail, which is a handy rig for cruising purposes, as the main sail can be furled and the yawl worked under jib and jigger, or the latter sails can be stowed and mainsail alone used. It blew a gale when leaving Trenton, but the yacht carried whole canvas and on the way into harbor here she worked well under mainsail only. Although not modeled for speed, Capt. Murray's craft sails well, and is likely to prove an excellent sea-boat and safe in any weather. The journey to Toronto was begun last night.

County Court Without Jury.

FRIDAY, April 9.

MOSS vs. CROSBY.—Action on promissory note given by the firm of Jas. Martin & Co., doing business in Campbellford, to the plff. The plff's contention is that the deft. was a member of this firm. Deft. denies any connection with that firm. A number of witnesses were called and the case lasted all day.

Court adjourned at 5.50 o'clock.

SATURDAY, April 10.

MOSS vs. CROSBY, continued.—Case still going on.—Dickson for plff; Clute for deft.

The Differing Doctors.

DR. TRACY'S OPINION OF THE MERRILL CASE.

Dr. Tracy yesterday evening stated that on seeing the body of Miss Merrill shortly before 2 p. m. on Thursday, he found the lower limbs and feet warm to an extent that artificial means could not have supplied. There was some discoloration, which disappeared on the body being turned, thus showing thet the blood was circulating. He advised that the body be not interred until decomposition had set in and on again seeing the remains on Thursday night he found that decomposition had begun.

SAD POISONING CASE.

One Child Dead and the Mother and Others Ill.

A correspondent writes from Tweed, under date April 10, as follows:—The family of Cornelius Palmer, of the 12th concession of Hungerford, was poisoned on the 9th inst., by eating wild parsnip. One child is dead and the mother and four other children not expected to live. Dr. Tuttle, of Tweed, sent an antidote which may be of benefit if not too late. Palmer himself is in Michigan.

Seasonable Topics.

The husband who has been so feeble all winter that he was not able to bring in the fuel, will soon be able to go out to the back lakes and sit all day on a damp stone, fishing.

We would offer a little advice to those owning hens: As soon as your neighbor has planted his garden, see that your hens and chickens have free access to it. It will help to strengthen the good feeling existing between you and your neighbor.

The cold snap has apparently blown over. Yesterday's gale did it.

Bridge Street, from Church Street to George Street, is in a shamefully bad condition. No leading thoroughfare should be allowed to continue in such a state.

The sidewalks are very shaky in many localities, and in not a few other places require rebuilding. A large expenditure will be necessary this year to put them in order.

The idea of local taxation for local improvements begins to find favor with many ratepayers. Its advocates contend that, at all events, the adoption of this system would put a stop to log-rolling in the City Council.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

HOPS.—The English markets have a downward tendency for anything but the choicest parcels. A sale was reported in Montreal of 7 bales at 24c.

PROVISIONS.—While the stocks of mess pork and lard in Chicago are unusually large, they are said to be locked up, so that shippers complain that they are unable to fill orders accept with considerable difficulty.

BROOM CORN.—Quite a liberal advance is noted in the price of broom corn in Chicago. The visible supply is said to be about 5,000 tons short of what it was a year ago, and this has strengthened the feeling, and the larger holders now demand higher prices.

THE DONNELLY MASSACRE.—At the Middlesex Assizes true Bills have been found against all the prisoners in the Donnelly massacre on every indictment. An effort is being made to change the venue to Brantford or Welland.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

SANTA FE, April 10.—General Hatch, with part of his command, attacked 300 Indians in camp in the San Andres mountains. The fight lasted six hours. The Indians retreated, leaving the dead behind. Capt. Carroll, of the 9th cavalry, and seven soldiers, were severely wounded. A large amount of stock was captured. The Indians are supposed to be Mescallero Apaches. Hatch, with his command, is in pursuit.

LONDON, April, 10.—A Constantinople correspondent says the elections in England produced on all classes a profound impression and at the palace almost a panic. Wild speculations are afloat regarding the consequences of the coming change in the British ministry. Greeks, Armenians, Bulgarians and Christians generally have long regarded Beaconsfield as their most powerful opponent, and rejoice at his fall. The more sanguine assume that Gladstone will immediately form a Cabinet and prepare to turn the Turks out of Europe, bag and baggage.

The Sultan and his advisors are thoroughly alarmed. One result of his fears is his signing the Irade settling the Montenegrin question. The Turkish public is indifferent and pathetic.

Lord Hartington's recent declaration that the Liberals would endeavor to create a European coalition for compelling Turkey to introduce reforms has produced much comment. It is stated with truth that for months past the Porte has been unintentionally doing all it could to create such a coalition. Never before has it shown such an arrogant, defiant attitude toward the powers. The consequence has been that we have now the extraordinary phenomenon of all the embasses and legations working heartily together in several important questions.

Never since the time of the Constantinople conference has so much unanimity been seen in the diplomatic world of Petra.

It is confidentially expected that the change in the ministry of England will extend this unanimity to the Greek frontier question, on which the Porte hitherto counted as British support.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10.—It is thought that naval demonstration may have salutary effect on the Chinese, and that the step is partly due to the news that the reactionary party in China is gaining ascendancy to the danger of all Europeans, whose respective Ministers have consequently asked for naval reinforcements in Chinese waters.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 10.—The Armenia Journals publishes telegrams from the Russian Consul Van Armenia, appealing for aid to save the inhabitants of that district from utter destitution. The famine is increasing. 150 persons died of starvation at Agbok. In the villages girls are dying. A hundred died at Van. The Russian authorities of Rastoff have forwarded 50,000 poods of flour to Van. 200 Russian convicts arrived at Odessa for transportation to the island of Saghalian.

A severe earthquake visited Tokio and Yokohama 22nd February. Considerable property destroyed and a number of lives lost.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, April, 10.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the lower lakes, winds mostly southerly to-day with cloudy weather and rainy areas, followed by high northerly winds to-night and cooler weather to-morrow.

Storm signals have been ordered up at the following ports:—Presquile, Collingwood, Southhampton, Goderich and Kincardine.

WASHINGTON, April. 10.—Indications: for lower lakes, cloudy, rain or snow; warm, south-west, veering to colder northwest winds.

An Open Letter. It Speaks for itself.

WEST TOWNSHEND, VT.

Mr. Editor: Having read in your papers reports of the remarkable cures of catarrh, I am induced to tell "what I know about catarrh," and I fancy the "snuff" and inhaling tube makers (mere dollar grabbers) would be glad if they could emblazon a similar cure in the papers. For 26 years I suffered with catarrh. The nasal passage became completely closed. "Snuff," "dust," "ashes," "inhaling-tubes," and "sticks," wouldn't work though at intervals I would sniff up the so-called catarrh snuff, until I became a valueable tester for such medicines. I gradually grew worse, and no one can know how much I suffered or what a miserable being I was. My head ached over my eyes so that I was confined to my bed for many successive days, suffering the most intense pain, which at one time lasted continuously for 168 hours. All sense of smell and taste gone, sight and hearing impaired, body shrunken and weakened, nervous system shattered, and constitution broken, and I was hawking and spitting seven-eighths of the time. I prayed for death to relieve me of my suffering. A favorable notice in your paper of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy induced me to purchase a package, and use it with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, which applies the remedy by hydrostatic pressure, the only way compatible with common-sense. Well, Mr. Editor, it did not cure me in three-fourths of a second, nor one hour or month, but in less than eight minutes I was relieved, and in 3 months entirely cured, and have remained so for over 16 months. While using the Catarrh Remedy, I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify my blood and strengthen my stomach. I also kept my liver active and bowels regular by the use of his Pleasant Purgative Pellets. If my experience will induce other sufferers to seek the same means of relief this letter will have answered its purpose.

Yours truly,

S. D. REMICK.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION.

THURSDAY, April 8.

At 4.30 p. m. a vote was taken on Sir John A. Macdonald's amendment to Mr. McDonnell's motion in regard to the disallowance of the fishery award moneys, which was carried as follows:

YEAS—Messrs Angers, Arkell, Baby, Bain, Bannerman, Barnard, Beaubien, Baker, Benoit, Bergeron, Bolduc, Boultbee, Bourbeau, Bowell, Brooks, Brown, Bunster, Burnham, Cameron (Victoria), Carling, Carpenter, Casey, Costigan, Church, Caron, Casey, Costigan, Coughlin, Coupal, Connell, Costigan, Coughlin, Coupal, Coursol, Currier, Cuthbert, Daoust, Dawson, Desaulniers, Desjardins, Domville, Drew, Dugas, Elliott, Ferguson, Fitzsimmons, Fleming, Fortin, Fulton, Gault, Gigault, Gillies, Girouard, (Jacques Cartier) Girouard (Kent) Grandbois, Guay, Haggart, Hall, Hesson, Hilliard, Hooper, Houde, Hurteau, Ives, Jones, Keeler, Kilvert, Kranz, Landry, Lane, Langevin, Larue, Little, Mcdonald (Victoria, B. C.), McDonald (Pictou), Macdonell (Lanark) Mackenzie, Macmillan, McCallum, McCuaig, McDougall, McGreevy, McInnes, McLellan, McQuade, McIntyre, Malouin, Massue, Merner, Methot, Montplaisir, Mousseau, O'Connor, Oliver, Olivier, Orton, Ouimet, Paterson (Brant), Patterson (Essex), Perrault, Pinsonneault, Platt, Pimuh, Pope (Compton), Pope (Stanstead), Rinfret, Ross (Middlesex) Rouleau, Routhier, Royal, Ryan (Marquette) Ryan (Montreal), Rykert, Skinner, Sproule, Strange, Tasse, Tellier, Thompson (Cariboo) Tupper, Tupper, Wallace (Vanassee, Wade, Wallace (Norfolk), Wallace (York), White (Cardwell), White (Renfrew), Williams, Wiser, and Wright—126.

NAYS.—Messrs. Allison, Anglin, Bill, Bourassa, Brecken, Burpee (Sunbury), Daly, Doull, Dumont, Fiset, Flynn, Geoffrion, Gilmour, Hackett, Haddow, Kaulbach, Killam, King, Longley, Macdonald (King), McDonald (Victoria, N. S.), McIsaac, McLeod, Muttart, Ogden, Pickard, Richey, Robertson (Shelburne), Rogers, and Weldon.—30.

The House adjourned at 4:30 a.m.

At the session in the afternoon, Mr. Abbott introduced an act to make provision for the winding up of insolvent banks and insurance companies. It was an elaborate measure of forty clauses, prepared with the carefulness which mark all Mr. Abbott's draft legislation. Now Mr. Ives, of Richmond and Wolfe, had also an Act of the very same character, which had been read some time ago, and it was evident that two measures of the same character could hardly expect to meet with equal consideration, at the close of the period when the measures of private members can be afforded opportunity of discussion. This fact became apparent at once, and after some discussion the Premier consented to advance Mr. Ives' measure a stage, and send it to the Banking Committee for consideration by a sub-committee. Thus there will be an opportunity for at least one measure to be considered with some degree of care.

The Budget debate was resumed by Mr. Killam, of Yarmouth. Mr. Ryan, of Montreal, accepted Sir Richard Cartwright's challenge to prove that twelve hundred men had been employed in Canada as a result of the National Policy. Mr. Ryan asserted that in Montreal alone, at least four or five thousand more people were employed now than last year. He contended that the results of the tariff in Montreal were repeated in every other locality where any industry existed which could benefit by a protection tariff. He illustrated his argument by reference to the various industries in Montreal in particular. He pointed out the fact that the Grand Trunk workshops had turned out twenty locomotives this year, which formerly they imported from the United States at say, $10,000 each. This would show a saving or $200,000 to the active industry of the country in that one branch alone. The same fact might be asserted by Mr. Ryan as true of the Intercolonial railway, on which the locomotives have been built since the present Government came into power, the majority of them having been formerly imported from the United States.

Mr. Burpee (St. John) followed Mr. Ryan. As he began by declaring that he would not deal with Sir Leonard's financial statements and would not follow him into his Estimates, it seemed singular that he should speak at all. But it soon became apparent that Mr. Burpee was disposed to be historical and to discuss Confederation and the history of the Intercolonial.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Longley and others, and Sir John A. Macdonald announced that the discussion would be closed to-night.

The Animal in the Box.

There is a sad young man up Michigan avenue today. He got up very early on the morning of the 1st and rigged up a box and hung upon it a sign reading: "Don't annoy the baboon." A great many people looked into the box and were annoyed by hoots and yells, and the inventor of the sell was waxing fat, when along came a sixfooter farmer with his weather eye open for living curiousities. When he saw the box and the sign he hitched his team and made an inspection. There was no baboon in the box. No, sir, there wasn't even the faintest trace of one. The young man was leaning against the fence and laughing his sides sore, when the farmer approached and asked:

"Did you have my baboon in that box?"

"No, of course not."

"Then why that sign? If there is no baboon there how can he be annoyed? I'd lick a man who'd annoy a baboon of mine."

"Wy, it's only a sell," explained the young man.

"What's a sell?"

"Wy, to-day is April fool day."

"Never heard of any such day in my life. Young man, don't you dare lie to me! I can take a joke as well as the next man, but I can't be baboned to-day or any other day. Where's that animal?"

"Never had any."

"Never had a baboon in the box, yet you hang out a sign that people mustn't poke him up and annoy him! Boy, that's false pretenses."

"But can't you take a joke?"

"A joke? Where is the joke in forbidding us to annoy the baboon when there isn't a baboon within a thousand miles of us! Other folks may not resent it, but I can't be imposed on without a rumpus!"

He hauled the box down, kicked off the slats, and then he picked up the young man, turned him end for end, twisted him up, and jammed him into the baboon box. It was an awful close fit, and there was a heap of kicking, but the baboon got there all the same, and after the farmer had driven away they had to pull the box apart to get the living curiosity out.—Detroit Free Press.

A QUAINT story of Andrew Jackson is told by a writer in the Nashville Banner. He was visiting a Kentucky town where among the gentlemen presented to him was a Major Lewis, who desired to impress Jackson and his admirers with his own independence. Taking a dignified attitude he said: "Well, general, I have all my life been voting against you." Jackson courteously bowed to him and said, good humoredly: "Well, Major Lewis, I have all my life been fighting the battles of my country in order that you might enjoy that privilege."

Mark Twain Swindled.

HOW HIS FATHER-IN-LAW SURPRISED HIM WHEN HE WAS FIRST MARRIED.

In a recent interview Mr. Redpath tells the following story of Mark Twain: I think it was Mark's second year of lecturing in the East, and my lyceum bureau did his business. He told me one day that he was going to get married, and he wanted me to go with him to buy what you would have called a "trousseau" if he had been a woman. He bought enough for a century; he comes from a long-lived race, and he had an eye to the future. He was not worth more than $20,000 or $25,000 at that time, I guess. He has made since over $100,000 by his books and lectures and interests in insurance companies in Hartford, where he lives. He went and got married at Elmira, where his father-in-law lived. The latter was a millionaire, one of the coal mining lords; but he was not an ordinary scrub of a millionaire—he was a man of rare nobility of character, and a generous benefactor of the anti-slavery movement. He was an earnest abolitionist all his life. Mark had asked his friend, the editorial office to select him a first-class suite of rooms in a fashionable boarding-house and to have a carriage ready to take his bride and himself there when they came down to Buffalo. He knew they would do it, and gave himself no more anxiety about it. When he reached Buffalo he found the boys sure enough, at the depot, with the finest carriage in sight. Of course he had ever seen in that city. They drove him up to a handsome house in an aristocratic street, and at the door opened there were the parents and friends to welcome him home. As the story was told to me—I didn't get it from Mark—the bride's folk had come up without his knowledge by a special train. Mark went from room to room, and found they had furnished exquisitely—some in blue and some in yellow silks—the furniture and upholstery of the most luxurious and expensive styles. Then he was informed "officially" that he had been driven up by his own coachman in his own carriage to his own house. They say tears came to Mark's eyes, although his wonderfully bright eyes—the keenest and clearest I ever saw—sometimes dry eyes I ever saw in any man's head—aren't given to crying as a regular business. He could not find words to "express his sentiments" so he only "rose to explain."

"Well, this is a first-class swindle!" he stammered.

There is a satisfaction in the thought of having done what we know to be right; and there is a diametrical annoying effect in bitter and remorseful agony, in the thought of having done what conscience tells us to be wrong. This implies a sense of the rectitude of what is virtuous. There is instant delight in the first conception of benevolence; there is sustained delight in its continued exercise; there is consummated delight in the happy, smiling, and prosperous results of kindness, and honesty, and truth are of themselves, and irrespective of their rightness, sweet unto the taste of the inner man. Malice, envy, falsehood, meanness, irrespective of their wrongness, have, of themselves, the bitterness of gall and wormwood.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL and HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable agents in a form perfectly palatable, and capable of digestion by the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food combine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.

C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried Scott's EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been introduced to the notice of the profession. In lung and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

December 19th, 1878. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was carried home from Chicago, which I thought would be my last visit, as I despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning chills, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL AND LIME; and I have faithfully done so. It has done all he said it would, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken it with the following results: Cough subsided, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet my friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend now in the last stages of consumption and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879, Very truly yours, H. E. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.

About the 20th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

For sale by all Druggists at 50 cts. per bottle. R. W. HAMILTON, M. D.

Epileptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MINN., JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you over this, until I could be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine. I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt about it that little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that she was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that but for the use of your Syrup, and Anodyne, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year and can say that it relieves. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but long difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was persuaded to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitution for this under any circumstances.

DETROIT THROAT & LUNG INSTITUTE.

DETROIT, MICH.

M. Hilton Williams, M. D.

(Graduate of Victoria College at Toronto, and Member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.)

PROPRIETOR.

(PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED SINCE 1870.)

Over 15,000 Persons Successfully Treated since the establishment of our Institute in Detroit from all parts of the United States and Canada, for some of the various diseases of the head, throat and lungs. The only institute of the kind in Michigan specially devoted to the treatment of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, also diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heart.

Catarrh and Throat Diseases are every year becoming more prevalent and more generally fatal. As prevalent as they are, if left to themselves, their termination is Consumption and death.

A large portion of the deaths from throat and lung diseases are of young people—those who have not reached the meridian of life. Their blood upon life is strong and all the functions of the body active. If they were properly treated the great majority of them would recover. Such is my experience. Put I have no faith in their treatment by the stomach. Cod liver oil is good nourishment, but it is not medicine. No medicine given by the stomach exerts a curative influence on the lungs.

We are positive in saying that three-fourths of the vast number who die of Consumption might be saved did they awaken to the true sense of danger when the disease first appeared in the head and throat; the best writers, and the ablest physicians of the age have expressed similar opinions.

With these facts before us we feel that we would be recreant to our responsibilities were we to remain silent and see our fellow-beings pass away like autumn leaves while there is hope for so many.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by medical inhalations, combined with proper constitutional and hygenic treatment.

If on account of distance, expense of travel or physical debility, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and when fully answered and returned remedies can be sent per express (duties free) together with full directions for use. Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION.

FRIDAY, April 9.

On motion of Sir John Macdonald, it was resolved that for the rest of the session after to-day Government business shall, on Mondays, have the preference over all other business after routine proceedings.

Mr. Anglin resumed the debate on the tariff. He asked for a statement of the revenue for March.

Sir Leonard Tilley said he had not a statement for March, but the revenue for January, February, and March, 1880, reached $5,234,000, being $760,000 in excess of the amount for the same period of last year.

Mr. Anglin then proceeded to discuss the financial question, justifying the late Government for its expenditures and condemning the present Government for the increases which had occurred under them. As to the surpluses which had cocurred under the late Government of Sir John Macdonald, he did not think it was made to the credit of that Government to have money accumulating on their hands, or to have an expenditure which was somewhat smaller than the revenue. As to the definite of the late Government, they were unavoidable and entirely attributable to the engagements into which the previous Government had led the country. He condemned the National Policy, and claimed that it had reduced the trade of shipping cattle and destroyed various of the New Brunswick industries.

Mr. Anglin spoke until 6 o'clock, and after recess a debate took place on the Credit Valley Railway Bill.

The debate on the budget was once more resumed, and continued by Messrs. Gault, Mills and others.

At fifteen minutes to one, after Mr. Mills, Sir Richard Cartwright rose and began to reply to Sir Leonard Tilley's speech of the other night, which he did not hear, in a style which caused the Finance Minister—who had had to give Sir Richard a summary of his speech to enable him to reply—to protest against its offensiveness.

The Lupine Sickness in Sheep.

Pending the inquiry (says the Farmer), into causes and means of prevention of this now prevalent disease, which it has been suggested should be undertaken by the Prussian ministry of Agriculture, reports of its occurrence in many parts of Germany continue to appear in the various agricultural journals of that country. Among the latest of these is one furnished to the Hannoverische Landwirthschaftliche Zeitung, by Herr Gruntzel, of Mesmen. Of the 750 sheep of which his flock was composed, 450 received lupine, and the other 300 did not. In about two days after the Lupine feeding had commenced all of the first division fell ill; they lost appetite, suffered from constipation and retention of the bladder, and their eyes assumed a peculiar yellow color. On the fourth and fifth day 33 of them died, and altogether 58 were lost. The other 300 sheep, which had received no lupine, remained perfectly healthy. An examination of the lupines that had thus proved deleterious, and of some of another sort grown upon a different part of the same field, was thereupon undertaken by M. Meyer, of Hassal. The first variety was found to contain a large quantity of poisonous fungi, while the second was quite free from them. Experiments in feeding were then made with the second variety, and in no case had they any injurious effect on the sheep to which they were given. Both crops of lupines had been got in in good dry condition, and it is further stated that the sheep had been folded on about eight acres of the poisonous lupine, while they were still in the green stage, without sustaining any injury.

Raising Cream.

Until within the past ten years the almost universal method of raising cream was by setting the milk in small, shallow vessels. It was not thought possible to get all the cream in any other way, and in this way it was believed that loss was suffered unless the milk sat thirty-six hours before being skimmed. Now it has been demonstrated that milk may be set in vessels 12 inches or more in depth, and all the cream separated from it in from ten to twelve hours. Under the old system a temperature of from 55 to 62 degrees was thought requisite. Under the new system it is found that no degree of cold, short of freezing, hinders the rising of the cream. Were the old-fashioned dairymen altogether wrong in their method and theory? And if they were partly right and partly wrong, what was their mistake?

Too Many Fences.

A great waste in New England farming is waste in fencing. We have too many small fields which it is impossible to cultivate as they ought to be. Horse machinery cannot be used to advantage in them. There are too many fence-corners in which brush and weeds are allowed to grow, as they cannot be got at to advantage unless the fences are moved. Many of our best acres are taken up with fences, and it is with great labor they are kept up. It is much cheaper to remove the inside fences than to keep the farm divided into small fields. We can use machinery in large fields to better advantage. I am in favor of a law which will allow our roadside fences to be removed, and which would make the owner of the stock responsible for all damage done. It would be a great advantage to all our farmers.—Hawthoy, in Country Gentleman.

Cure for Gapes.

I have tried many things to cure the gapes from our chicks, but know of none so effectual as lime. Place the chick or chicks in a barrel, or something easily covered with a bag, so that the dust of the lime cannot escape, but do not smother the chicks with too thick a bag. Dust your chicks well, and leave them confined for 5 or 10 minutes. One application is sufficient. When you take the chicks out, blow the dust out of their eyes, that it may not injure their sight. About two single handfuls of fine lime are sufficient to dust the chicks when confined in an ordinary flour barrel. The lime makes the chicks sneeze very hard, and thus expels the cause of the gapes. R. H.

Glen Mills, Pa.

The Pasture.

In an article on pasturage Alexander Hyde says there is no question but that most farmers have overvalued their grazing lands, have made them no return for the constant drafts upon them for milk, meat and wood, in short, have skimmed them until they are as destitute of the fertilizing elements of grass as skimmed milk is of cream. Few farms can pay interest on the capital invested in them unless they furnish good grazing. The remedy for the slow consumption of our pastures grazed by cows is to; top-dress them occasionally with compost, or if they are too remote from the barn for this, to sprinkle them with wood ashes or bone dust. In case wood ashes can be obtained at a reasonable rate, there is no fertilizer for pastures so cheap and at the same time so effectual. These contain phosphate of lime, potash, soda, in short all the inorganic elements which plants require for food. Sheep are good stock for a pasture. They not only eat every plant that grows but their excrement is all left on the land, and what they carry off in their wool and meat is small in comparison with milch cows. In case a pasture is fairly overrun with hardhacks or other bushes, nothing but thorough surgical operation will cure the soil. The scythe, the grub-hook, and the plough must do the work and the cost is tenfold what it would have been to keep the pastures in good healthy condition by a timely allowance of plant food.—Exchange.

How to break a Heifer or a Vicious Cow to milk.

A vicious cow becomes so only by education, or as is sometimes said by being spoiled. The case is much worse than that of a heifer, and when the cow is apparently cured of a bad habit, it is liable upon slight provocation to return. The principle involved in the treatment of all brutes, is to employ kindness, together with the means of proper restraint. In the case of the young or the vicious cow, place her in stanchions or fasten her securely. Pass a girth —either a strap or rope—around the body, just in front of the udder, letting it pass in the rear of the right hip and in front of the left. Draw the girth somewhat tightly—more or less so, to correspond with the severity of the case. Take the pail and stool and sit down to milking. The cow must be a very obstinate one which will give any lasting trouble. The philosophy of the treatment is that the strap so restrains the action of the muscles of the hind legs that the animal cannot kick to harm, or get foot into the pail, while the restraint is steady and sure, and the punishment not severe. A woman or boy can manage an ordinary case. Heifers broken in this way will think, become more thoroughly gentle and submissive. Of course an even temper and kind treatment must be strictly observed.—(Ex.)

Insect Powder.

William Saunders, of London, Ontario, well known for his horticultural experience as well as distinguished as the editor of the Canadian Entomologist, finds the Dalmatian Insect Powder, made from Pyrethrum cinerariæfolium an excellent insecticede; he says, "house flies are very sensitive to the effects of these powders; a few puffs of it from a tobacco smoker gun, blown into the air of a room with the doors closed, the discharges directed toward those parts where flies are congregated, will stupefy and kill them in a very short time. The powder is somewhat pungent, and to breathe an atmosphere charged with it will cause sneezing, and possibly coughing, but beyond this the operator need not anticipate any annoyance. Frequently during the past summer, when flies have been troublesome, we have pretty thoroughly charged the air in our dining room and kitchen at night, closing the doors, and in the morning found all, or nearly all, the flies lying dead on the floors. A few minutes after its use they begin to drop on their backs, and after a very short time die; if the room be closed for half an hour after using the powder, few if any will escape."

He finds it as good against aphides and other plant lice,—much superior in its results to tobacco smoke.

Destroying Borers,

I was tormented in the same way by borers. I tried copper wire, which I found to be the best to follow the course of the worms. Some I succeeded in killing. When I would hit one I could tell it by the wet on the end of the wire, but I found their paths so crooked that I could not get the wire to follow. I secured a small syringe, made wide enough for the hole, and with soft soap and washing soda I syringed them so completely that I think they have entirely disappeared. If they are alive you can easily know by watching their chips; and if you find them, press the lye into the tree; you will be sure to kill them.—J. F., Philadelphia, Pa.

STABLE FLOORS.—The best stable floors for cows is, I think, made with concrete; or which is simply composed of gravel, of gas-house tar and sand, with a little cement in it to harden it. This can be laid immediately on the ground. Its advantages are that it is easily kept clean, either by scraping or washing, and all the manure is saved, none of it leaking through the floor and thus being lost. This floor can be laid by anybody. Either mix the tar and sand outside thoroughly; spread it on and roll solid with a garden roller or spread the tar by itself in a thin layer; then sprinkle on the sand; it absorbs all the tar, repeating the process until the acquired thickness is attained. Give it a top dressing of cement mixed with sand; roll solid and leave it a week to dry out and harden. It should be made in hot weather, so that the tar will work readily. I have tried both the fence and the floor, and find them satisfactory.—W. Alleghany, Co., Pa.

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,0 0 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, APRIL 12.

The Pacific Railway.

The report of the Chief Engineer of the Pacific Railway for the year 1879 was laid on the table of the House of Commons. It is a document of so much importance that we append the following summary, which the Ottawa correspondent of the Mail supplies: "The report of the Engineer-in-Chief of the Pacific Railway was laid on the table of the House this afternoon. It is dated April 8th, and, therefore, is the last and best statement of affairs. The Engineer-in-Chief sets out with a short review of the various routes. He repeats, in order to be properly understood, the opinions expressed by him in 1878 and 1879 regarding the various routes.

"The Burrard Inlet route was known," he says, "to be marked by many difficulties, but, with all the disadvantages which it presents, I considered it was entitled to the preference." Northern explorations came more prominently into notice, according as the expensiveness of the other routes became apparent, and in April last the Government ordered additional examination of the Northern passes. The country to be examined was that between the longitude of Edmonton, east of the Rocky Mountains, and Port Simpson on the Pacific. The object was, of course, to find out the suitableness of Port Simpson as a Pacific terminus, and what sort of line could be run on the Northern route. Before the end of September the information was in the hand of the Government, by telegraph from Edmonton. From Port Simpson to Hazelton, 180 miles east, a line can be run, a portion of which was located for the purpose of estimating the cost. From that point east, three probable routes were noted. The report gives the particulars. It is considered that although the information is of a general character, the three first routes have been established to be practicable. The distance by each as compared with the line to Burrard Inlet is roughly estimated as follows:—

	Miles.
Lake Superior to Port Moody, Burrard Inlet (present line)	1,945
Lake Superior to Port Simpson by No. 1 (estimated)	2,170
Lake Superior to Port Simpson by No. 2 (estimated)	2,200
Lake Superior to Port Simpson by No. 3 (estimated)	2,135

Accordingly, the shortest of the three northern routes is that by Peace River, starting from a common point, such as Fort Saskatchewan, east of the mountains, all exceeding in length the line to Burrard Inlet. To Port Simpson via Peace River pass is 190 miles longer, To Port Simpson via Yellow Head pass is 225 miles longer. To Port Simpson via Pine River pass is 258 miles longer.

The location of the railway being now definitely fixed and contracts awarded on the line to Burrard Inlet in the interest of the railway, there is no longer any necessity for continuing examinations in the Northern districts. Many years must elapse before the great areas of available lands between Manitoba and the Mountains are fully occupied, and by this period the capability of the Peace River district will have been tested. Meanwhile, the character and extent of the railway traffic and its requirements will be known. The question will then present itself, how this traffic can best be dealt with. Should it be desirable to construct a branch to Peace River from some point on the main line east or west of Edmonton, the late examinations have established that such a line is perfectly feasible.

"In former reports," says the Engineer, "I have contrasted the Canadian Pacific Railway with the line running from New York to San Francisco. I now beg leave to submit a comparison with all the lines projected across the United States. The accompanying diagram (plate No. 3), prepared from authentic information, will establish beyond question the advantages in respect to the leading engineering features which the line adopted to Burrard Inlet possesses. Of the four lines stretching across the continent within the limits of the United States, no one of them is marked by general summits so low, or gradients so moderate, as the line to Burrard Inlet.

"Surveys have been continued east of Thunder Bay to the north end of Long Lake. The examination has established that a line of a moderately favorable character can be obtained."

As to the present actual condition of the Pacific Railway, the following details supply all the needed information:—The length of line now under construction consists of the following sections:—

	Miles.
Fort William to Selkirk (main line)	410
Emerson to Selkirk (Pembina Branch)	85
West of Red River (main line and Winnipeg Branch)	100
In British Columbia	127
Total under construction	722

Tenders are now invited for a second hundred miles section west of Red River. This will make a total length of 822 miles under construction, consisting of main line 720 miles, and Pembina and Winnipeg branches, 102 miles. The rails are laid 126 miles west of Fort William and 90 miles east of Selkirk. Traffic trains are regularly run from Emerson to Cross Lake: 161 miles.

Up to April 5th, 1879, there had been 43 contracts entered into. Since that time 23 more have been added. The total amount paid out so far for the work, that is up to 31st December, 1879, was $3,479,979.

Educational Sermons.

SUNDAY MORNING SERVICE.

As this was the occasion of the preaching of the sermons for the benefit of the Education al Fund the pulpit of the Holloway Street Church was in the morning occupied by Rev. Prof. Rayner, of Victoria College, Cobourg, who preached a very able sermon.

The rev. gentleman read as the morning lesson the 143d psalm, and the 2nd chapter of 1st Corinthians and took as the subject of his remarks the 4th and 5th verses of 2nd chapter of 1st Corinthians.

"And my speech and my preaching was not with enticing words of man's wisdom but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power that your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God."

He took two leading thoughts from those words regarding the resting places of faith: 1st, the true one, and 2nd, the false one. The false one, the enticing words of man and the wisdom of this world, and the true resting place, in the power of God. Those Greeks to whom Paul wrote were the people who excelled in poetry and art, and the power to express them has not been surpassed even to this day. They were a people who delighted to hear and tell something new. Paul was laboring at Corinth for eighteen months, and then he went on to preach in the regions beyond, but soon bad news reached him, and the apostle Paul, like many a modern pastor, was anxious about those who had fallen from their first love. When Paul came to these Greeks, he did not use any lengthy argument to convince them that there was but one God, but made the truth known and a new light shone upon them. There was a change came over them; they saw the world in a different aspect, and all were united in bonds, and one and all bound together in Jesus. "Old things had passed away, all things had become new."

No system of religious belief or creed was ever perfect and no system of philosophy shall ever be perfect so long as man is finite.

Under the thought of conviction He said that no man could have a desire to be saved unless he felt himself a sinner and knowing that sin is a thing which God hates. He said we are living in a day when the questions of the deepest nature in the Scriptures are being opened, but our faith does not rest on the explanation but on the facts. Jesus Christ is a fact and on this rests the power of the onward moving Methodism and on it rests the substantial oneness of the church in God upon which the gates of hell shall not prevail. It has been said that God has no need of man's learning nor of man's ignorance. I doubt if it is right to say this, we might as well say that God has no need of the sun to melt that snow. God always has used this means to accomplish his object and I have no doubt that the sun will be the same this summer as it has been, and until we have authority that God is going to change the order of things we have reason to believe that God will use the same means as before. In the early days of Geology they tried to ure the stones as an evidence against God, but in the hands of godly men they were made to cry out in his praise.

In the evening the rev. gentleman preached a very able sermon to a large congregation in Bridge Street church from 15th verse of the 2nd chapter 1st Timothy.

Dominion Finances.

The Canada Gazette of Saturday contains the following statement of the revenue and expenditure on account of the consolidated fund of the Dominion of Canada as by returns furnished to the Finance Department to the night of the 31st March last:

Revenue Customs	$1,423,054 00
Excise	380,347 00
Post Office	75,960 00
Public Works, including Railways	154,037 00
Bill Stamps	10,698 00
Miscellaneous	41,990 00
Total	2,086,629 00
Revenue to 29th Feb. 1880	14,081,534 00
Total	10,167,763 00
Expenditure	354,550 00
Expenditure to 29th Feb. 1880	15,354,191 00
Total	$16,308,751 00

Up to 31st March last year the revenue amounted to $18,227,885, showing that there had been a falling off of two millions. The expenditure up to 31st March last year was $16,465,397.

SAVE THE RAGS.—An American paper says the price of paper has been advanced from 6½ to 9 cents all over the country. If this price is maintained, the public will be compelled to pay more for their newspapers. Some daily papers have already had to increase their price from 20 to 25 or 30 cents per week, and weekly papers from $1.50 to $2. The advance in paper can be stopped if the people will save and sell their old paper and rags. Three months' saving of rags and old paper by the entire population, and selling them in the markets, would check the advance in paper. Rags are worth 3 to 3½ cents per pound.

THAT PROBLEM OF VITALITY

Two Other Witness' Ideas.

Mr. G. D. Armstrong and wife, who were referred to by Dr. Allen as being able to corroborate a portion of his statement as to the case of Miss Merrill, express themselves in accordance with the Doctor's views. Mr. Armstrong said that on Thursday night he, at the request of Dr. Allen, placed his ear to Miss Merrill's chest and heard a faint beating within. Thinking the and a heard was from his own heart, he felt his pulse but it beat fully twice as quickly as that which heard. He also, by the Doctor's direction, drew down one of the eyelids and it flew back to its original position, and then he pinched the skin, which returned at once to its previous form, the same as would that of a person in life. He also says that Dr. Allen called his attention to some discoloration under the skin of the cheek, and on the Dr. pressing his finger on the spot the discoloration disappeared, the skin turning white under the pressure. On Thursday morning he saw the thermometer applied and a temperature of 67° was indicated under the axillary, and he noticed moisture on the glass which was applied to the mouth and nose of the seeming corpse. Mr. Armstrong said that a number of other people saw the same indications as he and Mrs. Armstrong did.

It may further be stated that Mr. Armstrong had not read the statement made by Dr. Allen, as published in the INTELLIGENCER, and was not aware that the Dr. had made known his views of the case.

From our Marmora Correspondent.

The funeral of the late Mr. M. Shannon, which took place on Monday, April 5th, was largely attended by the residents of the neighborhood, whose sympathy is extended to his widow and child in their sad bereavement.

A very successful ball, held on temperance principles, took place at Malone on the 2nd inst. The supper provided by mine host was all that could be desired.

The British Elections.

The elections in Great Britain are nearly over, 624 of the 658 members composing the House of Commons being already returned. Of this number the Liberals have elected 345, the Conservatives 228, and the Home Rulers 51.

The total number of votes polled thus far is 1,525,000 Liberal and 1,141,000 Conservative, showing a gain of 401,000 Liberal and 118,000 Conservative.

FRIGHTFUL DEATH.—John Lee, a sawyer in Playfair's mills, Hinchinbrooke, met a terrible death a few days ago. Happening to touch the saw with his hand, which had a mitten on, while in motion, he was drawn against the saw, and before the appalled workmen could stir, he was a lifeless corpse. His head and an arm lay on one side of the saw and his body on the other. The scene was a shocking one. Upon examination it was found that Lee had fell partly on his face and the saw caught him just above the cheek bone, cutting crosswise and taking part of his mouth and chin in its course, thence passing across his neck and severing the shoulder and one arm. The blood and hair flew in all directions.

CARPETS.

WE are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers.

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of tapestry and Brussels, the dealers telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, 5c., 10c., and even 25c. is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask him in the first place.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, APRIL 12.

City and Vicinity.

Police.—There were no arrests since Saturday. Four tramps lodged in the cells last night.

County Court.—This Court adjourned on Friday night and will resume at 10 a. m. to-morrow.

The River.—Within the last few days the volume of water in the river has increased by about one foot in height. A rise in the waters of the bay is also observable.

Railway Traffic.—Seven cars of hematite iron ore, two cars of pressed straw and two cars of wood were brought over the North Hastings railway this morning.

From Scotland.—Mr. James Gordon, who sailed for Scotland some weeks ago, with a cargo of cattle which he and some friends jointly purchased and shipped from Boston returned home yesterday morning. Mr. Gordon is well satisfied with the results of his trip.

Ore Shipments.—Seventeen cars of ore were brought in from Madoc on the 10th inst. Now that the roads are getting settled and hauling from the mines to the railway track becomes easier, the indications are that shipments will be largely increased

Wintery.—The winter season. though unusually mild, is quite as loath to depart as usual. Last week, the temperature of which was lower than that of several weeks past, wound up with severe cold and snow on Saturday night. Snow cannot remain long so late in the season, but the cold still holds sway.

The Hungerford Poisoning Case.—Our correspondent writes on the 12th :—"Since sending you the account of this case, another child has died, The antidote sent by Dr. Tuttle had the effect of counteracting the poison in the other cases, as they are quite recovered. The respective ages of the children who died, are 10 and 7 years."

Militia Orders.—In the Canada Gazette of the 10th inst. we find the following:15th Battalion, "Argyle Light Infantry," No. 5 Company. Belleville.—No. 1 of General Orders (12), 21st May, 1875, is hereby amended, by permitting Captain and Brevet Major L. N. Fitzroy Crozier to retire retaining his brevet rank.

Another Successful Belleville Boy.—At the examination just concluded at Toronto of a large class of candidates for the degree of Provincial Land Surveyor, Mr. A. W. Ponton of this city was the only one who succeeded in passing. This is significant as well of the extreme difficulty of the papers as the industry and ability of our young friend.

Literary Meeting.—The men of No. 1 Company of the 15th Battalion held their fortnightly meeting on Thursday night. Lieut. Biggar occupied the chair. Private Dickson delivered a lecture on digestion, which was followed by a song from Private Boyle. Lieut. Biggar then delivered his second lecture on the anatomy of the bones of the human body. This was followed by a debate on the subject: "Resolved—That the Russian Nihilists deserve our sympathy." Privates Hambly and Redick sustained the affirmative and Privates Anderson and Hastings the negative. Private Scott, who was chairman, after able arguments from both sides, gave his decision in favor of the affirmative. After a resolution by Private McCormick and a report from Private Brown as critic of the evening, the proceedings terminated, the meeting adjourning until Thursday evening, the 22nd inst.

Arrival.—The steamship Sardinian was signalled off Halifax at 9 a. m.

Personal.—Mr. Casey, M. P. for West Elgin, was in town to-day and proceeded to Ottawa by the noon train.

Timber Shipments.—The first of the timber shipments over the Grand Junction and B. & N. H. Railways will begin to-morrow with a shipment of ten cars of timber which will be dumped into the water at the wharf here. There will be about 100 cars loads in all, about 70 car loads of which will come from Hastings and the balance from Madoc.

Revival Services.—Revival services of more than ordinary interest, under the direction of Rev. J. W. Savage, have been in progress in the Wesleyan Church at Wellman's Corners, Township of Rawdon, during the last eight weeks. The meetings were terminated on the 9th inst., and resulted in the conversion of one hundred and twenty, eighty seven of whom were enrolled in the Methodist Church.

An "R" Ration.—As April is the last of the "r" months, and the season is at hand when oysters are not to be eaten, it may satisfy some curious mind if it be said that the rule which excludes bivalves from the list of eatables in summer is not an arbitrary one. The four months from May to September are the breeding months, when the female oysters are full of eggs. These eggs perish soon after the oyster is taken from the water, and of course a few millions of decayed eggs do not make a delightful or wholesome morsel. The number of eggs which an average sized oyster will lay at one time is said to be from six to eight millions.

Grand Trunk Reading Room.—This institution, which was opened a week ago, is already proving very successful. It is located in a comfortable and nicely furnished room in the west end of the building next east of the Station Agent's house, and the volumes in the book case already number upwards of 120. Several of the leading English, American and Canadian periodicals and newspapers have been subscribed for, and others have been donated by Mr. Cooper, Asst. Supt., who, with Messrs. Gunn, Reid, Marshall and other heads of departments, take great interest in and are doing their best to forward the prosperity of the reading room, which is in all respects desirable and highly beneficial, and it is to be hoped that it may prove permanently successful. The membership is large and rapidly increasing.

Frozen to Death.

A Man Perishes in the Snow Storm.

A man by the name of Buck was found dead on Sunday morning in Stephen Weeks' grove, near Consecon. It is supposed that he had got lost in the storm, and perished during Saturday night. He was about 75 years of age, and was an old resident of Consecon.

Sudden Death.

GEORGE S. HUBBELL FALLS DEAD.

At about 7 o'clock this morning Mr. George S. Hubbell entered the residence of Judge Sherwood, and being supplied by a servant with some food, sat down and began to eat. After eating his breakfast deceased went into the wood shed and vomited freely for a few minutes and then fell. Dr. Tracy was at once sent for, but before his arrival death had ensued. Deceased, who was about 55 years of age, came here from Montreal some years ago, and is respectably connected here and in that city. An inquest was not considered necessary.

King Theebaw's Folly.

UNSETTLED STATE OF THE KINGDOM OF BURMAH—FOUR HUNDRED VICTIMS REQUIRED FOR A PROPITIATORY SACRIFICE.

[By Cable to the Mail]

London, April 10.

A Thyetmyo correspondent telelegraphs that the public mind is very unsettled. Mandalay astrologers maintain that in order to remove evil influences a great propitiatory sacrifice is requisite. The victims are to be taken from all ranks to the number of four hundred. The priests are to contribute one hundred and the remainder will consist of women and children. Numerous arrests have been made to secure a sufficient number from which to select the intended victims. The priests, who have hitherto enjoyed immunity from sacrifice, are quitting Mandalay in great numbers A Roman Catholic convent was recently entered to procure victims from among the girls there, but the attempt was frustrated. The internal condition of the country is most unsatisfactory. The people, while seeing the folly of the King, are helpless to effect a change.

THE SACRIFICE ACCOMPLISHED.

A Rangoon despatch says 700 men, women, boys, girls, priests and foreigners, have been buried alive under the towers of the city walls as a sacrifice for the restoration of the King's health, The panic in Mandalay was frightful. Hundreds of people are leaving the city. The King's illness is said to be leprosy.

A Cross Baby.

Nothing is so conducive to a man's remaining a bachelor as stopping for one night at the house of a married friend and being kept awake for five or six hours by the crying of a cross baby. All cross and crying babies need only Hop Bitters to make them well and smiling. Young man, remember this.—Ed.

Marine Notes.

The schooner Philo Bennett was the first vessel to leave Belleville with lumber for Oswego this season.

The little schooner Belle, when on her way up from Mill Point with lumber, capsized when crossing Big Bay yesterday. The tug Conar went to her assistance this morning.

The scow Fannie, which arrived on Saturday night, sprung a leak and is at present water logged.

A telegram received here this morning by Downey & Preston announces that the schooner David Andrews ran ashore a short distance east of Oswego, during the gale on Saturday night last. This vessel left here on Wednesday afternoon last with 10,000 bushels of rye for Gooderham & Worts, Toronto, and must have experienced a great deal of boisterous weather during the trip. The cargo was fully insured. Mr. Downey left to-day for the scene of the disaster.

The Globe says: "The Annie Mulvey has finished loading lumber, and was to sail to-day for Oswego. Captain J. Gowan will sail the vessel this year. The Mulvey will be taken back to join H. B. Rathbun's fleet at Mill Point where it is expected there will be abundence of coarse freights during the season."

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

London, April 12.—Arrived, the Lepanto.

New York, April 12th.—Arrived, the Circassia from Glasgow, Arizona from Liverpool.

Plymouth, Ms., March 12.—The fire in the woods extinguished on Saturday night, burned over an area of 5 or 6 miles long by 2 wide; 500 cords of cut wood and a large quantity of standing wood, were burned.

London, April 12.—The Post says as the Liberal leaders have not had consultation rumors of the appointments in the new Cabinet, are founded only on mere probabilities.

Lorillard's 3 year old bay filly, Geraldine, broke her back while exercising on Saturday and was killed. Geraldine was entered for several races this season, including the Newmarket handicap on Wednesday.

London, April 12th.—The seven hundred persons sacrificed at Mandalay for the restoration of the king's health, were buried alive, not burned, as previously stated, under the towers of the city walls.

In addition to the names heretofore mentioned, the following will be raised to the Peerage: Right Hon. Viscount Barrington, Member for Eye in last Commons; Sir Arthur Edward Guinness, member for Dublin city in last house; and Sir Toor Gouest, ex-member of Parliament.

Lyons, N.Y., April 12.—Merrick's large malt house is burned. Loss $24,000.

Madrid, April 12.—Otero, the would-be regicide, will be executed on Wednesday morning. The prisoner, in accordance with custom, will be placed the in pillory hours previous to the execution.

Rangoon, April 12.—The following is the explanation of the massacres at Mandalay:—When a city is built in Burmah human sacrifices are offered. The new monarch usually has a new capital and the evil spirits are irritated that there has been no change of capital and the virtue of old sacrifices have gone to appease them. The astrologers declared it necessary to offer up 700 lives. The sacrifices were made by order of King Theebaw.

An Open Letter. It Speaks for itself.

West Townshend, Vt.

Mr. Editor: Having read in your papers reports of the remarkable cures of catarrh, I am induced to tell "what I know about catarrh," and I fancy the "snuff" and inhaling tube makers (mere dollar grabbers) would be glad if they could emblazen a similar cure in the papers. For 26 years I suffered with catarrh. The nasal passage became completely closed. "Snuff," "dust," "ashes," "inhaling-tubes," and "sticks," wouldn't work though at intervals I would sniff up the so-called catarrh snuff, until I became a valueable tester for such medicines. I gradually grew worse, and no one can know how much I suffered or what a miserable being I was. My head ached over my eyes so that I was confined to my bed for many successive days, suffering the most intense pain, which at one time lasted continuously for 168 hours. All sense of smell and taste gone, sight and hearing impaired, body shrunken and weakened, nervous system shattered, and constitution broken, and I was hawking and spitting seven-eighths of the time. I prayed for death to relieve me of my suffering. A favorable notice in your paper of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy induced me to purchase a package, and use it with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, which applies the remedy by hydrostatic pressure, the only way compatible with common-sense. Well, Mr. Editor, it did not cure me in three-fourths of a second, nor one hour or month, but in less than eight minutes I was relieved, and in 3 months entirely cured, and have remained so for over 16 months. While using the Catarrh Remedy, I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify my blood and strengthen my stomach. I also kept my liver active and bowels regular by the use of his Pleasant Purgative Pellets. If my experience will induce other sufferers to seek the same means of relief this letter will have answered its purpose.

Yours truly,

S. D. REMICK.

CAST ON THE WORLD

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

Ravensworth was convinced that he saw before him the robber of the mail, and the man who dealt Charlie the murderous blow; and he felt as if he could go up to him that moment and boldly charge him with the double crime. But incensed though he was, he was yet alive to the necessity of dealing warily with such a desperate and daring criminal, and doing nothing to arouse his suspicions till he had made arrangements for securing him.

Having finished his meal, he rose and sauntered to the window, that he might have a closer inspection of Jonas Podgers. Not dreaming that he was thus closely scrutinized, the latter was standing, eyeing with something like a contemptuous sneer the movements of the draught-players and the absorbed interest of those who watched them. The moment was favorable for obtaining an idea of the man's true character, and under the close inspection every lineament combined to write in unmistakable heiroglyphics the words, 'Reckless, clever rascal.' Of course Philip Ravensworth, who had such a strong suspicion of his true character and fortunately he could read the marks more easily than those could who had no reason to suspect anything. But this kind of life led is always indicated in the countenance, and Philip Ravensworth, with the key by which he could read robber, burglar, and highwayman in every line.

He stood strangely and shudderingly fascinated, doubting not that the man before him was Huffey White; he was gazing on a man who had been condemned to the hulks for life, who had been once already sentenced to death, and would, when again taken, assuredly undergo the last penalty of the law. Round that short neck the hangman's rope would yet be passed, and he would die a dog's death in the public gaol. There was something horrifying in being so close to a wretch of this description; and vile and odious though he was in the light in which Ravensworth regarded him, he shrunk from being the instrument of his destruction. The thought was even suggested that he had better order out his horse and gallop back to Singleton Hall, and relinquish the task he had set himself to accomplish, when at this point he remembered that, by a cruel and ruthless blow, he had nearly murdered the youth so dearly loved—the youth in whom the hopes and joys of his life were centred. This recollection banished in a moment the feelings of pity and reluctance, and made his heart stern and resolute. From that instant the thought of the man as a viper which must be without compunction crushed—a viper who had stung him already in a very tender part, and would do so again if occasion arose for it.

His mind was made up. He would act, and that at once.

Act! yes, but how? The matter was critical, and demanded the most careful proceeding. He sauntered carelessly from the room, and assuring himself by one backward glance that the soi-disant Jonas Podger had not had his attention directed towards him, he closed the door, and proceeding to a private room in a distant part of the inn, he summoned the landlord.

The fat, ruddy-faced priest of Bacchus came in bowing, smiling, and rubbing his hands together with proud satisfaction.

'Jenkins, I want to speak to you for a little in private. Please to close the door.'

Ravensworth looked so grave that the smile on the landlord's face subsided into a soulless grin of uneasiness and undefined alarm.

'Nothing wrong, I hope, sir!' he remarked, as he closed the door, in obedience to his guest's directions.

'Are we perfectly private here? No possibility of eaves-dropping?'

'Good gracious! Yes, sir, we are quite alone. But do tell me, sir, is there anything wrong?'

'I rather think there is,' answered Philip slowly, with a tone and look of such grave significance that the landlord dropped into a chair, and sat gasping.

'Oh, dear me, sir, I hope not, I know of nothing—nothing whatever. Is it about the room or your supper, sir? Tell me what it is, and you may depend on me doing everything in my power to please you!'

'Come over here, Jenkins—further from the door. Come and sit beside me on this side the fireplace.'

The landlord mechanically obeyed, his face absolutely purple with apprehension.

'About this lodger of yours—this Jonas Podgers—this man whom you know nos thing about, and who has been a month with you. I have a suspicion, amounting almost to a certainty, that he is——'

'Good gracious, who?'

'Not the man he gives himself out to be,'

'Mercy me. Then, what is he?'

'A fellow escaped from the hulks and the gallows—the most daring and notorious highwayman in England'.

The landlord received the words with a spasmodic jerk, and was thrown into a state of speechless horror. For some moments he sat rolling his eyes and striving for utterance, and at last managed to articulate—

'Mr. Ravensworth—you—you are—are joking.'

'I certainly am not. I am too deeply in earnest. That man's true name I believe to be Huffey White. And he it was who robbed the mail coach of the Bridlington bank parcel.'

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately introduced. Boschees German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents Sample bottle, 10 cents.

The Windsor Hotel

Is one of the finest hotels on this continent. It is a credit to the liberality of our Montreal friends and an ornament to our city. Its corridors are wide and beautiful. The parlors and dining rooms, with their costly embellishments, and the reception rooms, are "chefs d'œuvres." Its "cuisine" are unexcelled. It is a luxurious home for Montreal families who prefer to relieve themselves from the care of a household, and a caravansary which cannot be surpassed for visitors. Still, here as elsewhere, man is subject to the laws of health. Sickness will follow where indiscretion leads. An unseemly carouse tells as badly upon the occupant of this house as upon the dweller in a cottage. The stable is apt to overindulge where food is very tempting, and ignore the results. Happily the remedy for such indiscretions may be had in every drug store in the Dominion, in the shape of Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS.

MR. M. GILES, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, 77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured the Liniment of Mr. Holloway & Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stiffness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders and Liniment in addition—meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove what your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down the path, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, Giles." So why, I'm struck! Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

Parties tendering are expected to provide the special tools necessary for, and to have a practical knowledge of, works of this class, and are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms —except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same; and, further, an accepted bank cheque for a sum equal to $250, for the gates of each lock, must accompany each tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.

The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

CONSUMPTION
CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of COD LIVER OIL, and is the most valuable specific in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and no other remedy can be found to equal it, as the numerous testimonials from physicians and others will show. Consumption is being cured with better results, and more of them, than by any other remedy known to the medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food and medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.

C. G. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

Yours respectfully,

A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that have ever come under my notice. In affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, it is perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

December 19th, 1878. Yours truly,

J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, hectic flush and nervous irritability, night sweats, short breath, and constant pain in the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then my pleasant and agreeable preparations, but they did me no good. I bought a dozen bottles of your Emulsion and began to take it. September 1st, I purchased a bottle of your Emulsion and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles more and have taken all with the following result: Cough ceased, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in three months' time. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your Emulsion who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL. &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for two years and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and to-day he came to me and said he was feeling now wonderfully. He was given up by many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 23d, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so reduced that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover.

For sale by all Druggists at $1.00 per bottle. I am gratefully yours,

R. W. HAMILTON, M. D.

Epileptic Fits"

St. Paul, Min., January 4th, 1878.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you some time, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine upon my son. I am now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried. I have given him about eight bottles and he is now a fair way of recovery, and my little girl is in the first stage of the same disease. I have no doubt in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that but for your medicine he would have been dead ere this. Since he took it he is healthy and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the violence of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.,

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name, or other preparation as a substitute for this under any circumstances.

Over 15,000 Persons Successfully Treated since the establishment of our Institute in Detroit from all parts of the United States and Canada, for nearly all the various diseases of the head, throat and lungs. The only institute of the kind in Michigan specially devoted to the treatment of Catarrh, Throat Disease, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, also diseases of the Eye, Ear and Heart.

Catarrh and Throat Diseases are every year becoming more prevalent and more generally fatal. An error in what they are, if left to themselves, their termination is Consumption and death.

A large portion of the deaths from throat and lung diseases are of young people—those who have not reached the meridian of life. Their hold upon life is strong and all the functions of the body active. If they were properly treated the great majority of them would recover. Such is my experience. But I have no faith in their treatment by the stomach. Cod liver oil is good nourishment, but it is not medicine. No medicine given by the stomach exerts a curative influence on the lungs.

We are positive in saying that three-fourths of the vast number who die of Consumption might be saved did they awaken to the true sense of danger when the disease first appeared in the head and throat; the best writers, and the ablest physicians of the age have expressed this similar opinion.

With these facts before us we feel that we would be recreant to our responsibilities were we to remain silent and see our fellow-beings pass away like autumn leaves while there is hope for so many.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by medical inhalations, combined with proper constitutional and hygenic treatment.

If on account of the expense of travel or physical debility, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and when fully answered and returned remedies can be sent per express (duties free) together with full directions for use. THE BULSTRODE TRAGEDY.

Confession of the Murderer.

A Brutal Story—What the Doctors Say—Details of the Place.

(From the Montreal Star, April 10.)

High Constable Bissonnette arrived from Arthabaskaville last night, bearing with him the confession of Cleophas Lachance, the murderer of Odilie Desilet. The story is a fearful one. As is known, Lachance at first denied all knowledge of the crime, and gave the constable a lengthy and minute account of his proceedings during the day of the murder (March 29th). The account received a strong confirmation from the fact that the Cure of Bulstrode had met the unhappy murderer some distance from the scene of the tragedy at the time at which the crime was supposed to have been committed. The way in which this meeting came about is explained in the confession. The district authorities, from this and from the fact that both families were very respectable, were disposed to be lenient, and Lachance, who had been arrested on suspicion, was to have been released, when the day previous the Montreal High Constable appeared on the scene. His astuteness and energy shortly brought out some strong proofs against the prisoner, and yesterday the man confessed his guilt. The tale is almost an incredible one, and the very key to the bloody business seems not to be in it. On the morning of Monday, the 29th of March, Lachance's sister sent an invitation to Odilie Desilet to come to her house and spend the day with her. She did not come, and the Lachance family, with the exception of one, left her absence. Yet none suspected the awful truth. Cleophas Lachance had seen the girl approaching the house and had gone to meet her. Here is where the difficulty occurs. Lachance does not seem to have been previously paying her attention. He met her, tried simply to wrest a kiss from her, according to his own account, and was repulsed so vigorously that he drew his knife and attacked her with the terrible results stated in his confession.

The distance between the houses of the Lachances and Desilets is about 40 arpents, and between the two houses lay the unoccupied house belonging to Madame Babino. This house was some distance from the main road and only a few arpents from the Lachance cottage. When the murderer descried the girl approaching across the fields, he ran out and waited behind the Babino house until she reached him, when the crime was perpetrated. The girl was murdered, and not otherwise injured; in this respect the medical testimony confirms the confession of the murderer.

"On the 29th of March last, after having dined, I left my father's house and went to the Babino house, which was unoccupied, to meet Odilie Desilet, whom I had seen approaching; she was then about five arpents distant. I met the deceased, Odilie Desilet, opposite the place where the murder took place. I asked her to embrace me. She refused and repulsed me, and I fell while holding her by the neck. I raised myself, still holding her, and, being angry, assaulted her, striking her with my fist. I threw her down on the ground and drew my knife. She snatched it from my hands, but I held her to the ground with my hands and legs, and she said to me, 'O God, take away his knife;' when she said that, it was before she had taken the knife from me. When she had snatched the knife I attempted to recover it from her again, and grasped it by the blade; it was painful to me, and this has caused me to cut my hands; in snatching it from her, the knife darted into her neck. It was this blow that caused the inquest by the magistrate. After having been stabbed she tried to raise herself; I threw her back to the gird with the piece of wood she was lying on the ground on her right side, with her head near the well and her feet towards the road. I struck on the left temple with the piece of wood she was left lying. She moaned so that one would have heard her in Babino's house had any one been there. I struck her again on the left side of the head; I held the wood in both hands as she raised her left hand and put it at the side of her head at the wounded place; I struck her again and her hand remained in her hair, entangled there; she moved no more. I threw her into the well by the feet. In the well I forced down the limbs upon the body to conceal them. The feet and part of the limbs appeared above the opening and I forced them down. The hat and shawl were in the road. I put them also in the well, and afterwards put some pieces of board in the well above her. I left the body in the well and went towards our house, but after getting near the house I returned to the well. I looked each time into the well and she did not move. After that I went to the barn near our house to wash my hands, about eight arpents away. I washed myself at the well at the barn, leaving after the murder all I had on. I perceived that my hands were cut and that there was blood on my jacket from the body of Odilie, also on my sleeves where I had put bloody hands. I washed my hands in a little pool in the rear of the barn. When I had done so I returned to the high road and went back to the barn belonging to my brother Joseph Lachance, farther up. I stayed there until I was conquered. It was at this time that I saw the Cure pass. I would have been content to have confessed all this several days ago but I could not make up my mind, but now I make this confession in order to take away any suspicion which might be cast upon an innocent person. I make this declaration that I may relieve my conscience. This confession is made of my own accord and is not caused by any threats or promises.

CLEOPHAS LACHANCE.

Witness:
A. BISSONNETTE,
High Constable.

The prisoner is now strictly guarded in the jail at Arthabaska. His trial will not take place until October next, unless special sessions are held. In appearance the wretch is a man scarcely over five feet in height, very wiry in build, ugly and contemptible looking. His victim, Odilie Desilet, was a very pretty and fine looking girl of good stature and vigorous health. When her body was exhumed for examination several days after death, it was found perfectly fresh, the cheeks still faintly colored as in life.

The result of the examination made by the medical men upon the body proved that death had resulted from the wounds given by Lachance. On the left side of her head and extending from the ear to the eye was a bruise three inches and a half in length, while making an angle with this was another dent. Strange to say, however, the skull was not fractured. The wound in the girl's throat was about an inch and a quarter in depth, but did not sever any important blood-vessels, so that death probably resulted from syncope caused by the blows received on the head. Both the girl's hands were mangled by the knife. The doctors, however, gave it as their opinion that she was still alive when thrown into the well.

The examination of the wounds on Lachance's hands showed a deep cut on the right one, between the thumb and first finger, and less serious cuts on the left hand. The stick or billet with which he completed his bloody work, was found to have bloody finger marks on it, and when the doctors placed Lachance's hands on the stick they were found to fit the marks. The billet, which was about two feet three inches long and a couple of inches in diameter, was found to fit the wounds on the poor girl's head. The knife, which played so ghastly a part in the tragedy, had two blades, both of which appear to have been used. The doctors state that the wound in the throat was made by the smaller one. There is tremendous excitement in the settlement over the tragedy, and hundreds of persons continue to gather round the fatal well. The unfortunate girl leaves behind an old mother and father, and has sisters married and living in the States. Lachance's father, mother, sisters and brother still live in the township. Both families were respectable, and are plunged into the deepest grief by the extraordinary revelations of the past few days. As High Constable Bissonnette remarked this morning to a reporter, his task in bringing this murderer to justice was no unpleasant one, necessary as it was. Great credit is due Mr. Bissonnette for the able manner in which he managed the case.

Erie's Monster Locomotives.

ENGINES THAT WILL HAUL A TRAIN OF FORTY FREIGHT CARS—A SUCCESSFUL EXPERIMENT.

When the Erie Company commenced preparations to lay a third rail, plans were drawn by the Chief Engineer, Octave Chanute, for a large class of locomotives, which would be narrow gauge, weighing 52 tons, and with eight wheels. It was thought that a class of engines such as this could be used to advantage on the heavy grades on the Erie. Four of these large locomotives were constructed at the shops of the company at Susquehanna. These were tried upon the Jefferson Branch, a road that extends from that place to Carbondale, Pennsylvania. This road is 38 miles long, and consists of two hills, each 19 miles long. Here may be found the heaviest grade on the Erie Railway. Proving satisfactory, a contract was given to the Grant Locomotive Works, of Paterson, N. J., for 30 locomotives to comply in every particular with the specifications of the company. These engines were numbered from 520 to 549 inclusive, and were delivered during the Winter of 1878-9. When first put upon the road, they were disliked very much by all the employes, and terrible stories of how disastrous their employment would be to the company, were scattered broadcast. It was furthermore, that it would take a great deal of work from the men employed on the road. For the first few months it looked as though these prognostications would prove true, for it took much longer to get over the road with them than with the smaller engines, and more work was put upon them to keep them in running order. Neither did they haul more cars than the smaller engines.

Four of these locomotives were put upon the Delaware Division and 26 upon the Eastern, and it was upon the latter that the most difficulty was experienced. But as summer approached the large engines became more manageable, and more cars were added to their complement, until at last a maximum number was attained. This was a train of 40 loaded cars. Starting from Port Jervis with 4 cars they are assisted up the "hill," extending from this place to the top of the Shawangunk Mountains, a distance of nearly 12 miles, by a pusher-engine; then they draw their trains to what is known as Goshen grade, a short hill just west of that village, which is less than a mile long, and there assistance is needed. From there to Greycourt they proceed alone. At this point the heaviest grade on the Eastern Division commences. It is more than three miles in length, but assistance is required. Arriving at the top of Oxford, as it is called, they enter the Rimpo Valley, and from there to Jersey City have a down grade. At Port Jervis there are five pushers, at Goshen one, and at Greycourt two, each manned by gangs of two men, working alternately night and day. Altogether there are 18 gangs of men which are needed to assist these large engines, with their trains of 40 cars, and it might look to those who are not acquainted with the manner in which the business was formerly conducted, that the road had gained nothing. But to show how deceptive are appearances, it is only necessary to present the other side of the case.

Formerly there were two classes of locomotives—four and six wheel connected—the former starting from this place with 16 cars, and the latter 18 and 20. They were not provided with pushers at any point with the exception of Oxford grade, where one pusher was kept. But it was the exception to use it. Arriving at Turner's, 42 miles distant from here and 46 from Jersey City, the trains "filled out," receiving their extra cars from that point consisting of 24, 28 or 30 cars, as the case might be. To secure their complement of cars, it was necessary to have them transported there, and this was done by "turning" one-third of the gangs and sending them back to Port Jervis for the cars. No light or empty cars were to be secured, except such as were lying at way stations, and generally one or two engines were sufficient to do the work, and consequently eight out of ten came back "empty," the gang of seven men taking it easy, generally all but the fireman going to sleep in the caboose, leaving the engine and caboose to Port Jervis. For this they were paid at the rate of one day. Consequently where it formerly took 30 engines to haul 600 cars over the road, it now only requires 15, assisted by the pushers stationed at the various points. Dividing the 16 additional "pusher" gangs, or 48 men, by 7, the number comprising an ordinary freight gang, gives about 7 full gangs, which, added to the 15 saved in the number of trains, makes 22, leaving a clear saving by the company of 8 gangs of men and 8 locomotives in hauling 600 cars from Port Jarvis to Jersey City. In handling the traffic of the Erie, which ranges from 1,200 to 2,000 cars daily, the cost is correspondingly decreased as regards the pushers, as the same number is used for the greater traffic as for the less. In handling 1,200 cars, 16 gangs are dispensed with, and 1,800, 24 gangs. The time consumed in running between these points is not much lengthened. The experience thus gained resulted in the ordering of ten more of these monster locomotives, which have just been placed upon the road.

Neither has the prophecy as to the discharge of employees on account of the extra cars they had come true. In fact, few gangs have been added recently. This is in consequence of the increased traffic done by the company. It is asserted that if the company had not adopted these ponderous locomotives, or "iron mountains," as they are locally termed, it could not, with its increased traffic, so easily handle the number of cars it now does. It is with the motive power it formerly employed would make necessary the construction of a third track.

A Cross Baby.

Nothing is so conducive to a man's remaining a bachelor as stopping for one night at the house of a married friend and being kept awake five or six hours by the crying of a cross baby. All cross and crying babies need only Hop Bitters to make them well and smiling. Young man, remember this.—Ed.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, APRIL 13.

The "Hum."

That the N. P. is proving effective in accomplishing the objects which animated its originators is proved by the awakening on the subject of reciprocity which has taken place amongst our neighbors of the United States, as well as by the unceasing impetus which it is affording to the various interests of the country, and particularly to manufacturers. The latest facts, which we gather from various sources, are as follows:

A Hamilton manufacturer who two years ago paid $1.30 to $1.40 per day for good hands is now obliged to pay from $1.75 to $2 per day.

A large flour mill is being built at Grimsby, where a fruit canning factory is also being erected.

Messrs. Burr & Skinner, furniture manufacturers, Guelph, are enlarging their factory.

The St. Catharines wheel works are to be re-opened at once, and will employ from forty to fifty hands.

A broad silk manufactory has been started in Montreal.

A paper box manufactory has been started in Berlin.

Large quantities of waggons and agricultural implements are being shipped from Ontario manufactories to Manitoba. This great market has been secured to our own people by the N. P.

A new oatmeal mill is about to be erected by Mr. Jas. Slate, maltster, at London, Ont.

Mr. Lyman Lee will erect a new steam flour mill in this city. The local agricultural implement makers are unusually busy. Mr. G. A. Brown is doing a fair business in buggy bodies, &c., which were formerly imported from the United States. Mr. Burrell's axe factory is a busy hive of industry; and Mr. Tickell's furniture factory is turning out more and better work than ever before.

Mr. John White, M. P., is enlarging his Madoc foundry and adding machinery for the manufacture of agricultural implements, although the Opposition organs declared that the duties on iron would destroy that branch of business without a great rise in prices, which rise has not as yet taken place.

A horse rake manufactory is to be started in Sherbrooke, Que.

The Cobourg car factory has contracts for the following work:—First there are 60 platform, 40 box, 2 first-class, 2 second-class, 1 baggage and express, and 1 mail and smoking cars for the Canada Central; next, 100 box cars for the Q. M. O. & O. & North Shore Railway, Quebec; 20 platform cars for the Kingston & Pembroke Railway; 2 first class cars for the Canada Pacific. These, with the first class and other cars reported in our description, constitute the work now on hand,—work which will keep the establishment exceedingly busy for the next three or four months, with a capital prospect still further ahead.

As to the cotton trade, the "hum" seems to have expanded into a "boom" of very large dimensions, judging from the following from the Montreal Witness, which is an advocate of free trade:—"The demand for Canadian cottons appears steadily to increase, if the number of cotton mills to be enlarged within the next few months be any sufficient criterion. 'The great demand,' to use the words of a director of two of our principal cotton manufacturing companies, 'within the last three months is quite altering the face of things and the factories not only have orders enough to keep them fully going up to May or June next, but many of the companies in anticipation of increasing trade, enlarge their present facilities for meeting the demand.' Hall'e new mills about to be erected at have been, Ont., by Messrs. Young & Co., ady noted in the Witness; it may, however, be added that the work to be turned out by this mill will consist of colored warps, hosiery and yarns of a different character from anything yet attempted in Canada. A member of the Company this week left for England to purchase the machinery for the new mill.

"The Canada Cotton Company at Cornwall are making arrangements for the immediate enlargement of their mills, and last week the Cornwall Council granted a bonus of $10,000 to aid the undertaking. The new addition will be 200 feet long; the dyeing-house will be greatly enlarged; two hundred looms will be added to the four hundred at present running, while the number of extra hands employed will be somewhat over 150. The Stormont Company, Cornwall, are also enlarging their mills 60 by 100 feet, adding about 200 looms and bringing on 100 extra operatives. Equally, if not still more substantial are the improvements about to be made to the Hudon Cotton Mills Company, finding these already extensive works inadequate, even with the large addition completed last spring, are about to carry their building 200 feet still further east, with such width as may be found necessary. Two hundred and fifty new looms, an extra powerful engine (the present 700 horse power one being now taxed to its fullest capacity), and two new extra boilers together a with considerable quantity of general machinery not named, will constitute the additions to the mills. Over 200 hands extra will be employed. It is the intention of the Company to confine themselves to the manufacture of plain cottons, as at present."

To which it may be added that the erection of additional factories at Brantford and St. Stephen, N. B., is now a matter of certainty. These great industries will all be characterized by the Globe as "monopolies," but how there can be a monopoly with fair competition in open market, it would puzzle any one but a free trade philosopher to find out. The fact is that the beneficial effects of giving the home market to our own manufacturers are beginning to be more widely felt day by day, and the grumblers know it and have ceased to argue, devoting their attention to abuse and perversion of facts.

A Pleasant Entertainment.

Yesterday was the twenty-ninth anniversary of the Ministry of the Very Rev. Father Farrelly, of St. Michael's Church, Belleville, and the Ladies of Loretto determined to celebrate it by giving the Rev. gentleman a musical and literary entertainment provided by their pupils. The entertainment was held in the large hall of the Convent yesterday afternoon, the seats furnished for spectators being occupied by the parents of the pupils and a number of personal friends of Father Farrelly, to whom an invitation to be present had been extended. Among those present were Messrs. Alex. Robertson, M. P. P., Geo. Denmark, R. C. Hulme, Dr. Murphy, Jas. Mackie, R. Costello, Mr. Denys, of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, and others. The hall was tastefully decorated for the occasion, the numerous floral contributions rendering the scene peculiarly attractive. At the appointed hour, the pupils to the number of about thirty, from the mature maiden of eighteen to the little miss of five years, dressed in holiday attire, marched into the room and joining in lines, Miss Keegan on behalf of her fellow students presented the following address to the Rev. Father Farrelly:

VERY REV. AND DEAR FATHER,

As time speeds on its rapid course, days, and even months glide by, and we are oft scarce conscious of their flight, but there are periods, the recurrence of which, cannot thus pass unnoticed by us. Days, that have as it were, a special memorial in our hearts, around which it is our dearest pleasure to twine the flowers of grateful remembrance. Such, Revered Father, shall Loretto's children ever regard the feast of to day, recalling as it does to our minds, the many benefits we have received from you.

Long may these cherished halls re-echo the glad strain of its welcome, and oft may our lips repeat what our hearts so earnestly wish you—"Many Happy Returns of the Day."

To friendship shall ever be due the first place in memory, but whom shall we call our friends? Many there are, who when pleasure's cup is full, and we bask in the sunshine of fortune's smile, will share with us our joys, but should the cloud of adversity appear, few alas! will prove worthy of that sacred title.

Not such, the friendship which, to-day we commemorate. It is sincere we know, for that which hath truth for its basis can never deceive. It is lasting, for not only does it regard our temporal and transitory interests, but with much greater solicitude does it extend to our eternal happiness. Sincerely then do we hope, that we may long enjoy the smile of approval, and words of encouragement, which has oft brightened our task and cheered us on the rugged path of science, but above all, the example and counsel, which have ever incited us to tread courageously the sublime path of Christian truths and virtue which the saints have trod, and which leads to everlasting felicity. Long may it please our Divine Lord to spare you, that by your truly apostolic zeal and indefatigable labors, you may extend his kingdom and defend the interests of the Holy Church on earth, and at long'h, when this your glorious mission is ended, may you receive of your works, the reward they so justly merit! A Crown of Immortal Glory.

The prayer of your fondly loved children of Loretto.

The reading of the address was followed by a song of welcome, in which the full chorus joined. The programme consisted of recitations, solos and chorus, duets, &c., and to say that each piece, whether it was recitation, solo or duet, instrumental or vocal, was performed in a highly creditable manner,—in fact, in a manner which exhibited not only aptness on the part of the pupil, but the most thorough training, alike creditable to teacher and taught, is but to say what will be endorsed by every one present. Where all performed their parts so admirably, it would be invidious to single out individual actors.

At the conclusion of the programme, Rev. Father Farrelly rose and in a very happy speech, thanked the ladies of the Institution for the rich treat they had given him on this the 29th anniversary of his Ministry, which to him was a complete surprise. He complimented the pupils upon the very creditable manner in which they had performed their tasks, showing as it did that they were good students, and had been thoroughly trained. He thanked the parents of the pupils and other prominent citizens, for honoring him with their presence, and took occasion to allude to the good will which had always been exhibited towards him by all classes of the people of Belleville.

Brief addresses were also made by Messrs' Alex. Robertson, M. P. P., Geo. Denmark, R. C. Hulme, W. A. Shepard, Jas. Mackie, Dr. Murphy and Mr. Denys, the entertainment concluding about half-past six by a grand sacred chorus.

THE MERRILL CASE.

Coroner Dr. Willson's and Dr. Curlett's Opinions.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE CASE.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—Having been placed in the unpleasant position of having held an inquest on the body of the late Miss Merrill, who afterwards it was said was not dead, I deem it necessary to give publicity to the facts as they were:—

On Wednesday, 7th inst., I was summoned in great haste to see Miss Merrill. On my arrival I found sufficient evidence to leave not a shadow of a doubt on my mind that she was dead. She was pulseless, the heart and large vessels had ceased to beat; the face presented a cadaverous lividity; the jaws were firmly set with discoloration about the mouth; the arms were perfectly rigid and drawn tightly across the chest, with the thumbs drawn closely to the palms of the hands. The eyes were open, and pupils largely dilated, with an ecchymosis or blood spot on the right eye near the inner canthus, showing that a small vessel had been rupturned. The discoloration was of a dark wine color and involved the sides and back of the neck, also extending down the back very much between the shoulders. In support of my theory I will quote from Taylor's Medical Jurisprudence on discoloration, which he lays down as one of the strongest proofs of death.

"ECCHYMOSIS IN THE DEAD BODY—LIVIDITY."

Ecchymosis or discoloration may present itself in various forms in the skin of a dead subject. The first form when it occurs is almost an immediate consequence of death, but it is not fully developed until the body has cooled. It presents itself in diffused patches of very great extent. The color is sometimes purple, at others livid. This form of ecchymosis is almost invariably on the body of those who die suddenly or by a violent death. When the skin is divided the color is found to be confined to the upper surface of the cutis or skin and never extends through it. Its existence on the dead body must be regarded as a sign of the vigor and activity of the circulation at the moment of death, and generally as a mark of death having taken place suddenly."

Having received an order from Chas. Coleman, Esq., County Atty., to hold an inquest, I empanelled a jury and held the inquest at 4 o'clock p. m. according to form. The verdict was, "Died in a convulsion caused by a previous state of debility." The verdict was based upon the evidence of Dr. Curlett. The jury were asked if they required any additional medical testimony or post mortem examination. They answered in the negative, were satisfied with the evidence before them, and as a result returned the verdict referred to.

Next morning, in driving past Mr. Merrill's (father of the deceased), I was informed that "Miss Merrill was not dead, but gave indications of life," when I thought I would go in and learn if the rumor were correct. At the door I was met by Mr. Merrill, who said I could not go in; that Dr. Allen had charge of the case, and said she would recover, and no person was to be allowed to go inside the house.

At the inquest, some person spoke of the possibility of the body not being dead, when I gave the best test we have. The College of Physicians of London, England, offered a prize of £100 to any person who would give the best test of death. The test which was chosen as the best of those offered is to tie a cord tightly around any one of the fingers, and if animation be present, the parts below the cord will swell and discolor. I am not certain whether it was applied or not.

In the INTELLIGENCER of the 10th, under the caption of "Differing Doctors," is the opinion of Dr. Tracy, which evinces a slender knowledge of physiology and pathology and especially medical jurisprudence. His reasons are equally as ridiculous and absurd as those advanced by Dr. Allen in the preceding number of the same paper. Dr. Allen, failing to sustain himself in his attempt to cause the public to believe that his statements were correct, called in Dr. Tracy to concur with him. If Dr. Tracy is not satisfied with my opinion as given, I challenge him to carry any further correspondence to the medical journals and am satisfied that I will be sustained by the Medical Colleges of the Dominion of Canada.

My note to Dr. Curlett, and his reply follow.

Yours truly,
B. S. WILLSON,

NOTE—TO DR. CURLETT.

Belleville, April 8, 1880.

DR. CURLETT:

Dear Sir,—Having understood that you heard the rumor which was current on Thursday morning that Miss Merrill was not dead, and that you went up and examined deceased, will you be so kind as to give me any additional particulars of death, or whether your opinion of the previous day (before the Inquest) is changed.

Yours truly,
B. S. WILLSON

DR. CURLETT'S REPLY.

B. S. WILLSON, ESQ., M. D.

DEAR SIR,—Your letter received and contents carefully noted. My opinion is not changed in the least since Wednesday morning, when I saw the body of the deceased (Miss Merrill.) On Thursday I heard the rumor that she was not dead, that Dr. Allen had been there through the night and said that she would certainly recover. I called at Merrill's house on Thursday morning and was told by him that Dr. Allen had charge of the case and the Dr. said she would be alive by the next day, that he had seen many such cases and that on one occasion a patient of his coming out of a trance read a letter that was in his, the Dr's, pocket without her seeing it. But entirely aside from much faith in stories of tumors and trances, I told Merrill and family that I was sorry to inform them that she was certainly dead and had been for several hours before she was discovered by the family on Wednesday morning, and that the means now being used would only hasten the process of decomposition. When I first saw the body on Wednesday morning life was extinct, there were no pulsations in the carotid arteries nor in those at the wrist, no signs of restoration, the blood had settled to the left side, on which she was lying, by its gravity. The body was cold and there were no signs of life whatever.

Yours most respectfully,
JAMES F. CURLETT.

Belleville, April 9th, 1880.

[NOTE.—In Dr. Tracy's statement as to this case, the words "thus showing that the blood was circulating," it is but fair to say, were not used by the Doctor. They simply express the inference drawn by the reporter from his remarks.]

CARPETS.

WE are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers.

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealer telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, five, ten, and even twenty-five cents per yard is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, APRIL 13.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE.—Two tramps were the sole occupants of the cells last night.

POLICE COURT.—There was no business in the court this morning.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—A regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held to-night.

PERSONAL.—Judge Lazier being at present in a weak state of health, the Division Court at Tweed was held to-day by J. H. Simpson, Esq., barrister of this city.

M. E. CONFERENCE.—The Bay of Quinte Methodist Episcopal Conference will open at the Methodist Episcopal Church in Kingston on the 13th May next, and will continue for a week.

SALE OF HORSES, &C.—The reader's attention is directed to the advertisement of sale of horses, waggons, &c., at the stables of Hiram Ferguson, Mill St, Belleville. Bargains will be given.

RAILWAY TIES.—One contractor will bring 35,000 railway ties down the Moira as far as the Grand Junction Railway bridge, where they will be drawn from the river and loaded on the cars.

SIDEWALK MENDING.—Some of the sidewalks are being mended or rather cobbled in a rough manner. The work done on part of Bridge Street is far from being satisfactory.

KEEPS UP.—The heavy passenger traffic on the Grand Trunk westward keeps up without abatement. This morning's express was half an hour late, which delay was caused by the weight of the train. It consisted of eleven cars and was drawn by two engines. Last night's train was one hour late.

FOR PRISON.—Several prisoners now in gaol who are under sentence for six months or upwards, will be disposed of as follows: Bass and Stephenson, the chicken thieves, and John Brown, a drunken vagrant, go to the Central Prison for 6 months, and Dennis Ryan, the boy thief, to the Reformatory at Penetanguishene for four years.

REV. MR. WILLOUGHBY.—The Peterborough Review says:—"The Rev. N. R. Willoughby, of Belleville, formerly pastor of the George Street Methodist Church, is in town for a few days rest. His health has been such as to incapacitate him from preaching. It is to be hoped that the few days of quiet rest with his friends in Peterborough will fully restore him."

FIRE IN CAMPBELLFORD.—At about 12 o'clock on the night of the 12th inst., a fire broke out in the frame building owned by Miss Armour and at present unoccupied, which soon reduced it to ashes and also the adjoining building occupied by Mr. E. Morris, as a blacksmith shop, and Mr. Wm. Costley, as a carriage shop. The cause of the fire is supposed to be an incendiary.

LITTEL'S LIVING AGE.—The numbers of the Living Age for the weeks ending April 3d and 10th respectively, contain the following articles: The Proper Use of the City Churches, Nineteenth Century; The Pillar of Praise, Contemporary; The Beginnings of Greek Sculpture, Fortnightly; The Reign of Queen Anne, Bush Life in Queensland, and The North-East Passage, a narrative of the Voyage of the Vega-Blackwood; The Origin of a Written Greek Literature, and Wordsworth, Frazer; An Indo-Anglican Poet, Gentleman's Magazine; and in the way of Fiction, the "Crookit Meg," a Story of the Year One; "Visions" from the Russian, of Tourgueneff; and "Verena Fontaines Rebellion;" and the usual amount of poetry. As a NEW VOLUME begins with the number for 3rd of April this is a good time to subscribe. For 52 numbers of 64 large pages each (or more than 3,300 pages a year), the subscription price ($8) is low; while for $10.50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies with The Living Age for a year, including the extra numbers of the latter, both postpaid. Littell & Co., Boston are the publishers.

DON'T.—Mr. Punch's advice. But don't think of advertising in a well established, legitimate newspaper. Not for a moment. Your advertisement would be very nicely printed and would find its way into all the thrifty households of the region, where the farmer, the mechanic, the tradesmen in other lines, and into the families of the wealthy and refined, all who have articles to buy and money with which to buy them, and in the quiet of the evening after the news of the day had been digested, it would be read and pondered, next day people would come down to your store and patronize you, and keep coming in increasing numbers and you might have to hire an extra clerk or two, move into a larger block and more favorable location, and do a bigger business, but of course it would be more expensive—and bring greater profit.

PAID OVER.—The debentures representing the $50,000 bonus granted by the City to the Grand Junction Railway Company were handed to the chairman of the Trustees this morning. Interest runs from January 1st, 1880.

Chancery Spring Sittings.

MONDAY, April 12

CONSOLIDATED BANK vs. EDWARDS.—Bill by plaintiffs, creditors of husband, to set aside conveyance to wife of property purchased by husband. The husband held a mortgage for $3,000 on the property. On the 22d October he owed plaintiffs $15,000 used in buying barley. The price of barley fell from about the end of October, and continued falling. On the 6th November, the husband released to the mortgagor the said mortgage debt, and the mortgagors then conveyed the property to Mrs. Edwards, which is the conveyance plaintiffs allege to be fraudulent. There was no other consideration for the conveyance after contracting debt to plaintiffs. Decree for plaintiffs, with costs. Reference to Master at Belleville to take accounts of amount due plaintiffs, tax costs, and to sell lands, in default of payment of amount due.—G. D. Dickson and S. B. Burdett for plt'ffs; T. Holden for deft.

Adjourned Vestry Meetings.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Last evening the above meeting was held and was fairly attended. The Incumbent occupied the chair. The church-wardens and auditors presented a very satisfactory report. The Incumbent's salary had been paid in full to date, and nearly $400 of debt had been discharged. Mr. Arthur Mills, Superintendent of the Sunday School, read a very interesting report of the past year's progress. The Incumbent mentioned the gratifying fact that the Rural Dean had collected among the congregation more than the sum for which they were assessed for the Mission Fund of the Diocese, whereupon Mr. John Irwin moved, seconded by Mr. W. R. Smith,

"That this Vestry is gratified to learn that the Rev Rural Dean Baker's canvass of the congregation of St. John's Church in behalf of the Mission Fund of the Diocese has been successful, and hereby tender him its cordial thanks for taking the trouble to attend to the Parochial collection himself, and to endeavor to create among our people a deeper interest in the Mission work; and this vestry believe that his efforts will be of permanent benefit to the cause in this Parish."

This resolution was carried unanimously.

After a resolution of thanks to the auditors the vestry adjourned.

In the account of the Easter Vestry Meeting it was omitted that complimentary resolutions were passed to the ladies belonging to the Sewing Society and to those who had held entertainments in their houses, whereby the sum of $170 had been raised during the past year. Also to Miss Large for her valuable services as organist, to the church-wardens and to the Incumbent.

CHRIST CHURCH

The adjourned Easter vestry meeting was held last night. There was a good attendance present; the auditors presented their report, which was adopted. It showed that the total amount collected for church purposes during the year amounted to close on $9,000, of which the sum of $375 was spent in renovating the church, besides several old accounts having been settled.

The Wardens reported that 70 of the pews are now let, and the attendance on Sundays averages at each service 300.

The vestry approved of the suggestion made by the auditors to adopt the envelope system and the sidesmen will at once canvass the congregation to that end.

In regard to the old building debt of Christ Church, Mr. Coleman on behalf of the bondsmen, made the following proposition, viz:—That if the remaining members of the vestry would raise the sum of $500 in 60 days the bondsmen would take up the bond, which now amounts, with interest and costs, to $1,017. A resolution was passed accepting the proposition, and a subscription list at once opened and a considerable amount was subscribed and paid, so that this great drawback to the prosperity of the church will soon be wiped off.

A subscription was also opened to pay off the liabilities on St. George's Church, and about one quarter of the amount due on that building was subscribed. The Sunday School of this church has paid off a large amount of debts and report a balance on hand and drawing interest. From the above it will be seen that the parish of Christ Church and St. George's, under the incumbency of the Rev. Dr Clarke, is now in a very flourishing condition, all working harmoniously together.

ST. THOMAS'.

The only business was the presentation of the Auditors' report, which was received and adopted, being entirely satisfactory.

A vote of thanks was presented to Rev. E. H. M. Baker for his successful efforts in raising funds for the Diocesan missions, after which the meeting adjourned.

THE NEW CABLE TO ENGLAND.—The steamer Pouyer-Quertier, which is laying the English connecting cable of the new French Cable Company, arrived at Penzance on Sunday. She left Brest on Saturday, laid the cable to a point some distance off Mounts' Bay and buoyed it. She will land the shore end immediately, and pay out to the buoyed end, which will complete the work.

EXPENSIVE ELECTIONS.—An English paper says that Mr. Herbert Gladstone, fourth son of the ex-Premier, who got beaten lately in contesting for a seat in Middlesex, had $20,000 subscribed by the City of London Liberal Club towards defraying his expenses, $2,500 of which was put down by Mr. Samuel Morley.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS.—The result of the elections in Great Britain thus far show: Liberals 349; Conservatives 228; Home Rulers 57 Nineteen seats are still vacant.

HON. GEO. BROWN.—The Globe of to-day says:—"The impression that has got abroad that Mr. Brown has had a severe relapse is erroneous. No doubt the wound has proved more serious than was at first looked for, but the case is progressing as favorably as can be expected, and his medical advisers anticipate an early recovery."

SUPPOSED MURDER.—The charred remains of a man named Haskins, near the village of Wooler, Northumberland county, were found in the ashes of his dwelling on Saturday night. The man lived alone, and there are suspicions that he was robbed and murdered and the house set on fire to hide the crime.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.—The last of the Grand Trunk trains bound for Winnipeg was thrown off the track yesterday morning near West Union, on the St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Manitoba Railway. Mr. G. H. Gould, of Stratford, was killed, and his nephew slightly injured. The accident was caused by a broken wheel. A large number of cattle were killed.

—The Bundersath has bowed to the power of Prince Bismarck, and reversed its vote on the stamp duty.

Marine Notes.

The schooner Picton, which loaded lumber at Flint & Holton's for Oswego and cast off yesterday afternoon for her destination, had not proceeded more than 150 yards when she grounded. The tug Bonar proceeded to her assistance, but was unable to haul the vessel off, until quite late in the evening.

The David Andrews, which went ashore on Sunday morning, is stranded on Sandy Beach. The crew were taken off by the life saving crew.

The schr. David Andrews, ashore near Oswego, is commanded by Capt. McCrimmon, of South Bay. His son in-law and daughter were also aboard. The rest of the crew were, Fagan, of South Bay, and Walter Lambert, of Belleville. The vessel is reported to have gone to pieces.

The schr. Wm. Elgin has been sold to Allan Brothers, of Kingston, for—it is said—$2,800.

The schr., Belle, which upset on Big Bay on Sunday, was righted and towed here last night.

The str. Armenia met the schr. Picton this morning, proceeding under squatted foresail only, the gale was so fierce.

The Kingston News of the 12th says: The steamer Varuna was towed over to the city to-day to get her engines fitted up. It is said that if she cannot beat the Geneva for speed, no boat can be built to do it.

The Erie Canal will be opened on the 29th inst.

The following extract is from the spring circular issued by the Treasury Department on the 8th inst:—"All lights of the United States on the northern and northwestern lakes and their adjacent navigable waters will be exhibited from sunset to sunrise, at all seasons when vessels can enter the ports, or are navigating in their vicinity."

Literary Notices.

Part 14 of Volume 2nd, containing the March number of the "Boy's Own Paper" has been received. This is a very neat and attractively gotten up periodical, and besides being neatly illustrated, it abounds with a goodly selection of reading matter. The typographical appearance of this number is highly creditable to the publishers, while the character of the illustrations is strictly in keeping with such a volume. The contents embrace The Red Man's Revenge, Some of our Fellows, Peter Trawl, The Boy Captain, &c., &c., &c., all of which are the productions of popular authors.

The April number of "The Leisure Hour" is before us with a pleasing table of contents, embracing "Nine tenths of the Law, Curiosities of Commerce and Trade, The trouble of a chairman, Cyprus, Some Scottish characteristics," etc., all of which will well repay the literarily inclined for perusal. This number is as interesting as any of its predecessors and as it is a cheap production, should be in the hands of all who desire to pass their leisure moments in reading pure and chaste literature.

The "Sunday at Home" as usual presents a variety of pleasing reading and of excellent character. Its list includes "The Young Refugee, The Sleeping Apostle, Bible Emblems, and Oriental Problems, Incidents of a journey around the world, The Pulpit, Ancient and Modern, Sabbath Thoughts, Scripture Exercises, Pages for the Young, and other valuable reading matter. It is neatly printed and is illustrated with a number of pleasing scenes.

All the above are well worthy the attentive perusal of our readers and should become widely popular, especially so since the price of each book is but fifteen cents. The above are published by Wm. Warwick, & Son, of Toronto.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, April 13.—Arrived, the Maine.

An explosion by which 11 persons were killed occurred yesterday afternoon at Silvertown, near North Woolwich, at the oil mills. The roof of the still was forced off and carried 140 yards. The still contained 2,000 gallons of oil. Damage, several thousand pounds.

NORWICH, Ct., April 13.—The Providence Methodist Conference expelled the Rev. Chas. Walker, of Somerset, for unministerial and immoral conduct.

MUNFORDSVILLE, Ky., April 13.—Thomas Boyd yesterday, in the presence of 100 people, jumped from the railway bridge over Green River, a distance of 120 feet, to the water. He sprang off head foremost, struck the water in that position a moment afterwards and swam to the shore uninjured.

A Berlin correspondent says that much attention is paid lately to the enormous increase of emigration from Germany to England and America. The National Zeitung states that from the 4th to the 11th April 5,800 left Bremen. The emigrants come from all parts of Germany, they include many skilled workmen. This decided increase of emmigration is evidently connected with the new army bill, and entails a very serious loss upon the country.

LIVERPOOL, April 13.—Cheese, 72.

MENPHIS, April 13.—Gen. Grant arrived this morning.

An Open Letter. It Speaks for itself.

WEST TOWNSHEND, vt.

Mr. Editor: Having read in your papers reports of the remarkable cures of catarrh, I am induced to tell "what I know about catarrh," and I fancy the "snuff" and inhaling tube makers (mere dollar grabbers) would be glad if they could emblazen a similar cure in the papers. For 26 years I suffered with catarrh. The nasal passage became completely closed. "Snuff," "dust," "ashes," "inhaling-tubes," and "sticks," wouldn't work though at intervals I would sniff up the so-called catarrh snuff, until I became a valueable tester for such medicines. I gradually grew worse, and no one can know how much I suffered or what a miserable being I was. My head ached over my eyes so that I was confined to my bed for many successive days, suffering the most intense pain, which at one time lasted continuously for 168 hours. All sense of smell and taste gone, sight and hearing impaired, body shrunken and weakened, nervous system shattered, and constitution broken, and I was hawking and spitting seven-eighths of the time. I prayed for death to relieve me of my suffering. A favorable notice in your paper of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy induced me to purchase a package, and use it with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, which applies the remedy by hydrostatic pressure, the only way compatible with common-sense. Well, Mr. Editor, it did not cure me in three-fourths of a second, nor one hour or month, but in less than eight minutes I was relieved, and in 3 months entirely cured, and have remained so for over 16 months. While using the Catarrh Remedy, I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify my blood and strengthen my stomach. I also kept my liver active and bowels regular by the use of his Pleasant Purgative Pellets. If my experience will induce other sufferers to seek the same means of relief this letter will have answered its purpose.

Yours truly,

S. D. REMICK.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

(Special to Daily Intelligencer.)

CONTINUED.

'Oh, lor'! Sir! sir! You don't say that!'

'I will give you the reasons for my suspicion. My son, you know, grappled with the robber, and—curse him—he has foiled him with a life-preserver ere the coachman could approach. The latter had the lamp smashed in his hand by the same weapon before he could see the face of the wretch, and hence there have been no means of tracing him. But my boy is, as you already know, recovering, and this afternoon he told me he had seen the fellow's face the moment the blow was struck. You know what a peculiar face this Jonas Podgers has!'

'To be sure he has, sir. I'd know him by the description any time.'

'So did I when Charles spoke of the broken nose and the cast in the left eye, for I remembered that I had seen a deal of that description in your public room a week ago. I started from the Hall instantly to learn if he were still here. That was my object in the conversation I had with you when brought in my supper. After you left the room I narrowly surveyed Podgers, and saw at once that he was disguised. I read the villain in him as clearly as I read the honest man in you. In a word, I have not the smallest doubt that he is a convict escaped from the hulks, and that he is the robber of the mail. Dear me, Jenkins, how you shake and tremble.'

'I—I can't help it, sir,' ejaculated the landlord. 'I really can't help it. Mercy on me! To think that an escaped convict has been staying here for a month at the Beresford Arms. Why, we might have been all murdered.'

'Nonsense. That wasn't his game at all. He'll take precious good care to deal on the square while he remains here. He must your mind back, and reflect if you have noticed anything which confirms the surpicion. He must have come to your house some time before the robbery. Has he ever been a night away?'

'Once—only once.'

'Ah. And what night was that? Try and remember.

The landlord breathed hard, and looked in helpless agitation at the four corners of the room.

'I'll come to it if I think a bit,' he hastily blurted out. 'But, la,' he added, 'though it should turn out to have been the night of the mail robbery, that would show it wasn't him, for he was lying drunk in the stable yard of the Buck's Head till daylight. You must know, sir, though he stays at the Beresford Arms here, he spends lots of his time at the Buck's Head, and that night it was very full, and he drank a deal with the company. He got up just at the dark to come up to bed, but instead of that he found his way to a straw-house in the yard, lay down there and fell asleep. The ostler came to him a few hours light, roused him, and up he came to his bed. So, you see, sir, if that was the night when the mail was robbed, it couldn't be him, and never another night has he been out of the Beresford Arms.'

'Just think a bit, Jenkins,' rejoined Philip, with a grim smile. 'Try and remember what night it was when that incident occurred?'

The landlord put his hand to his brow, scratched his head, raised his eyes to the ceiling, all the while putting this and that together, till, with a sudden start of inspiration, he was able to declare that it was that very night three weeks.

'Precisely,' said Ravensworth. 'And it was this very night three weeks that the mail robbery took place.'

'I'm glad of that, sir,' cried the landlord, with a long, relieving sigh. 'It would have been a bad business for the Beresford Arms had he been the robber. But he ain't sir. It's proved that he aint,'

'Simple Jenkins,' rejoined Ravensworth, 'you would be of little use at Bow Street as a detective.'

'Me a detective, sir! Oh, dear, no, sir. I abhor thieves and robbers, sir. I couldn't bear to think of having to do with them in any shape.'

'And yet for the last month you have been harboring the most notorious of them all.'

'My goodness, gracious; me, sir! Don't say that. If you mean Mister Jonas Podgers, haven't we just found out that what the mail was robbed Mister Podgers was lying dead drunk in a straw-house at the Buck's Head.'

'That is just where I believe he was not. It was a clever ruse on his part, no doubt, and it seems to have answered the purpose he intended, if suspicion should be directed his way. Depend upon it, Jenkins, Mr. Jonas Podgers had not been long lying in the straw-house when the ostler came upon him. His intoxication was all a pretence—assumed to account plausibly for his night's absence, and my word for it, between the time of his leaving the company overnight and the ostler finding him in the morning he had been twelve miles away robbing the London mail.'

At this view of it the landlord sat aghast in renewed consternation. The possibility of this being the truth could not be gainsaid.

'He—he might have been, certainly, sir,' he hesitatingly observed. 'But, then, it aint likely.'

'Pardon me, Jenkins, but it is likely. All you have told me confirms my already strong suspicion. Why should Podgers spend three days of his time at the Buck's Head? I'll tell you. The coach stops there, as you know, and there he would get information of the times of sending the bank parcels by the mail. It has been clear enough all along that the robber must have known of this parcel being in the guard's box, and here that strange matter is explained. And then, where could he better learn what was being done about the robbery than in this same Buck's Head, where the passengers and the guard and the driver would be talking about it every day? Oh, but Jonas Podgers is a clever rascal. While he has been sought for in vain all over England, here has he been lying quite snug in the one place where not a soul would have thought of looking for him. This little game will fall through to night though, I suspect, and soon he'll go his last view of the Buck Head before he swings from the scaffold in front of the jail.'

'Well it—it does look as if you were right, sir,' faltered Jenkins ruefully. 'Oh dear,' he groaned, 'this will be the ruin of the Beresford Arms. When it gets abroad that I've kept an escaped convict and a robber in the house for a month I may close my doors.'

'Nonsense, man, nonsense. The effect will be quite the other way. The detection and capture of this notorious highwayman, whom the constables have been vainly seeking for weeks, will make your inn famous. Besides, you'll get the reward, and you'll be able to say that you've helped to rid the country of one of its worst pests.'

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in as strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidity increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar name, lately introduced. Boschees German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents. Sample bottle, 10 cents.

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many people are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a week, if in need of a daily visit, over $21.00 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

The Windsor Hotel

is one of the finest hotels on this continent. It is a credit to the liberality of our Montreal friends and an ornament to our city. Its corridors are wide and beautiful. The parlors and dining rooms, with their costly embellishments, and the reception rooms, are "chefs d'œuvre." Its cuisine has also excelled. It is a luxurious home for Montreal families who prefer to relieve themselves from the care of a household, and a caravansary which cannot be surpassed in the world. Here, as elsewhere, man is subject to the laws of health. Sickness will follow where indiscretion leads. An unseemly carouse has made a lofty man the occupant of this house as upon the dweller in a cottage. Men are apt to over-indulge where food is very tempting, and ignore the fact that happily the remedy for such indiscretions may be had in every drug store in the Dominion, in the shape of Dr. HERRICK'S SPECIAL COASTER PILLS.

LeComte & Perkins Mfg. Co.—Limited, Philadelphia & New York.
Gentlemen—I was troubled with
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

MR. M. GILES, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, 77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, day night and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the turpe-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition — meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a long, swinging gallop. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by many more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food is simply marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-fifth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.
GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.
C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most reliable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive Oct. 12, 1878. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health got worse, then got a remedy that built up the blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, loss of flesh, and I was reduced to a mere skeleton. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. At last, tired of life, and that was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pain left the lungs, and I am returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine myself or to my family, and consider it a most valuable remedy and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks what I am looking so well and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up by many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 26th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.
About the 20th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; the first dose I ever took that would stay on my stomach. I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

ST. PAUL, MIN., JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES T. FELLOWS, Esq.
DEAR SIR.—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your valuable Syrup. I can fully say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you may bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she sees heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,
D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.
SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but the difficulty was the most prominent. I was then under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken a great many medicines without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars, and was entertained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

MANHOOD.

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

DETROIT THROAT & LUNG INSTITUTE.

253 WOODWARD AVENUE.
DETROIT, MICH.

M. Hilton Williams, M. D.

(Graduate of Victoria College at Toronto, and Member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.)

PROPRIETOR.

(PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED SINCE 1870.)

Over 15,000 Persons Successfully Treated since the establishment of our Institute in Detroit from all parts of the United States and Canada, for some of the various diseases of the head, throat and lungs. The only institute of the kind in Michigan specially devoted to the treatment of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption, also diseases of the Eye, Ear and Hearth.

Catarrh and Throat Diseases are every year becoming more prevalent and more generally fatal. As prevalent as they are, if left to themselves, their termination is Consumption and death.

A large portion of the deaths from throat and lung diseases are of young people—those who have not reached the meridian of life. Their hold upon life is strong and all the functions of the body active. If they were properly treated the great majority of them would recover. Such is my experience. But I have no faith in their treatment by the stomach. Cod liver oil is good nourishment, but it is not medicine. No medicine given by the stomach exerts a curative influence on the lungs.

We are positive in saying that three-fourths of the vast number who die of Consumption might be saved did they awaken to the true sense of danger when the disease first appeared in the head and throat; the best writers, and the ablest physicians of the age have expressed similer opinions.

With these facts before us we feel that we would be recreant to our responsibilities were we to remain silent and see our fellow-beings pass away like autumn leaves while there is hope for so many.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by medical inhalations, combined with proper constitutional and hygenic treatment.

If on account of distance, expense of travel or physical debility, patients cannot visit the office personally for consultation, they may write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, and when fully answered and returned remedies can be sent per express (duties free) together with full directions for use. Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION

MONDAY, April 12.

In the House of Commons after routine business, the resolutions reported from the Finance Committee recommending that the accounts of the Bureau of Agriculture be submitted annually to the Auditor-General for auditing were reported.

Mr. Abbott introduced a Bill to provide for the distribution of the assets of insolvent traders.

On the motion to receive the report of the Committee on Way and Means, which include the tariff amendments, Mr. Paterson (Brant) moved that the report be referred back to the Committee with instructions to amend the same by placing embossed books for the blind upon the free list.

Sir Leonard Tilley stated that the Government had considered the proposition, and could not consent to the change.

The resolutions were incorporated in a Bill, which was read the first time; but before this was done a slight debate was raised by Mr. Charlton, who directed attention to the impropriety of levying an export duty on saw-logs, as it operated prejudicially to the Georgian Bay district. The Government said that the only pressure they had noticed was in the direction of increasing the duty.

The House then went into Committee of Supply. On the item of $217,200 for Arts, Agriculture, and Statistics, in reply to queries by the leaders of the Opposition and Mr. Rose (Middlesex), the Minister of Agriculture promised to consider the advisability of including in the census returns a column showing the quality of habitations, specifying whether of brick, veneer, lumber, or rough cast; also a column giving the value of all real property. Before the House rises a rough draft of the classes of information to be sought will be laid before the members for suggestions.

On the item of $159,750 for Immigration and Quarantine, the Opposition criticized the increased vote asked for assisting immigration.

After recess the debate was continued.

The item was adopted, and also an item of $41,713 for pensions.

The House adjourned at 12:40 a. m.

The Pacific Railway Debate.

The trouble will begin on Thursday. Mr. Blake has indicated his intention to proceed with his resolutions, and the Government have agreed to set down the debate for Thursday next. To what extent he and his leader are agreed, in opposition to the Pacific Railway, or to the British Columbia section, is still a matter of doubt, of course; but there is a general agreement between their later views, though on former occasions they certainly differed widely. Mr. Mackenzie is now in doubt whether Canada is to go on with the Pacific Railway at all. Mr. Blake thinks that the British Columbia section is a "dreadful section," and that it would be better to let the British Columbia "go," than build it. Curiously enough, both have their objection to building the road, on the ground that the finances of the country do not at all warrant the expenditure. Yet, as we have many times shown, both of them committed themselves, one by his public advertisements, the other by his silence, to the building of the whole road, including the objectionable section, in August, 1878 —one month before the elections. Now, the reader will at once see that if the Pacific Railway was going to be "ruinous" the late Government would hardly have put out that advertisement. In fact that advertisement was probably issued with the intention of showing that the Government were going to build the road. If the road was unpopular in these cis-montane Provinces, the gain of a few votes in British Columbia would not have compensated for the loss that would have occurred here. Therefore, we may assume that the late Government, in August, 1878, thought they were doing a nice thing in issuing advertisements for the construction of the whole Pacific Railway, including the "dreadful section" to which Mr. Blake objects. There exists, however, no word of protest, spoken or written, by Mr. Blake on that occasion. But now things have changed. The Tories are in power. The cats are out. The finances are not as bad as they were in 1878. The Northwest is filling up with great rapidity. The necessity for building the railway is greater than ever. Parliament has given the Government authority to build it. The contracts have been issued. The policy of Mr. Mackenzie, in fact, is being fulfilled. The Globe declared that the British Columbia section was the only one that would "pay from the first," as there was fine land and much traffic awaiting it. But Mr. Blake has made up his mind that he will not "go farther." His conduct may be characterized as honest. To us it appears factious. It may be honest. To us it seems otherwise. It may be fair. To us it seems unfair. It is unfair to Canada whose faith is pledged to the work. Unfair to British Columbia, whose interests are involved in our keeping good faith. It is unfair to Mr. Mackenzie, whose policy is being indirectly attacked. It is unfair to Parliament, whose honor is engaged to aid the Government in this business. It is unfair to Parliament, which Mr. Blake is asking to act, as he himself said, like children who put seed down at night and pull it up in the morning to change its location, or examine its state. We have no fear for the safety of the Pacific Railway. But we entertain an amused curiosity to know how much of the Opposition is going to come out of the "struggle."—Citizen.

What's Up?

Two articles which have recently appeared in the daily Globe, have caused many of its readers to ask : "What's up?" The first of these was an article in its issue of the 6th inst., on the Pacific Railway, wherein it comes out flat footed in favor of pressing on the work of construction, and denounces those who assume or in construction will plunge the Dominion into a gulf of ruin as appealing "to the inhabitants of Canada as though they were a race of goldfish hogs." This language can only apply to that section of the Reform party, which is now, under the leadership of Mr. Blake, doing its best to obstruct the progress of this work, on this side of the Rocky Mountains, and induce the abandonment of the contracts recently let on the Pacific slope for an indefinite period. What makes this article the more marked under all the circumstances, is the fact that further on it declares with reference to this very British Columbia section, that "British Columbia will feel aggrieved, unless some attempt is made to keep faith with her. To develop the resources of the Province in advance of the completion of the Pacific road, is not an unreasonable wish. There is a considerable tract of good land along the lakes and rivers of the proposed Yale-Kamloops section. That piece of road will cost perhaps $12,000,000 when equipped, and it is proposed to finish it during the next five years. Canada is asked to spend $60,000,000 a year for the purpose of colonizing and contenting British Columbia. The interest on the money will be $96,000 the first year, and $480,000 in the last year and each year thereafter. Now it may be thought that this is not a large annual sum to pay for a piece of road which, though not yet necessary to the older provinces, must be built sometime, and in the meantime will materially increase the wealth and population of the Pacific Province. If 100,000 people settle in British Columbia during the construction of the road—and there is every reason why that number should go there in the course of a few years — the Dominion will receive from them a revenue sufficient to pay the interest on the expenditure." These extracts are quite sufficient to show that the Globe is evidently down on Mr. Blake's crusade against the Pacific Railway in general, and the Yale-Kamloops contract in particular.

The other article to which we refer is one which appeared in the same columns two days after the one just referred to, on the "exodus and the N. P." From the heading and the past course of the Globe, one would naturally expect to find in such an article condemnation of the fact that the "exodus" was solely attributable to the "horrible N.P."; but, wonderful to relate, we find in this very article the following sensible observations on this particular point :—

"The United States felt the depression long before Canada did, and now business has completely revived there, while nothing more than a hopeful thrill animates trade here. The prosperous breezes were with us when they reeled under the hurricane, and now we lie in the doldrums while they forge ahead. It is not fair wind that must strike us soon. The public will remember, that large numbers of Americans came into Canada when the depression was settled across the border had not yet reached this side. They drifted back again when the stagnation that they helped to produce prevailed on both sides, and now Canadians go to the States in their turn. In a short time the exodus will equalize waces in the two countries, and we shall see back some of the people who now leave their homes."

And strangest of all, we are told that it does "not say that the present emigration to the United States is due to the bad fiscal policy of the Government," and that "no administration can control the movements of population, which are regulated mainly by the rates of wages being higher for the moment in some parts of the continent than others." Truly, with two such articles as these appearing in the Globe in one week, people may well ask "What's up."—Peterborough Review.

Here and There.

The ancient superstition that it is unlucky to wear black at a wedding appears to be dying a natural death in England. That it is utterly disregarded by the guests is proved by the number of black satins, velvets and brocades worn at recent weddings.

The following advertisement appeared the other day in a London newspaper:—"A lady of position and fortune desires to share her very elegant and luxurious home with one possessing corresponding means. Vague and inexplicit, impecunious, or obscure persons quite useless."

A Madrid musician, offended by a fellow pianist, challenged him to play the piano with him until either of them should be compelled by fatigue to desist. The duel lasted forty-eight hours without either antagonist resting or taking the slightest nourishment. One of them played, among other pieces, the "Miserere," from "Il Trovatore," over 150 times, and was beginning it again, when he fell dead from exhaustion. The other is on the verge of lunacy.

Hartmann, the Nihilist refugee, is by occupation an engraver and designer, excelling in the latter capacity. He is about 43 years of age, of middle height, curly black hair, clean shaved, and bronzed complexion. Like many Russians, he is an accomplished linguist, and of manners so agreeable that, though the son of a swineherd from one of the Baltic provinces, he was received in good society in Paris, where he penetrated by accident, keeping his real position a secret.

Anti-tobacconists will find comfort and arguments in the fact that Parisian physicians are, with Kamilka we can accomplish, leagued against the weed, which they claim rapidly uses up the vital forces; and in the further fact that most of the long-lived, though old Frenchmen never smoked. Thiers, Guizot, Cremieux, Raspail and Counte Benoit-d'Azy, who recently died full of years, with unimpaired mental faculties, were all non smokers; and so were Dufaure and Barthelemy St. Hilaire, Victor Hugo and Etienne Arago.

On March 16th, at Prague, in the presence of the Governor of Bohemia, the Prince Archbishop Cardinal Von Schwarzenberg, and other personages solemnly disinterred the remains of St. Adalbert, the famous Benedictine monk and Bishop, of Prague, who was killed in the tenth century while endeavoring to convert the Pagan Prussians. His body was taken by the Polish King Boleslas to Gnesen, whence the Duke of Bohemia, Bretislav I., brought it among his trophies after a campaign against the Poles, to Prague. The coffin bore the date 1346. It has been conveyed to the Cathedral, and placed in the reliquary.

The admirers of Marshal McMahon will be sorry to hear that he is in pecuniary difficulties. A few weeks ago a great part of the furniture of the Paris residence of the ex-president was sold by auction. The property disposed of included several valuable paintings, and some rare old furniture of the Louis Quatorze period. The auction was largely attended, and from every mouth, without distinction of party, there fell expressions of respectful sympathy with the old soldier, who neither in the army nor as chief of the State, had ever turned a farthing of the public moneys into his own pocket.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 14.

The N. P. and the Farmers.

The National Policy has fulfilled its mission to the farmers more than to any class of the community, as a comparison of the present prices of grain with what they were before the National Policy was inaugurated will bear ample testimony. Yet the Grit press, being in want of something to say, is laboriously endeavoring to make the farmers believe that the promises of the benefits to be derived from the National Policy, as regards the prices of farm produce, have not been fulfilled.

The Ottawa Free Press, which is now a rabid Grit organ, makes some bold assertions under the above heading, which statements are as much at variance with the facts, and made with as little evident knowledge of the subject, as it is possible to imagine. It says that "Indian Corn is taxed 7½ cents per bush., which those who purchase corn for feed have to pay, whilst a drawback is allowed on corn used in the manufacture of starch for export," thus endeavoring to make it appear that the farmer suffers by the arrangement.

The mass of the corn imported into Canada is used for the manufacture of whiskey and for feed by the lumbermen, and pays an import duty, the result of which has been that Canadian grown rye now brings 70c per bushel, whilst last year at this time it only brought 45c. Peas show a corresponding increase in price over last year. It is true a small proportion of imported corn is fed by farmers to cattle, upon which feed a duty is collected, but in this section the amount fed to cattle is small, and when fed shows in most cases that the feeder is not conducting his farm on paying principles, as only fancy or blood cattle can be fed on imported grain at a profit. This we think no practical farmer will dispute, and the insinuation that a farmer does not raise feed enough for his cattle has always been considered as a slur upon him. A few starch factories that cannot purchase their supply here have, it is true, been allowed to import corn free of duty, when manufactured for export, which has had the result of keeping starch factories running for export instead of being shut down, and the farmers receive the benefit of supplying the hands employed in those factories with the produce they require. This is better than having the same article manufactured by American factories, and American farmers receiving the benefit of supplying the workmen.

Wheat, the Free Press says, is "taxed ten cents per bushel, but millers are allowed to import American wheat free of duty." This will be news to millers, and is a gross misrepresentation of the truth. One of the greatest grievances the opponents of the National Policy alleged was that a few mills on the frontier which ground for export, chiefly from American wheat, would be placed by the imposition of the duty at a disadvantage alongside American millers, to the amount of the duty, which would cause many big flour mills to be shut down. This difficulty the framers of the tariff wisely remedied by allowing millers to manufacture American wheat free of duty, provided the flour thus manufactured was exported, so that it would in no way affect the price of Canadian wheat. This grievance to Canadian millers was first complained of by the Globe and other Grit journals, but now that it has been remedied, the same press, with characteristic unfairness, complain of the modification in the wheat duties which they themselves recommended.

"Wool of the coarser sorts, such as is solely produced in Canada is taxed 3cts per lb.," growls the same journal. Surely no farmer will complain that imported wool, such as is solely grown in Canada is taxed, but the journal in question grieves that the finer grades of wools such as it claims are not grown in Canada are not taxed. If it can explain in what way farmers in this country would be benefitted by taxing a class of wools not grown here, we would like to see it. The Grit press is "again the government anyway" and whether the National Policy is beneficial to the country or not, its writers without argument or reason, declare themselves "again the N. P. anyway." The following comparison between the prices last year and this year on this market of such grain as is grown in Canada that is affected by imported grain, will readily convince any intelligent farmer of the great benefit derived by the farming class by the inauguration of the National Policy:

	March 15, 1879.	March 15, 1880.
Wheat, 80cts to 85cts	$1.25 to $1.30
Rye, 45cts	70
Oats, 32cts to 33cts	38 to 40
Pease, 55cts to 58cts	63 to 65

Veterans of 1812 14.

Some Interesting Facts regarding Old-time Affairs.

Col. Elijah Ketcheson and his Contemporaries.

It was a graceful and a most appropriate action which the Dominion Parliament a few years ago, at the suggestion of Dr. Brouse, M.P. (now Senator), performed in voting an annual pension of $50 each to the remaining veterans of the war of 1812-14. These survivors of a former generation had done the State much service—they had left their homes, many of them their wives and young children, on war occurring, to defend their country against what was in reality overwhelming odds,—abandoning their all at the call of duty, and how nobly did they discharge the trust committed to their charge, the pages of history record. The slight recognition of their services of which mention is above made, though long in coming it was none the less heartily received. These men of simple habits and of brave hearts have proved to be long-lived, the bracing climate of Canada having so maintained their generally strong and wiry physical organisations that they might well share with a celebrated British regiment the honorable designation of "the die-hards." Whilst the unavoidable arrival of old age has found most of them in tolerably comfortable circumstances, yet there are not a few to whom the country's bounty has been of great service, and has aided in rendering their declining years more comfortable than would otherwise have been the case. The muster roll shows a rapidly reducing number of veterans who can answer to the call of the paymaster, and in a few years all will have passed away. Let us hope, however, that the departed patriots have taken their places in the ranks of the great army of the just made perfect, and that their valôr and self-sacrifice in the cause of their country are now receiving a higher reward than man has it in his power to bestow.

Amongst the aged and faithful few who yet survive is Lieut-Col. ELIJAH KETCHESON, of Sidney, who still, at the extreme age of 87, is hale and hearty, and lives to tell with pardonable pride the deeds of his youth and to narrate interesting particulars of the early days of this part of the country. Col. Ketcheson was the fourth son of William Ketcheson, a U. E. Loyalist, who served his king during the whole of the revolutionary war—of which devoted band so many settled on the shores of the Bay of Quinte—and was born in Fredericksburg on the 28th of June, 1795, and came to Sidney with his parents in 1800, living at first in the 5th concession, but removing in 1819 to the farm where he now enjoys an honorably earned competence and is surrounded by several members of his numerous family. This venerable gentleman called at the INTELLIGENCER office a few days ago and left for our and the public's information a number of interesting documents, of the information in which we herewith present a summary.

The first of these is the muster roll, made on parade day, of the "Hastings Flank Company," forming part of the 1st (afterwards the 4th) regiment and which was the first Militia Company formed in the County of Hastings Militia. This parade was held on the 2nd of July, 1812, the second day after war broke out, and the men were marched to Kingston under command of the following officers: Captain—Jacob W. Meyers; Lieutenant—John Thompson; Ensign—William Ketcheson. The Sergeants were Thomas and Benjamin Ketcheson. Elijah Ketcheson served for six months as a private, and was then made Sergeant, in which capacity he remained until peace was declared. The Company, after proceeding to Kingston, was divided into two Companies, which were commanded respectively by Capt. John McIntosh and Capt. Simon McNab. Lieut.-Col. John Ferguson commanded the 1st Hastings Battalion, and Col. Richard Cartwright commanded the militia at Kingston.

The following is the muster roll, above spoken of, with remarks appended as in the original: SERGEANTS—THOS. Ketcheson, B. Ketcheson, S. Patrick, James Yeomans, Isaac Stimers. CORPORALS—Abijah Ross, David Roblin, S. Ellis, Edward McConnell. PRIVATES—John Ackerman, Andrew Atthoun, Samuel Badgely, John Barnum, John Boice, Lewin Barnum (excused, deputy), James Brown, Asa Brown, F. Reed, Daniel Reed, Leonard Ross, Isaac Smith, Peter Sine, William Sine, jr., John Smith, William Sine, John Sine, Rufus Streeter, Daniel Sealy, N. Simmons, J. R. Smith, Ammi Smith (deserted), John Simmons, Peter Simmons, Benj. Simkin, Robert Thompson, Stephen Tomkins (excused), John Thrasher, William Thomson, Cornelius Thrasher, Gideon Turner, George Vandervoort, Henry Veely, John Vandewaters, Sam. Westfall, — Warner (deserted), Asa Werden, Ira West, William Welsh,—Wright John Weaver, George Young, Philip Zwick, Peter Vanskiver (discharged sub. of W.) John Christ-dale, Thomas Parker (in Kingston), Israel Barnum, J. B. Glover, Lawrence Badgley, and Peter Frederick. Of these Philip Zwick and Robert Davis are, with Mr. Ketcheson, the only survivors.

Col. Ketcheson served with his company during the whole of the war at Kingston, which fact is attested over the signature of Lt. Col. Ferguson, dated 11th May, 1818. He was appointed Ensign by commission from Lieut.-Governor Gore, dated October 16th, 1818, the appointment dating from the 25th of December in the same year, he having been recommended by Lieut.-Col. Ferguson.

On May 19th, 1819, Elizah Ketcheson and Minerva Ostrom were married under license, by Solomon Hazelton, J. P., the witnesses being William Zwick and Nancy Ostrom.

The rebellion of 1837-8 once more called Elijah Ketcheson, with many other patriotic men, into active military service in defence of their country at Presqu'isle and Trenton. He then commanded No. 4 Company of the Hastings Militia, and that the conduct of Capt. Ketcheson and his company gave entire satisfaction to the officer in command is evidenced by the following general order:

"The Lieut-Col. commanding cannot allow Capt. Ketcheson's company to return to their homes without conveying to them the expression of his entire satisfaction at their uniform good conduct during the period they have been embodied, and also the loyalty and zeal with which they turned out at the first warning to defend their country.

"He has not failed to notify this to His Excellency the Lieut. Governor, Major General commanding, and he begs that Capt. Ketcheson, the officers, non-commissioned officers and privates will accept his best thanks for their meritorious behavior.

"Col. Hawley will please to have the above order read to the officers and men of Capt. Ketcheson's company, and that he will also please to send in to the Quartermaster at this station a return of all arms, ammunition and accoutrements received from Capt. Ketcheson's company.

"I beg leave to send the above written general order.

"I have the honor to be,
&c., &c., &c.,
"WELLESLEY RICHEY,
"Capt. and Adj't."

Mr. Ketcheson's commission as Lieut.-Col. of the 2nd Battalion of Hastings Militia was signed by Earl Elgin, then Governor General, on Sept. 21st, 1848, and dates from Sept. 20th, 1848. This forms a fitting climax to Col. Ketcheson's military career, and that he well earned, by valuable services and by merit a distinction so prized, will be satisfactory to those who have perused this brief outline of his connection with the Militia of Hastings, the hardships and privations of which in a country poor and very thinly settled, we who live in the days of railroads, steamboats, telegraphs, and with all the comforts supplied by an advanced civilization, can form but a very faint idea of. We close with the hope that Col. Ketcheson and his surviving contemporaries may yet be spared for several years to come.

Business Failures.

Messrs. Dun, Wiman & Co's circular for he first quarter of 1880, gives the number of failures in the Dominion of Canada as 503 with liabilities of $4,816,277, as against 634 with liabilities of $11,648,697 for the quarter ended March 31st, 1879. The failures in the United States for the first quarter of this year, numbered 1,432 with liabilities of $12,777,074, as against 2,524 with liabilities of $43,112,655 in the same quarter of 1879. The figures this year are exceptionally small, showing a decrease of nearly one-half, as compared with the first quarter of any previous year since 1874. The liabilities are less than they were ever before reported in any quarter since the commencement of the publication of quarterly returns. It is a matter full of significance that the indebtedness of failed parties, in the first three months of the present year, do not equal one-fourth of the sum to which they amounted in any first quarter in the last preceding six years. As time progresses, the figures relating to failures seem to indicate a steady continuance of favorable conditions for the trade of the country.

SATISPIED.—The Montreal Star of last evening says:—Mr. Vennor writes:—"This, Sir, ends the winter of 1880, and the requirements of my weather theory are fully answered. Now, talk about your spring and summer with some prospect of their appearance. Ladies may take out their easter bonnets now." On the 3rd instant Mr. Vennor wrote:—"After this term (ending Sunday 11th) fine weather up to within a day or two of May." As Mr. Vennor appears to be easily satisfied he no doubt counts to-day and yesterday as two of the fine days. Well, there is no accounting for taste, as the woman said when she kissed her cow.

—A lot of veal exhibited for sale on the Kingston market was seized on the 13th inst., as being unfit for human consumption.

—The workmen of the London, Ont., Machine Screw Company have struck for an advance of 25 cents per day.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

BOSTON, April 14.—Chas. Worth, who sued the Grand Trunk Railway for damages by collision attributable to carelessness of the company's servants, received a verdict yesterday for $45,000. On the first trial he was awarded $18,000, and on the second $26,000

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 14.—The surveys have begun for an extension of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad from Gainesville to Belton, by way of Eleborne. At Belton it will intersect with the Galveston and Santa Fe Railroad, giving through connection to the Gulf of Mexico.

LINCOLN, Del., April 14.—A fire has burned two miles of pine forest and Shockley's flour mill two miles south of here, and is still raging, with 10,000 acres of the finest woodlands in front of it with saw and flour mills, which it will be difficult to save.

NEW YORK, April 14.—During the voyage of the City of Richmond, which arrived on Monday with 1,300 steerage passengers, a handsome Irish woman Ellen Wynne disappeared. The case is a mystery.

112 persons, including 32 children, were sent to western country homes yesterday by Whitelaw Reid with funds placed in his hands by a stranger from the country to be used at his discretion.

The Tribune says the Wabash Railway expects to open its Chicago line on May 1st, and has secured for freight business at Chicago a block 300 feet wide by 2,960 long. The Eastern, Illinois and Grand Trunk Railway Cos. have united with the Wabash in securing property, also about 400 feet of water front. The Wabash earnings from Jan. 1st to April 7th, reached $2,700,000 against over the corresponding period last year $754,000 or 38 per cent.

NEW YORK, April 14.—The Herald's Washington despatch says: Bruce asked the friends of both parties in the Senate to delay final action on the military academy appropriation bill until it shall be made more apparent that the cadet Whittaker is receiving fair treatment. The request has been granted. There is no disguising the fact that there is a strong sentiment in both Houses which severely condemns the management in the Whittaker case. This feeling is not bounded by party lines.

The Tribune says the debate on the Geneva award bill is presumably for the benefit of the new comers in the Senate, since it is not possible to evolve anything new out of the question.

Board of Education.

The Board met at the usual hour.

PRESENT.—Messrs. W. A. Shepard (Chairman), Wills, Wensley, Richards, Van Allan, Hayne, Newbery, Dr. Willson, and McGinnis.

A communication was read from T. B. Bentley, stating that he had allowed the complaint made by him to drop.

On motion of Mr. Wills, seconded by Mr. Richards, a special committee was appointed to confer with the City Council relative to certain sanitary matters, the Committee to consist of Messrs. Hayne, Johnson, A. Diamond, Dr. Willson and Wills.

Mr. Johnson moved the resolution of which he had given notice, namely that the Secretary-Treasurer be instructed to pay the teachers monthly hereafter, commencing with the first of May.

Mr. Wills did not think this innovation would work well, as the Board would find difficulty in getting the funds every month.

Mr. Johnson contended that the trouble could not be any greater than it is now, and the new system, whilst being much to the convenience of the teachers, would only entail a little more work on the Secretary-Treasurer.

Rev. Mr. Burke came in.

Mr. Wensley opposed the motion, believing it would cause a good deal of trouble to the Board.

Rev. Mr. Burke, whilst supporting the principle, did not think they were in a position to carry it out.

Mr. Newbery thought it just as easy for the City to provide the money monthly as quarterly.

After considerable further discussion the motion was put and lost.

A resolution authorizing the Chairman of the Board and the Secretary-Treasurer to raise the sum of $1,500 by note was passed.

The Inspector presented his monthly report for March, which showed a smaller average attendance than usual, caused by sickness. The report was referred to the Committee on School Management.

In answer to Mr. Van Allan, the Inspector said that only three or four teachers send monthly reports to parents but he would see that all do so in future.

The Inspector having been instructed to enforce the resolution to that effect, the Board adjourned.

WIFE BEATING.

A Result of Intemperance.

Some of the inhabitants of Taylor's Hill were startled about 10:15 last night by hearing cries of "help, help," and "murder." The noise proceeded from a small frame house next to Mr. J. H. Hambly's residence, occupied by a man named Sprague, a carpenter, who came home last night drunk, and commenced to beat his wife and break the furniture of the house to pieces. He smashed the stove so badly as to render it useless; the lamps and furture followed, and then he commenced at his wife. The poor woman's cries could be heard two or three streets away.

A gentleman who was near at the time tried his best to keep Sprague away from her, but it is not likely he would have succeeded had not officer Marsh just then put in an appearance. He was then captured and taken to the police station. The victim is a hard-working woman, and says she has had to sit up day and night sewing to support herself and babe. The prisoner had told a friend of his wife that he was going to kill her, and had not her cries alarmed the neighbors he might have succeeded in accomplishing his object.

The prisoner was brought before the Police Magistrate this morning and remanded for a week.

First Timber Shipment.

THE RAFTING TRADE BEGUN AT BELLEVILLE.

An important event in the history of railroad enterprise in this city occurred yesterday evening, namely the arrival of eight car loads of square timber—the first instalment of a shipment of fifty cars from Hastings over the Grand Junction Railway. The timber, which was shipped by Buck & Stewart and is destined for the Quebec market, was taken to the railroad wharf, where it will be at once rafted and forwarded to the market. Thus one of the benefits which Mr. Kelso and other prominent advocates of the construction of this iron highway predicted is beginning to be realized, and as it happens very appropriately, on the day when the final disposition of the City's bonus to the Company was made. The advantages of Belleville as a rafting place are such that, with the completion of the Grand Junction to a connection with the Midland, they cannot but be largely availed of by shippers of square timber. By rafting here, the very great dangers of lake navigation are avoided, hence the amount of material used in rafting and the cost of labor in making up the rafts will be considerably reduced, whilst the market can be reached some weeks earlier than by any other route. Therefore it may reasonably be anticipated that when direct communication can be had with Peterborough and the Georgian Bay, a very large trade will be done in the rafting of timber at this port, as well as in the shipment of lumber. We congratulate the proprietors of the railway and the people of the city alike on the commencement of this trade.

LOST IN THE STORM.—On Saturday evening a little before dark, an old woman named Ann Cushing, left the village of Fort Coulonge, Que., during the dreadful snow-storm, and missed her road going toward Mr. Thomas Bryson's farm. She had followed a fence that led into the bush, where she was found dead on the morning of the 13th. Her faithful dog remained with her keeping watch over her remains.

TO CLOSE THE ROAD.—The Manager of the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway, has issued the following notice to employees:—"It becomes necessary under the circumstances to advise all employees that in the event of the failure of the company to secure aid from the municipalities to prosecute the change of gauge of the railway, their services will have to be dispensed with at the first of June next. If there is no prospect of the municipalities granting bonuses the road may be closed from the date mentioned." This is in consequence of a resolution passed by the bondholders at a meeting.

The "David Andrews."

FULL PARTICULARS OF THE SCHOONER'S MISHAP.

(From the Oswego Times, April 12.)

Between eight and nine o'clock yesterday morning, Adam Farr reported at the Oswego life saving station a schooner ashore about six miles east of the station. Captain Blackburn immediately ordered out the life saving crew. They took out a surf boat on a waggon, and took the Lyle gun and apparatus upon a cart and at 9:15 o'clock started for the scene of the wreck. When within a mile of the wreck, the waggon broke down. The crew took the Lyle gun and apparatus to the beach. They found the schooner David Andrews ashore about four hundred feet off and head on the beach. The Lyle gun put a line across her the first shot and in a short time a hawser was drawn aboard and the work of rescuing the crew began. In about four hours, the crew, consisting of six men and a woman, was safely landed. The captain's trunk, with the vessel's papers and the clothing of the crew, were also saved.

THE CAPTAIN'S STATEMENT.

Capt. McCrimmon says the schooner loaded at Belleville with 10,522 bushels of rye consigned to Gooderham & Worts, Toronto, and went to Napanee. We sailed from Napanee on Wednesday last and were obliged to run to South Bay Point. We left South Bay Point for Toronto on Saturday morning, but owing to heavy weather were driven out of our course and obliged to turn back. We started out again, but during Saturday night the storm became so severe, we shaped our course for Oswego, intending to reach here by daylight. The wind was blowing a gale and it was snowing hard. We could not make the Oswego light and saw nothing till we were within half a mile of the beach. We got so close to the beach that we could not get out. During the night the foresail was carried away. The schooner went ashore about six o'clock on Sunday morning.

The Andrews was built seven or eight years ago at South Bay. She rates B 1½. The cargo is valued at $7,891.50. The schooner is owned by Robert Downey and is insured for $3,000. The cargo is insured. The vessel and cargo will probably be a total loss.

The names of the crew are as follows: Captain, M. McCrimmon; mate, Henry Wetcher; seamen, Thomas Fagan, Thomas Watman, Walter Lambert, Wm. McCrimmon; cook, Mrs. Watman, daughter of Capt. McCrimmon.

Capt. McCrimmon came to Oswego yesterday and the crew remained in the vicinity of the wreck.

LATER.—It is now thought that the schooner David Andrews can be saved, although with a damaged cargo. She lies perfectly quiet, probably with a hole through her bottom, but does not beat at all. Efforts will be made to save her at once.

—The Afghan chiefs have been informed that in the event of no hostility being displayed the representations in favor of the selection of a member of Yakoob Khan's family as Ameer would receive due consideration.

—Confirmation is given to the statements that European diplomats will shortly be once more engaged on certain questions of Eastern politics which have not yet been satisfactorily settled.

—It is now announced that at least 100 brass bands from all parts of the country will meet in the Madison Square Garden in June, for a three days' competition, for prizes amounting to $10,000. The professional bands of Boston, Philadelphia and New York will not be permitted to compete.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

The Liberal majority over the combined opposition, including Home Rulers will be about 60.

The Irish members who are pledged to follow Parnell's active policy number 36.

MADRID, April 14.—Otero, who attempted assassination of the King over a year ago was executed this morning, age 19. Yesterday morning he was led in irons, bare-headed clad in the same clothing as he wore the day he atttempted to take the King's life, to the hall where the condemned prisoners hear their sentences. In the presence of the Judge Otero, pale and composed, signed a copy of his sentence with a firm hand. The Judge delivered him into the custody of the Brothers, and sent orders to Pazy Caridad, who led the prisoner to a chapel dimly lighted. Otero expressed repentance, but refused advice or consolation from the priests.

NEW YORK, April 14.—Dr. Osgood died this morning after a brief illness.

LONDON, April 14.—A correspondent of the Times at Dublin says there are three compact parties, Conservatives, Parnellites and pure Liberals and moderate Home rulers or an intermediate party who will be allies sometimes of one party and sometimes of another, but it is confidently expected that they will most frequently go into the divisional lobby with the Liberal Government. There are also a few free lances, such as Patrick J. Smyth, just elected for Tipperary, who is an uncompromising repealer; Jno. Daly, of Cork city, whose views do not quite agree with those of Parnell, though he has been returned with him; and Philip Callan, just elected for Louth; who will fight all round in their turn.

BERLIN, April 14.—Emigration to North America, on an exceptionally large scale is taking place from Scandinavia. 2,000 Swedes have already left Bremen, and 1,000 left Christiana for New York, on the 4th inst.

CARPETS.

WE are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers.

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealer telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, five, ten, and even twenty-five cents per yard is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

Daily Intelligencer.

Is it Another Crime?

A Suspicious Case of Murder and Incendiarism.

BRIGHTON, April 12.—What to all present appearances promises to form a parallel to the Biddulph horror occurred near the village of Wooler on Saturday night last. The house of a man named Haskins was about ten o'clock of that evening discovered to be on fire, and when those who first saw the fire arrived a horrible sight presented itself. The burnt and charred body of a man, which proved to be that of the owner of the house, lay about a foot from the door with its face buried in the dirt and ashes, the legs and lower part of the body being entirely destroyed. It is supposed that the old man, who for some twenty-five or thirty years has lived in the house that is now only a heap of ashes, was possessed of some ready money, and that some fiend in human form first robbed him and then resorted to murder and incendiarism to efface the traces of the crime. This supposition gains strength from the fact that nothing can be found of a gun or pistol, and that he always kept in his bedroom, it is supposed, to defend himself. He has been married, but some two or three years since a separation took place, and he has lately lived entirely alone. An inquest is being held on the body to-day by Drs. Fyfe and Dean.

The Collector presented his balance-sheet, which was accepted by the Council, and he was placed upon the pay-list for salary $100, and expenses $6.

The Council resumed on the appointment of Township Officers, when the Pound-keepers and Fence-viewers were appointed. The Council then rose, reported, and asked leave to sit again.—Granted.

A By-law was passed through its several stages and numbered 239, remitting certain back taxe upon lands incorrectly described.

The Council adjourned until the first Monday in May.

A Cross Baby.

Nothing is so conducive to a man's remaining a bachelor as stopping for one night at the house of a married friend and being kept awake for five or six hours by the crying of a cross baby. All cross and crying babies need only Hop Bitters to make them well and smiling. Young man, remember this.—Ed.

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A. Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidity increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately introduced. Boschee German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents Sample bottle. 10 cents.

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, and for mileage a tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one dollar bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

The Windsor Hotel

is one of the finest hotels on this continent. It is a credit to the liberality of our Montreal friends and an ornament to our city. Its corridors are wide and beautiful. The parlors and dining rooms, with their costly embellishments, and the reception rooms, are "chefs d'oeuvre." Its "fixings" are unexcelled. It is a luxurious home for Montreal families who prefer to relieve themselves from the care of a household, and the cuisine department cannot be surpassed for visitors. Still, here as elsewhere, man is subject to the laws of health. Sickness will follow where indiscretion leads. An unhealthy stomach will be badly upon the occupant of this house as upon the dweller in a cottage. Men are apt to over-indulge where food is very tempting, and ignore the results. Happily the remedy for such indiscretions may be had in every drug store in the Dominion in the shape of Dr. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in condition.—mean-while trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—A week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

CONSUMPTION
CAN BE CURED
IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and the fact that it is daily prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.
Gentlemen—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.
C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind I have ever used. It is perfectly palatable to my patients, and in all other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfect, elegant and agreeable form.
December 19th, 1878. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a hemorrhage which prostrated me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning cough, night sweats, chills and fever and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough entirely stopped; night sweats stopped; appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in a little over two weeks. I have tried no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION who asks, and in fact I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a host of friends who have not spoke a kind word for it; I have given him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is fast bringing him back to health. He has given up many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 31, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; the dose; and from that hour I commenced to improve, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three who have tried it, have entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me. I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but long difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but am happy to be still growing worse and weaker until I saw your name across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine and I am glad its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

DETROIT
THROAT & LUNG INSTITUTE.

M. Hilton Williams, M. D.
(Graduate of Victoria College at Toronto, and Member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.)
PROPRIETOR.
(PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED SINCE 1870.)
ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or properly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical men examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them unsound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

Now, how should a disease so produced and so located be treated? We should withdraw the patient as fully as possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If that organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we should treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the real point of difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and it is the point which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the physician to be able to point to the result of his practice in proof of the wisdom of his prescriptions. Even at the risk of being accused of egotism, I will venture to say that the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation speaks for itself by the substantial good it has accomplished and is accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. I can point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair. I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians of eminence had pronounced the case "hopeless." And the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and I the lungs; they give the patient medicine to swallow and I give them medicine to inhale. But this difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

Every disease of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence, a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation. We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they act imperfectly and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the surface of the body chilly and the nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by properdiet, clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

It is impossible to visit the office personally, write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, together with a copy of my "Medical Treatise on Diseases of the Breathing Organs." Address.

Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION

TUESDAY, April 13.

The House went again into Committe of Supply, taking up the vote for Militia, $680,200, a decrease of $20,000.

On the item, Salaries of brigade majors, $17,400.

Dr. Strange complained that the sum voted for militia was totally inadequate and he advocated a reduction of the force to 20,000 men.

Mr. Masson did not think the force too large or that it should be reduced. If any increase was made in the estimates next year, the money could be spent in increasing facilities for drill.

Mr. Boultbee advocated the reduction of the expenses of the staff, especially in the counties.

Mr. Kirkpatrick opposed any reduction of the force, and advocated the holding of drill every three years. The drill at company headquarters, he believed, was almost useless. He advocated the changes of the district staff every five years, as many of the difficulties which had recently arisen in militia matters—such as the one at Toronto—arose from jealousy among the officers, which would be avoided if the change he suggested were made. He did not think there should be more than one school of gunnery in this country. If two schools were necessary, let one be devoted to the training of cavalry or infantry.

The item passed after some further discussion.

On the item, Public Armories, &c., $51,000,

Sir R. Cartwright called attention to the fact that the 33rd Rifle Association had been obliged to pay duty upon some rifles which they had imported. This was contrary to the practice of the late Government, and, considering the expenditure which the officers of the militia had to incur, was something in the nature of a hardship.

Mr. Bowell said that the rifles were for the use and were the property of individual members of the Association, instead of being imported for the Association itself, and the law and the custom was to charge the duty in such cases, otherwise they would be establishing an undesirable precedent.

The item was passed.

On the item, Military College, $5,000,

Sir R. Cartwright referred to the increase of $100 in the tuition fee of cadets in Kingston College. He had no doubt that whether at $200 or $300 the education given there was well worth the money paid, but he feared that the increase would tend to prevent the sons of people of the farming and similar classes from entering. He suggested that some prizes similar to scholarships should be offered.

Mr. Masson said the hon. gentleman seemed to forget that the education given in this College was of a very high class indeed, and yet it was cheaper than similar education in any other country. In France, the United States, and other countries, young men entering similar colleges had either to pay very high fees or enter into some engagements with the Government to serve in the army or in other ways after their course was finished. By this change the saving to the country would be about $10,000 a year. It was the intention of the Government to see that the cadets were trained in engineering and the higher branches of military education. It was their purpose to secure proper teachers and officers for that purpose.

This item passed, as did also several others which were debated, and the House adjourned at 12:40 a. m.

Our New Division Court Act.

During the last session of the Ontario Legislature, our Division Court was considerably remodelled, and the jurisdiction extended. It will be of advantage to our readers to have some idea of what these changes are.

1. A debt can be collected in the Division Court up to two hundred dollars, but when it exceeds $100 it must be a note or some kind of acknowledgment of the debt by the signature of the defendant.

2. Personal actions and replevin suits are entered from $40 to $60.

3. All suits exceeding $100 are to be put at the foot of the list on trial day by the clerk.

4. In all suits of over $100, the action may be brought in the Division Court where the place of payment is situated, but may be changed to any other Division Court by the defendant making application to the Judge within eight days from the time of the service of summons upon him.

5. Any suit with the consent of the parties, may be tried in any Division Court.

6. In any suit of over $100, the Judge may direct an attorney fee of $5, and not more than $10 to be taxed to the successful party, which shall be taxed by the clerk and added to the other costs.

7. In all suits of over $100, the party dissatisfied with the decision of the judge may appeal to the Court of Appeal, and the proceedings shall be the same as an appeal from the County Court.

8. Clerks and baliffs are now appointed by the Lieutenant Governor, and are required to make regular returns in connection with their offices to the Government.

9. Clerks and baliffs are now prevented from collecting debts on commission.

10. Each party to a suit may require a jury in actions of replevin when the sum or value of the goods exceeds $20, and in other actions when the amount sought exceeds $30.

11. Jurors in Division Courts are now entitled to a fee of $1.

12. Appeals from the decisions of Justices of the Peace under the Master and Servants' Act for the payment of wages or dismissal from service shall hereafter be made to the Division Court holden in the division where the cause of action arose.

13. No Judgment summons shall now be issued by the Clerk of a Division Court until the plaintiff, his attorney or agent shall make and file with him an affidavit to the effect that the judgment is not paid, and that the party is able to pay, or has rendered himself liable to be committed to gaol.

14. Only one judgment summons shall issue, instead of two, as formerly.

The above are some of the leading changes that it would be well for the public to bear in mind, and if many people who may have dealings in Division Court would cut this synopsis out and paste it inside of their books, it might prevent them sometimes making miscalculations, and save a great deal of useless annoyance to themselves.

THE WOOLER TRAGEDY.

POINTS IN SUPPORT OF THE FOUL PLAY THEORY.

A FRUITLESS INQUEST—THE PAST HISTORY OF THE SUPPOSED VICTIM.

BRIGHTON, April 13.—The ruins of the house lately occupied by Wm. Hasking are situated about one and a half miles south-west of the village of Wooler, which place is distant from Brighton some ten or twelve miles. The farm and buildings of the deceased are off from the main travelled road some three-quarters of a mile, situated on a side line known by the name of Gimlet-street or lane, and a more desolate forsaken place for a home could not well be imagined. The old man Hasking lived for some twenty-five years in the house now in ashes, and was seventy-eight years of age. He had been twice married, but owing to family broils he had been separated from his last wife for several years. She, however, on learning of his death promptly set up a claim for his property. The evidence given at the inquest yesterday, held by Coroner Fyfe, assisted by Dr. Dean, as medical examiner, failed to elicit anything that threw much light on the affair, and an adjournment for one week was made, to get, if possible, evidence to assist in unravelling the mystery.

The points in favor of the theory of foul play are briefly these. A gun, which Hasking had for years kept hanging over his bed, cannot be found; a large butcher knife is also missing, which he usually took in one hand while opening the door with the other, so as to be prepared for tramps or robbers, should they ask for admitance. Two hams, which at seven o'clock on the evening of the fire were hanging in the shanty, are nowhere to be found, and they could not possibly have been burned. The lock of the trunk which he always kept under the bed was found in the ruins, with evident signs of having been forcibly wrenched off. And lastly, the fire commenced in the east end of the house while the stove was located in the west end. Another fact that should, perhaps, be mentioned is that his axe was found inside of the house, while every one who knew him said that he always kept it outside the door.

Various theories have been advanced as to the way the murder took place. It is supposed by some that the murderer or murderers rapped at the door, and that on the old man opening it he was instantly knocked down in his tracks, as the position of his body indicated that he fell backward directly opposite from the open door. Probably the axe was used, and then set in the place where it was found, after which the property was committed to the flames. The fire set, and off went the assassins with their booty. The general opinion among the neighbors is that the murdered man was possessed of some money which he had up to last summer committed to the care of a Mr. Gould, of Wooler, but of which after that gentleman's death he took charge himself, relying on his gun and knife, and not on the honesty of his near neighbors, for its safety.

The Township Council of Murray met to-night, and it is thought that a reward of $200 will be offered by them for the apprehension and conviction of the supposed murderers. Public opinion is a unit on the advisability of such a course on their part. What remains of the body will be interred to-morrow in a plain coffin. None of the blood relatives of the deceased are known so as to be communicated with. He was a Cornishman, and so far as known had no friends in this country.

The Coroner has sent for the County Attorney to be in attendance next Monday.

Importance of a Knowledge of Political Economy.

Of the importance of the questions with which political economy deals it is hardly necessary to speak. The science which investigates the laws of production and distribution of wealth concerns itself with matters which among us occupy more than nine-tenths of human effort, and perhaps nine-tenths of human thoughts. In its province are included all that relates to the wages of labor and the earnings of capital, all regulations of trade; all questions of currency and finance; all taxes and public disbursments—in short, everything that can in any way effect the amount of wealth which a community can secure, or the proportion in which that wealth will be distributed between individuals. Though not the science of government, it is essential to the science of government. Though it takes direct cognizance only of what are termed the selfish instincts, yet in doing so it includes the basis of all higher qualities. The laws which it aims to discover are the laws by virtue of which states wax rich and populous, or grow weak and decay; the laws upon which depend the comforts, happiness, and opportunities of our individual lives. And as the development of the nobler part of human nature is powerfully modified by material conditions, if it does not absolutely depend upon them, the laws sought for by political economy are the laws which at last control the mental and moral as well as the physical states of humanity.

Clearly, this is the science which of all sciences is of the first importance to us. Useful and sublime as are the sciences which open to us the vistas of nature—which read for us the story of the deep past, or search out the laws of our physical or mental organization—what is their practical importance as compared with the science which deals with the conditions that alone make the cultivation of the others possible? Compare on this ground of practical utility the science of political economy with all others, and its preeminence almost suggests the reply of the Greek: "No I cannot play the fiddle; but I can tell you how to make of a little village a great and glorious city!"——MR. HENRY GEORGE, in Popular Science Monthly for March.

BROOM CORN.—Quite a liberal advance is noted in the price of broom corn in Chicago. The visible supply is said to be about 5,000 tons short of what it was a year ago, and this has strengthened the feeling, and the larger holders now demand higher prices.

Parties tendering are expected to have a practical knowledge of works of this class, and are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same; and, further, an accepted bank cheque for a sum equal to $250, for the gates of each lock, must accompany each tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.
The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.
For the due fulfilment of the contract the party or parties whose tender it is proposed to accept will be notified that their tender is accepted, subject to a deposit of five per cent. of the bulk sum of the contract—of which the sum sent in with the tender will be considered a part—to be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General within eight days after the date of the notice.
Ninety per cent. only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the work.
This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, APRIL 15.

The Murray Canal.

Another fact which shows the necessity for the cutting of a canal through the narrow isthmus which separates one of the best harbors of refuge on Lake Ontario from the perfectly sheltered waters of the Bay of Quinte, is afforded in the wrecking of the schooner David Andrews, with a cargo of grain destined for Toronto. This event took place during a heavy gale on Sunday morning the 11th inst., and the result is the loss of a vessel valued at $4,000 and cargo worth about $7,500, or a total loss of $11,500 That no loss of life is to be added to the loss of property, is entirely owing to the efficient exertions of the Oswego life-saving crew, who appear to have discharged their duty ably and well.

That this disaster would not have occurred had the Murray Canal been built, is quite clear. In such case the schooner, which was bound from Belleville to Toronto with 10,500 bushels of rye, would, instead of having to go eastward and coast around the whole of the peninsula of Prince Edward—the most dangerous coast on the whole lake during south or south-west winds—have proceeded to the head of the Bay and through the canal, thus not only shortening her journey by 150 miles, but escaping the very dangers which proved her destruction. Thence she would have been enabled to proceed on her way to Toronto, as winds were westerly and north-westerly, and in all probability the vessel would have been enabled to complete her trip without detention. Or, if she had been forced to run, she would certainly have made either Cobourg or Weller's Bay, or even failing that, Oswego, to the windward of which she would have been a long distance, could without doubt have been reached in safety. But the probabilities are very strong that the schooner would have got to Toronto, as it must be remembered that she was detained at South Bay Point from Thursday morning until Saturday morning. These are facts which the civic deputation who are to interview the Government on the subject will do well to press strongly upon them.

Then the schooners Florence, with ice for St. Catharines; the Forest Queen, with hop poles for Charlotte and ice for St. Catharines; and the Mary Foster with ice and hop poles for Charlotte, would have reached their destination long ago, but have been detained for a week or more at South Bay Point by contrary winds, thus entailing great delay and expense.

And such beyond doubt is the case with many other craft, which would have taken the inside passage and gone westward had the small but very important link in the navigation of Lake Ontario known as the Murray Canal been supplied. Without it, the trade of the country suffers to a very considerable extent, and disasters are incurred which otherwise would not have happened. The cost, which is estimated at about $500,000, is but a bagatelle when compared to the advantages which the canal would confer on the trade of the country, as well by facilitating the passage of vessels westward as by opening up the trade of the whole Bay region in the export of iron ore, and of grain hence to Toronto and other western ports, which would grow to large proportions under the fostering influence of the National Policy, as rye grown in this region is to a very considerable extent taking the place of grain grown in the United States for distilling purposes.

We therefore hope that the deputation will receive assurances of a satisfactory nature from the Government in relation to this most important matter.

—Bowie & Co. are the lowest tenderers for the second hundred miles of the Canada Pacific Railway, Manitoba section. Their bid is in the neighborhood of $440,000.

Hastings Notes.

There is every indication that a lively and prosperous season of business will be experienced in the village of Hastings this year. Building operations have already begun and the probabilities are that many excellent structures will be erected. Plans for a large hotel have been drawn and the work is now under contract; an addition is to be made to the Royal, on account of increasing business, and several private dwellings will also be put up.

There is considerable stir in the village just now on account of the large shipments of timber that are being made over the Grand Junction Railway. Many men are employed in the work of loading the cars and all feel pleased that the road has greatly benefitted the village.

(From the Star.)

An excursion to Belleville from Hastings, per the Grand Junction, is on the tapis.

Some persons are drawing ties all the way from Belmont, to the G. J. Station here.

Mr. John Collins shipped a car load of cattle for Montreal, from this station on Saturday last.

A gang of men are now busy at the excavation for the foundation of Messrs. Coughlan and Fife's brick block.

Mr. Ellis, the engineer of the Grand Junction, with his assistant, left for Peterborough on Friday last, for the purpose of locating the Junction with the Cobourg and Peterboro' railway, if found practicable, or desirable.

The contract for the Grand Junction Railway bridge, here, has been awarded to Mr. J. W. Dinwoodie, his being the lowest tender.

The figures of the different tenders sent, so far as we could learn, were:—

Messrs. Fowlds Bros.,	$17,140.
" Myres, of Toronto	16,453.
" Ranney	16,445.
" Dinwoodie	15,330.

Mr. Dinwoodie, the contractor for the railway bridge, is here with a gang of men and is making preparations to commence building operations at once. A boarding house for the accommodation of the workmen, has been erected on the south side of the river, near where the bridge crosses. Over 60 tons of wrought iron will be used in the construction of the bridge.

Chancery Spring Sittings.

TUESDAY, April 13.

BURLEY vs. BROWN.—Bill for dower; plaintiff married one Sylvester Burley, of Ernesttown, in 1857, he being then the reputed owner of a farm in that Township. She was compelled to leave him within a year, on account of cruelty. In 1875 the husband died, and immediately the widow makes claim for dower, when it is discovered that by a deed bearing date prior to her marriage, but which she alleges was in reality executed after the separation, the property appears to be conveyed to a son. The case occupied a greater part of the afternoon on Tuesday; and on the opening of the Court on Wednesday morning, a compromise was effected, by which the deft. paid the plaintiff $575, in full of all claim for dower and costs. Decree was made by Court to that effect.—Messrs. Delaney & Ostrom Solicitors for plt'ff; J. A. Boyd, Q. C., and Mr. Osler, Counsel; Messrs. Reeve & Morden Solicitors for deft. Hon. L. Wallbridge and Mr. Marsh, Counsel.

WEDNESDAY, April 14th

CRATHERN vs. THOMAS.—Bill filed against Assignees of John Lewis & Co., and John Lewis upon a mortgage given by Lewis to secure composition under former assignment. Defence that mortgage gave plaintiff right to sell without asking the intervention of the Court, and that all parties having found their claims before the Assignees, the Insolvent Court was the proper form for the plaintiff to proceed in to ascertain the amount due, and that that Court could give the plaintiff all the remedies they were entitled to.

The learned Judge held that if the Court of Chancery was not ousted of its jurisdiction, that the Insolvent Court was nothing more (if that) than a court of concurrent jurisdiction, and that the plaintiff had a right to come to this court for redress.

Decree for plaintiff with costs from time of filing amended Bill. Reference to Master at Belleville to take account of the amount due plaintiff and other creditors, and to sell lands in default of payment.

Hon. L. Wallbridge Solicitor for plaintiff; Hon L. Wallbridge and J. A. Boyd, Q. C., Counsel for plaintiff. Mr. Hoyles and Mr C. W. Bell, Counsel for defendant Thomas; Messrs. Bell & Ponton Solicitors.

CLARY vs. RICHMOND.—Bill filed on mortgage for sale of lands. Defence as between defts. that deft. Delaney sold a part of the land to Richmond and covenanted to pay off the mortgage. Decree for plaintiff for sale of lands. Those owned by deft. Delaney to be sold first. Reference to Master at Picton to take accounts and sell land in default of payment. Messrs. Allison and Alcorn Sol. for plaintiff, Mr. Alcorn Counsel. R. S. Roblin Sol. for deft. Richmond, E. Fitzgerald, Q. C., Counsel.

MURPHY vs. HERRINGTON.—Bill for specific performance of agreement for sale of lands. Upon application of plaintiff in consequence of absence of necessary and material witness, case put off till next sittings upon payment of costs of the day. Messrs Allison and Alcorn Solicitors for plaintiff, Mr. Alcorn Counsel. Hon. L. Wallbridge, Q. C. Solicitor and Counsel for defendant.

THE GLOBE.—The leading organ of the Reform party has taken a great step forward by the introduction of a Bullock web press, by which the facilities for the production of copies of its various issues will be greatly increased. The form of the paper has also been changed to that of an octavo, or eight pages, and when pressure on space requires it, adddditional pages will be added. New type has been brought into requisition, the advertisements have been set in smaller type, and in all respects the appearance of the paper has been improved. We congratulate the proprietors on the success which attends their efforts to publish a first class newspaper, which, barring its politics, is almost all that could be desired, the Globe being second only to the Mail in regard to its foreign cable news.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

THE MERRILL CASE.

Dr. Allen's Reply to Dr. Willson.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR:—Dr. Willson is certainly (as he states) in a very uncomfortable position, and by the way he is trying to squirm out of it, is plain evidence, it is not the first time he has been there.

After seeing those statements yesterday, I called upon three or four persons who were there at the time Dr. Willson pronounced her dead, and they all say he did not put his ear to her chest, and did not feel her pulse, as he states, but put his hand on her forehead, pulled open her eyes (which he states were open) and asked if the red spots present then were natural? That was all the examination. He did not even tie a string around her finger, which he informs us is a sure test of life. He does not attempt to explain, by the assistance of "Taylor's Medical Jurisprudence" or by his many friends in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, why the moisture was on the glass, why the pulse beat 37 to the minute, why the temperature was 72 degrees, why the eyes were not glazed, why the skin was elastic, why the discoloration changed on moving the body, why that rigidity, of the muscles, why warm applications will raise the temperature from 63 to 72 degrees, why hot water spilled on the leg caused a blister. All these symptoms can be sworn to by several parties 34 hours after he pronounced her dead.

Also please tell us the difference between Tonic Spasms and Rigor Mortis.

This being the first time I have seen Dr. Curlett's teeth I will let it pass by saying Mrs. Rowe is alive and well, quite able to speak for herself and needs no assistance here, but remember "The dead tell no tales."

Respectfully yours &c.,
T. E. ALLEN, M. D.

City and Vicinity.

CHURCH PARADE.—On Sunday morning next the city companies of the 49th Battalion will attend divine service at the Baptist Church, where a sermon will be preached by the Rev. A. Turnbull B. A.

CALL at C. McDonald's, 276 Front Street, for Bell Cuban cigars at 5c, or the stock of 1879 for 10c. 293d1m

EAST HASTINGS LICENSES.—The number of applications to sell liquor in East Hastings amount to forty-one. Of these, forty are for taverns and the remaining one is for a shop license in the village of Tweed.

THE HORSE TRADE.—During the past few weeks several American horse buyers have visited this city and vicinity and purchased a number of valuable horses. The class bought were chiefly carriage animals and averaged about $130 in price.

NEW ELEVATORS.—The following new elevators are being built this season on the the lines of the Belleville and North Hastings and Grand Junction Railways: One new elevator at Madoc; two at Stirling; one at Campbellford; one at Hoards, and two at Hastings. On account of the large shipments being made by Messrs. Sills Bros. at Campbellford a large storehouse will be erected there.

"OTHELLO."—This Shakesperian production will be presented at the Opera House in this city on Tuesday evening next under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity. As the former presentation of this play was an excellent one, it is to be hoped that the forthcoming entertainment will meet with that encouragement it so worth ily deserves.

SCULLING NOTES.—Mr. W. H. Biggar, of this city, has received from Mr. George Wharin, of Toronto, a lapstreak boat of superior build, in which by giving a wide garboard strake, her bottom is made as smooth as that of a shell. The boat is finely put together, and is a first class indication of what her maker can do.—Mr. E.G. Ponton has had his shell fitted with swivel rowlocks which will enable him to get a better reach backward than he could do with the old style rowlocks.

OBITUARY.—The Kingston Whig of the 14th has the following obituary notice of Mr. Peter O'Reilly, barrister, who was well known in this city, having practised his profession in Belleville for some years: —"We much regret to announce the death of Mr. Peter O'Reilly, barrister. The deceased had 'never been himself' since the demise of his elder brother, the late Mr. James O'Reilly, whose memory will remain green so long as his friends survive him. Mr. P. O'Reilly had been sinking for some time, and the result was not unexpected. The deceased was well read, gifted in some respects, and well adapted for legal office work. His sorrowing wife will have the consolation of many friends."

SKIPPING.—The Montreal Witness addresses the following warning to parents concerning indulgence in skipping by children:—"Occasionally an account appears in the newspapers of the untimely death of a child from injuries caused by excessive indulgence in the amusement of skipping. A case was given in our own despatches the other day of a girl having so been brought to her end, and it was at the same time said that a sister of the victim died a few years ago from the same cause. We have recently read the testimony of a hospital surgeon to the effect that permanent injury to children was a very common result of the pastime. Especially in the cases of delicate or very young children is the amusement most pernicious, and should be interdicted by parental authority. At the same time excessive indulgence on the part of children of stronger constitutions and less tender years should be guarded against."

CALL at C. McDonald's, 276 Front Street, for Bell Cuban cigars at 5c, or the stock of 1879 for 10c.

PERSONAL.—Mr. Geo. A. Simpson is in the city on the way to Edmonton, where he will engage in the Indian reserve survey.

CLOSE SEASON.—To day is the last day allowed for catching Pickerel until May 15th. As Fishery Inspector Wilkins is determined to enforce the fishery law, those interested would do well to take warning.

THE TIMBER TRADE.—Ten cars laden with timber came in yesterday afternoon over the Grand Junction Railway. The same number of cars similarly laden will be brought in each day this week. When all has arrived it will be rafted and forwarded to Quebec.

PENSION MONEY.—The remaining veterans of this section who have figured in the service of Great Britain received their pension allowances this morning in the armory of No. 1 Company of the 49th Battalion, at the hands of Major Milligan. The number of pensioners is 32 and the amount paid them is nearly $1,000

THE LUMBER BUSINESS.—During the past winter, lumbering operations in the vicinity of Loon Lake and its tributaries, have been very active. Gilmour & Co. have taken out 130,000 logs; Alex. Suther'and 7,000; Wm. Sutherland 15,000; and Flint & Holton 7,000. This work gave employment to nearly 400 men, besides a large number of teams. The drive was begun yesterday on Partridge Creek.

FOR THE NORTH.—Mr. H. Corby, jr., today shipped one car of corn to Madoc and one to Crookston. The same gentlemen will receive three cars of wheat from Chicago in the course of a few days. Mr. C. shipped three cars of baled straw to New York yesterday and will send seven more during the remainder of the week.

STOP IT.—Something ought to be done to prevent the present stripping of the island of the material which is upon it and surrounds it. During the winter a large portion of the wharving of the island was taken away and recently the covering boards of the wharves have been appropriated by some parties, to the detriment of the city's property and the injury of the island. It is to be hoped that a stop will be put to this work and the city and its harbor will be benefitted thereby.

N. H. T. A.—The semi-annual meeting of the North Hastings Teachers' Association will be held at the Model School in Madoc on Thursday and Friday, the 14th and 15th of May when a large attendance of teachers is expected—especially so since important matters appertaining to their interests are to be discussed. A choice programme, in which Inspector Burrows of Napanee, Prof Wright, Dr. Dafoe, Mr. Mackintosh, Mr. Johnson of Cobourg and Mr. Johnston will take part will materially add to the success of the meeting and prove of great interest to all who may attend.

Death on the Rail.

A GRAND TRUNK BRAKESMAN KILLED.

At 4:05 this morning, Patrick Arkinson, a brakesman in the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway, was the victim of an accident which resulted in his death at 5.40.

Train No. 31 (conductor Jallow) left Toronto at 5:30 last evening for the east, and the deceased was one of the brakesmen on it. The train consisted of 18 cars and 1 van, and Arkinson was at work on the front portion of the train. As the train neared the city, the whistle of the engine ordered the brakes to be put on. Deceased was then on the engine, and at once proceeded to his duty. The first six cars of the train were higher than the ordinary freight cars and were what are called refrigerator cars. (The latter are about two feet higher than the former.) Arkinson put on the first brake and was in the act of putting on the second when his head came in contact with the bridge on North Front Street and he was knocked senseless, but did not fall off the train. When west of the yard, the order to let off the brakes was given, and as a slight up grade was reached and the order not properly responded to, the fireman of the engine (230), George Wise got on the cars and let the brakes off. He then discovered the body of the unfortunate Arkinson lying on the top of a car; he was still alive, but was apparently senseless, and remained in that state until death claimed him as its own. He was taken from where he was found on the stopping of the train, and brought into the station, and at the time mentioned breathed his last. Dr. Willson was sent for, but medical aid was of no avail. From the deceased's appearance it is inferred that he was struck on the right side of the head and that the blow must have been exceedingly severe. Blood issued from from his mouth and nostrils, and his eyes were much swollen and dis. colored prior to his death. He was engaged as a Toronto brakeman, was about 20 years of age and came from Brighton, where his relatives now reside. Mr. D. Gunn, station agent, telegraphed to his friends to come here and a brother of the deceased came down at eleven o'clock this morning.

An inquest was opened at Docter's Hotel this afternoon at 2 o'clock before Coroner Dr. Willson.

Ghosts.

Not Col. Ingersoll's "aristocracy of the air" but real human ghosts. Ghosts that were once healthy men and women, but are now simply the "ghosts of what they once were." As we meet them and inquire the cause of all this change, they repeat the old, old story, a cold, neglected cough, catarrh, overwork, or dyspepsia, liver complaint, and constipation with unsuccessful physicians and remedies. In offering his Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets for the cure of the above affections, Dr Pierce does not recommend them as a "sure cure" in all stages. For if the lungs be half wasted away, or there be a cancerous complication, no physician or medicine can cure. The Discovery is, however, an unequaled pectoral and blood purifier. It speedily cures the most aggravated cough, or cold, and in its early or middle stages, consumption. By correcting all irregularities of the stomach and liver, it readily cures blotches, pimples, scrofulous ulcers, "bunches" or tumors. Hundreds testify that it has restored their health after eminent physicians had failed. For constipation, use the Pellets. As a local remedy for catarrh use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

CARPETS.

WE are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers.

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealer telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, five, ten, and even twenty-five cents per yard is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

(Winnipeg Times, April 8.)

The contract for 100,000 ties for the 100 miles west, awarded to Messrs. Whitehead & Sharpe, has been completed, and the ties are all delivered.

The strike on "15" is still in progress, all work being completely stopped. The men are quite orderly, but are determined to hold the fort until they are paid, and until it is definitely settled for whom they are working.

Men will commence to-day to put up the new tank at the St. Boniface station. The laying of 1,400 feet of pipes from the Seine has been completed and the last of the piles were driven yesterday.

Mr. H. C. Kennedy, of the Morrisburg Courier is said to be in charge of the fourth Taylor party, now en route to Winnipeg from Ottawa.

250 men who left Montreal on Friday night to work for Manning, McDonald & Co., on Section 11, arrived at St. Boniface last night about midnight. Mr. J. J. McDonald, through the courtesy of Mr. Lynskey, had a special train in waiting, and took the entire party through to their destination.

The, "first wild duck of the season" has graced the table of a Selkirk hotel. It strikes us that the Kirkites have but little respect for the game laws. Being outside the pale of civilization is hardly an excuse.

A Biography.

The life of Mafuka, who lived some time in Dresden, is among the most instructive of speciographies, as illustrating the approach of the anthropoid to the human mind. He knew how to unlock her door with the key, she stole and hid it for future use; she took the carpenter's brad-awl and bored holes with it through her own table; she learned stirring drink from a jug into her cup she would carefully stop short of overfilling it. Her death had an almost human pathos, she threw her arms round the neck of the director, Herr Schept, kissed him, and then putting her hand in his, lay down and died.—Nature.

A Cross Baby.

Nothing is so conducive to a man's remaining a bachelor as stopping for one night at the house of a married friend and being kept awake for five or six hours by the crying of a cross baby. All cross and crying babies need only Hop Bitters to make them well and smiling. Young man, remember this.—Ed.

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. J. H. Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of substitutes of similar names, lately introduced. Boschees German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 18?8, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents Sample bottle. 10 cents.

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man to the tune of $1,000 for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

The Hunter!

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and resort to subtlety to secure his prey. But his life is one of great attraction. He is usually very methodical, putting up with the coarseness of the camp. Sometimes his camp is enlivened by the presence of an enthusiastic, when expenses are ignored and every possible adjunct to comfort is provided. Old "Sharp Eye," the leader, knows the favorite spots where game may be expected, and he plants himself thereabouts. Then comes the rude chase, the excitement attending the pursuit, the fatal shots ringing through the air, the gathering of the game, and the return to the camp, animate with feasting and the stories of the hunters. It is splendid to have a good hunt. It is a good thing, also, to hunt for diseases in the human system, to drive them away. And for this commend me to DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS. They are the most experienced hunters after diseases known.

67th & Woodland Av.,
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

MR. M. GILES, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, 77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition—meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and can be taken by the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE, 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in consumption and wasting diseases, palatable and efficacious.

C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Yours respectfully,

A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I can honestly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the throat and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to death's door, and was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and all the symptoms of the usual trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good, I had not hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your Emulsion and before it was all taken I was better. I continued the use of a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your Emulsion, and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks me what I am doing, and I answer, Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is the wonder and astonishing surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

Messrs. Scott & Bowne: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 21, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your Emulsion and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the Emulsion in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two, or three have already tried it and I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am grateful yours,

R. W. HAMILTON, M. D.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

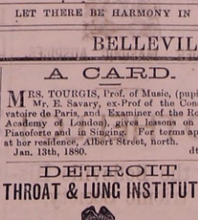
DETROIT THROAT & LUNG INSTITUTE.



253 WOODWARD AVENUE,
DETROIT, MICH.

M. Hilton Williams, M. D.

(Graduate of Victoria College at Toronto, and Member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.)

PROPRIETOR.

(PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED SINCE 1870.)

ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or properly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical men examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them unsound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

Now, how should a disease so produced and so located be treated? We should withdraw the patient as fully as possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If that organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we must treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the real point or difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and it is the point which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the physician to be able to point to the result of his practice in proof of the wisdom of his prescriptions. Even at the risk of being accused of egotism, I will venture to say that the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation speaks for itself by the substantial good it has accomplished and is accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. I can point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair. I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians had declared consumption in the case "hopeless." And the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and I the lungs; they give the patient medicine to swallow and I give them medicine to inhale. But this difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

Every disease of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence, a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation. We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they act imperfectly and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the surface of the body chilly and the nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by proper diet clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

If impossible to visit the office personally, write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, together with a copy of my "Medical Treatise on Diseases of the Breathing Organs." Address.

Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION

WEDNESDAY, April 14.

THE SENATE.

After a little preliminary business had been disposed of, a somewhat exciting scene took place over a motion by Senator Alexander for a Committee to enquire into the payment of members' indemnity since 1876.

Sir Alexander Campbell, who had given notice of an amendment for the preparation of a report showing all sums paid to members since Confederation, persisted in moving it after Senator Alexander withdrew his motion, and in doing so expressed the opinion that it was legal for members to accept payment for days during the session on which there was no sitting of the House.

Senators Read and Flint disapproved of payments to members except for actual attendance.

Senator Alexander then attacked Sir Alexander Campbell's interpretation of the law, and in doing so made use of some rather strong language, for which he was called to order by Senator Miller.

Senator Dickey endorsed Sir Alexander Campbell's view, and Senator Kaulbach took a different one, after which the motion was carried.

After reading a second time the Bill to provide for winding up the Stadacona Insurance Company, the House adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Sir Richard Cartwright asked the following questions :—1st, whether it is the intention of the Government to levy a differential duty on teas imported from the place of growth when ordered under letters of credit, part by overland, part by Suez canal, and the balance, with dust of the whole, via United States by sailing vessels round the Cape of Good Hope; 2nd, in other words, whether at the same time, and imported by the one firm of merchants as above, and their arriving at different dates, will the Government consider such division as breaking bulk; 3rd, will the whole purchase be held by the Customs until completed by the arrival of the last cargo; 4th, whether in the event of part of the said teas being unsalable in Canada, will importers be allowed to dispose of such teas at New York without prejudice to rates of duty levied on the bulk sample.

Mr. Bowell replied—1st, it is not the intention of the Government to levy any such duty. The question of route is not considered other than that the teas shall be a direct importation from the countries of growth. 2nd, the Government does not recognize the fact of the same importation when bulk has been broken in a foreign port. 3rd, the whole shipment of the teas, or dust referred to in the original invoice, be entered for duty. If part of such consignments only had arrived, the balance might be entered to arrive, or the tea which had arrived might remain on suffrance in warehouse until the whole consignment shall have been received. 3rd. The third question is covered by the answer to the second question. 4th. After teas, whether of a direct or indirect importation into Canada, have had the duties required by law paid thereon, the owner thereof is at liberty to dispose of the same in whatever market he pleases, without interference on the part of the Government. The owner may, however, be entered for warehouse, and afterwards entered ex-warehouse for duty or export at the option of the owner.

Mr. Coursol moved for correspondence in relation to the appointment of a successor to the late Mr. Bryson, valuator of hardware at the port of Montreal. He stated that he had recommended the appointment of the Deputy of Mr. Bryson to the vacant office, but two days afterwards he was surprised to find that the Deputy had been set aside, and another gentleman appointed.

Mr. Bowell said it had been his desire to promote officials to fill vacancies. There had not been a vacancy in the Customs of Montreal during his occupancy of the office of Minister of Customs in which he had not promoted some one in the Department to fill the vacancy. The assistant appraiser had held office during eleven years, and if he were not qualified during that period he would never be able to perform the duties as chief appraiser. Mr. Bryson applied for superannuation, and when he did so he (Mr. Bowell) asked that officer whether this assistant was qualified for the position of chief appraiser. Mr. Bryson said his assistant was not qualified for such a position, and the Collector of Customs, who was present, called attention to the fact that a year before there had been applications to the Department to appoint another assistant better qualified than Mr. Fauteux.

Mr. Coursol hoped Mr. Fauteaux did not lose the position because he was a French Canadian. Mr. Fauteaux was recommended by the whole trade of Montreal as competent, and he had told Mr. Simpson that he had lost the appointment because he was a Lower Canadian.

Mr. Bowell said that nationality never entered into the question of the appointment. Several French Canadians held office in the Custom Houses in Montreal, and instead of his being open to the charge of not appointing French-Canadians, he had been accused of favoring them elsewhere above English speaking persons. As to the recommendation of the trade, he could say that the trade of Montreal had recommended an entirely different man, who had been put into the position temporarily, but who, if he performed his duties satisfactorily, would receive a permanent appointment.

It being six o'clock, the Speaker left the chair.

After recess some private Bills were advanced a stage, and the House then took into consideration the amendments made in Committee of the whole to the Marriage with Deceased Wife's Sister Bill. Mr. Girouard, in moving concurrence in these amendments, replied to objections against the measure, and was followed by Mr. Jones (Leeds), who moved the six months' hoist. He was followed by Messrs. Gault and Cameron (Victoria) for the Bill, and Messrs. Charlton, Plumb, Weldon, Thompson (Haldimand) and Tilley in favor of delay. Eventually the six months' hoist was voted down by 109 to 34.

The amendments were concurred in.

Mr. Girouard moved the third reading of the Bill.

Mr. Charlton moved in amendment that the bill be not now read a third time, but that it be referred back to Committee of the Whole, with instructions to strike out that portion permitting marriage with a deceased brother's widow.

The amendment was negatived—Ayes, 40; nays, 102.

YEAS—Messrs. Blake, Boultbee, Bourbeau, Brooks, Cartwright, Charlton, Cockburn (Muskoka), Coughlin, Desaulniers, Farrow, Fleming, Gibbs, Gunn, Hoade, Huntington, Jones, Kirkpatrick, Longevin, McCuaig, McKay, McLeod, Montplaisir, O'Connor, Ogden, Olivier, Patterson (Essex), Plumb, Pope (Compton), Rouleau, Schultz, Smith (Selkirk), Stephenson, Thompson (Haldimand), Tilley, Vanasse, Weldon, White (Renfrew), Williams, Yeo—40.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Allison, Augers, Anglin, Arkell, Baby, Beaubien, Bechard, Benoit, Bergeron, Bill, Bolduc, Bourassa, Bowell, Brown, Bunster, Burnham, Burpee (Sunbury), Cameron (Huron), Cameron (Victoria), Carling, Carow, Casey, Cimon, Colby, Costigan, Coupal, Coursol, Currier, Daoust, Desjardins, Doull, Dugas, Dumont, Elliott, Fiset, Fitzsimmons, Fortin, Fulton, Gigault, Girouard (Jacques Cartier), Grandbois, Hackett, Haggart, Hagar, Hesson, Hilliard, Hooper, Hurteau, Ives, Jackson, Killam, King, Kranz, Landry, Lane, Larue, Longley, McDonald (Pictou), McDonell (Lunark), McDougall, McMillan, McCallum, McDougall, McGreevy, McInnes, McLellan, McIlroy, Malouin, Massue, Mercier, Methot, Rykert, Scriver, Snaw, Skinner, Strange, Tellier, Thompson (Cariboo), Vallee, Wallace (Norfolk), White (Cardwell), White (Hastings), Wright—102.

The bill was read a third time and passed on a division.

Mr. McCarthy's bill to amend the Supreme and Exchequer Court Act passed through Committee, and was read a third time and passed.

The House adjourned at 10:45 p.m.

Success with Small Fruits.

(The Hawkeye.)

Formerly the blackberry was regarded as merely a bramble in this country. It is still generally so regarded. When a man gets to thinking it is not a bramble, all he had to do is to go and walk around in a healthy patch, with nothing on him but a cotton shirt and a pair of tow trousers, and he will come out restored to the faith of his fathers. The greatest enemy the blackberry has, is the boys. Fire boys from town, can eat more green blackberries in a day, than would ripen in a week. For many years the great desideratum has been a hardy berry that could resist the premature onslaught of boys from town. It is a great desideratum still. The Schneider, a variety that was invented by an Iowa horticulturist, is the nearest approach to it. It is bred from a perfectly dwarf persimmon, pegated with a hybrid of wormwood bush and wild crab apple. It is not a perfect defence, but there are very few boys who care to eat more than a quart of them. Nobody else, however, can go past the field where the Schneider is growing, without eating until the attack of cholera, and this tends to weaken the partial success this hardy berry has received. Then there is a bug—I do not know the name of it—that crawls over the berries now and then. When you see one you have not been gratified by a visit from this bug, you lie down in the briars and pray heaven to take you home in just about three seconds. And if you live, you can wake up in the night, along in the middle of next winter, and shudder and try to collect damages, for destruction of his two fields of wheat by a raid of blackberry vines.

It is not known just at what season of the year blackberries ripen. The blackberry has never been known to ripen. If the hucksters and boys should die in June, it is probable that the berries would ripen some time in July or August. But they have never had a chance to see what they could do at ripening.

The blackberry is so named, because it is blue, in order to distinguish it from the blueberry, which is black.

A SAD SIGHT.

A FATHER AND MOTHER FOLLOW FIVE CHILDREN TO THE GRAVE IN ONE DAY.

(Cleveland Leader, April 5th.)

At Riverside Cemetry yesterday afternoon was witnessed a scene the like of which, happily, few are called to look upon during a lifetime. Five in one set of children, plucked in the springtime of their youth, were followed to their last earthly resting place by the broken hearted father, mother and two brothers. The little ones were the children of Chas. A. and Mary E. Pope, of No. 831 Scranton Avenue and have all been swept away by that dread scourge—diphtheria. Minnie, a bright child of 3 years and 8 months was the first to succumb to the destroyer, breathing her last on the month of February was ushered in. She was carried to a vault in the cemetery to await burial, but little was it thought that in a short time 4 others would sleep beside her. The mother, grief-stricken at the loss of one she loved fell an easy prey to the disease, and was forced to her bed the day after the little one's funeral. Two days later little Willie, a lad of nearly six summers, died, and within five days 13 year old Robbie followed in his foot-steps. They were cared for by kind friends and neighbors, and one by one were laid in the cold, dark vault. The mother was so low that the sad intelligence of the death of the latter three was kept away from her for many days. On March the 3rd, the last of the sufferers bade farewell to earth, and passed quietly to that unknown home. The mother and two remaining children, in time, recovered, and are now considered out of danger. The funeral services were held yesterday, the Rev. F. Leuschner, of the First German Church, officiating. The five little coffins were brought from the vault and placed side by side near the large grave dug to receive them.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, APRIL 18.

Railways in Canada.

The annual report of Mr. Schreiber, Chief Engineer of Government Railways, on the railways of the Dominion for the year ended the 30th of June, 1879, which was recently printed by order of Parliament, is a highly interesting document. From it we learn that the total railway mileage of the Dominion on June 30th, 1879, was as follows: Actually in operation 6,484; partially finished 593; under construction 945; total 8,022 miles, or an increase over 1878 of 341 miles in operation and a decrease of 225 miles under construction, being a net increase of 116 miles. Of the 5 ft. 6 in. (broad) gauge there are 424 miles; of the 4 ft. 8½ in. (standard) gauge 5,905 miles, and of the 3 ft. 6 in. (narrow) gauge 742 miles. The increase of broad miles, and of narrow gauge 1 mile. The total completed mileage was 7,077 miles, and the nominal capital of all the railways was $273,826,181.40. The increase of capital during the year was $1,468,951.93, and the capital per mile was therefore $45,135.

Aid has been granted to railway enterprises as follows: Dominion Government $66,166,539.70; Ontario Government $2,549,639.02; Quebec Government $8,499; 612 99; New Brunswick Government $2,725,000; Nova Scotia Government $818,750; Municipalities $7,450,978 63; other sources $49,436 77; total $88,259,957.01.

The number of miles laid with iron raile during the year declined by 81, and the number of miles laid with steel rails increased by 230. The number of passengers carried was 6,523,816, against 6,443,924, an increase of 79,892, whilst the number of tons of freight handled was 8,328,810, against 7,883,472, an increase of 445,338 tons.

The fares per mile were as follows: 1st class 2c. to 5c.; 2nd class 1c. to 3c.; immigrants 4 5c. to 3c.

The gross earnings were $19,925,066.27, or $668,284.59 less than during the preceding year. The earnings per mile were $3,073, or $406 less than in 1877-8.

The operating expenses amounted to $16,188,282 46, and the cost of doing the work was $237 less per mile, although, as there was a net decrease of $683.191.66 the percentage of working expenses was 81.25 in 1878-9 against 78 46 in 1877-8. The net earnings for the year would therefore be equal to the payment of a dividend of 1.67 per cent upon the share and bonded liability, allowing nothing for Government or municipal aid.

The returns as to casualties are very satisfactory, as they show, as compared, a decline of 295 in the number of persons injured. The proportion of passengers killed (numbering 9) was as 1 to 724,869 of those carried, against 1 to 585,611 in the previous year. The proportion injured (20) was 1 to 326,190, against 1 to 257,355.

From the summary statement of the characteristics of roads, it is learned that the Belleville and North Hastings has not the sharpest curve, the main one, that at Moira Lake, having a radius of 716 ft., whilst Waterloo and Magog has one of 208 feet radius, and other roads have curves the radii of which are 383, 462, 500, 537, 573, 600, 645, 694, and 699 feet respectively. The heaviest grade is 110 feet per mile. On the Grand Junction the radius of the sharpest curve is 1092 feet and the heaviest gradient 88 feet per mile.

GREAT INCREASE IN GRAND TRUNK RECEIPTS.—The Grand Trunk receipts for the week ending April 10th, were $206,797, as against $152,261 the corresponding period last year, an increase of $54,536. Deducting the Riviere du Loup receipts from last year the increase amounts to the good round sum of $58,736.

The "Hum."

A new oatmeal mill is about to be erected by Mr. Jas. Slater, maister, at London, Ont.

The above paragraph is given in the columns of our esteemed contemporary the Belleville INTELLIGENCER under the heading of "The Hum," as showing the alleged revival of trade under the N. P. Will our contemporary take note also of the fact that not many months since a large oatmeal mill was burnt in London, and that when Mr. Slater's mill is built there will be exactly the same number of oatmeal mills in London that there was before the N. P. was dreamed of?

So says the London Advertiser, and perhaps its statements may be correct. But, if the N. P. had destroyed the oat meal milling business—as loudly asserted by the Advertiser and other free trade organs—or even injuriously affected that branch of business, the burnt-down mill would have remained in ruins. The very fact of Mr. Slater rebuilding shows that he is certain of a sure return for his investment. So our contemporary would have been wiser to allow the statement to pass without comment.

Exports to the United States.

Col. Prince, United States Consul for the Belleville District, furnishes the following returns of exports to the United States from this district during the past quarter:

Value of declared Exports from Belleville Consular District to the United States for the 3 months ending 31st. March, 1880.....$63,075.46
Do. same period 1878.....42,279.27
Increase.....$20,796.19

Principal items;

Barley	$78,212 70
Iron Ore	15,049 00
Live Stock	4,035 00
Hides and Skins	2,200 00
Peas	1,000 00
Rye	2,500 00

ANOTHER N. P. ITEM.—The number of lumber waggons built in Ontario and forwarded to Manitoba this season has been as follows: From Messrs. Spright, Markham, 500; Campbell, London, 200; Plummer, London, 250; Moon, Galt, 200; Adams, Paris, 150; from Tilsonburg, 150; from other manufacturers 250, making a total of 1,700. But for the N. P., all the waggons used in Manitoba would have been supplied from the United States. We venture to say that, by thus getting their supplies from Ontario, the farmers of Manitoba get a better article than they would otherwise have been furnished with, and at a cheaper rate.

A SAD STORY.—As sad a story as was ever feigned in verse comes from Cannes of the death there of an English officer, Colonel Pickard, of congestion of the lungs, on the day appointed for his wedding to Miss McNeile, whose father, Sir John McNeile, had died only three months before. The very wreaths which were to have been used at the wedding became funeral garlands to be thrown on the coffin, and the bridal veil and dress were lying ready to be put on by the now widowed bride. Death was caused by the rupture of a blood-vessel on the lungs, and the poor young bride sat up three hopeless days and nights watching the life slowly sinking away.

The Lumber Trade.

Improvements to Gilmour's Mills at Trenton.

It would seem that lumber is again king, as in the good times of a few years ago, and that the manufacturers of that important article of commerce are determined to make the most of their opportunity, is evidenced by improvements to many of the mills and the commencement of the season's work at the earliest possible date—fortunately for all concerned an unusually early one this season.

Messrs. Gilmour & Co., of Trenton, who have for many years been amongst the most extensive lumber manufacturers in this part of the country, made during the winter and early spring, extensive improvements in their large steam mill at that place, concerning which the Courier gives the following particulars:—"The Gilmour mill in this town has been during the winter undergoing very extensive repairs. Some $12,000 have been expended in alterations and improvements, under the superintendence of Robert Hall, Esq., Bachelor of Applied Sciences and Graduate of the McGill University, who is foreman of the mill and head millwright. The old ratchet has been superseded on all the gangs by friction feed, by means of which the speed can be regulated.

"A Keystone Blower now removes the sawdust from the saws, giving a constant blast instead of the old compressed air puffs. An old single stock gang has been taken out and a new double stock gang put in its place. It and two other stock gangs are fitted with Kendall and Hall's improved liner and slab guards. The saws in these gangs are much thinner and the lateral vibration is only one-two-hundredth of an inch, making thereby a great saving in lumber. The arrangements for handling the lumber after leaving the gang saws are most elaborate and calculated to be labor saving. Geared rollers under the control of the workmen carry the lumber and slabs in whatever direction is desired. A new patent lath machine is also added, 7 men assort, cull and load the lumber without moving a yard from their position all day. About half a mile of new elevated railway track has been built and henceforth all except sorts will be piled on the shipping wharfs, thereby saving second handling and hauling. The whole appearance of the mill has been changed, steam doing what human muscle heretofore accomplished. We do not think the number of hands will be reduced, but the quantity of lumber handled will be much increased. The number employed will be about 250, of whom 21 are mechanics; L. Paquett is second millwright, C. O'Hara and R. Edgar, engineers; D. Viseau, H. Jacobs and J. Fox, are cullers; W. Empy, filer; B. Timmons, head blacksmith; E. Wessels, planer; L. Labelle, yard salesman; and J. Nicholson, shipper.

"There are 260,000 sawlogs coming down the Trent river this season for the Gilmour Co."

A Telephonic Enterprise.

We understand that Mr. C. J. Pusey, of Deseronto, is arranging to commence erection of a telephone wire connecting his main office in Madoc with his various iron mines in Madoc and with his mines in Snowdon, which lie about 80 miles north of Port Hope, on the line of the Victoria Railway. It is proposed to run the line northward by the Hastings Road to a point where it joins with the Monck Road in the Township of Dungannon, thence westward to the Snowdon mining district. If sufficient encouragement is given by the public and municipalities along the line, it is his intention to have it operated for the benefit of the public as well. In that case, offices will be opened at El Dorado, Bannockburn, Millbridge, Thanet, L'Amable, Bancroft, on the Hastings Road and at Cheddar, Pine Lake and Devil's Creek on the Monck Road. A survey of the route has already been made, and considerable interest is being manifested not only by business men along the route, to whom such a line would be a vast benefit, but by several municipalities through which the line would pass, and offers have been made to furnish poles and afford other assistance towards its construction. It is not Mr. Pusey's intention to make a business speculation of this enterprise, but principally for his own convenience, and should the aid afforded by the public be such as to warrant the line being built, such charges would only be made for the use of the wire as would help pay the bare cost of operating it. To the lumbermen of the north country and the business men all along the Hastings Road, such a line would be a great boon, and we are not surprised to hear that material aid is being offered by the public and municipalities towards its construction. The projection of the enterprise is highly creditable to Mr. Pusey, and considering the great advantage it would be to the people of North Hastings, we have no doubt they will come forward and aid in its development. Should the negotations be successfully concluded, work would be commenced forthwith, and from the business push and energy which characterize all Mr. Pusey's enterprises, we have no doubt a very few weeks would see the line in successful operation.

CONSISTENT.—The Ottawa organ of the Opposition freely and properly denounces the "ring" in the United States who have secured control of the sugar trade of that country. With characteristic consistency it also condemns the Canadian Government, which has so arranged the tariff as to free the Canadian market from the thraldom of the Yankee monopolists, whose adulterated productions are in reality much dearer than the pure sugars supplied by Canadian refiners.

TYPHOID FEVER CONVEYED BY MILK.—The Montreal Star says:—"It was mentioned in the Health Committee meeting yesterday afternoon that a milk man living in a western suburb had typhoid fever in his family, and that, on investigation, it had been found that in nine out of the twenty families to whom he supplied milk, typhoid fever was prevalent."

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

ST. LOUIS, April 16.—Nuell & Gottal's planing mill and Fox's sash factory were burned. Loss, $50,000.

TUCSON, Arizona, April 15.—Major McLean has overtaken Victoria's band of Apaches and is driving them south.

URBANA, Ohio, April 16.—Matthew Weaver, cashier in the Citizens' National Bank, disappeared 2 years ago, a defaulter for $85,000 lost in grain speculations. He secured a position in Montreal, and last week sent for his family. They started on Sunday, but while they were on their way, Weaver shot himself dead at an hotel in Montreal.

GRENVILLE, N. C., April 16.—5 negroes for firing a number of dwellings, were found guilty of arson yesterday, and sentenced to be hanged on June 18th.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The Herald's Albany says if the Women's Suffrage Bill reaches the Assembly it will be passed and no doubt the Governor will sign it.

The World's Washington special says the action of the Ways and Means Committee yesterday virtually referring the whole question of tariff reform to the sub-committee of five, three of whom favor the amending of the present tariff laws, is regarded as a victory for the Reformers. Wood said the sub-committee would undoubtedly report the Bill in favor of reducing the tariff. Other members are not so sanguine.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The Columbia crew have accepted the Cornell's challenge to a four oared race, and desired it to be thrown open to all colleges. The wesleyan intimated prompt acceptance also, and Bowdoin asks leave to compete.

Since Tuesday extensive forest fires have been raging in Suffolk Co., L. I.

A safe in Rosenberg's jewelry store, Canal Street, was robbed on Wednesday night of valuables worth $5,000.

Marine Notes.

The schooner Olive Branch arrived here this morning.

The scow Glasgow came in this morning with wood from Redner ville for the tug Bonar.

The steamer Armenia did not put in an appearance to-day, as she met with an accident last evening at Mill Point which resulted in her wheel becoming disabled.

The Picton arrived this morning from Oswego and will load with lumber at Flint & Holton's.

The schr. O. S. Storrs is loading lumber at Trenton.

A DISUNITED PARTY.—A telegram from Ottawa on the 15th says: "The Opposition is still hopelessly divided and to all appearances Mr. MacKenzie shows no signs of giving way to Mr. Blake. Sulky discontent pervades the ranks, and the want of a controlling intellect was never so evident in any party in Canada before."

IRISH RELIEF.—A cable despatch to the Mail says:—"The Duchess of Marlborough's Relief Committee has been dissolved in consequence of the political changes. The balance of the fund has been handed to four trustees, the Duke of Leinster, the Earl of Leith, Mr. Cogan and Mr. Deak. At the closing meeting to-day, cordial thanks of the Committee were voted to the Duchess of Marlborough."

PARLIAMENTARY.—The debate on the Pacific Railway was commenced in the House of Commons yesterday. Sir Charles Tupper, in a lengthy and brilliant speech, expounded the policy of the Government, and was followed by Mr. Blake. The latter gentleman spoke for three hours, and had not concluded when the House adjourned.

—A coroner's inquest was yesterday commenced at Lucan to ascertain if possible the cause of the fire at Michael O'Connor's house on Tuesday night. Nothing important transpired was elicited [illegible] that Johnny Kelly [illegible] received letters threatening to treat him like the Donnellys. The enquiry will continue to-day.

—Intense anxiety prevails in London for the safety of the training ship Atalanta. A boat has been seen bottom upwards in the course she was likely to take, and several men-of-war will be sent out this week in search of her.

THE BAY TRADE.—The steamer City of Belleville will begin her regular trips between the Limestone City and Picton on Tuesday next. She has been recently put in first class shape and is expected to fill the line in a perfectly acceptable manner.

THE GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.—The Peterborough Review says :—"The Grand Junction Railway Company have opened an office on Simcoe Street, where the business growing out of the extension of the road to Peterborough will be transacted."

TO CORRESPONDENTS.—No anonymous etters in regard to the Merrill case will be published in the INTELLIGENCER. This applies to the communication of "An Eye Witness" as well as to all others. Those who choose to give their statements over their own signatures will be accorded space for that purpose.

PERSONAL.—Mr. George A. Simpson, Deputy Provincial Land Surveyor, left here at noon to-day for Edmonton, North West Territory. He will stop over at Toronto for a day on professional business and will probably remain at London for about a week after which he will proceed to his destination.

HEAVY TRAINS.—The freight traffic on the Grand Trunk is now so brisk that all the engines in this department are actively at work. Engine No. 438 brought in 34 cars from the east—about one third were laden—whilst 439 drew 30 heavily laden cars from the west here to-day. This shows that business on the Grand Trunk line is now brisk and it is to be hoped it will continue.

LACROSSE.—The Belleville Lacrosse club, although weakened by the departure from Belleville of some and the retirement of others of their best players, will yet be able to present a strong team to represent them in the matches of the season now opening. They will play on the cricket ground on the bay shore, and practice will be begun shortly. No arrangements for matches have as yet been made.

SIDEWALKS.—The board walk on Pinnacle Street near the butchers' market should be replaced by a new one, as it is in a very bad condition. It is to be hoped that the sidewalks will be put in a good condition this year, for it is needed very much. Those leading to the station and to the wharves are not as good as they should be, while the sidewalks on nearly every thoroughfare need repairs.

THE "UTICA."—It will be seen by the advertisement in another column, that this favorite steamer is once more on her old route between Trenton, Belleville, Picton, and Bay ports intermediate. The steamer, which has been repaired and painted, is still commanded by her popular owner, Capt. Porte, and runs with accustomed regularity. About the middle of May the handsome and swift new steamer Varona will supersede the Utica, due notice concerning which will be given.

CURE FOR SLEEPLESSNESS.—The following is recommended as a sure cure for sleeplessness : Wet half a towel, apply it to the back of the neck, pressing it upward toward the base of the brain, and fasten the dry half of the towel over so as to prevent the too rapid exhalation. The effect is prompt and charming, cooling the brain and inducing calmer, sweeter sleep than any narcotic. Warm water may be used, though most persons prefer cold. To those who suffer from over-excitement of the brain, whether the result of brain work or pressing anxiety, this simple remedy has proved an especial boon.

BAXTER V. BELLEVILLE GAS CO.—In the Court of Chancery, Toronto, on the 14th, W. Mulock for plaintiff ; Wells for defendant. This was a suit to restrain a nuisance by the defendant Co. in carrying on their works. A decree was made referring it to the Master at Belleville to enquire as to the nature and extent of the damage done by the defendant Co. to the plaintiff. The Master reported that the plaintiff had sustained damage to the extent of $350, but that the defendant Co. had since put their works in such order as would prevent the recurrence of the damage. The cause now came on for hearing on further directions. Counsel for plaintiff claimed that the plaintiff was now entitled to a perpetual injunction restraining the defendants from further committing the nuisance complained of. Counsel for defendants said the damages found by the Master had been paid, and read a notice from them to plaintiff offering to pay the costs. He contended the cause should not, under these circumstances, have been set down. Decree granted perpetually restraining the defendants from committing the nuisances complained of and for payment of costs.

CALL at C. McDonald's, 276 Front Street, for Bell Cuban cigars at 5c, or the stock of 1879 for 10c.

A COMING EVENT.—The Peterborough Examiner gives a good account of the Lacrosse Club of that town and says their first match of the season, for which practice will be begun immediately, will be the return game with the Belleville Club, which is to be played in Peterborough.

IRISH RELIEF FUND.—We are requested by Mr. McMahon to state that the following subscriptions from Baldwin Ward were inadvertently omitted : J. M. Walker & Co., $25 ; P. Fitzpatrick, $2 ; Wm. Kyle, $2 ; making $29 additional from Baldwin Ward.

ANGLICAN MISSIONS.—The Dominion Churchman says:—"The Rev. Rural Dean Baker has taken the trouble to canvass Belleville himself in behalf of the Mission Fund, and with great success. He has succeeded in almost every instance in doubling the subscriptions of previous years. His work will lastingly benefit the Mission cause in the city." For his great success in this arduous work the Rev. gentleman has been formally thanked by the Vestries.

YACHTING NOTES. — The Port Hope Times of the 15th states that the yacht Eudis formerly the Lady Standley has been bought by Mr. McKechnie, of Cobourg, and Port Hope loses the fastest sailer of her class on the lakes. The same paper says:—The yawl yacht owned by Capt. Murray, R. A., of Toronto, called in here yesterday. She made an exceedingly quick passage from South Bay Point, leaving there at 5 a. m. Wednesday, and arriving here at 4:15 p. m. the same day. She was launched on the 7th instant, and has during a rough passage from Kingston proved herself a fine sea boat and good sailer. Her present crew consists of Capt. G. H. Dugan, A. M. Armstrong, and Pat McKernan. They intend to stop the day, leaving here probably this evening for Toronto, where they expect to meet the owner. It is needless to remark that the yacht fully carries out Cuthbert's well-known reputation."

CORONER'S INQUEST.

How Patrick Arkinson Came to His Death.

WHERE DID HE RECEIVE HIS INJURY?

At two o'clock yesterday afternoon a Coroner's jury was empannelled at Docter's Hotel, to inquire into the cause of the death of Patrick Arkinson, a brakesman in the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway Company.

The enquiry was held before Coroner Dr. Willson ; C. L. Coleman was present on behalf of the Crown, L. H. Henderson, City Solicitor, represented the City, and John Bell, Q. C., the Grand Trunk Railway Company.

After viewing the body, the jury adjourned to Docter's Hotel, where the investigation was proceeded with.

JEREMIAH HARRINGTON, on being sworn, testified that his impression was that deceased received his injuries at the eastern bridge ; he had seen the deceased with a light between the bridges, and drew his inference from this fact that the deceased was hurt there ; deceased was picked up on top of the second car from the engine with his head towards the east ; deceased was alive when witness first saw him.

GEORGE WISE deposed that the deceased was braking on the front part of the train after it had left Port Hope ; west of the west bridge at Belleville, the deceased, who had been on the engine, got on top of the cars and I saw no more of him till I found him on the car ; it was in letting off the brake that witness discovered the body of the diseased ; he did not know at what bridge deceased was injured ; when he found deceased, he thought he was dead, but ... rolling him over blood issued from his mouth and nose, and then he began to breathe ; he thought that deceased undid the bell cord west of the western bridge ; it was the impression of the witness that the deceased was struck by the western bridge.

JOHN JOLLOW testified that he was the conductor of the train on which deceased was at work, saw him on top of the car in the yard here after he received the injuries ; deceased was alive and breathing heavily; could not tell where deceased had been hurt; deceased was a man of temperate habits and was a first class brakesman ; the refrigerator cars are about 30 inches higher than the ordinary cars.

ROBERT MCCRIMMON, the engineer of the train on which the deceased was engaged as brakesman, testified that he saw the deceased leave the eneine to put on the brakes, west of the western bridge; he thought there was something wrong while going between the bridges; after we came to a stop in the yard I saw the deceased on the top of the car ; the fireman informed me of the mishap which had taken place ; my impression was that deceased was struck at the western bridge and if he was not injured there he did not do his duty.

DR. CURLETT deposed that he had examined deceased, found a fracture of the skull which had been caused by a tremendous blow ; deceased must have been looking south when he received the blow. The skull was fractured clear across from one ear to the other, there was an ecchymosis on the eyelids, deceased died from compression of the brain, which was caused by bleeding ; his death appeared to witness to have been caused by his head having come in contact with some flat surface. Witness considered that the left side of the face or head had been struck, but to this remark many of the jurymen took exception, as did also the Coroner.

Mr. BELL contended that as the bridges had remained in their present position for over twenty years, that had now become legal rights and therefore could not be interfered with, and besides Dr. Tupper's Railway Act did not apply to either the Grand Trunk, the Great Western or the Northern.

In reply Mr. COLEMAN said that in accordance with the law the bridges should be of a certain height above the highest car, and if the structures in this city were not of the required height, proper action would be taken in the premises.

The inquiry was then adjourned until to-morrow evening at 7.30 in the City Hall.

(It might be noted that the bridge on North Front Street is 17 ft 4 in. high above the track, whilst the one on the western boundary of the city is 18 ft. high.)

—There are strong suspicions that the dwelling of O'Connor, in Lucan, was fired by some miscreants of that locality, and the County Crown Attorney has directed a coroner's inquest to be held.

—The bar-rooms in Fredericton, N. B., are closed in consequence of the decision of the Supreme Court on the Temperance Act. The Act has been carried in five counties of New Brunswick, and it will now be enforced.

—A little boy seventeen months old, son of Mr. W. R. Adams, upset a pot of boiling kaoka on Monday evening, at London, Ont., and was so badly scalded that he died last night.

IRON ORE.—Seventeen cars of iron ore were brought to this city this morning over the North Hastings Railway. This product will be shipped to Buffalo.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

LAGER BEER.—The brewers in New York city and vicinity have agreed to advance the price of lager beer $1 per bbl. on May 1st.

CATTLE.—In 1873 the value of horned cattle exported alive from the United States was less than $700,000. In 1879 the value was over $8,250,000.

Apples are being worked off slowly on the Montreal market at $3.50@$4 per bbl. for selected stock, but inferior kinds bring all sorts of prices from $1.50 up.

Cheese has advanced in England, being quoted at 72s.

The Seal Fisheries are considered a hopeless failure this year.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, April 16.—The Newmarket international handicap, at the Newmarket Craven meeting to-day, was won by Baron Rothschild's "Fashion."

CHEYENNE, April 15.—The five convicts who escaped from Penitentiary last week are now on the road between Fort Fetterman and Rock Creek, stipping coaches and robbing passengers.

PORTSMOUTH, April 16.—In beating up from Bermuda against the north-easterly trade winds, the training ship Atalanta may have been compelled to proceed as far north as New York or further. This would prolong her cruise. She is not regarded as a very handy craft, although a safe one.

LONDON, April 16.—The Irish members of the new Parliament are beginning to arrive. Their programme is decidedly moderate ; they ask for equalization of the Irish franchise with the English, and the extension of the Ulster tenant right to the whole of Ireland.

Dr. Kenealy, member in the last House of Commons, the well known counsel for the Tichborne claimant, is dead, aged 61.

A Dublin correspondent says the result of the Cork County election was a great surprise. It was confidently believed that Kettle would replace Coulthurst. It is stated that the Parnellites will lodge a petition in the House of Commons on behalf of Kettle on the ground that clerical influence was used against him. The defeat of Parnell's nominee after the tremendous efforts made to secure his return is a heavy blow to Parnell's dicatorship and the successful stand made by the Catholic clergy and respectable laity, including doubtless many Conservatives, will be regarded as a great moral victory.

Herr Brocke, the former well known Socialist member in the German Reichstag, is dead.

PETERSBURG, Va., April 16.—For several days destructive woodland fires, extending over large areas, have been burning in the Counties of Prince George, Dinwoodie, Chesterfield, and Sussex, destroying an immense quantity of cordwood, lumber and undergrowth. A number of barns were destroyed and 2 or 3 persons burned to death.

CARPETS.

WE are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers.

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealer telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, five, ten, and even twenty-five cents per yard is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'Do you thing that will be the effect, sir?' returned the landlord, dubiously though somewhat less dolefully.

'Think! I am sure of it. Any one can see it. But the question is how to successfully accomplish the feat. Strong as our suspicion is, it don't justify us in having him seized at once. We must have more positive evidence, and help of the constabulary. Look you here! keep a close eye on Podgers. I don't expect he'll bolt, because there is no reason to think that he has seen anything to make him take alarm. Still, too much caution cannot be taken. If you notice any signs of his intention to decamp, summon your people and secure him; otherwise, say not a word to a soul in your establishment. I am going out to communicate with the bank people and the authorities. When I return further and final arrangements will be made.

'Very good, sir,' responded Jenkins, with a most distressed air, showing how little he relished the exciting business in hand. 'I'll try to remember your directions, but I wish it were well over. I do indeed.'

About an hour after this, Philip again entered the public room in the Beresford Arms. It was not so full as when he left it. Few were now to be found in it but those who intended to sleep in the inn that night. The commercial travellers, having got their post letters despatched, were enjoying themselves over something hot before retiring to rest, and quite an animated conversation was going forward, both amongst them and amongst the group of miscellaneous guests, who had come together for a few hours, and would separate on the morrow, perchance never to meet again.

Jonas Podgers was there, sometimes taking part in the conversation, but oftener quiet, and a keen observer might have noticed how eagerly he listened to what the others were saying.

Ravensworth conducted himself with the same air of unconcern, comporting himself like a traveller who in the course of his journey had reached the place, and who felt no interest in the concerns of those who, like himself, were making the inn their temporary head-quarters.

Presently the landlord entered himself with brandy and water, and set it before Ravensworth, who had seated himself at the centre table where the others were assembled.

'Yours, Mr. Ravensworth; hope you'll find it good, sir,' observed Jenkins, striving hard to manifest his usual air of bland equanimity, though minuty observation could detect a certain nervous excitement about him, and for the life of him he could not keep from directing a frightened glance at Podgers.

'Thank you, Jenkins, I have no doubt I shall find it good. We all know the quality of the liquor at the Beresford Arms.'

'Much obliged, sir, I'm sure,' returned the landlord, blushing with very pleasure at the compliment.

'I hope, sir,' he added, 'your son, Mr. Charles, is out of danger now?'

'Oh, yes; the doctor is not afraid of him now. We hope he will be able to be removed to the Hall in a few days.'

'Is it fever, sir?' asked the man who sat next Philip, moving uneasily away.

'No, sir, not fever. My son was nearly murdered.'

'Murdered! Bless me, you don't say so? How was it?'

'Mr. Hedley, sir,' put in Jenkins, 'this is Mr. Ravensworth, the Squire of Singleton Hall. His son—was the same young gentleman who closed with the robber on the mail.'

'Ha! bless me! was he your son, sir? A plucky thing it was of him, and most unfortunate that he received such a terrible wound, and that the robber got off.'

'It's an amazing thing that the fellow has not been caught,' remarked another. 'The authorities, I'm told, suspect it to be the doing of an escaped convict, a clever and desperate fellow, that ought to have been hung years ago.'

The conversation had got into the precise channel which Ravensworth desired, and by a glance stealthily directed towards Podgers he saw what a keen interest that individual was taking in it. Not a syllable of what was being said escaped him, and his oblique visual organs seemed to rest on every speaker.

'But that is only conjecture,' returned the former speaker. 'The reason why the fellow hasn't been caught is, I suppose, because no one on the coach saw his face, and so there is no clue by which he can be identified.'

'That's it,' observed Mr. Jonas Podgers, putting in his word for the first time. 'If the guard or the coachman had got a glimpse of him the constables might have got upon his track; but nobody having seen him, he has had time to dispose of himself, and I should say has either gone abroad or is lurking in London.'

'You think so, sir?' said Ravensworth, bending on Podgers a fixed look.

'Decidedly I do.'

'He managed to secure a tidy sum though,' remarked a commercial man. 'Fifteen hundred! My eye, it's a fortune for him if he can realise it, but of course the notes are known and stopped.

'Don't it strike you, gentlemen,' remarked Philip, 'don't it strike you as strange that the bank parcel was the only thing the robber secured? Don't that fact indicate that he knew it was there, and how could he do so except from local knowledge?'

'Egad, sir, there's something in that,' cried the commercial, and all present seemed impressed with an inference so obvious yet so significant.

'I hope he'll be caught,' cried one.

'If he is, he'll be hanged, cried another.

'And serve him right,' added a third. 'I'd go several miles out of my way to see him swing.'

'It will not be my fault if he is not caught,' said Ravensworth, in a stern tone. 'I am determined to use every possible means to trace him. I feel as great an interest in his capture as the bank can do.'

'Ay, true, sir, of course, sir—on your son's account.

'Yes, on my son's account. I will not be satisfied till I exact a heavy punishment for that murderous blow.'

'Pity no one saw him, so as to recognise him.'

'That is a mistake,' said Ravensworth, slowly, and with emphasis. 'He was seen, and can be recognised again.'

'Seen!' cried Podgers, impulsively. 'Who saw him?'

'My son saw him the moment before he struck the blow,' answered Philip with a steady look at the speaker. 'I learnt this only to-day—he has been too ill to speak of it till now.'

Podgers turned ghastly pale and vainly strove to hide his agitation. No one remarked this, however, but Ravensworth, for all were gazing with eager curiosity at the latter.

TO BE CONTINUED.

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A. Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidity increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately into used. Boschees German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 18 8, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents. Sample bottle, 10 cents.

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,0 0 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

The Hunter!

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and resort to subtlety to secure his game. But his life is one of great attraction. He is usually very methodical, putting up with the coarseness of the camp. Sometimes his camp is enlivened by the presence of an enthusiastic, and when opportunity is given, every possible adjunct to comfort is provided. Old "Sharp Eye," the leader, knows the favorite spots where game may be expected, and he plants himself there. Others, with horses the rest of them, the excitement attending the pursuit, the fatal shots ringing through the air, the gathering of the game, and the return to the camp, animate with feasting and the stories of the hunters. It is splendid life and good hunt. It is a good thing, also, to hunt for diseases in the human system, to drive them away. And for this commend me to DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS. They are the most experienced hunters after diseases known.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

MR. M. GILES, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition — meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and that Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 96 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficient. Yours truly, C. I. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and find it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that ever came under my observation. In affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to bleed from the lungs, grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a constant pain in the chest. My physician stopped the bleeding, but then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have used no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet friends on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him 2 bottles and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879, Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: Lynn Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

Epileptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR.—I have deferred writing to you ere this, for I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh she fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible. I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year and find it to be the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.
☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.
The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

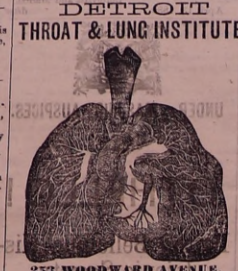
DETROIT THROAT & LUNG INSTITUTE.



233 WOODWARD AVENUE.
DETROIT, MICH.

M. Hilton Williams, M. D.

(Graduate of Victoria College at Toronto, and Member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.)
PROPRIETOR.
(PERMANENTLY ESTABLISHED SINCE 1870.)
ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or properly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical men examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them unsound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

Now, how should a disease so produced and located be treated? We should withdraw the patient as fully as possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If that organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we should treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the real point of difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and it is the point which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the physician to be able to point to the result of his practice in proof of the wisdom of his prescriptions. Even at the risk of being accused of egotism, I will venture to say that the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation speaks for itself by the substantial good it has accomplished and is accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. I can point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair. I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians of eminence had pronounced the case "hopeless." And the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and I the lungs; they give the patient medicine to swallow and I give them medicine to inhale. But this difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

Every disease of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence, a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation. We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they act imperfectly and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the surface of the body chilly and the nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by proper diet clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

It is impossible to visit the office personally, write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, together with a copy of my "Medical Treatise on Diseases of the Breathing Organs." Address.

"NOBODY'S CHILD."

Alone in the dreary, pitiless street,
With my torn old dress and bare cold feet,
All day long I have wandered to and fro,
Hungry and shivering, and nowhere to go;
The night's coming on in darkness and dread,
And the chill sleet beating upon my bare head.
Oh! why does the wind blow on me so wild?
Is it because I am nobody's child?

Just over the way there's a flood of light,
And warmth and beauty and all things bright;
Beautiful children in robes so fair,
Are caroling songs in their rapture there.
I wonder if they in their blissful glee
Would pity a poor little beggar like me,
Wandering about in the merciless street,
Naked and shivering, and nothing to eat!

Oh! what shall I do when the night comes down
In its terrible blackness all over the town?
Shall I lay me down 'neath the angry sky,
On the cold, hard pavement, about to die,
When the beautiful children their prayers have said,
And their mammas have tucked them up snugly in bed?
For no dear mamma on me ever smiled,—
Why is it, I wonder, I'm nobody's child?

No father, no mother, no sister, not one
In all the world loves me, even the little dogs run
When I wander too near; 'tis wondrous to see
How everything shrinks from a beggar like me!
Perhaps 'tis a dream; but sometimes when I lie
Gazing far up in the deep, blue sky,
Watching for hours some large, bright star,
I fancy the beautiful gates are ajar.

And a host of white-robed nameless things,
Come fluttering o'er me on gilded wings,
A hand that is strangely soft and fair,
Caresses gently my tangled hair,
And a voice like the carol of some wild bird—
The sweetest voice that was ever heard—
Calls me many a dear pet name,
Till my heart and spirit are all aflame,

They told me of such unbounded love,
And bid me come to their home above;
And then with such pitiful, sad surprise,
They look at me with their sweet, tender eyes,
And it seems to me, out of the dreary night,
I am going up to that world of light;
And away from the hunger and storm so wild,
I am sure I shall there be somebody's child.

LITTLE BY LITTLE.

Little by little the time goes by—
Short if you sing through it, long if you sigh;
Little by little—an hour, a day,
Gone with the years that have vanished away
Little by little the race is run
Trouble and waiting and toil are done.

Little by little the skies grow clear;
Little by little the sun comes near;
Little by little the days smile out
Gladder and brighter on pain and doubt;
Little by little the seed we sow
Into a beautiful yield will grow.

Little by little the world grows strong,
Fighting the battle of Right and Wrong;
Little by little the Wrong gives way,
Little by little the Right has sway;
Little by little all longing souls
Struggle up near the shinning goals.

Little by little the good in men
Blossoms to beauty for human ken;
Little by little the angels see
Prophecies better of good to be:

Sunday Reading.

Barrel Sermons.

"Christian at Work" says: Of course there is one thing the preacher can do and does—put his hand in that barrel and preach that old sermon. As a rule we don't believe in this barrel-sermon preaching. Very seldom does a minister preach an old sermon to his congregation with anything approaching the fire and spirit of its first delivery. The freshness, the warmth, the outcome of its preparation, its especial seasonableness, the enthusiasm if he had it, attendant upon handling a new theme for the first time—these are all gone at a second preaching, so he stands up and reads off his barrel sermon, and, however it may have excited interest at the time, it is—unless its repetition has been specially called for—pretty apt to fall like a wet theological blanket on the hearers.

The effect of barrel-sermon preaching on the minister himself is not good—certainly it is not stimulating. And here is another view of the case; no minister ought to give up one church and take another with the idea of using that barrel sermon. Yet just this many ministers are forced to do because of the demand made upon them by the double sermon service. We never knew those ministers who moved away to another church and broke up with barrel-sermonizing to succeed. Certainly he is putting himself under the Dominion of sloth, beside subjecting himself to the disintegrating process known as rusting out.

Old Andrew Miller once replied to a young minister's question as to what use should be made of old sermons, "Barn 'em, sir, burn 'em!" It wouldn't be a very great loss if most of the old sermons in the country were to be consumed by spontaneous combustion. As this is not likely to happen, anything which tends to weaken the minister's dependence upon that sermon-barrel can scarcely fail to be a gain to pastor and people.

Do Animals Resist Temptation?

Temptation frequently begets in the dog, cat, and other animals, the same kind of mental or moral agitation, and the same sort of result, as in man. Sometimes we can see—in the dog for instance—the whole play of the animal's mind; the battle between its virtuous and vicious propensities, its promptings to right, its longing for the wrong for the titbit, which it would be improper to steal; and the final triumph either of virtue or temptation. The poor animal, knowing or feeling the weakness of the flesh, sometimes has the moral strength, the force of character and good sense, to avoid temptation. The dog, like men, are apt to have the most trying temptations thrust unexpectedly upon them, and then come the tug of war of the appetites and passions, the moral turmoil that may make shipwreck of or that may strengthen virtue. Sometimes, then, by the dog, as by man, temptation is successfully resisted after perhaps a series of protracted and painful moral struggles that have been very apparent to the onlooker. Unfortunately, however, equally in dog and man, the resistance to temptation is less common by far than non-resistance or non-success in resistance, the result of which is various forms of degree of wrong-doing.—Popular Science Monthly.

Make haste, O man, to do
Whatever must be done;
Thou hast no time to lose in sloth,
The day will soon be gone.
Make haste, O men, to live!

Angels of life and death alike are His;
Without His leave they pass no threshold o'er;
Who, then, would wish or dare, believing this,
Against His messengers to shut the door?

Grumblers.

I have met with a few of these miserable beings, the inveterate grumblers—and what objects of pity are they! Listen to their conversation—they appear to have succumbed to all "the ills that flesh is heir to;" yet usually are the very individuals who have passed a life exempt from hardships.

Even the elements are to them an unfailing source of trouble. As for the fire, there is always too much or too little in the grate; an't somehow the fire loveth not them, for they "kinder" like to sit poker in hand over it, warring against its brightness, as against all other glowing and sparkling things. Then the wind, bringing "airs from heaven, or blasts from"—a nameless place; that is a decided enemy, as visions of toothache and neuralgia loom up in the distance. The water, for sanitary purposes, must never be cold; and but suggest a plunge into the briny deep, you might as well propose suicide. Though being "of the earth earthly"—very earthly—probably that element furnishes less cause for "worriment."

The seasons, also, are in fault. During the glorious summer sunshine, it is too warm for out-door walking, or for any other occupation than sitting by an open window, fan in hand, pitiless for the busy toilers, who perforce must work for their daily bread, and where "there is little to earn and many to keep," are only too glad to obtain that work.

But if these murmurers are so distressed all through the summer heats, how do they exist when "comes the winter of our discontent?" I don't own kinship with the grumblers, but know 'tis hard to forbear emitting a growl occasionally with a philippic upon one finger, another on a toe, and the end of one's nose frozen, the effects of some cruel Polar wave. Decidedly, it is trying, and the homely old adage, "Grin and abide," seems to be the only panacea. (By-the-way, why don't some one put all these ancient, time-worn sayings into language more adapted to our refined ear?) But if the case does not admit of a "grin," come the "bearing o'er me on gilded wings," A hand that is strangely soft and fair,
Caresses gently my tangled hair,
And a voice like the carol of some wild bird—
The sweetest voice that was ever heard—
Calls me many a dear pet name,
Till my heart and spirit are all aflame,

Thou hast no time to lose in sloth,
The day will soon be gone.
Make haste, O men, to live!

Angels of life and death alike are His;
Without His leave they pass no threshold o'er;
Who, then, would wish or dare, believing this,
Against His messengers to shut the door?

Miscellaneous.

No man really understands the value of a dollar until he has worked hard to obtain one. We could point out scores of city boys who have become miserable spendthrifts from the lack of just such knowledge. Their fathers were more or less wealthy, but if the sons were not put into the office, or mill, or shop, and made fairly to earn their money by tiresome labor, either physical or mental. Their fathers said to themselves—"My sons shall never have to drudge as I did," and so the boys did no labor, bore no responsibility, and never learned how money was fairly and honorably earned, and, of course, never knew its value or its proper use. Thus, hard-earned fortunes have been ruthlessly squandered. All young people should be taught the full value of money—how to save and how to spend it. If born to a heritage of wealth, they should be taught that its possession brings greater responsibilities, and its proper management, when they grow up, will bring even a heavier tax on their mental and moral powers and faculties, than would the earning of a livelihood. If born to labor, they should be taught that work is not disgraceful so long as they labor well; and that their earnings should not be squandered, but invested wisely in reference to the future.

A good heart should invariably be combined with cheerfulness; indeed, there is no reason why it should not be. There are many things to be said in favor of a cheerful man. Be his occupation what it may, he is equal to any of those who follow the same pursuit in silent sullenness, however industrious these may be, or with whatever amount of diligence the latter may toil. The cheerful man will do more work in the same time, he will accomplish this with far greater ease, he will perform his task better, and he will persevere in it the longest. Cheerfulness has a beneficial effect upon the body as well as mind. Wherever there is habitual gloom there must be either bad air, unqualified ignorance, unwholesome food, or improperly severe labor or erring habits of life. The wise man is always cheerful. Moroseness, dullness, acerbity or sour inclinations are but evidence of "loose screws" in the mental and physical construction. The healthy soul is ever a happy one. And if we take heed of our own proper conditions of mind and body we shall have but little desire to carp at our neighbors' shortcomings, or trouble ourselves with their real or fancied woes? Then why not be cheerful?

A parent who don't know how to govern a child without whipping it, ought to surrender the care of that child to some other person. Spartans once thought it was necessary to lash their dogs, in training them for the field. They know now that the whip should never be used. Horsemen once thought that it was necessary to whip colts to train them to start or stop at the word, and to proceed steadily; they know now that an appeal is better than the lash, and that to caress is better than a blow. If dogs and horses can be thus educated without punishment, what is there in our children which makes it necessary to slap and pound them? Have they less intelligence? Have they colder hearts? Are they lower in the scale of being? We have heard many old people say: "If we were to bring up another child, we would never whip it." They are wise, but a little too late. Instead of God doing so little for children that they must be whipped into goodness, he has done so much for them that even whipping can't ruin them—that is, as a rule. But, alas! there are many exceptions to this rule. Many children are of such quality that a blow makes them cowardly, or reckless, or deceitful, or permanently ugly. Whipping makes children lie. Whipping makes them hate their parents. Whipping makes home distasteful—makes the boys run away, and makes the girls seek happiness anywhere and anyhow. Whipping is barbarous. Don't whip.

When the powers of mind and body are unevenly balanced, ill-health is sure to be the consequence. It is a sorry fact that ill-health is largely a matter inheritance. Persons of nervous constitutions are usually small, active, and never robust. They suffer from overtaxing their powers. Persons of bilious constitutions are dark complexioned, often active and powerful, often gloomy but witty, and suffer from diseases of the organs of nutrition. Dyspepsia is the bane of this class. Those having lymphatic constitutions are large framed, soft muscled, easy tempered, good natured people, and are even more susceptible than bilious folks to external influence and the effect of locality. With them diseases become chronic and of a low type. These various characteristics are often blended to a greater or less degree in one individual, and according as one or the other predominates the various regulations for the preservation of health are to be observed. A judicious balance must be preserved between the reasoning powers and the powers of feeling. The sensitive, irritable, passionate person must bring his feelings under the restraint and sway of reason, he must learn to obey, not the dictates of impulse, appetite, passion, but the calm and dispassionate voice of reason and sound judgment. Idle and purposeless people are often invalids. There are a great many rich rich men and women who are invalids because they are idle. No tasks are set them to do and so they do nothing. Health is the balance between periods of activity and periods of rest.

Comparatively few men show their real disposition to the girls they select as life-companions, and the bride who has formed her own ideal is often disenchanted during the honeymoon—the most trying period of married life. This is the secret of many unhappy marriages; the husband is not nearly as elevated as was the lover; and perhaps his tastes do not harmonize with those of his wife. The fate is horrible which a pure and faithful girl may endure by encountering in him whom she marries, not more actual cruelty or injury, but stupid incompetence to understand a woman's needs, dull forgetfulness of the daily graces of life, and oblivion of the fact that while men have the world women have only their home. These grossnesses of masculine ingratitude do not, indeed, often lead to visible catastrophe, nor grow into much absolute tyranny, but they equally tend that way. They drag down a wife's soul to the point where she must despair; they change the sublime meaning of marriage to vulgarity and weariness; they spoil the chance of that best and finest of all education which each man obtains who wins and keeps a good woman for his companion; and they completely destroy any hope of domestic happiness. What right has a man to expect happiness from one who brings no sunshine into it? What right has he to look for the graces and refinements of early love when he violates them by rough speech, ill manners, and the disregard of little things upon which the self-respect of a wife is built and maintained. The cynic who rails at marriage is generally one and the same with the thoughtless egotist who, flings into the presence of his wife careless snubbery and sour-tempered, though who never went to his fiancee except on his best behavior.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, APRIL 17.

The Pacific Railway Policy.

The expected debate on the Pacific Railway policy of the Government was commenced on Thursday afternoon, and promises to be the greatest and most exhaustive discussion of the session. It is not inappropriate that this should be the case, as the interests involved are of the first importance, and are fitting matter for the earnest consideration of the representatives of the people. The Conservative party hold—and we are also pleased to see that the leading organ of the Opposition is of the same opinion—that upon the completion of this great work at the earliest moment practicable the progress of the Dominion largely depends. That this is the feeling of the people as a whole has been time and again evidenced; but there is a small party led by Mr. Blake who are opposed to pushing the work forward vigorously as the circumstances of the country will admit, and who would have the line stop short at the Rocky Mountains for an indefinite period, of the duration of which they admit that they cannot even form an idea.

The great objection of this small minority, who will doubtless be joined by some of the Grits in Parliament for factious purposes, is to the effect that the undertaking is beyond the means of the Dominion, and their contention is that the cost of the undertaking will be somewhere about double that stated by the engineers who have made the surveys and estimates. How they have become possessed of this special knowledge is not known, but that it is other than mere guess-work, put forward to engage popular attention and arouse a feeling of alarm in the public mind, no one who has given the subject that attention which it deserves will for one moment believe. The best reply, perhaps, to this alarmist statement is the rapidity with which the lands in Manitoba and the North-West are being taken up, not only by those who have migrated from Ontario and the other older Provinces, and by emigrants of a respectable class from the United Kingdom and other European countries, but from the United States as well. The Globe estimates that this influx on that portion of the line extending from Thunder Bay to the Rocky Mountains will amount to 1,000,000 souls by the time the line is completed, "But let us say," it continues, "that only 500,000 people are then in the North-West. If they contribute to the Dominion treasury in the same proportion as the people of the other Provinces, they will increase the revenue by $3,000,000 a year. The 1,300 miles of railway we treat of will certainly not cost more than $30,000,000 when completed and equipped. That sum represents an annual payment of interest of $1,200,000, so that no less than $1,800,000 would remain to the good. Part of it would, of course, go in expenses of government and protection for the 500,000 people contributing the whole, but it is easy to see that the Dominion has nothing to lose by carrying the Pacific Railway to the Rocky Mountains at an early date." Not only this, but the pushing on of the line around Lake Superior so soon as the road is completed to the Rocky Mountains, is urged by the same journal, in order to complete the shortest all-rail route to the seaboard, and the prophecy is made that it will pay from the beginning.

As the Government calculate the rapidity of settlement as being considerably less than the above figures, there cannot be any reasonable doubt that their expectations are not too sanguine. Even Mr. Blake, and we suppose his co-objectors likewise, are prepared to have this part of the road built, but they most strenuously object to the British Columbia section, which is to pass through that alleged "sea of mountains," of which the member for West Durham is so fond of dilating. On this point, however, the organ of their party takes strong ground against them. Both parties, it candidly acknowledges, are bound to complete it. The whole of the line through British Columbia, the Globe contends, is not needed until the Lake Superior section is finished, but the construction of the Yale-Kamloops section is urged, and it says: "If 100,000 people settle in British Columbia during the construction of the road—and there is every reason why that number should go there in the course of a few years —the Dominion will receive from them a revenue sufficient to pay the interest on the expenditure."

Thus Mr. Blake and those who act with him in this matter have been answered most effectually by the organ of the party to which they belong. Its closing counsel is worthy of attention:—"Economy is desirable; it would be folly to finish the whole Pacific road off-hand. The cost of running it through a wilderness would be very great, but at most it will only increase the interest on the public debt by four millions a year, and he is a rash man who will say that before the line is completed the Treasury of Canada will not get twice that sum from the increase of population, due to the influx of people who will not settle in the Dominion unless the road is built. Before many years the capital borrowed for its construction will have been returned to the Treasury by the sale of wild lands. The Government should push the road steadily forward, but not at a speed which will lay new burdens upon the people."

So far the opponents of the Pacific Railway do not show up well. Mr. Blake was obliged, in his speech on the subject, in order to preserve a seeming consistency, to confess that he had entered the Mackenzie Government on conditions as to the relations of the Government with British Columbia. This shows that he remained in office in a way not so strictly honorable as his admirers could wish, as Lord Dufferin declared that if any of his Ministers had made an effort to break faith with Lord Carnarvon, the resignation of that Minister would be at once demanded by him. This may be considered quite proper, even praiseworthy conduct as viewed through "Liberal" spectacles, but those who have the old-fashioned regard for propriety will scarcely view such duplicity in so favorable a light.

Mr. Mackenzie also placed himself in a very unfortunate dilemma by stating that, although he advocated for tenders for the Yale-Kamloops section in August, 1878, he never intended to build that line at all. The worth of this denial was demonstrated by Sir Charles Tupper, who showed that Mr. Mackenzie had expended $32,400 for the carriage from Victoria to Yale of the steel rails for this section of railway which he had, he now says, no intention of constructing, and besides, he never when in office even hinted that he did not intend to build the whole railway. Party spleen has landed the ex-Premier in a position from which he will find it very difficult to extricate himself.

It is probable that the debate will continue for a week or more, but it seems certain that it will result in making more clear than even now that the Government are pursuing an apparently enterprising yet really prudent course—a course which will result in the rapid peopling of the vast and highly fertile plains of the great north-west, the settlement of British Columbia and the consolidation of the Dominion by the consummation of the union which, in the case of the Pacific Province, will be more nominal than real until the iron band of the railway connects her with her sister Provinces.

WEDNESDAY, April 14.

HAY vs. WALLBRIDGE.—Bill to set aside a tax deed, on ground of uncertainty of description,

40 acres of lot No. 10, in 6th Con. of Madoc, was sold for taxes by the late Treasurer, Mr. McAnnany, to Hon. Lewis Wallbridge in 1867. The land was described as commencing at the rear of the half lot. And the contention in the suit was to which was the rear of the half lot. The statute makes the concession in Madoc double pointed, so that the lot would be the centre of the concession, and this was the contention of the defendant. The plaintiff's contention was that it was the intention of the Treasurer to sell and he did sell the land upon the belief that the front of the lot bounded by the concession on the east was the rear and that the purchaser so bought.

The learned Judge held that by the description in the deed under the Statute, a starting point was the centre of the concession, and not on the concession line, and that it could make no difference what the intention of the Treasurer was in selling. It was not shown that the purchaser bought with any such idea as it was alleged the Treasurer had in his mind in selling.

Bill dismissed with costs. Declaration setting aside plaintiff's deed so far as it affects defendant's lands, and registration voided.—Messrs. Bell & Ponton, Solicitors for plaintiff; Mr. Hoyles and Mr. Ponton, Counsel; Hon. L. Wallbridge, Solicitor for defts; Mr. Wallbridge, Q.C. and Mr. Boyd, Q.C., Counsel.

HUTCHINSON vs. HUTCHINSON.—The case of Hutchinson vs, Hutchinson was the culmination of a quarrel between two brothers living near Trenton. Plaintiff, while manager of the lumbering firm of Gilmour & Co., and in prosperous circumstances, induced his brother Allan to immigrate to this country, and purchased for him a farm, designed in great part as a present apparently. Subsequently and in 1879 it was proposed to buy a second farm, and about this the unhappy family quarrel has takenplace. The plaintiff, John Hutchinson, stated that his brother Allan desiring to purchase an adjoining lot he advanced him $3,000 to enable him to do so, his brother agreeing to give him a mortgage as security therefor. The bargain was made for the property by Allan, but the latter being inexperienced in conveyancing, plaintiff had the deeds prepared for him, and deputed a clerk to accompany his brother Allan and see them executed. The defendant, Allan, says it was on this occasion, on hearing the deed read, that he first discovered it was in his (Allan's) name, and that he then concluded his brother was making a present of the farm to him. The object of the present suit was to recover $3,000 thus advanced by plaintiff, the property to be sold if necessary, or a mortgage given, any deficiency to be made good, the value of the land apparently having depreciated since. The defendant set up in defence not only that at the time he thought it was a present, but if it was not such he was merely the agent of his brother John, the plaintiff, in making the bargain for the property, and afterwards receiving the conveyance. His Lordship held that plaintiff was correct in his contentions, and decreed judgment for the amount claimed, with costs.

Mr. Boyd, Q. C. and Mr. Holden for plaintiff, and Hon. Mr. Wallbridge, Q. C. and Mr. Arnoldi for defendant.

(From the Madoc Review.)

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.— On Monday a young named West met with a serious accident while chopping wood on the farm of Chas. Bacon, near Rimington. He and another person were chopping together at the same log when the latter's axe caught on an overhanging limb and glancing struck West on the knee, opening it into the joint. The wound is of such a serious nature that the unfortunate man is almost sure to lost the use of his knee, if, indeed, he escapes without losing his leg.

DUNGANNON AND FARADAY.—The lumbering is about over, the jobbers having had a most favorable season for work, as the snow in the woods was just about the right depth for them. Settlers are still coming in, and many buildings going up; they have been sawing for several weeks at Jarman's mills, and there is such a demand for lumber that it is carried away as fast as it is turned out.

Mining Notes.

A correspondent writes from Malone to the Madoc Review:—"Mr. Mitchell is now busily engaged exploring his property to the north of the village, and I believe so far his efforts are well repaid, as he employs at present about thirty men, and raises a large quantity of iron ore per day, with the intention of commencing to ship about the 1st of next month. Mr. Stewart has completed his job of repairing the Severn Mill, which has been running for the last two weeks, and thus far I believe has given entire satisfaction, as he cleaned up six hundred dollars worth of gold the other day, from Gatting ore, taken from lot 10 in the 8th concession of Marmora. Mr. Stewart has also commenced prospecting on lot 14, in 1st concession of Marmora, which he has purchased from Mr. Robert Neill at the upset price of $4,000, and has already sunk a shaft to the depth of about fifteen feet, also tested some of the rock, which gave so I have been informed, very satisfactory returns. He is also contemplating the building of a new furnace, with Mr. Joseph Stapley as head contractor for the carpenter work, which, when completed, will be a great improvement to his mill."

The Dungannon and Faraday correspondent of the same paper writes:—"You must be prepared to hear of several important mineral discoveries this season in this quarter, and there is little doubt but that this country will be thoroughly prospected as soon as it is dry enough to move round with facility.

"The people never got thoroughly worked up here till they found there was a prospect of a railway, (of course their minerals were of little use without that.) There was a good deal of amateur prospecting last fall for two or three weeks before the snow came, and a bed of iron ore was discovered by Mr. F. Nobbs, in Dungannon, and one in the north of Faraday. Both of these are declared by well known experts to be good; also another in the centre of Faraday, where the iron can be seen lying in large lumps scattered over several acres. Besides this there have been finds of lead, copper, and plumbago, and lastly two veins of what are fondly believed to be gold-bearing quartz.

"There was a rumor some time since of the discovery of iron ore in Carlow and Mayo, but within the last few days a mineralogist has been over there and found it to be worthless."

MORNING DESPATCHES.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—The giant powder works in the district of Berkley, across the bay, exploded yesterday, killing 12 white and 12 or 15 Chinamen. This is the third explosion the company has sustained, all attended with loss of life. The explosion occurred in the packing room. All that worked there were killed. There was about 6,000 lbs of powder in the room. All the victims were blown to atoms. Six horses inside the works were all blown to slivers. The cause of the explosion is supposed to have been carelessness.

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—Jay Gould and Thomas Scott has purchased the New Orleans and Pacific Railway, which is to be completed to Alexandria and Ghrew Port within 18 months. By connecting with the Texas Pacific at Marshall it will tap the Northern Texas and furish an outlet to Gulf for the first named road, and Missouri, Kansas and Texas.

PEORIA, April 17.—The Peoria, Pekin and Jacksonville Railroad recently purchased foreclosure by Solon Humphrey, is to be reorganized and operated in connection with the Wabash, giving this region a direct short line to St. Louis.

TRENTON, N. Y., April 17.—Emanuel Briggs, colored, who attempted suicide by shooting a month ago, but failed, drowned himself on Thursday. Cause, improper intimacy with his daughter, and dread of exposure.

CHICAGO, April 17.—The Indianapolis, Delphi and Chicago Railroad from Delphi to Rensselaer is to be extended from Rensselaer to Dyker, where it will connect with the Eastern Illinois at Delhi. The connection is made with the Wabash, which will give that road a line from this city to Toledo, that is only forty miles longer than the short line by way of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern. This will make the Wabash a trunk line from this city to the eastern seaboard and enable it to ask a share of the seaboard business.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The Herald's cable says a Cairo correspondent telegraphs that the Jesuits offered four millions francs for buildings and land in Cairo reserved by Ismail Pacha for the military academy, and also have been bargaining for the Palace occupied by the late Mustapha Pacha at Alexandria.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Arrived, the City of Chester, from Liverpool.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Chas. Berry, aged 17, employed on a farm in Livingston township, N. J., shot himself dead yesterday, because his employers discharged him, and refused to take him back.

Notwithstanding the great increase of immigration, there is a much greater demand upon the labor bureau at Castle Gardon for certain classes of working people than can be supplied. This is particularly the case with regard to servant girls.

NEW CHURCH.—A new M. E. church edifice, to cost $1,800, is to be erected at Corrigal's hill, West Huntingdon. The sum of $1,200 has already been secured.

IRON "PINS."—Mr. David Allen, lot 24, twelfth concession of Seymour, has found on his place what appears to be a valuable bed of iron ore. Several experienced miners have inspected the spot, and think the prospect favorable. Mr. Allen is sinking a shaft, with a view to finding the exact nature of the "find."

YEARLY MEETING.—The adjourned yearly meeting of St. John's church Stirling, was held on Monday, April 12, at 10 a. m. A fair representation of the congregation was present. R. P. Gilbert was elected by the people and Hiram Smith by the clergyman to serve as churchwardens for the ensuing year; R. J. Craige, vestry clerk; John T. Hart, delegate to the synod. The usual votes of thanks were passed, and the meeting adjourned.

CALL at C. McDonald's, 276 Front Street, for Bell Cuban cigars at 5c, or the stock of 1879 for 10c. 293d1m

THE COUNTY GAOL.—There are now confined in the above named institution 13 persons, 10 of whom are males and 3 females.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY.—The next anniversary of England's patron saint will be duly celebrated on Friday next (23rd inst.) by a procession and the holding of a dinner in the evening at the Dafoe House.

THE OPERA HOUSE.—Our readers should bear in mind that the Belleville Histrionic Society will reproduce "Othello" at the Opera House in this city on Tuesday evening next, under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity.

BIBLE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.—Sermon in the morning at 11 a. m., by Rev. Wm. Brown. In the evening (by request) the funeral sermon of the late Miss Mary Merrill by the pastor of the church at 7.

TO ARRIVE.—The favorite steamer Alexandra will arrive here this evening and on Monday next will begin her regular trips between the head of the bay and Montreal. It is to be hoped that her next season will be a prosperous one.

THE TIE TRADE.—During the coming week 10,000 ties (hemlock and tamarack) will be brought down on the line of the North Hastings Railway from the vicinity of the mines. They have been purchased for and will be used by the Grand Trunk.

THE MARKET.—The muddy state of the roads and the rain this morning caused the smallest attendance of sellers that there has been for several weeks past. Buyers were, however, out in force and prices were consequently higher than usual.

MINING.—Owing to the severe rain storm of last night, mining operations have been temporarily suspended and no shipments can be made until the mines have been freed of the water with which they are now so copiously supplied.

THE STORM.—In accordance with the prediction of the Toronto observatory, the storm announced came duly to hand. The flashes of lightning were very vivid and the downpours of rain, especially during the night, were very severe.

THE JEWS.—The Rev. Jacob Freshman, who is to lecture here on Thursday night next, is the son of a converted Rabbi, and will therefore be in a position to afford much valuable information. He has no word of reproach for the church of his birth, but is proud of its glorious history, as the foundation of the Christian religion.

A PLEASANT EVENT.—Last night Mr. E. H. LaRoche, who is about to quit the ranks of the fraternity of bachelors, gave a supper to a number of his friends. Those who were present were: Messrs. A. Robertson, M. P. P., N. B. Falkiner, C. D. Fuller, C. Hutcheson, I. B. Graham, P. J. M. Anderson, H. E. Holden, T. Kelso, W. A. Foster, E. McMahon, H. Corby, jr., W. T. McIntyre, A. A. Farley, Wm. Surherland, Angus McFee and W. R. Barber. A very pleasant evening was spent with toast, speech and song, and the kindest of wishes were expressed towards the host of the occasion, in which many who were not present will join.

LECTURE.—A lecture will be delivered in the City Hall on Tuesday April 27th, by Rev David Mitchell on "Sir Walter Scott". Of his lecture the St. John Telegraph says Mr. Mitchell's lecture was a most brilliant and masterly effort. The Scranton Republic says Mr. Mitchell's lecture was transfused with harmonious anecdotes and was ably handled throughout.

A DUTY FOR SPRING.—With the approach of Spring comes the annual recurrence of house cleaning and the necessity for cleaning out alleys, back yards, sewers, and streets to get rid of the accumulated filth of winter and aid in preventing disease in the hot months. In this connection, attention is directed to the notice from the local Board of Health, which appears in another column.

THE DAIRY.—We have before us copies of the transactions of the Dairymen's Conventions of Eastern and Western Ontario. The former, which was printed at the Ontario office in this city, is a very valuable and interesting document and contains the proceedings of the last convention held at Kingston, when addresses were delivered by the Hon. X. A. Willard, Hon. Harris Lewis and other prominent dairymen. The other publication, which is issued from the office of the Oxford Tribune, is a very neat typographical production and is very interesting throughout. The proceedings of this convention have been carefully reported and the addresses made were of a comprehensive and instructive character. Such books as the above are very useful and should be in the hands of all who take an interest in dairying or in the products of the dairy.

Marine Notes.

The steamer Deseronto took the place of the Armenia, as the latter had to be put on the ways at Mill Point in order to properly secure her wheel, which had become loose.

The schr. H. P. Murray arrived yesterday afternoon and is at Bleeker's dock.

Nicholas Hardy was dismissed.

Where Was He Killed?

IS A QUESTION UPON WHICH THERE IS A DOUBT, AND THE JURY ARE UNABLE TO DETERMINE.

The adjourned inquiry into the cause of the death of the late Patrick Arkinson was resumed in the Police Court room here last evening at 7:30 before Dr. Willson, Coroner.

Messrs Coleman, Bell and Henderson were again present in behalf of the particular interests each represented.

Richard Taylor, City Surveyor, testified that the height of the North Front Street Bridge was 17ft 4ins between the top of the rails and the under portion of the beams; the height of the ordinary freight car as measured by him was 11ft 2ins. He had heard a petition read in the Council complaining of this bridge and asking that it be removed and a level crossing made over the railroad at that point. He had not examined the western bridge.

Amos E. Proctor deposed that several petitions had been sent to the Council in regard to this bridge and the dangerous character of its approaches. He had communicated with Mr. Bell, G. T. R. Solicitor, with reference to it, but the negotiations regarding it did not result in anything being done.

L. H. Henderson, City Solicitor, gave similar evidence.

There was considerable cross firing between Messrs. Coleman and Bell in regard to the character of the evidence that the former presented, and considerable time was wasted in discussions thereon, which were of very frequent occurrence. The jury seemed weary of the controversy and were pleased when the evidence was closed.

After the usual summing up by the Coroner, the case was given for deliberation and in about half an hour a verdict was returned to the effect that the deceased came to his death by his head having come in contact with one of the overhead bridges, but which one, the jury could not determine. They also advised that these structures be taken down.

Thus ended the case.

Died in Gaol.

AGE AND DEBILITY THE CAUSE.

On Monday, March 22nd, John Haughtailer was brought before the Police Magistrate and committed to gaol as a vagrant for a period of three months. He was taken to the prison on the same day, but since that time has been suffering from ill health caused by old age and general debility. About a week since his illness began to manifest a very serious aspect and the indications were that his end was nigh. He gradually sank—becoming weaker and weaker—and at 6:40 this morning his spirit passed away.

Deceased was a German by birth and was about 82 years of age. He was well educated and seemed to be a man of intelligence and learning—and that he was well educated is attested by the fact that he was able to converse in six different languages.

During the week prior to his death, deceased—who was a Roman Catholic—was attended by the Very Rev. Father Farrelly, who ministered to his spiritual wants and was unremitting in his attentions to the poor old man, whose sands of life had so quietly disappeared. Away from home and friends and amid strangers who knew but little of him or his history, he passed away to that bourne from whence no traveller returns with only prisoners in prison garb to attend him in his last hours.

An enquiry into the cause of the death of the deceased was instituted before Coroner J. P. Macdonnell at 10:30 this morning. After hearing the evidence of the gaol physician and that of several prisoners the jury, through their foreman, C. V. Bogart, Esq., returned a verdict of "death from natural causes."

The remains were interred in the R. C. Cemetery this afternoon.

RESUSCITATION OF A HANGED MAN.

PESTH, April 16.—It is reported that a man named Tacas, aged 23, was hanged on the 14th for murder. Twenty-six minutes after the physicians pronounced life extinct, The body was subjected to an electro-galvanic current. In a few hours he was resuscitated, but soon began to suffer congestion of the brain. During the night he made repeated attacks upon his keepers, and complained of violent pains, asking from time to time for milk and water, He finally died yesterday morning.

CHATEAUGUAY.—Voting in this constituency took place to-day. At the last election Hon L. H. Holton was returned by a majority of 179.

THE BIDDULPH INCENDIARISM.—The jury in the coroner's inquest over the Lucan fire returned a verdict finding that the fire originated within the building, but whether it was a result of accident or of purpose they could not determine. Curiously enough, the intelligent jurors add that "they do not believe that the fire was started from the outside of the building."

INSURANCE POLICIES.—The gross amount of policies which British companies had at risk in Canada in 1879 was $213,131,295, and of American companies $22,920,397; net amount at risk by British companies, $202,436,834; by American companies, $40,167,995; net amount paid for losses by British companies, $1,276,465, by American companies $182,029.

THE WELLAND CANAL.—In order to prevent misconceptions respecting the announcement of the opening of the Welland Canal, Mr. Ellis, the Superintendent, states that so far the canal is open only by way of the feeder to Port Maitland, and not through the main channel to Port Colborne, which will not be open till about the first of May. The feeder has a depth of only seven feet of water.

MR. BROWN'S ASSAILANT.—The Hon. George Brown's assailant was again before the Police Magistrate at Toronto on Friday, but had to be remanded for a week, as Mr. Brown is not yet able to appear. Application for bail was made by his Counsel, as he had been in jail for a month, but it was decidedly refused.

FIRE AT KINGSTON.

Saw Mill and Residence Destroyed.

KINGSTON, April 17.—About one o'clock this morning a fire broke out in Waddingham's steam saw mill, located on Ontario St., and burned very fiercely, the glare of the fire illuminating the whole city. The fire quickly communicated to Mr. Waddingham's residence and to the engine house and the buildings where the mouldings were stored, all of which were totally destroyed. Large quantities of lumber were piled in the vicinity, but by the exertions of the firemen the greater part of it was saved. Most of Mr. Waddingham's furniture was saved. Lost about $15,000; no insurance.

A HINT FOR THE GLOBE.—The leading organ of the Opposition professes to desire the settlement of the North-West and the construction of the Pacific Railway. We would suggest to the Globe, then, that if it be honest in those patriotic desires it should cease to play the game of the Yankee speculators by holding up to the public gaze the alleged attractions of Dakota, and the frequent publication of false statements as to an alleged exodus of Canadians thither.

Ghosts.

Not Col. Ingersoll's "aristocracy of the air" but real human ghosts. Ghosts that were once healthy men and women, but are now simply the "ghosts of what they once were." As we meet them and inquire the cause of all this change, they repeat the old, old story, a cold, neglected cough, catarrh, overwork, or dyspepsia, liver complaint, and constipation with unsuccessful physicians and remedies. In offering his Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets for the cure of the above affections, Dr Pierce does not recommend them as a "sure cure" in all stages. For if the lungs be half wasted away, or there be a cancerous complication, no physician or medicine can cure. The Discovery is, however, an unequaled pectoral and blood purifier. It speedily cures the most aggravated cough, or cold, and in its early or middle stages, consumption. By correcting all irregularities of the stomach and liver, it readily cures blotches, pimples, scrofulous ulcers, "bunches" or tumors. Hundreds testify that it has restored their health after eminent physicians had failed. For constipation, use the Pellets. As a local remedy for catarrh use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

CARPETS.

WE are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealer telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, five, ten, and even twenty-five cents per yard is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION.

The Government's Pacific Railway Policy.

Explicit Statement by Sir Charles Tupper.

MR. BLAKE'S PATRIOTIC REPLY.

(From the Mail's Summary.)

OTTAWA, April 15.

THE PACIFIC RAILWAY.

Sir Charles Tupper had intended to bring in some resolutions concerning the Pacific Railway, but did not do so this afternoon at the opening, leaving that to a later stage so as to enable Mr. Blake to move his proposed resolutions. But at the same time he addressed the House on the general subject of the railway. In doing so his tone was, as on the occasion of bringing in his resolutions last year, moderate, dignified and convincing in its earnestness. The proposition that the country would have gained greatly if the Pacific Railway had been constructed on the terms of the original compact of 1873 was fairly stated to the House. The next proposition was that when Mr. Mackenzie came into power the circumstances were such as to have enabled him to abandon the whole scheme had he so chosen, or had he so felt compelled to choose. But Mr. Mackenzie did not so choose; on the contrary he very emphatically committed himself to the building of the whole line. But he made a change. He chose to build the road as a government work in order, as he himself said, that the people might get the profit of it. He struck out of his Act all reference to private enterprise, and boldly committed Canada to the building of the Pacific railway as a purely national endeavour. It was true that some provisions were made for subsidizing companies by means of lands and money, if the Government was pleased to make that choice, the price of the lands to be fixed between the Governor-in-Council and the contractors. In fact in this way at least 20,000,000 acres of land and $27,000,000 of maney were pledged to the work in that alternative way, and the expense of surveys, &c., was to be borne by the Government. In short the late Government had committed the people of Canada to engagements far more onerous than the Government of 1873 had proposed. It was also proposed by the late Government to build the Georgian Bay branch at a cost of $2,560,000 and to give a subsidy of $1,440,000 to the extension of the Canada Central; in all about $4,-00,000 that Mr. Mackenzie proposed to pay out in addition to the whole cost of the railway actually before reaching the eastern terminus at Lake Nipissing. As to the promise not to increase the rate of taxation, that clause of the Act had been made waste paper of by an actual loan raised for the purpose of aiding the construction of the Pacific railway. In fact the moment the Reform party got into power, they forget all their gloomy anticipations and tried to outdo their predecessors in expenditure and promise. Having added to the eastern end a sum of four millions of money, Mr. Mackenzie proceeded to add other millions at the other end by the well-known Carnarvon terms. These terms were as follows:—

(1) The building of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway.

(2) The pushing on of the surveys with vigor.

(3) The construction of a waggon road and telegraph line.

(4) That two millions per annum be spent in British Columbia on railway works.

(5) That the railway be completed by December, 1890.

As to these same Carnarvon terms Sir Charles Tupper caused a ripple of amusement by referring to that spirit of independent criticism which marked Mr. Blake when he was not in the Cabinet. Mr. Blake had indeed opposed the Carnarvon terms, but Mr. Mackenzie had asked for the "cheerful support" of his party in passing these terms which had added at least eight millions of dollars to the expenditure more than Sir John Macdonald's Government had proposed to expend. Yet Mr. Blake had actually entered that Government and had thus assumed the full responsibility for all that policy of Mr. Mackenzie.

After five years of power, the old party came back to power. They found the Pembina branch incomplete, the water-stretches unutilized, and a vast expenditure incurred in sections of lines beginning nowhere and ending nowhere, and the surveys for which had notoriously been disgracefully incomplete. These facts are fully borne out by the evidence on the Section 15 Committee and by the letter of Mr. Fleming. Sir Charles Tupper had given Mr. Mackenzie last session credit for calling for tenders for the railway in 1878, but he now withdrew his credit, since Mr. Mackenzie himself had admitted that he did not intend to build the sections for which he asked tenders and had only called for the tenders to get at the cost. If this was the case, it was clear that Mr. Mackenzie was not entitied to the credit which last session had been given him in mistake. As to Mr. Mackenzie's responsibility for the increase of the quantities on section 15, Sir Charles stated that the change from trestle work to embankment had been approved of by Mr. Mackenzie before Mr. Fleming left for England. The present Government had effected great savings in most of the contracts by shortening the line and decreasing the cost of the works. In one case alone a saving of $319,000 had been made and similar savings were being made on other contracts. The statement of Mr. Mackenzie that his call for tenders was, in fact, a fraud on British Columbia contracts, and that there was no intention of building the railway, was dealt by the Minister with great force. Sir Charles asked Mr. Mackenzie to explain why it was, if he had not intended to build the Yale-Kamloops section, that he had concluded a contract with persons in British Columbia—to carry rails from Victoria to Yale, involving a cost of $32,400.

The great main plank of the present Government's policy was the building of the railway out of these lands. The present Opposition seem disposed to prove to the world that the lands were of no value. They had declared that we had not a million of acres to utilize. Mr. Mackenzie had done his best to disparage the land and declared last session that we should have to pay people for going into our North-West. Mr. Mackenzie displayed a good deal of restiveness, and protested at this point, but the quotation was driven home with new force by the Minister, who was cheered by the House. The Minister then referred to the mission of Minsters to England, and said that they had left England after many consultations with the late Ministers, in the full confidence that the Imperial authorities had been enlisted with earnestness in the present Government's plans for developing the North-West and building the Pacific railway. The times were not propitious, of course, for making public all the hopes that had been entertained, but the successful party in England would be just as careful of Canadian interests as the Conservatives had been. Sir Charles Tupper read from a recent speech of Mr. Forster to show that that gentleman had recently declared that it would be wise for England to be liberal in this matter. He deepened his earnestness and vigor as he rebuked the Opposition for their evident attempt to weaken the confidence of the people of Canada in the Liberal Administration in England.

Changes would necessarily have to be made in the policy propounded in the resolution of last session. As to the route, Sir Charles dealt with the history of the Government's policy in that matter. He gave to Port Simpson the credit of being a fine port, but the land was not good on that route; in was far out of the current of population, and it would involve a great labor in construction. The merits of the Burrard Inlet route were set forth in striking language. The wisdom of building the Yale-Kamloops section was also set out, Sir Charles giving some account of the region from various authorities. The contracts had been let for maximum quantites. Power had been taken to cut down the work and expenditure at any time on these works. The maximum estimates would probably be reduced very largely in the course of construction.

An unhappy interjection of Mr. Blake caused Sir Charles to repudiate the notion of tarnishing the public faith of Canada and stultifying two Governments by breaking faith with British Columbia and refusing to build this line. All the surveys have been closed in the estimates, and after the 1st July there will be no further surveys except for proper purposes of location. The result of the year's operations as to the route was that in spite of the change to the south of Lake Manitoba, the Burrard Inlet route would not be lengthened more than ten miles. The 200 miles west of Winnipeg would be built for an average of $10,000 per mile. An interjection from Mr. Mackenzie brought forth the Globe's article on the Pacific Railway, in which that paper committed itself to a more enthusiastic forecast of the future of the North-West than Sir John Macdonald himself. Sir Charles said that when he read the article in the Globe he forgave the paper for all the falsehoods and vituperation it had cast on himself.

TO BE CONTINUED.

Middle Life.

"It is a solemn thought and feeling connected with middle life," says the late eloquent F. W. Robertson, "that life's last business is begun in earnest; and it is then, midway between the cradle and the grave, that a man begins to marvel that he let the days of his youth go by so half enjoyed. It is the pensive autumn feeling, it is the sensation of half sadness that we experience when the longest day of the year is passed, and every day that follows is shorter, and the lighter and feebler shadows tell that nature is hastening with gigantic footsteps to her winter grave. So does man look back upon his youth. When the first grey hairs become visible, when the unwelcome truth fastens itself upon the mind that a man is no longer going up hill, but down, and the sun is already westering, he looks back on the things behind, when we were children. But now there lies before him manhood, with its earnest work, and then old age, and then the grave, and then home. There is a second youth for man better and holier than the first, if he will look forward not backward."

Fees of Doctors.

The fee of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Aneamia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.

C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879, Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover.

I am gratefully yours,
R. W. HAMILTON, M. D.

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

MANHOOD:

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or properly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical men examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them unsound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

In medicine all true knowledge comes from studying the causes of disease. The action of these causes upon our organism determines the nature and seat of the malady they produce. A cause which only acts on the stomach will produce a disease of the stomach; and so of causes which act on the lungs, liver, kidneys, bowels, or nervous system. Every known cause capable of producing consumption first acts on the lungs. A small chest, a cramped position of the body, confinement in badly ventilated rooms, congestion and inflammation of the air passages, all act by impairing the breathing and preventing the proper action of the lungs. Consumption results from this interference of the function of the lungs, and the disease which results fixes itself upon that organ.

Now, how should a disease so produced and so located be treated? We should withdraw the patient as fully as possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If that organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we should treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the real point of difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and it is the point which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the physician to be able to point to the result of his practice in proof of the wisdom of his prescriptions. Even at the risk of being accused of egotism, I will venture to say that the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation speaks for itself by the substantial good it has accomplished and is accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. I can point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair. I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians of eminence had pronounced the case "hopeless." And the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and I the lungs; they give the patient medicine to swallow and I give them medicine to inhale. But this difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

Every disease of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence, a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation. We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they act imperfectly and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the surface of the body chilly and the nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by proper diet, clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

Plans, specifications and general conditions can be seen at this office on and after MONDAY, THE 31st DAY OF MAY next, where Forms of Tender can also be obtained.

Parties tendering are expected to have a practical knowledge of works of this class, and are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same; and further, an accepted bank cheque for a sum equal to $250 for each bridge, for which an offer is made, must accompany each Tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfilment of the contract the party or parties whose tender it is proposed to accept will be notified that their tender is accepted, subject to a deposit of five per cent. of the bulk sum of the contract—of which the sum sent in with the tender will be considered a part—to be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General within eight days afterth date of the notice.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION.

The Government's Pacific Railway Policy.

Explicit Statement by Sir Charles Tupper.

MR. BLAKE'S PATRIOTIC REPLY.

(From the Mail's Summary.)

OTTAWA, April 15.

THE PACIFIC RAILWAY.

CONTINUED

He then gave an outline of the expenditure on the road up to date, of which the following affords a sufficiently accurate table :—

Red River line	$ 4,866,891
Telegraph	500,639
Pembina Branch	511,214
Rails, bolts, spikes	2,978,062
Canada Central	963,715
Georgian Bay	12,000
Engineering, &c.	993,000
Payments not under extract	247,306
Total	$10,729,257
Exploration, &c.	3,119,618
Total	$13,848,875
Dawson Route	22,995
Fort Frances locks	287,795
Total	$14,129,165

Sir Charles pointed out that Mr. Mackenzie had spent in British Columbia alone the sum of $1,611,997 for surveys, and on the main line $1,567,621, or a total of $3,119,-618 for surveys alone. The total cost of the line he estimated at $63,119,618, to which must be added the cost of the Pembina branch of $1,750,000, and add $22,000,000 for the 600 miles from Fort William to Nippissing, making a total of about $83,000,000 for the total cost of the line.

Sir Charles dealt also with the land policy and the probable receipts from them. That we could build the road with the lands and have a surplus of lands left was a point which, quoting from Sir John Macdonald, he pressed home on the House. He quoted also the Globe's article recommending portions, great portions of the line as commercial enterprises certain of success. As to the British Columbia section, the Minister quoted the Globe's assertion that if 100,000 people should settle in British Columbia during the progress of the work, that would solve the difficulty as to cost, and the Globe did not see why that should not be the case. As to the question of the cost of operating the road after it is built, the Minister stated the possible objections to that point. He gave the returns of the Pembina branch, showing that for the month of March the receipts from all sources had been $24,771. Sir Charles said that he had no doubt that in 1882, when we would have a large number of miles in operation, all that would pay its own cost without fail.

With regard to the cancellation of the contract for the Georgian Bay branch, Sir Charles made an explanation. The road would have cost $1,900,000, and a large part of the money would have been flung away. To-day the energies of the business men are all directed towards the Sault Ste. Marie railway as a far more promising enterprise. Sir Charles concluded in a peroration which was greeted with repeated rounds of applause from the Ministerial benches.

MR. BLAKE'S SPEECH.

Mr. Blake, on rising, professed with great moderation to deal with the question as Sir Charles Tupper had suggested, as a Canadian and not as a partizan. By way of illustrating his idea of a lofty patriotism, he suggested that April Fool's day was an appropriate day for signing the "mad bargain" with British Columbia. Mr. Blake continued this line of criticism, condemning the "bargain," and sneering at the "inestimable blessing" of union with British Columbia. He dwelt on the promise that the road should be built so as not to increase the "taxation of the country." He detailed in a vein of subdued sarcasm the history of the railway up to the time of Mr. Edgar's diplomatic mission to Victoria.

Mr. Blake contended that the Carnarvon terms were only assented to "so far as they could," and that they were accepted as "limited by the promise not to increase the taxation of the country."

On the question of Mr. Mackenzie's advertisement of August, 1873, in which the Yale-Kamloops section was contained, Mr. Blake declared he knew nothing about it, had no explanations to offer, was out of the Government and out of the country. If Mr. Mackenzie had proposed to build that section in British Columbia while he was in the House, he would have considered it a breach of the statute as to taxation, and would have opposed with all his might the letting of such a contract.

Mr. Blake was very facetious in regard to the resolutions of last session, and had some small sneers at the possible arrangement that had been made with the Tory Government in England.

Mr. Blake's intent regarding the land was as deprecatory as has been of late customary among the Opposition. He doubted the quantity of land in one direction. He doubted the quality in another. He asserted that the Government were trying to build 600 miles of rail with the land of an average Ontario county. On being pressed by Mr. DeCosmos, Mr. Blake was forced to confess that he did not know what was the acreage of an average Ontario county. Yet he was making an elaborate argument based on an assumed knowledge of that fact. All Mr. Blake's references to the land were of a very deprecatory character.

Mr. Blake would aid in finishing the road to Selkirk, pay off the subsidy to the Canada Central, and build the prairie section, but more he would not support. Even this, he declared, was going to burden the country enormously. To do more would be "folly and madness." He took quite a different line from the Globe regarding the land in ridiculing the calculations of Ministers as to the number of settlers in ten years. The Globe admits 750,000 in ten years. The Ministers claim 550,000 in ten years, but Mr. Blake contends that this calculation is "absurdly extravagant." At this point of his speech, Mr. Blake took a dash at the Globe without mentioning the paper. In the article of the 6th April, the Globe, arguing from American statistics, alleged a probable increase in our population. Mr. Blake, from precisely the same premises, came to a different conclusion, holding that the circumstances of the increase were abnormal, and, therefore, deceptive for any purposes of comparison.

Sir R. J. Cartwright suggested at 12.10 o'clock that as Mr. Blake had now spoken for three hours and was likely to speak for some time longer that the debate should be adjourned.

In the absence of Sir John A. Macdonald Sir Charles Tupper and Sir S. L. Tilley seemed inclined to demur and Mr. Blake proceeded.

Sir John entered at this point, however, and at once consented to the adjournment of the debate and of the House.

The House adjourned at 12.10.

FRIDAY, April 16.

Mr. Blake, who continued the speech which was interrupted the preceding evening, prefaced his remarks by a review of the history of the settlement of the Western States, and claimed that the inference which must be drawn from that record certainly did not strengthen the estimates in regard to the settlement of the North-West submitted by the Premier. The two great emigrating countries of Europe were Germany and Ireland, and he argued that it was hopeless to expect to direct any considerable portion of the emigration from the United States and towards Canada. He thought that the Government's estimate as to the rate of increase in the population of the North-West had not a sound basis. As for the revenue on account of the pre-empted and railroad lands, he contended that by an alleged error in the average rate per acre made by the Government the actual cash received during eleven years for these lands, even accepting the estimated amount of sales to be accurate, would be $23,350,000 instead of $38,590,000, with $21,250,000 remaining due at the expiration of the time instead of $32,760,000, making a total miscalculation of $26,830,000. Proceeding, he claimed that as from these facts it was evident that the strain of the expenditure on account of the road would have to be borne by the ordinary sources of revenue of the country, therefore it would be wise to restrict as much as was judicious the annual expenditures on account of the work. Personally, he was very desirous that the North-West should be as rapidly as possible developed, and on these grounds he opposed the expenditure of thirty millions of dollars among the canons and gorges of British Columbia at the present time, because it would by diverting such a large expenditure actually retard the construction of the prairie section. He quoted an elaborate series of statistics for the purpose of demonstrating that while the three larger Provinces, Ontario, Quebec, and New Brunswick, contributed a surplus of revenue over expenditure to the Dominion Treasury, the newer and smaller Provinces manifested a remarkable aptitude for the absorption of taxes. While the United States were decreasing both their national debt and taxation, and so presenting an enticing record to the emigrants of Europe fleeing from oppressive national debts and taxation, Canada was increasing her national debt and taxation at an enormous rate, and therefore could present no such enticing record to the emigrant. He claimed that the taxation of the country was actually being increased, that the increase was partially due to the expenditure on account of the Pacific Railway, that that work absorbed all the money which ought to have been expended in completing the system of enlarged canals in the older Provinces, and finally claimed that therefore the time had arrived when the country should cry "Halt." In conclusion he moved in amendment that the public interest required that the work of constructing the railway in British Columbia should be postponed, and resumed his seat amidst the prolonged cheers of the Opposition, his speech having occupied five hours and a half in delivery.

Mr. Bunster occupied the floor till recess, advancing a few arguments in favor of the speedy construction of the Yale-Kamloops branch.

After recess several private Bills passed through their final stages. The Pacific Railway debate was resumed by Mr. Bunster, who spoke of the wrongs sustained by British Columbia.

There was a certain fitness in Mr. Langevin's rising to speak on this great question. It is now eight years since his valuable report was published, giving all the information that was then available concerning British Columbia. There was, too, a great fitness in his opening remarks that the question had, in the hands of Mr. Blake, become a question as to the propriety of maintaining the Confederation, and respecting the national honor. This was an incisive remark, since Mr. Blake's provincial appeals against the smaller Provinces were certainly calculated to raise discontent with the Confederation, which entails such very serious engagements. Mr. Langevin made a splendidly effective point by quoting to the House a speech made by Mr. Mackenzie to the electors of Ottawa, in which Mr. Mackenzie actually detailed to his audience his contract for carrying the steel rails to Yale, where "next spring" he intended, he said, to begin construction. This rivets home on Mr. Mackenzie the former point made by Sir Charles Tupper concerning the contract for carrying these rails. It will be interesting to hear how Mr. Mackenzie will deal with this subject. Mr. Blake, it will be remembered, refuses responsibility for this matter, and declares he was out of the Government and out of the country. He washes his hands of the business. Mr. Langevin dealt in a very masterly way with Mr. Blake's relations to the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway bill, and his subsequent support of Mr. Mackenzie, even after he had advertised for the tenders for the work against which Mr. Blake now so strongly protests. Mr. Blake protested at this point that he was out of the country. But this would not do. A man who had been a Minister, and who was even then a politician and a member of Parliament, was strangely negligent if in the course of a short visit to England he allowed all the concerns of his country to drop out of his life, and all interest in the plans of his colleagues to depart from him. Mr. Langevin drove home this idea with great vigor, amid the cheers of the House.

Mr. Blake's idea that statements could not look ten years ahead was dealt with as it deserved, as a most unstatesmanlike statement. Mr. Blake's idea that Irishmen would not come to Canada with any degree of cheerfulness after leaving the British Islands with a certain prejudice against British rule, was also refuted by Mr. Langevin in a very practical, masterly manner. Mr. Langevin dealt with the land question, the immigration question, and kindred topics, and closed with an eloquent appeal to the House to sustain the ideas as well as the structure of the Confederation, which was being attacked under cover of Mr. Blake's resolution.

After Mr. Langevin had concluded, there were loud cries of "question." It was not eleven o'clock, and, therefore, quite early. The Speaker rose to ask if the House was ready for the "question." Mr. Mackenzie sat still. Sir Richard Cartwright sat still. Mr. Charlton was not in his place. The Opposition were not prepared to continue the debate. At length, Mr. Casgrain, leader of the Liberals from Quebec, vice Laurier, resigned or effaced, after some consultation with Mr. Mackenzie took the floor, evidently to fill up the time.

The House was perfectly still with suppressed excitement in view of the fact that Mr. Casgrain might "declare himself" on the question of independence, and so startle the weak minds of British statesmen and disrupt the British Empire. But he did not declare himself; he contented himself with pooh-poohing the idea of our being a great people. "Why," he said, "the people of New York have more revenue than we have." It was some comfort, indeed, that Mr. Casgrain believed that "some day" the road would be built, his "some day" meaning some day perhaps when Mr. Casgrain was in power. After Mr. Casgrain had concluded, there were more cries of "question." Mr. Charlton had arrived, but was not ready apparently. Neither was anybody else on that side. Dr. McInnes took the floor, therefore, to criticize Mr. Blake's speech from the British Columbia point of view.

After Mr. McInnes, there were more cries of "question, question." Mr. Charlton moved the adjournment. The House refused. Mr. Mackenzie pressed for an adjournment. Sir John Macdonald pointed out that there had been one adjournment already to oblige Mr. Blake, but there was no need for an adjournment now. There were many members who wanted to speak. The case for the Opposition had been ably and fully put by Mr. Blake. Mr. DeCosmos pressed for an adjournment also.

After a speech from Mr. Brecken, Mr. Charlton again pressed the adjournment. The Government refused. Mr. DeCosmos professed his intention to speak till eight o'clock in the morning, and took out his watch to begin on time at midnight.

At 2:40 the House adjourned on motion of Mr. DeCosmos.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, APRIL 19.

An Advance in Wages.

Opponents of the National Policy having been proved to be wrong in all their prophecies of evil from that measure, have lately taken their stand in the last ditch, determined to stand or fall by the assertion that, whilst the prices of some articles have advanced, no increase in the wages paid to workmen has been made. The Hamilton Spectator, in its issue of the 14th, thus beats down this final defence of the free-traders: "The advance of 10 per cent. in the wages of moulders, which all the employers in this city have agreed to, is a pleasant symptom of the change of the times. This advance, we believe, places the wages in this line up to the highest point which they ever reached even in the most prosperous days of the past. It is quite evident that something is working out an improvement. What workman or employer was thinking of either giving or demanding an increase of wages before the present tariff was passed? We congratulate the men on the advance, and the employers on the state of trade which enables them to give it." It may be added that the shoemakers and screw makers of London have struck for an advance of wages, and the Advertiser says that the employees of the former threaten to replace them with men from the United States. Now if it be true that workmen can be had from the States for the wages now paid in Canada—and the fact is that Messrs. Hyman of London have at present men from that country working for them—the outcry which the Tiser has persistently made as to the evil effects of our tariff, so far at least as the leather trade is concerned, must be untrue. It has never been asserted that the boot and shoe manufacturing business in the United States has been unusually dull, hence the Tiser's contentions dispose of each other after the fashion of the Kilkenny cats, which, in their historical fight, left not a remnant of their former selves.

RESIGNATION OF LORD BEACONSFIELD.—A cable despatch of the 18th says:—"Lord Beaconsfield went to Windsor to-day to meet the Queen on her arrival from her continental trip. He also placed his resignation as Premier in her hands. Lord Beaconsfield will remain at Windsor to-night and will return to London on Monday morning. The Marquis of Salisbury did not go to Windsor. Sir Stafford Northcote has already vacated the official residence."

Chateauguay.

The election for the Commons which was held in this constituency on Saturday resulted in the return of Mr. Edward Holton, the Liberal candidate, by a majority of 189, or 10 more than the majority given to his father in September, 1878. This result is in accordance with general anticipation, as it was believed that the wide-spread sympathy for Mr. Holton, owing to the untimely death of his respected parent, would have a very strong influence in his favor, and so it has proved. At the same time, the fact is apparent that in Chateauguay there has been no reaction against the Government policy, and had any other gentleman been the Opposition candidate his defeat would in all probability have resulted.

Political Notes.

JAY GOULD ON PROTECTION.

It is stated that in 1870 when the duty on steel rails was changed from 45 per cent. to 1½ cents a pound, Congressman Hewitt, of New York, asked Jay Gould who is one of the shrewdest capitalists in America, to sign a memorial seeking the reduction. Mr. Gould, then President of the Erie Railroad, declined, as follows: "It seems to me that our policy should be to foster and encourage home products, rather than open our markets to such a formidable competition as would inevitably result from the reduction of duty so strongly urged in the memorial. By establishing extensively the manufacture of steel rails on our own soil, and protecting their production by a tariff which would effectually prevent the importation of European rails to any great extent, we would, in my opinion, be largely the gainers in the long run; for the capital invested would all be kept in the country; our operatives would find constant and lucrative employment and the general effect upon our business could not fail to be beneficial. I am at a loss to perceive why we should contribute so large an amount annually to build up the trade and manufactures of foreign countries while our own interests are sacrificed by just so much. Entertaining these views, I do not feel at liberty to attach my signature to the memorial."

HOME PRODUCTION LOWERS PRICES.

This is what the Chicago Railway Age has to say of the "boom" in iron amongst our neighbors:—"Just at the moment of most brilliant promise to American iron manufacturers, a note of warning is sounded in the telegram announcing that the ways and means committee in Congress will report favorably upon a reduction of $14 on the present tariff on steel rails. An intelligent looker-on argues that if the present tariff is retained our iron masters can hold their own against foreign competition. 'But,' he goes on to say, 'the increased home production will pull down prices before a great while. It will not long be possible to sell a product for twice what it costs to produce it. The present rates are largely due to the eagerness of consumers to be supplied at once. It is they and not the manufacturers that crowd the price up by outbidding each other for immediate supplies. As soon as the machine-shops, rolling-mills, locomotive works and other large consumers of iron are pretty well stocked, and are less importunate in their demands, the price of pig-metal will drop. Nobody believes, however, that it will fall below $20 again, or even below $30 very soon." The conclusion that home production keeps down prices is the result of experience. It has already manifested itself in Canada.

THE N. P. AND RECIPROCITY.

The Toronto Telegram says:—"Commercial bodies and leading commercial men in the United States are becoming alive to the necessity of steps being taken to bring about closer commercial relations between that country and this. This is pretty good proof that the new tariff is beginning to make itself felt. There has of late been more agitation among our neighbors and less among our own people, looking to closer commercial relations, than has been noticeable since Mr. Brown went to Washington to get a renewal of the reciprocity treaty. Canada made several attempts to bring about closer commercial relations and failed, the United States preferring the jug-handled arrangement that existed before the National Policy was put in force. Appearances all go to show that the National Policy is opening the eyes of our neighbors to the realization of the fact that there are some games at which two can play as well as one."

Sunday Services.

THE MILITARY AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Miss Mary Merrill's Funeral Sermon.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

Nos. 1 and 4 Companies of the 49th Batt. attended divine service yesterday morning at the Baptist Church. Each company assembled at its respective armory prior to the hour of eleven, and No. 4 having joined No. 1 on the Market Square, both companies, headed by the Oddfellows' Band, paraded to the church above named. During the march the band played a number of sacred musical selections, which they rendered in a highly acceptable manner. The appearance of the men was highly creditable; their clothing betokened neatness; their marching was excellent, and their general appearance was in strict accordance with military taste and exactness.

The march from the Market Square was up Front Street, across the upper bridge and thence down Coleman Street to the church—the band all the while playing various sacred selections.

After the usual preliminary church services, Rev. Mr. Turnbull took for his text the 13th, 14th and 15th verses of the 5th chapter of Joshua.

After his introductory Mr. Turnbull divided his subject into three parts "Vigilance, Readiness, and Obedience." He admitted the necessity of vigilance as a mistake in Joshua's case—and even in later days—would be inducive to ruin; he urged that nothing should be left undone that would have a tendency to save God's people from ruin—from what was right, just and true. It becomes us to exercise vigilance so that we may not be led astray or deceived by what we are told of and if we should be beset with dangers God will assist us for hath He not said "keep thy heart with all vigilance." The heart of man should belong to God and that which does not lead us to higher, holier and loftier things is inimical to the Divine Being and does not appeal for the safety of the soul. Our object in this life should be that we would do everything that would tend to a higher and holier connection of ourselves to God. A plain lesson was shown to us in the text, and if we acted as we were directed and did what He wants we would drive out our enemies, but we could only do so by His direction and aid. We should put ourselves under the guidance of the Captain of the army of Salvation and ask what will He have us to do. The pathways of evil are met by the graves of good resolutions and intentions which have been unfulfilled. He alone is free who has made truth his maxim and he who contends under Christ and takes his orders from the Captain of the army of Salvation will achieve the victory, and though there are and have been victorious generals—and the world praises them—they do not compare with the Captains of the hosts of God. Are you ready to enlist in His service? Will you obey His commands and execute them—the orders of the King of Kings and Lord of Lords? Devotion and readiness should be the characteristics of the soldier of any sovereign, as was attested by the noble six hundred; "their's to do or die," &c. &c., and that command they implicitly obeyed, even to death. We should give up sinful habits, tricks and passions, forsake the companionship of those who would surround us with evil influences, and by so doing we would be benefitted—we would obey God's ordinances and be made free, or we would bring upon ourselves condemnation and death. No matter what God's commands are, it is ours to do, and without question—and may we be ever watchful, ready and obedient to His commands.

At the conclusion, the Companies formed in line, preceded by the band, and after marching to their armories, dispersed. The progress through the streets was watched by large numbers, who lined the sidewalks and filled the windows on the line of march.

BIBLE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

The announcement that the Rev. Mr. Schuster would preach a sermon on the death of the late Miss Mary Merrill drew together a large congregation in the Bible Christian Church last evening, as all the seats in the edifice were well filled.

The discourse of the reverend gentleman was taken from the 3rd Chapter of Hebrews, the 7th and a portion of the 8th verses.

In the introductory Mr. Schuster said that God speaks and man cannot be so blind as to doubt that His voice monifests itself and cannot but be heard. It could not be denied that God spoke and that His voice could be heard and though men might shrink and try to avoid the truth of his statement, yet God spoke and in accordance with His word: He speaks in His works; He speaks to the inner conscience of man; He speaks through nature; everything around us teaches us that there is a God—and chiefly so because we see His works; He has a power to guide; a power to rule; a power to uphold and a power to direct his influences. Man cannot do this, as his strength is not sufficient for the purpose, and therefore the necessity of a controlling power was apparent. Those who uphold the doctrine of infidelity say that nature is sufficient for the endorsation of their theories, but there never was a creature without a creator, and there could be no law existing without a law-giver, and it was folly to believe there had never been a Creator. Civilization and education may make a man turn to a channel of evil, but if he is brought up in a channel of right he may become a power for good. Man needs a higher power to control and influence him. His voice must be obeyed, for it teaches us obedience and that obedience is in conformity with the will of God, and all who are obedient to His will will receive their reward. In our youthful days we have been told of the wondrous works of God; we have been instructed in the Sabbath School and it cannot but be said that there was a power above all. A man's heart accustoms itself to vice because he becomes as dead to it; so also does one become accustomed to drink and like evil. Thus do men become disobedient; thus do men become mockers; despisers of religion and infidels. The latter become so on account of practice and habit and a disobeyance of the will of God. Hardness of heart was one of the worst calamities that could fall upon man and there was nothing so dreadful as for a person to say there was no God. "To-day if you hear His voice harden not your hearts." "Now is the accepted time, now is the day of salvation." There was difficulty in delay and the difficulty would increase if we did not obey His voice. The voice of God spoke in the death of Mary Merrill. She was well educated and talented and was a lady of superior mental attainments. The voice of death teaches us the need of sympathy and of love. This the speaker knew from his going from house to house. The death of this young lady teaches us that there is no comfort but in the religion of Christ. Spiritualism and infidelity had not given her any comfort, but true religion would have achieved that end, for Christ is the friend of all. Ingersoll and his doctrines had added nothing to the happiness of Miss Merrill. "Is it true she is dead?" said one. "No," said another. God had an object in taking her away, but the purpose was only known to Him, and she was now in the hands of Him who knows all things. We should consecrate ourselves to God; harden not our hearts and live the life of the good.

Court of Chancery.—The business before this Court was concluded on Saturday night and the Court rose.

Lumber.—A quantity of seasoned beech and maple lumber has been brought to the Grand Junction dock for shipment.

Reminder.—Remember the presentation of "Othello" at the Opera House tomorrow night by the Belleville Histrionic Association.

Licenses.—The License Commissioners for West Hastings will meet on Wednesday to determine upon the applications for the issue of licenses for the sale of liquors within their jurisdiction for the coming year.

Storm.—Another thunder and rain storm took place during last night, the rain falling in torrents for a time. A southerly gale has succeeded, and added one more to the number of heavy blows for which the present month will be celebrated.

Business Looking Up.—Noxon Bros., agricultural implement manufacturers, Ingersoll, in a circular addressed to their agents, state that they wish to employ a number of machinists, blacksmiths and wood workers. This does not look as if the taxes on iron and coal were ruining this industry, as the Globe predicted they would, neither do the farmers have to pay the exorbitant prices which were prophesied.

The Timber Trade.—There will be two more train loads of timber from Hastings, and three train loads from El Dorado for Messrs. Buck & Stewart, and after all has been received the work of rafting will at once be commenced at the cove near Buck's saw mill. The timber is a mixture of white pine, red pine and elm, and though not large is of good quality. Considerable difficulty has been encountered in keeping the logs in the booms, owing to the frequent gales from nearly all points of the compass, but although a few sticks got adrift all have been secured.

Harper's for May.—Harper's Magazine for May presents an unusual variety of entertaining matter, and is full of beautiful illustrations. The novelty of the number is striking. The opening article, by Henry J. Van Dyke, jr., takes us to the Red River Valley and across the border into Manitoba. The resources and the picturesque features of the country and its peculiar people (including the Mennonite immigrants) furnish entirely fresh pictures for pen and pencil; and, in the use of the latter, Mr. W. S. Macy, the artist, has been very efficient. All the other articles and the usual departments are up to a high standard.

Educational.—The Minister of Education lately issued some new Regulations to the following effect:—After the July examinations in 1880 the examinations for Third Class non-professional certificates before County Boards will be discontinued, and candidates in order to become entitled to such certificates must pass successfully the High School Intermediate examination. Graduates of McGill College, Montreal, are placed on the same footing as graduates of the Universities of Ontario. A candidate for first class certificate must obtain Grade C. before proceeding to Grades B. and A. First class honor students of the University of Toronto or of any Provincial University having a curriculum of equal standard or of McGill College may receive first class certificates of Grades A. and B. on certain conditions named.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

Gloversville, N. Y. April 19.—Levi Parson, of New York city, has given $50,000 to establish a public library for Gloversville, and the Kingston citizens have subscribed nearly $50,000 for building lots.

New York, April 19.—Edward Duffy hung himself this morning; he was disappointed because the Erie R.R. took a restaurant from him.

London, April 19.—The Standard has reason to believe that Beaconsfield yesterday tendered his resignation and that it was accepted. No steps towards the selection of a successor have been taken. No understanding has been attempted between Granville, Hartington and Gladstone.

Paris, April 19.—Marie Escudier, author and publicist, is dead, aged 69.

DeLesseps, in concluding his lecture on Saturday on the Panama canal, said he acted under the concession of the Colombian Government. No other power had anything to do with it. The management would rest with whomsoever chose to become shareholders.

The Times says that the prospective abrogation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty is the result which may be credited thus far to the visit of Lesseps to America. Lesseps and his new enterprise have given the signal for its death blow.

During the past week thirteen large steamships left the Mersey for North American ports with passengers and considerable general cargoes. Most of them bound for the United States. This is believed to be unprecedented.

London, April 19. — James Miller, alias Maxwell, was arrested in Liverpool yesterday on charges of forgery on British banks. It is said he is wanted for forgeries in America.

Constantinople, April 19.—Several army and navy contractors recently demanded an interview with the Sultan, stating they were ruined by the Porte and were unable to provide further provisions. As there is no money in the Treasury, it is greatly feared the provisions to the army will be stopped. The sum due the contractors is more than a million pounds. The resolution of the contractors has created a great sensation.

Washington, April 19.—The Senate Committee of Railways decided 7 against 4 to recommend the extension of time for the completion of the Northern Pacific Railway six years.

Cincinnati, April 19.—Lewis county, West Va., was excited on Friday; a man named Heffner was shot by an unknown person while sitting on a porch. John Shreve has been found dead and concealed in a fence corner. The citizens are talking of forming a vigilance committee.

The Earl of Scarborough was injured, it is believed fatally, by the overturning of a drag.

Gladstone has arrived.

The British steamer Para from Southampton for the West Indies recently reported as spoken when disabled has been towed to St. Michael's, Azores.

New York, April 19.—Arrived, the Thanmore from London.

London, April 19.—Arrived, the City of London, and Galatea.

Queenstown, April 19.—Arrived, the Germanic.

WEATHER REPORTS.

Toronto, April, 19.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the lower lakes, easterly to southerly, followed by south-westerly and westerly winds, partly cloudy weather, with local rains or thunder storms.

Washington, April 19.—Indications: for lower lakes, cloudy, rainy cooler weather.

A Cross Baby.

Nothing is so conducive to a man's remaining a bachelor as stopping for one night at the house of a married friend and being kept awake for five or six hours by the crying of a cross baby. All cross and crying babies need only Hop Bitters to make them well and smiling. Young man, remember this.—Ed.

Ghosts.

Not Col. Ingersoll's "aristocracy of the air" but real human ghosts. Ghosts that were once healthy men and women, but are now simply the "ghosts of what they once were." As we meet them and inquire the cause of all this change, they repeat the old, old story, a cold, neglected cough, catarrh, overwork, or dyspepsia, liver complaint, and constipation with unsuccessful physicians and remedies. In offering his Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets for the cure of the above affections, Dr Pierce does not recommend them as a "sure cure" in all stages. For if the lungs be half wasted away, or there be a cancerous complication, no physician or medicine can cure. The Discovery is, however, an unequaled pectoral and blood purifier. It speedily cures the most aggravated cough, or cold, and in its early or middle stages, consumption. By correcting all irregularities of the stomach and liver, it readily cures blotches, pimples, scrofulous ulcers, "bunches" or tumors. Hundreds testify that it has restored their health after eminent physicians had failed. For constipation, use the Pellets. As a local remedy for catarrh use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

CARPETS.

We are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealer telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, five, ten, and even twenty-five cents per yard is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'And can he describe him! What sort of a fellow was he!' exclaimed one, putting the two questions which quivered on every tongue.

'He saw nothing but his face, but that he observed distinctly when the light from the coachman's lamp flashed upon it.'

'Well, what was it like! Anything peculiar about it!'

'Yes, very peculiar,' returned Philip, with the most marked deliberation.

'How—how?' was the eager and universal demand.

'He had a broken nose, a squint in his left eye, and a profusion of black curly hair.'

Had a bombshell burst in the room a more astounding sensation could not have been produced. An utter silence prevailed, and mechanically every eye turned upon Jonas Podgers, who sat like a man seized with a fit of apoplexy.

'Ha! ha! ha!' he burst out hysterically, his face working the while with frightful contortions. 'That is a good joke, air—a capital joke—but rather too personal. You must be aware, sir, that you have described a face somewhat likemine.'

'I am perfectly aware of it,' replied Philip.

'Then in that case, sir, it is nothing less than an insult, and I never allow insults to be put upon me.'

'Oh, hang it, it is too bad that,' cried the commercial, reprovingly. 'I like a joke in its way, but that is just a little beyond a joke.'

'Gentlemen,' said Philip, in a clear stern voice, 'I am not much given to joking, and on the present occasion I never was further from it. The countenance I have described is an accurate description of the robber of the mail, and I leave you to judge if it applies to any person in this room.'

'God bless us!' gasped the commercial, turning again to Jonas Podgers, and his example was followed by the whole company, their looks indicating now the most excessive alarm and suspicion.

He leaped from his seat and glared round upon them.

'I'll not stay here to be used so,' he shouted. 'Confound you, I'm as good as any of you all; and as for you, you lying scoundrel (this to Philip), I'll make you answer to me for this.'

'Ay, you are coming out at length in your true colors,' retorted Ravensworth, rising to his feet as the other had done.

'But my fine fellow, you are discovered at last, and your infamous career is closed. You'll understand that when I call you by your true name—Huffey White!'.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A Good Housewife.

The good housewife, when she is giving her house its spring renovating, should bear in mind that the dear inmates of her house are more precious than many houses, and that their systems need cleansing by purifying the blood, regulating the stomach and bowels to prevent and cure the diseases arising from spring malaria and miasma, and she mustknow that there is nothing that will do it so perfectly and surely as Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines. See other column.

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which is rapidity increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately introduced. Boschees German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents. Sample bottle, 10 cents.

The Hunter!

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and resort to subtlety to secure his prey. But his life is one of great attraction. He is usually very methodical, putting up with the coarseness of the camp. Sometimes his camp is enlivened by the presence of an enthusiastic, when expenses are ignored and every possible adjunct to comfort is provided. Old "Sharp Eye," the leader, knows the favorite spots where game may be expected, and he plants himself thereabouts. Then comes the rude chase, the excitement attending the pursuit, the fatal shots ringing through the air, the gathering of the game, and the return to the camp, intimate with feasting and the stories of the hunters. It is splendid to have a good hunt. It is a good thing, also, to hunt for diseases in the human system, to drive them away. And for this commend me to DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS. They are the most experienced hunters after diseases known.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

MR. M. GILES, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition — meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said: "I vartned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 56 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LINER O with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving rapidly. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879, Very truly yours, H. E. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER JAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR,:—I have been using your medicine for over a year and find it the best of all. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but ling difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or properly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical men examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them unsound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

In medicine all true knowledge comes from studying the causes of disease. The action of these causes upon our organism determines the nature and seat of the malady they produce. A case which only acts on the stomach will produce a disease of the stomach; and so of causes which act on the lungs, liver, kidneys, bowels, or nervous system. Every known cause acts alike of producing consumption first acts on the lungs. A small chest, a cramped position of the body, confinement in badly ventilated rooms, congestion and inflammation of the air passages, all act by impairing the breathing and preventing the proper action of the lungs. Consumption results from this interference of the function of the lungs, and the disease which results fixes itself upon that organ.

Now, how should a disease so produced and so located be treated? We should put within the patient as fully as possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If that organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we should treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the real point of difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and it is the point which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the physician to be able to point to the result of his practice in proof of the wisdom of his prescriptions. Even the patient of dubious mind, if cured, will venture to say that the direct treatment of the substantial good it has accomplished and its accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. Loan point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair. I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians of eminence had pronounced the case "hopeless." And the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and I the lungs; they give the patient medicine to swallow and I give them medicine to inhale. But this difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

Every disease of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence, a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation. We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they act imperfectly and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the sufferings of the body chilly and the nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by proper diet, clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

If impossible to visit the office personally, write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, together with a copy of my "Medical Treatise on Diseases of the Breathing Organs." Address,

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION

BUILDING AND LOAN SOCIETIES' RELIEF BILL.

HON ROBERT READ'S SPEECH.

MESSRS. READ AND FLINT ON SESSIONAL INDEMNITY.

(From the Official Report.)

TUESDAY, April 13.

Hon. Mr. Read—This is a Bill for the relief of building and loan societies. It is in my mind the time has arrived when Parliament should be called upon to discuss a measure for the relief of borrowers as well as lenders. If a little regard had been paid in the past by Parliament to borrowers from loan societies, I think we should not have found so much of the distress that exists in the country at the present time. I have always been opposed to free trade in money. I have always contended that money is not like any other commodity, but that the rate of interest should be restricted. The proposed amendments do not interfere with existing contracts, but only provide a necessary safeguard for the future against those harpies who, in some cases, exact as high a rate of interest as 24 per cent. from unfortunate borrowers. I hold in my hand a statement from the Hamilton Provident and Loan Society, from the hand of Mr. H. D. Cameron, Treasurer of the Society, which I shall submit to the House by way of illustration, in the hope that it will arouse the country to the enormity of the evil that exists and the extortion that is being practiced by those companies. This statement was sent to Mr. John White, M. P., and is an account rendered to him. Mr. A. R. Wigmore. He had just married and purchased a farm, on which he had paid about one thousand dollars of his own means, and had borrowed on it one thousand dollars, to pay the balance of the purchase money, from the Hamilton Provident and Loan Society. The number of the loan is No. 2,069. The first instalment in payment of the loan was $131.37, which fell due on the first of January, 1879. Through the failure of his crop and other causes, he was unable to send the money promptly when it was due. All appeals for time to allow him to make up the amount were unheeded, and, on the 19th of March, the Company proceeded to sell the property. On the 19th of July he came to the farm passed into other hands for $1,500. No writ of ejectment was taken out against the mortgagor, who was led to infer that he would be permitted to reap the crop of fall grain he had in the ground. He had just got the harvested and put in the barn, when the Company placed a writ in the hands of the bailiff, leaving the unfortunate man stripped of everything. Now, I ask you what it cost this man for the use of that thousand dollars, $263.37, or nearly 24 per cent. for one year. The costs in selling the farm were $210.09,—so that in the above space of one year, three months and nineteen days, the man paid for the use of a thousand dollars; over $455 51, besides bailiff's fees and other expenses. I think I cannot do better than submit the whole statement in order to convince my hon. friend from Hamilton (Mr. Hope) that these companies do exact as high a rate of interest as 24 per cent. from borrowers.

"Yours truly,
(Signed) "H. D. CAMERON,
"Treasurer.
"Per K."

It is time that the farmers of this country were waked up; a farmer requires only one transaction of this kind with a loan company to keep him in bondage for the rest of his life time. The letter enclosing the above statement was sent to a member of the other House, Mr. John White, M. P., requesting him to use his influence to obtain some measure of protection for unsuspecting farmers against these loaning institutions. I think this House is a place where, probably, the borrower will get less relief than the lender, as we are not influenced by the same feelings as other representatives, for whom the people have the right to say, when appealed to: "What course will you take in Parliament on this vital question?" It is a question affecting deeply the best interest of this country—probably more so than any other subject before the House. I know it is said: "Let borrowers and lenders make their own bargains," but I have never believed in it, and I do not believe in it to-day.

Hon. Mr. Kaulbach—Is not the hon. gentleman a shareholder or director in one of those companies?

Hon. Mr. Read—I have stock in one, but I am not a director.

Hon. Mr. Aikins—Does it pay well?

Hon. Mr. Read—I am not under examination on that point.

Hon. Mr. Smith—Do you take the interest when it is offered to you.

Hon. Mr. Read—I have received some interest, and I have also received some light on the operations of loan societies. I know how the people are imposed upon; I know that, when borrowers suppose they are only paying seven per cent they are paying fourteen or fifteen per cent.

Hon. Mr. Kilbaugh—Has not my hon. friend been a director.

Hon. Mr. Read—I have been a director, and I know what I am talking about; and I say that Parliament has a right to step in and assist the weak against the strong. I do not wonder that many of our people are going to the United States, though I do not know that legislation will prevent it; but I do say that cases like the one I have cited deserve to be exposed, and they shall be exposed by me whenever I get an opportunity to do so. This is the only case in which I have the statement of a Company.

Hon. Mr. Hope—The hon. gentleman has no such statement from the Company; it is something that has been sent down or invented by some other party.

Hon. Mr. Read—Will the hon. gentleman be so kind as to be called to order? How does he know that I have not? What right has he to say so? The hon. gentleman speaks feelingly; no doubt it touches him, and when people are touched, they become uneasy and cannot keep their seats. I was not aware that the hon. gentleman from Hamilton was the Hamilton Provident Loan Society, or that he had been chiselling this unfortunate man out of twenty-four per cent a year—

Hon. Sir Alex. Campbell — Order! Order!

Hon. Mr. Read—If he is, I wish him [illegible]

Hon. Mr. Flint—I am sorry that I have not the same feelings as the hon. gentleman who has just addressed the House. I feel strongly on this subject, but I think it is my duty to do so. Complaints have no right to set traps and snares for poor people leading them to believe one thing, when, in fact, it is something else entirely different. I am inclined to think this Bill ought to be amended, and that, before we get through this session of Parliament, we will have another measure before the House containing even more stringent provisions than those now proposed by the hon. gentleman from Prescott. The people are going to take it up, and the people's representatives will be heard in a manner that this House cannot disregard.

WEDNESDAY, April 14.

Sir Alexander Campbell moved: "That the Clerk be instructed to prepare, for the use of the Standing Committee on the Contingencies of the Senate, a statement of all sums paid to members of this House for Sessional indemnity and mileage since 1867, inclusive, and to submit the same to the said Committee."

Hon. Mr. Read—Before this motion is carried, I would like to say a few words on the subject. It is true there may have been improper imendoes, but when we know that, for a few days attendance in this House, some hon. gentlemen take away large sums of money, while others who spend for a much longer time, receive smaller sums, it is right to call attention to it. I have, on the Contingencies Committee, complained of this matter when it has come to my notice; I have contended that this is the true construction of the law, and a member can take away as many hundred of dollars as the days he attends in this House, if in time some change was made in the Statute. I should not have taken part in the affairs of the ex-Secretary of State had not said there were improper imendoes thrown out. I say there have been truths told, not imendoes, and I think it my duty to rise in my place, because I may have been one of those to whom reference is made, as it is well known that I have spoken of this matter.

Hon. Mr. Scott—I made no reference to my hon. friend.

Hon. Mr. Read—The hon. gentleman was present when I brought it up in Committee. It was no hearsay on my part; it is what I know to be a fact, as far as a man can know, and it is my duty to refer to it.

Hon. Mr. Flint—Last session, I felt it my duty to bring under the notice of the Contingencies Committee my position as compared with that of some other gentlemen, the year before, with regard to our indemnities. In 1878 I attended here twelve sessional days, and was present five non-sitting days, making in all seventeen days' attendance, for which I received $170. I had remained at home attending to my business until the latter end of the session, and then came down here at a time when the presence of members was most required, and attended to my parliamentary duties for more than I have stated. But I found that other gentlemen, who had only attended four or five days at the commencement of the session, had received their $10 per diem for the session, the eight dollars per day deducted for days that they had not attended. It struck me as very unfair that one gentleman should thus receive five or six hundred dollars for fifteen days' attendance, while I received only $170 for seventeen days. I am not a lawyer, and may be a little dull of comprehension, but it does seem to me that the law is so construed that, supposing a member attended only the first three sittings of the House, at a time when there is nothing doing, and there were sixty sittings during the session, he would be able to draw his $1,000, less $8 per day for fifty-seven days, which would give him $544 for his three days' attendance. I ask if this is fair? Is it right that any gentleman should receive this much money for three days' attendance at the commencement of the session, while another member who could only attend the latter, and most important part of the session, should receive but $10 per day? When I brought the matter before the Committee the hon. gentleman from Richmond explained it as it has been already explained here to-day, but, notwithstanding that explanation, it seems to me to be very unfair that one member should receive so much for so little work, while another should receive so small a sum for very much more work. I should not have risen on this occasion, but for the remarks of the hon. Minister of Militia that, as a matter of course, when a member comes here at the opening of the session and gets three days he is entitled to pay for all the holidays between that and the close of the session to make up his allowance. Under such a construction of the law, it would be an advantage to all the members to remain away for the last half of the session altogether. I do not think it is justice to the members of this House or justice to the country, and I do trust that the Minister of Militia will see that the law is amended in accordance with what is right and just.

On the 15th the loan question was again brought up, when our local Senators spoke to the following effect:

Mr. Flint was pleased that Mr. Brouse had brought forward his amendments, but bore testimony to the good faith with which one company with which he had been connected had carried on their business. It was not the case with all societies, however, as he knew one in Hamilton that had collected as much as 22½ per cent. on loans, and of many farms in the County of Hastings that had to be abandoned by the owners, who had got into the toils of loan societies.

Mr. Read again read a statement of the Hamilton Provident and Loan Company in re sale of Wigmore's property, and contended that it showed beyond dispute that the Society had collected over 23 per cent. on the money loaned. He attacked lawyers' costs as being extortionate in connection with conducting proceedings on foreclosure of mortgages, and said it was time legislation was had to regulate such matters also.

Political Notes.

EQUALIZATION OF WAGES.

The Globe, in one of its latest disquisitions on the tariff, says:

It may be taken for granted that the workingmen who are flocking across the border go because they can find more work at better wages than the N. P. allows them. Were our trade not confined by artificial barriers the rate of wages would soon be equalized between the two countries or if not actually equalized, the purchasing power of Canadian wages and American wages would approximate.

Could greater nonsense than the above extract be penned? Is not the trade of the United States confined by "artificial barriers," and higher ones than those which the Globe would fain level to the ground in Canada? And is it not ridiculous to propose to equalize wages or approximate their purchasing power in a highly protected country such as the United States and in a free trade country such as the Opposition organ would have Canada become? Such a feat would not, perhaps, be impossible, but the Globe's party, when they had the opportunity lasting through five years, most lamentably failed to do so. High wages are always attractive, their purchasing power being a secondary consideration, and the country in which they are paid will inevitably have an advantage in securing skilled labor over one in which the rate of pay may be relatively as good but is smaller in amount.

THE GOOD TIME COMING.

In spite of its "doleful dismals," the free trade organ sees a good time coming for Canada, despite the N. P., and so it says in its issue of the 19th :—"This season a general revival of trade will probably take place. The long-prevailing feeling of despondency has passed away in England and the United States, it must shortly disappear from Canada, and we expect to see many enterprises begun under the influence of the new buoyant spirit of confidence. Once more everything will 'go up,' and stay up till on the next crisis occurs." These cheerful sentences are worth a dozen columns of the grumbling which the organ usually indulges in.

CITY COUNCIL.

MONDAY, April 20.

The Council met at 8 p. m:

PRESENT—His Worship the Mayor; Messrs. Brennan, Jas. Smith, McIninch, D. Holden, Costello, A. L. Smith, Farley, Robertson, Grant, T. Holden, Jellett, Petrie, Wallbridge, Proctor, Vandusen, Geen, St. Charles.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

PETITIONS, &c.

The following petitions, &c., were presented and read :

From the Treasurer, stating that the receipts for March were $25,357.33, expenditure $22,567, the balance being drawn from bank. Fines and fees collected $112.85.

From the Collector, stating that he had been unable to return the rolls on account of ill health, although getting along with them nicely, and asking for one month's extension of time.

From the Separate School Trustees, stating that property to the value of $20,000 belonging to Separate School supporters had been assessed for Public School purposes, and asking that the taxes on the same be returned for Separate School purposes. The parties owning this property had expressed their desire to withdraw their support from the Separate Schools, but the Trustees contend that the notice given was insufficient.

Requisition from the Separate School Trustees for $1,825, exclusive of cost of collection.

From the Solicitor, stating that the debentures for the Grand Junction Railway bonus had been handed to the chairman of the trustees, with interest from date of issue. This the Company refused to accept, claiming interest from date of By-law, namely, Dec. 31, 1876, and had taken out a mandamus. He suggests the appointment of a special Committee on the subject, and that power be given to employ counsel, also enclosing award, re Ann street.

From Joseph Maiden, claiming a quarter's salary for services as inspector under the Cow By-law, namely $12.50.

From Mrs. J. B. Patterson, regarding assessment, which she claims is wrong.

From Jonathan Stead, for refunding of fine and costs re Snow By-law, $5.20.

From T. S. Carman, offering to print debentures at same price as he had charged the Township of Thurlow.

Some accounts were presented.

The Solicitor's letter was laid on the table and the other matters were referred.

REPORTS.

Ald. Jellett said he had failed to get a quorum of the Finance Committee on Friday night, on account of the storm, consequently he had no report to present.

Of the Harbor Committee, that sundry accounts be paid; that W. R. Scott's offer to lease Bushy Island be not accepted; that a better light be placed on the Grand Junction dock at a cost not to exceed $25; that trees be planted in certain places; and that Henry D. Brennan be appointed tally Clerk at $1.25 per day.

Of the Fire Committee, that they had received the following tenders for water tank to hold 50,000 gallons: Thomas Munley $393; James Munley $675; John Wickham $830; Wm. Robertson $938; James H. Redick $884; T. Burns $933, and that the tender of Thomas Munley be accepted; also that the petitions of P. O'Brien and John Forin are recommended to the Finance Committee for adoption, and that the hose received had been accepted at a reduction of $50.

Of the Poor and Sanitary Committee, that the expenditure on the hospital which was burned was $161.16; that the cost of that on the island was $408.22; Dr. Potts for medicine and medical attendance, $555; Dr. Curlett, $95 and other accounts, in all amounting to $1,200.40. There are also accounts from James Emsley and the nurse for 31 days each at $2 per day. The expenditures on poor for the first three months of the year are $758.

INQUIRY.

Ald. Jellett inquired why there was no report from the Printing Committee. He understood that there had been a meeting since the last meeting of Council.

Ald. Geen said there had been a meeting for special purposes. The INTELLIGENCER account had not been considered, although spoken of, as they were seeking further information in regard to it.

Ald. Jellett thought it full time that this matter was disposed of, as it had been standing for about a year, and all the items were properly certified. Would there be a report at next meeting?

Ald. Geen answered that he could not say positively.

NOTICES.

Ald. Robertson gave notice of By-laws regarding the adoption of award re Ann Street, also for the inspection of milk and of bread sold in the city.

Ald. Costello gave notice of motion for the watering of Front Street, from Dundas Street to the Station by the team employed in drawing the engines to fires, and for the procuring of watering carts or waggons.

Ald. A. L. Smith's notice regarding the debt consolidation was allowed to stand over.

Ald. Dickson came in.

MOTIONS.

Ald. Petrie moved for a reward of $100 for the arrest of any party implicated in the burning of the building to be used as a small pox hospital, and a further reward of $50 for conviction of any of them,—Stands as a notice.

Ald. Robertson moved for the mounting of the chairs in the Council Chamber on castors and for the lighting of the city clock for some time after midnight.—Carried.

Ald. Farley asked that Ald. Costello's motion with regard to the watering of Front Street to the Station be taken up.

The Mayor thought that, the matter having been disposed of, it could not be taken up.

Ald. Brennan was of opinion that the Fire Committee should be consulted in this matter.

Ald. Costello supported his motion, saying that the service would be better performed by the City than by a private party. The merchants could be canvassed and would subscribe liberally towards the expense,

Ald. St. Charles said the contracts with the teams had nearly expired, and the matter might be allowed to remain until the next meeting of Council; meantime the Fire Committee could consider it. He favored the project, but two teams could not carry water a distance greater than from Dundas Street to the upper bridge.

Ald. Dickson said the Council had rejected a similar proposal last year.

Ald. Costello agreed to allow his motion to lie over till next meeting.

WAYS AND MEANS.

Council went into Committee on Ways and Means. Ald. Costello in the chair.

The report of the Harbor Committee was taken up and passed without amendment.

That of the Fire Committee was referred to the Finance Committee, Ald. Grant remarking that a saving could be effected in the erection of the water tank by omitting the walls with water line instead of Portland cement, as called for by the specifications, and several other Aldermen expressing similar views.

The Poor and Sanitary Committee's report was next brought up and referred to the Finance Committee.

Ald. D. Holden said his object in moving for this report had been to get some of the expenses cut down, but it was too late to do so now.

Ald. Robertson said as the Finance Committee had not met, he should ask that certain accounts for stone and lumber, which had been passed by the Public Works Committee, be paid.

Ald. Jas. Smith said some of the stone supplied as hard-heads was not what it purported to be.

Ald. Dickson confirmed this statement, and wished information before passing the account.

Ald. Vandusen said the account was certified by the Street Surveyor.

Ald. Holden and Jellett opposed the motion, wishing the rule strictly adhered to.

Ald. Robertson believed that the stone which he asked be paid for were genuine hard-heads and solid muldoons, and ought to be paid for.

Ald. Jellett moved for the payment of Mr. Sutherland's account, which was a matter of contract, the lumber to be paid for within one month after delivery. The Street Surveyor and the Chairman of Public Works both said the account was correct.

The account, after some discussion, was laid over, it being shown that the others were in the same position.

Ald. Jellett moved the appointment of Ald. T. Holden, Dickson and the mover, to consult with the Solicitor in reference to the Grand Junction debentures, and empowering the Solicitor to employ counsel in the matter.—Carried.

Ald. Holden thought it sufficient that the Solicitor should be given power to employ counsel.

Ald. Jellett thought the object was to select counsel.

Committee rose and reported.

The report was received.

Committee resumed and ordered the refunding of the fines paid by James Falconer and Jonathan Stead under the Snow By-law.

On the suggestion of Ald. Dickson, the Mayor was added to the Special Committee above named.

Committee rose and reported.—Adopted.

Council adjourned.

HON GEO. BROWN.—The Globe of to-day contains the following gratifying intelligence:—"We are happy to state that Mr. George Brown's medical advisors yesterday reported that he was making satisfactory progress, that his condition was better than it had been for a week previous, and that no dangerous symptom was visible."

DROWNING ACCIDENT.—Philip Bagley, and James Barnes were drowned while crossing the river near Cornwall on the 18th inst. by the upsetting of their boat. Richard Corcoran of Belleville was in the boat that was rescued with two others by parties who saw the accident from the shore.

CATTLE EXPORTATION.—Messrs. Gooderham and Worts, Toronto, intend doubling the capacity of their byres, and will, it is understood, use all the refuse of the distillery in feeding cattle for exportation.

IS IT A TRACEDY OR CATASTROPHE

The Wooler Case.

SOME PARTICULARS OF THE OCCURRENCE.

Evidence at the Inquest.

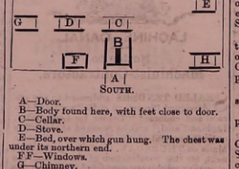
(By Our Special Reporter.)

WOOLER, 21st April, 1880.

Since the celebrated Castleton abortion case, no event has transpired in this county (Northumberland), which has caused such a feeling of horror to run through the minds of its residents as the tragedy which was enacted on Saturday night, the 10th inst. A brief telegraphic report of the occurrence has already been produced in these columns, but as the details were of a meagre and limited character it might not be uninteresting to the general reader to give an additional summary of the case, which is herewith appended.

William Haskins, 78 years of age, came to this locality from Cornwall, England, about 27 years ago, accompanied by his wife. They settled on one of the hills about a mile and a half south-west of the village and lived in a log shanty on their property, which consisted of about 30 acres. Eighteen years subsequent Haskins became a widower, but a few years after he reentered the married state, and owing to differences between himself and his second wife, the union was dissolved, and in consideration of Mrs. Haskins (who still resides in the neighborhood of the village) barring her dower, the sum of $50 was awarded her. Since that time the old man lived and worked alone, except during harvest, when he would employ men to assist him in garnering his crops. He did his own washing, cooking and all the duties devolving upon the manager of such a household, as well as taking care of a yoke of cattle and the general work on the farm. Already this season the old man had begun his agricultural work and had ploughed portions of one of his fields. His dwelling was built of logs, contained but one room and was of the most primitive character. A window on the north and one on the south of the building sufficed to light the interior, whilst there was but one mode of entrance and exit—through a door on the south side of the house. The furniture was of a very simple kind and was scanty in supply.

The following diagram will give a good idea of the interior of the structure :



A—Door.
B—Body found here, with feet close to door.
C—Cellar.
D—Stove.
E—Bed, over which gun hung. The chest was under its northern end.
F F—Windows.
G—Chimney.
H—Cupboard; fire discovered here.

The dimensions of the room were 12x18 feet.

Though living strictly alone, he did not keep himself aloof from the society of his neighbors, as he frequently called on them and often visited his acquaintances in the village. He was a quiet man and well disposed towards those with whom he came in contact.

Dwelling in a secluded locality, it is hardly to be wondered at, that he was in dread of being murdered, as he had frequently given expression to such a remark. It was generally rumored in his neighborhood that he had some means, and some aver that they had seen him with a quantity of silver and paper money. He also had a gun, which he kept over his bed ready for emergency, but neither it nor any remnant of it can now be discovered.

About 9:15 on the night of the 10th inst. those living in the locality were surprised to find that Haskins' house was in flames. A number of persons proceeded to the scene of the fire, but too late to be of any service. (Prior to this, however screams were heard which, strange to narrate, were attributed to the cries of children and were unheeded.) The fire ran rapidly over the house, and aided by the influence of a north east wind which prevailed at the time hastened the destruction of the building. The body of the aged occupant was seen lying on the floor during the fire, and when the flames had ceased their work, the remains—a charred and blackened trunk—were found stretched in a direction nearly north and south, with the head reclining near a cellar opening and the feet about two feet distant from the door, with a part of the right arm, a portion of the right leg and the top of the skull burned off. On Sunday afternoon the corpse was taken to the Town Hall of this village, and on Monday an enquiry into the cause of the death of the deceased was opened before Coroner Dr. Fyfe. Several witnesses were examined and the investigation was adjourned until to-day. On Wednesday the remains were placed in a rough box and taken to Trenton, where they were interred in St. George's church burial ground, beside the body of his deceased first wife. On Tuesday Mrs. Haskins, the second wife claimed the loose property on the farm, alleging that when she barred her dower, she did not bar her claims to the loose property on the farm, and on Thursday last the goods claimed by her were taken away by her friends.

On Saturday morning last George Emaigh, a sailor, who has occasionally lived in this vicinity, was arrested on a warrant, and a similar document led to the incarceration of William Pemberton, who has lived here since last fall.

The inquest was resumed in the Town Hall at ten o'clock this morning before Coroner Fyfe. There was a large attendance of farmers and villagers, who thronged the hall in large numbers.

The testimony given showed that it was almost impossible to have rescued the body when it was first discovered, but nothing was presented that would tend to lighten the mystery which enshrouds this case, or directly implicate any one in the commission of the supposed crime. Whether the old man was foully dealt with, or whether his demise was the result of some unforeseen cause, cannot yet be determined. A reward of $200 was at first proposed by the Township Council, but subsequently it was decided to engage the services of Chief McKinnon, of Belleville, who has the case in hand. It is to be hoped that the perpetrators of such a deed (as some contend) will be detected and receive that punishment their crime merits; but if as others assert his death resulted from providential causes, it is right and in the province of the jury to bring in such a verdict as will give a proper decision in the premises.

In the meantime the cause of the catastrophe or outrage is clouded in mystery, which it is to be hoped will eventually be solved in a satisfactory manner.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, APRIL 20

City and Vicinity.

The Cells.—There were five tramps and one prisoner in the cells last night.

To-Night.—The Belleville Histrionic Association will reproduce "Othello" at the Opera House to-night under Masonic auspices. Go and see the performance.

The Jews.—Rev. Mr. Freshman's lecture on the Jews will be delivered in the City Hall on Thursday night. The subject is a very interesting one, and ought to attract a large audience.

Lecture.—The Rev. David Mitchell, pastor of the John Street Church, will deliver his celebrated lecture on Sir Walter Scott in the City Hall on Tuesday evening, the 27th inst. The chair will be taken by the Mayor.

Haverly's Minstrels.—Mr. Howard Spear, agent of Haverly's genuine Colored Minstrels, was in the city to-day making arrangements for the appearance of this celebrated Minstrel troupe. It will be seen by advertisement that they appear here on Monday evening next.

The Deputation.—The civic deputation who are to present several matters in which the people of this vicinity are interested to the attention of the Government, left for Ottawa by the noon train to-day. Mr. A. Robertson, M. P. P., accompanied the deputation.

The London and Lancashire.—Mr. John H. Robinson has been appointed general agent for this district for the above named first class Insurance Company. That Mr. Robinson will represent it efficiently there is every reason to believe, from his previous training in the business in Mr. Donnelly's office and his energy and ability.

Alleged Robbery.—Wm. Gillson was arrested this morning by officer Downs for an alleged robbery of $63, the property of George H. Carry, a fellow boarder in a boarding house in West Belleville. The mis-appropriation is considered to have taken place on the 17th inst., and when the prisoner was arrested $19.63 was found upon his person. The case will be decided at the next sitting of the court.

A Good Move.—The placing of the light on the Grand Junction wharf in a more conspicuous position is a move that will meet with general approval, as vessels entering the harbor at night have experienced a good deal of trouble by the light being obscured at time by piles of lumber and other material.

Overhauling.—Dorland terrace, on Gordon Street, is being thoroughly overhauled and will be put in a complete state of repair. The work is being done by Messrs. Northcott & Alford, under the direction of Horace Wert, agent for the North British Loan Company, who are now the owners of the property.

Another Gale.—Seldom have the waters of the Bay of Quinte and of Lake Ontario had so continuous and so severe a shaking up as they had in the fall of last year and again during the prevalent spring. One gale succeeds another with a rapidity which keeps up a succession of fierce blows, and vessels are compelled either to stay in port or to run back for shelter after going a short distance on the lake. The southerly gale blew itself out last night, and an even stronger one from the south-west has rushed in to fill the vacancy, which it does most effectually.

Butter Making.—The Kingston Whig publishes an item which ought to be of interest to every dairyman, namely as regards the Walnut Hill creamery, which is located in the Towship of Pittsburg. It says;—"The Walnut Hill Creamery was the first erected in Frontenac, and is in a very prosperous condition. Considerable trouble was caused in getting the necessary machinery, but as soon as the arrangements were complete butter of the choicest quality was made. When butter only realized 15c. on the market this factory was turning out an article that was eagerly sought at 25c. a pound. About 12,000 lbs. were manufactured last year and the larger portion of it was shipped to England where an excellent price was realized. The Creamery also supplied the Rossin House, Toronto, and other public places. This season the Creamery opens under favorable auspices the owners having secured the services of Mr. May, of Escott, as manager. At the Grand International Fair, held in New York last Fall, the butter made by Mr. May took the first prize. The number of the Creamery patrons is largely increasing."

The Debentures.—The Grand Junction Railway Company refuse to accept the city debentures, which bear interest from the date of their issue. They claim that the debentures should bear interest from Dec. 31, 1876, and have taken proceedings in Chancery to sustain their contention. The case will be defended on the part of the city, the City Solicitor having been instructed to retain cousel.

Marine Notes.

The Oswego Palladium says: "The schooner David Andrews has been abandoned by the owners and it is thought her cargo will be sold to the highest bidder."

The Oswego Times says: "The Belleville Intelligencer is making a strong fight for the building of the proposed Murray canal. The Intelligencer says that the canal would not only save an often dangerous passage around the Prince Edward peninsula, but would shorten the distance to Toronto about 15 miles. The paper thinks that if the canal had been in operation the schooner David Andrews would have been afloat to-day.

The scow Glasgow dragged her anchors yesterday and went ashore a little east of the Grand Junction warf.

The schr Olivia from Oswego, light, is loading lumber at Flint & Holton's.

A quantity of logs which broke out of Flint & Holton's booms last night were secured this morning.

The following schooners from Belleville have arrived safely at their respective destinations: Florence and British Queen, at Port Dalhousie with ice; Mary Foster at Charlotte, with ice; and Wm Elgin at Toronto with rye.

Chancery Spring Sittings.

Friday, April 16.

Stewart vs. Read.—A common law action of ejectment entered for trial under the Administration of Justice Act. The plff, at the close of the evidence, applied to put off the case till next Assizes. Case adjourned accordingly, upon payment of the costs of the day.—Mr. Dickson for plff; Hon. L. Wallbridge, Q. C., for deft.

Bogart vs. Leavens.—Bill for account between the owners of the steamer City of Belleville. Decree—referring to the Master at Belleville to take account of the partnership dealings, and of all accounts and dealings in pleadings mentioned. Further directions and costs reserved.—Mr. Dickson for plff; Mr. Holden and Mr. Anderson for deft.

Skelling vs. Huff.—Bill filed to declare a lien for purchase money of sale of chattels and real estate. Parties settled.—Mr. Dickson and Mr. Burdett for plff, Mr. Holden and Mr. Anderson for deft.

April 17, 1880.

Jellett vs. Anderson—Bill filed by plff., lessee of ferry from Belleville to Ameliasburgh, against the owners of the boat at the upper ferry for an injunction to restrain them from carrying passengers from him and for payment of the damages occasioned by their opposition.

The plaintiff proved his right from the Crown through the City of Belleville, to carry passengers in for him from the City to the Township of Ameliasburgh, and claimed that it gave him the right to ferry from the City to any part of Ameliasburgh, and that the defendants not being licensed from the Crown were trespassers, and should be restrained and compelled to pay damages for their wrongful act.

The defendants denied that the plaintiff had the right to ferry to any part of Ameliasburgh, but only to that locality which was most convenient to the public, and that the establishment of this ferry was not an infringement of the plaintiff's rights but a public necessity and convenience.

The matters in dispute being principally questions of law, and a number of cases being cited by the counsel engaged, His Lordship reserved judgment until next week, to give himself an opportunity of looking into the authorities on his return to Toronto. Mr. Boyd, Q. C., and Mr. Flint for plaintiff. Mr. Wallbridge, Q. C., Mr Hoyles and Mr. Osler for defendants.

Howcutt vs. Galna—Action by plaintiff against deft. Galna to compel him as her agent to account for his dealings with her estate, and against deft. Johnson (brother-in-law to Galna) to compel him to reconvey lands sold to him improperly by Galna during the absence of the plaintiff in England. Matter was settled between the parties and lands reconveyed. Mr. Ostrom for plaintiff; Mr. Boyd, Q. C., for defendant.

Marshfield, Mo., April 20.—A cyclone, which desolated this place after passing through several miles of country in Christian, Green and Webster Counties, levelling houses and timber, struck this city about 6:30 on Sunday evening. It was a frightful looking black cloud lined with white, funnel shaped and moving like a screw propeller with wonderful velocity and destroyed everything in its path about half a mile wide. Houses were blown from their foundations, cattle, hogs, horses and poultry were whirled into the air a great distance and the noise of the storm, the crash of houses and the cries of the terrified people made a scene of horror. A beautiful, peaceful town of 800 people 24 hours ago, is now a waste of desolation. Of 200 dwelling houses, not more than 20 are standing, and but few of these are uninjured. There are now 50 wounded in the School building, under the care of noble women from Lebanon and Springfield. Loss by the calamity, is estimated at $350,000. Of 800 inhabitants seven eights are homeless, destitute and suffering terribly. Of the total killed, which is not short of 100, not more than one dozen have been buried.

Ghosts.

Not Col. Ingersoll's "aristocracy of the air" but real human ghosts. Ghosts that were once healthy men and women, but are now simply the "ghosts of what they once were." As we meet them and inquire the cause of all this change, they repeat the old, old story, a cold, neglected cough, catarrh, overwork, or dyspepsia, liver complaint, and constipation with unsuccessful physicians and remedies. In offering his Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets for the cure of the above affections, Dr Pierce does not recommend them as a "sure cure" in all stages. For if the lungs be half wasted away, or there be a cancerous complication, no physician or medicine can cure. The Discovery is, however, an unequaled pectoral and blood purifier. It speedily cures the most aggravated cough, or cold, and in its early or middle stages, consumption. By correcting all irregularities of the stomach and liver, it readily cures blotches, pimples, scrofulous ulcers, "bunches" or tumors. Hundreds testify that it has restored their health after eminent physicians had failed. For constipation, use the Pellets. As a local remedy for catarrh use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

Facts that We Know.

If you are suffering with a severe cough, cold, asthma, bronchitis, consumption, loss of voice, tickling in the throat, or any other affection of the throat or lungs, we know that Dr. King's New Discovery will give you immediate relief. We know of hundreds of cases it has completely cured, and that where all other medicines had failed. No other remedy can show one half as many permanent cures. Now to give you satisfactory proof that Dr. King's New Discovery will cure you of Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay fever, Consumption, severe Coughs and Colds, Hoarseness, or any Throat or Lung disease, if you call at James Clarke & Co Drug Store we will give a trial bottle free of cost or a regular size bottle for $1 00

CARPETS.

We are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers.

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealer telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, five, ten, and even twenty-five cents per yard is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'Ha!' yelled the other, leaping back like an enraged wild beast. Then with a rapid movement he drew something from his sleeve, and sprang on Ravensworth with his arm raised. The latter leapt nimbly back, thrusting forward his chair as he did so, and over this White stumbled heavily, and fell with a crash upon the floor. At the same moment two constables burst into the room and threw themselves upon him ere he had time to rise. When he looked up and saw who were his assailants he knew the game was up, and became wildly desperate. A terrible imprecation burst from his lips, and he made a frantic effort to regain his feet. The constables, knowing with whom they had to deal, fastened on him with all their strength. White was a powerful man, and, knowing that it was life or death with him, his rage and fear made the struggle tremendous. Again and again he shook the men from him, and had nearly gained his feet when they seized him again and kept him on the floor. Early in the combat, his fine glossy curls fell from his head, and revealed his own closely-cropped hair, having the unmistakeable prison cut. The commotion and consternation in the room was indescribable; every one was loud in exclamation, and rushed about in a panic to get out of the way of the struggles on the floor.

Philip Ravensworth stood by the closed door ready to intercept the criminal should he succeed in freeing himself from the clutches of the constables; but of this there was no likelihood, for, though he dashed them frequently from him, they had gripped him again in an instant, and to such an unequal struggle there could be but one termination. After many ineffectual efforts, a sharp click proclaimed that the handcuffs were fastened;and White, feeling now that resistance was hopeless, relapsed into sullen motionless.

By this time his clothes were hanging about him in rags, and one of the men, putting aside the shirt from his right breast, found the letter C branded distinctly upon it.

'This is our man, sure enough,' he observed. 'Hilloa, what parcel is this sewed to his flannel?'

As the officer spoke he took a clasp-knife from his pocket, and coolly ripping up a portion of the prisoner's under-garment, pulled out a square, flat parcel.

At sight of it an elderly man with spectacles, who stood inside the door of the room beside Ravensworth, started forward in much excitement.

'Open that?' he cried.

The constables cut the string and unfolded the outer wrapping.

'I knew it! I was sure of it!' exclaimed the elderly man. 'These are our stolen notes.'

And so they were—the identical notes which had constituted the bank parcel abstracted from the mail. The entire sum was there—fifteen hundred pounds.

That night Huffey White was safely secured in the strongest room in Bridlington Gaol.

CHAPTER XXII.

A DISCOVERY—STIRRINGS OF THE HEART—AN UNEXPECTED CRISIS APPROACHES.

In another week Charles was able to be removed from the cottage of the Woodfords to his new and as yet unseen home—Singleton Hall. He was not by any means impatient to be gone. His experience in the Cottage from the time that he had begun to recover had been of a very pleasant and enjoyable kind. Better nursing he could not have had anywhere, more kindness and tender attention he could not possibly have received from those who most loved him, and it was all rendered with such cheerfulness and genuine heartiness that the youth felt that it came from two hearts warm, generous and true.

The society of Mr. Woodford was a refreshment in itself. So happy and hopeful was he always,so good-natured and of such a wide, human, charitable soul. He made sunshine in the house in the darkest days; his beaming looks, his active springing motion, and pleasant-spoken words gave a strength and comfort which the invalid in his pain and weakness keenly appreciated. And then even more thrilling and delicious was the pleasure he felt when in the evenings Mary attended him, and with sisterly devotion ministered to him in every kind and affectionate way; brought in flowers to gladden his eyes with their beauty and make the room sweet and fragrant with their perfume; talked to him of her school, or read to him some of the finer passages of the best poets.

A pretty and a charming girl was Mary Woodford. Her purity and innocence made her frank and thoroughly unaffected, so that her deportment, being wholly unstudied and ever the natural manifestation of her singularly simple, guileless heart, she was transparent as a mirror, and every look and word and movement was full of conscious grace and winning attraction.

A dangerous company for Charles Ravensworth in these days of helpless inactivity, when he was so dependant upon those who moved about his couch, and was so free to observe and to form impressions. Happy and contented always, he was happier still when Mary, in her neat, becoming dress, and with her bright warm smile, came into the room to stay with him while her father went to work in the garden—an exercise in which he took great delight,and for which there was now ample need in these balmy days of budding spring. Dangerous certainly, for how could he resist the tender and glowing feelings which such close companionship with her was certain to produce? And yet no one seemed to think of this—neither her father nor the Ravensworths, nor Lady Eagleheart, nor even Dora, forebode any evil either to Mary or Charles from such unrestrained and subduing intercourse. And they, poor things, in their pleasure and satisfaction, did not apprehend it themselves. The engagement between Charles and Dora was well enough known in the little circle. Mary knew of it, and Charles never forgot it, and the consciousness of the fact on both sides kept them from dreaming that the feelings arising in both their bosoms were feelings which led to the purest, fondest, and truest love. They enjoyed the pleasant present, and gave no thought to the future which it might possibly bring them.

During all the time Charles had secret, silent thoughts of another kind which often puzzled and occupied him. The more he saw of Mr. Woodford the more was he reminded of Tobby Sprat. His littleness of stature, his lameness, his unfailing cheerfulness, his excessive kindness of nature, and the buoyant, springing activity which characterised his movements, were incessantly reminding the youth of Tobby, and forcing him to ask himself again and again if it was not that very individual. The apparent impossibility of the superstition having any foundation, led him to conclude at first that it was nothing more than an extremely wonderful resemblance, for sometimes we do meet with a man or a woman who presents a singular likeness to some other man or woman with whom we are acquainted.

TO BE CONTINUED.

A Good Housewife.

The good housewife, when she is giving her house its spring renovating, should bear in mind that the dear inmates of her house are more precious than many houses, and that their systems need cleansing by purifying the blood, regulating the stomach and bowels to prevent and cure the diseases arising from spring malaria and miasma, and she must know that there is nothing that will do it so perfectly and surely as Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines. See other column.

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs,Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidity increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately introduced. Boschees German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 18 8, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents Sample bottle, 10 cents.

The Hunter!

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and resort to subtlety to secure his prey. But his life is one of great attraction. He is usually very methodical, putting up with the coarseness of the camp. Sometimes his camp is enlivened by the presence of an enthusiastic, when expenses are ignored and every possible adjunct to comfort is provided. Old "Sharp Eye," the leader, knows the favorite spots where game may be expected, and he plants himself thereabouts. Then comes the rude chase, the excitement attending the pursuit, the fatal shots ringing through the air, the gathering of the game, and the return to the camp, animate with feasting and the stories of the hunters. It is splendid to have a good hunt. It is a good thing, also, to hunt for diseases in the human system, to drive them away. And for this commend me to DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS. They are the most experienced hunters after diseases known.

MM. M. GILES, ESQ.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition — meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned f I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Aneamia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.

C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve. and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879, Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or properly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical men examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them unsound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

In medicine all true knowledge comes from studying the causes of disease. The action of these causes upon our organism determines the nature and seat of the malady they produce. A cause which only acts on the stomach will produce a disease of the stomach; and so of causes which act on the lungs, liver, kidneys, bowels, or nervous system. Every known cause capable of producing consumption first acts on the lungs. A small chest, a cramped position of the body, confinement in badly ventilated rooms, congestion and inflammation of the air passages, all act by impairing the breathing and preventing the proper action of the lungs. Consumption results from this interference of the function of the lungs, and the disease which results fixes itself upon that organ.

Now, how should a disease so produced and so located be treated? We should withdraw the patient as fully as possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If that organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we should treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the real point of difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and it is the point which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the physician to be able to point to the results of his practice in proof of the wisdom of his prescriptions. Even at the risk of being accused of egotism, I will venture to say that the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation speaks for itself by the substantial good it has accomplished and is accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. I can point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair. I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians of eminence had pronounced the case "hopeless." And the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and I the lungs; they give the patient medicine to swallow, and I give them medicine to inhale. But this difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

Every disease of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence, a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation. We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they act imperfectly and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the surface of the body chilly and the nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by proper diet, clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

If impossible to visit the office personally, write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, together with a copy of my "Medical Treatise on Diseases of the Breathing Organs." Address.

Spring Care of Dairy Cows.

The winter season is now so far gone as to leave only four to six weeks of feeding before the milking season will commence, according to the various times of calving; and the dairymen who has not fed his cows as well as his interest required during the early part of the winter, should do what he can to recover his lost ground, by feeding judiciously during the few weeks left. It being so near calving time, he should be cautious about giving food of too heating a nature. Peas, or cornmeal alone should be given, if that can be avoided; and, if nothing else is at hand, it should be fed on cut hay, so as to have it thoroughly mixed with fibrous food before entering the stomach. Peas and oats, ground together—one bushel of peas to two of oats—makes one of the best foods for dairy cows. The food most needed by the cow at this season is such as will build up her muscular system, and reinvigorate her vitality. The food should be rich in phosphate of lime; for she is often depleted of this during the milking period, so as to render her bones spongy; and the diseases that afflict cows in spring are usually occasioned by the poverty of the food given through the winter. Cows that are fed upon good clover hay during the winter usually recover their vigor, because clover is rich in muscle forming matter and phosphate of lime. Oats, peas, wheat bran and oatmeal are all rich in phosphate of lime, and are excellent to give the cow renewed vitality during her non-lacteal period. Care must be taken to give oil-meal in very small quantity at this period, as the time of calving approaches; and especially if it has been given through the winter; yet one pint per day through the whole period of going dry will assist very materially in keeping the cow in health; and it often prevents the evil effect of dry, innutritious fodder. When given through the winter, we have never known impaction of the manifolds.

Oats and bran, mixed together, will be excellent food at this period; and if this food is continued after calving, it will help to establish a good yield of milk. During the first week after calving the diet should be spare—not so necessary if the cow is thin—but if fleshy, she should be kept on hay, except a quart of oil-meal, which is laxative and cooling. After all danger from milk fever is past, the feeding should be more liberal, so as to start the cow on a large flow of milk. After ten days from calving, no better extra food can be given than oats and wheat bran, with one or two quarts of cornmeal. Much depends upon the feeding of the cows before grass comes, to insure a good yield through the season. From dairymen who withhold the feed now shall be withheld the season's profits.—National Live Stock Journal, Chicago.

Limburger Cheese.

Among those foreign cheeses which also begin to play a prominent part in this country is the Limburger cheese. Its manufacture being very simple, and its peculiar taste being fancied by a great many people, it is extensively made abroad. According to Zedler, Limburger cheese was famous as early as the beginning of 18th century. Weckherlin describes the process of manufacture as practiced at Herve, in the province of Luttich, as follows; later the same process was also adopted at the experimental station in Hohenheim, Germany:

Either sour, newly raw milk or one-half of new milk and one-half of partly skimmed milk is used; in the latter case the evening's milk is skimmed after 12 hours and used with the morning's milk for cheese. The milk is heated to 86 deg. F., when sufficient rennet is added to make the curd rather stiff in 1 to 1½ hours. The curd is then put into square wooden molds, open at the top, and about one foot high, bottom 6 or 7 inches square. The sides and bottom are perforated, so as to allow the whey to escape. The molds are placed on a table for the whey to drain off, and there they remain for 24 hours, when, without being subjected to any pressure whatever, the curd will shrink to a 2-3 inches thick layer. These soft cheeses are then removed from the molds and placed close together on a layer of straw on a wooden framework, the flat side down. Once in a while they are transferred from one place to another dry one, and kept in that way for several days, until they have become pretty dry, and will maintain their regular square shape. After four or five days the cheeses are turned on the edge, space being allowed between each two cheeses, and once in a while they are turned upside down. After eight days the cheeses are salted by being piled one on the top of the other, and a layer of salt being spread between them. Thus they remain until the salt is entirely sucked up. Then they are again placed on the shelves to dry, being turned at short intervals. If after two or three weeks the cheeses are too dry, they are washed with brine a couple of times. They are then put into cases or baskets, one above the other, and once in a while they are taken out to be moistened with brine. After a few months, if not perfectly ripe, they are at least ready for sale. The color, originally quite white, is, when the cheese is ripe, yellow all through, and outside brownish yellow.

In Hohenheim, instead of a number of small molds, one large box is used, and the twenty four-hours-old curd is then cut into slices of the desired shape.

As to the yield, in Hohenheim 21 pounds of cheese were made from 61 quarts of new morning's milk and 39 quarts of evening's milk from which 5½ quarts of cream had been taken.

Prof. Gildemeister, of the Aric college in Eldena, Germany, states the following results:—100 quarts of new milk yielded 28 lbs of ripe cheese. Removing the greater portion of the butter he got 6 pounds of butter and 19 5 pounds of green cheese (24 hours old) from 100 quarts of milk.—American Dairyman.

Prizes For Farms.

At the last meeting of the Provincial Board of Agriculture it was decided to offer medals for the best managed farms, and as it would be impossible to get judges to go over the whole province in one year, it has, for this purpose been divided into six districts, five of which contain fourteen ridings and one fifteen, and the medals will be awarded in one district each year, until the whole are gone over in the order in which they are numbered. In order to avoid unnecessary labor and expense in connection with the judging, the maximum number of farms to be entered for competition in each riding has been limited to three, to be selected from those offered for competition by the society for the riding, thus providing a weeding out process for the judges, and limiting the number to be examined for each award to 42 farms.

In addition to any other points that the judges may deem it advisable to take into consideration, the following shall be taken into consideration in estimating which is "the best managed farm," viz :—

1. The competing farm to be not less than 100 acres, two-thirds of which must be under cultivation.

2. The nature of the farming, whether mixed, dairy, or any other mode, to be the most suitable under conditions affected by local circumstances.

3. The proper position of the buildings in relation to the whole farm.

4. The attention paid to preservation of timber, and shelter by planting of trees.

5. The condition of any private roads.

6. The character, sufficiency, and condition of fences, and the manner in which the farm is subdivided into fields.

7. Improvements by removal of obstacles to cultivation, including drainage.

8 General condition of buildings, including dwelling house, and their adaptability to the wants of the farm and family.

9. The management, character, suitability, condition, and number of live stock kept.

10. The number, condition, and suitability of implements and machinery.

11. State of the garden and orchard

12. Management of farm yard manure.

13. The cultivation of crops, to embrace manuring, clearing, produce per acre in relation to management, and character of soil and climate.

14. General order, economy and water supply.

15. Cost of production and relative profits.

Hastings comes in the fifth district along with the counties of Victoria, Northumberland, Peterborough, Prince Edward, Lennox, Addington, Renfrew and Frontenac. However, whatever the result, it will not do any of our enterprising farmers the slightest harm to be buckling their armor for such a competition. It will be an honor to be one of the gallant nine to be selected from this county—three from each riding—to compete for the medals, while it will be a still greater honor to carry off the gold medal of the year.

Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION

MONDAY, April 19.

Mr. Cockburn (Northumberland) introduced a measure to amend the Act relating to stamps on notes and bills.

The debate on the Pacific Railway was resumed by Mr. DeCosmos, who concluded the speech he was delivering on Friday night when the House adjourned. He cited the opinions expressed by the Opposition in relation to the Ontario boundary award dispute, wherein they protested against the alleged inclination of the Government to violate the obligations entered upon by their predecessors in an executive capacity, and he contrasted these opinions with the Opposition's action on the present occasion in apparently intending to violate the terms of union with British Columbia.

Mr. Mackenzie, who followed, admitted that while he was sincerely desirous that British Columbia should enter Confederation, yet he opposed the terms of Union as being extravagant. After alluding to the excessive demands made by the ultramontanes of British Columbia, or the people beyond the mountains, he claimed that by the delay in the fulfilment of the terms of union British Columbia had not fared worse than the older Provinces. Ontario and Quebec were compelled before entering Confederation that the work of enlarging the whole of the canal system should be vigorously prosecuted; yet not only the late Government but the present had deliberately postponed indefinitely the enlargement of certain of the canals. Did the people of the older Provinces threaten to secede because of this violation of the terms of union? No. Therefore British Columbia should exercise this same patience. He blamed the late Government and himself somewhat for being too energetic and not too dilatory in forwarding the railroad surveys. He contrasted his policy of placing the Province of Quebec on the Atlantic seaboard via the Canada Central Railway extension and the Georgian Bay branch within a comparatively short distance of the upper lakes with that pursued by the present Government, who appeared to act as if they desired to injure Quebec as much as possible. Proceeding, he denied that the late Government were responsible for delay in constructing the Pembina branch, but claimed that the blame should be attached to their predecessors. Up to the present time the construction of not a mile of railway had been let save on surveys made under the late Government, except in the case of the Winnipeg branch, for which no location surveys at all had been made previous to letting the contracts. A brief recital of the late Governments fertile attempt to secure a contract for the construction of the whole line upon a money and land subsidy was made, after which he contrasted the estimates submitted by Mr. Fleming to the late Government as to the cost of the whole line. He then reverted to the estimated cost of the road as now submitted, and argued that it could not be constructed for any such sum. The remainder of the speech was devoted to quoting a long array of evidence demonstrating that much of the land within the railway belt was arid and unfertile, and from this circumstance he deduced the contention that the revenue from the sale of railway lands would not be so large as estimated. He, however, admitted that there was much land of wonderful fertility in the North-West; but he claimed that there, as in Ontario, the tracts of good land were interspersed with much that was inferior or unfit for cultivation. In conclusion, he stated his intention to vote in accord with the cautious policy pursued by the late Government, and because, apart from that, a delay in the construction of the at present least useful portion of the line was rendered absolutely necessary in consequence of the straightened state of the Dominion finances and the rapidly increasing taxation.

Mr. Plumb followed Mr. Mackenzie. In regard to Mr. Blake's speech, he said the cruelest thing, viz, that he thought he recognized the most of Mr. Blake's speech as consisting mostly of old Globe editorials, which he had used without acknowledgement. As to Mr. Mackenzie's speech, it was properly characterized as a jeremiad. He pointed out with much vigor the scandals and extravagance of the late Government, which Mr. Blake had condoned by his silence, or supported by his presence in the Cabinet. Mr. Plumb also dwelt with much force on the change of Opposition opinion concerning the United States. One point he made with much force in this way. Mr. Blake contended that the sales of lands in the United States had not been such as to make us cheerful about selling much of ours. Mr. Plumb pointed out that Mr. Blake was taking only the statistics of Government lands, whereas these were only about a tenth of the whole land sales of the country. The House applauded this exposure of a new weak place in Mr. Blake's argument. That the abandoning of the Pacific railway now would do us more harm than the continuing of it in the opinion of the world, and in the markets of England, was an opinion which Mr. Plumb also expressed with much energy. In reply to Mr. Mackenzie's remarks as to his surveys, Mr. Plumb dealt with this subject in a way which was conclusive. He also dealt with the land question, and defended the Government policy in regard to the development of that great region in the West. He alluded at the close of his speech to the artfulness with which the Opposition scheme had been concerted for the purpose of alarming the country, and concluded by declaring that it would be ineffectual.

Mr. Charlton commenced speaking in favor of Mr. Blake's amendment at 12:30 a.m., and spoke till two o'clock.

Mr. White (Cardwell) moved the adjournment of the debate.

After an expression of dissent from the Opposition because Mr. Charlton had been refused a similar request at midnight, the motion was carried, and the House adjourned.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21.

The Cheese Trade.

Now that the cheese factories throughout this section have nearly all commenced operations, the great question to cheese manufacturers is the price that will be given for cheese this season. The low price last season almost discouraged cheese makers, as a large proportion of last year's make was sold, if not at a loss, at least at less than a price that would leave a margin of profit. The sudden rise in price last fall, encouraged makers in the hope that this season would open with more promise than the season just past, which hopes have been happily realized as far as the opening price is concerned, as the cable for cheese now stands 75s., whereas at this time last year it only stood at 43s., a difference of 32s. in the manufacturer's favor this season. That the difference in price is due principally to the short make of 1879 as compared with that of 1878, there is no doubt, as the receipts of cheese at New York from May 1st 1879 to April 1st, 1880, were 2,455,916 pkg's as compared with 3,245,467 pkg's for a corresponding period of the year previous—or a decrease in last year's make of nearly 800,000 pkg's.

The market opens with a rising price in Europe and the old crop of cheese sold off close, so that there seems no doubt but that for the first cheese offered of the new crop, good round prices will be paid. The uncertainty as to how long the present extreme price will be sustained, with the large make which is sure to be the result of present prices, will no doubt induce factories to clear out close as fast as cheese are ready for market.

The little old cheese offering in the New York market is readily purchased at 15c, but the supply is limited and not enough new cheese has been offered to settle the price at which this season's crop will open.

FOR THE NORTH-WEST.—The Ottawa Free Press of the 20th says: "This morning the 6th special train for Manitoba left this city, in charge of Mr. A. H. Taylor. It consisted of 21 baggage cars, 2 passenger, and 4 freight cars, all of which were pretty well filled. Only 40 or 50 left this immediate section, but it is expected that when the party reaches Brockville 200 will have been added. A. Downie and 12 others from the township of Huntley; W. R. Bell and 7 others from Nepean, were among those from the vicinity of Ottawa. Mrs. J. P. Robertson and family left for Winnipeg. Mr James Harris, Veterinary Surgeon, shipped 3 span of fine carriage horses for parties in Manitoba. The train will be increased in size as it travels along between this and Toronto."

THE BISHOP OF ONTARIO.—The Kingston News says: We learn that the Bishop of Ontario is seriously ill, and that his medical advisers have given directions that no one shall see him at present.

—A Dundee correspondent says the recovered lattice work of the Tay bridge bears marks sustaining the theory that the train went off the track before the bridge fell.

—Onderdonk & Co. intend to put 3,000 or 4,000 men to work in British Columbia and expect to complete it within the required time. Mr. Onderdonk has arrived and is going over the grounds.

Notes By the Way.

OUR MINERAL WEALTH.

At various times reference has been made in these columns to the development of the iron interests in the Township of Madoc, and our readers are, therefore, more or less familiar with what has already been done towards the opening up of the numerous iron beds which have been discovered in that Township. With the view of giving a more comprehensive idea of the work done, and of the prospects of this industry in the future, the writer visited most of the mines last week, and from notes taken give the reader the result of his observations. The first visit was made to what is known as the "Dominion Mine," which is situated about four miles from the Village of Madoc, in a westerly direction. To reach it, for a distance of about three miles you have to use the Marmora Road, brief reference to which was made in these columns a couple of weeks since. If the road then was worthy of being pronounced a disgrace to the County, what can be said of it in its present almost impassable condition? That any vehicle can pass over it in safety is almost a miracle—that horses can be found to drag themselves through the mud and mire, let alone dragging any thing after them, speaks a "good deal for the endurance of the "noble animal," and that men are willing to submit to the perils of the road and the danger of being pitched headlong into the mud or against the fences in travelling over it, is creditable to say the least of it, to their courage. Fortunately we had a careful driver, a solid rig and a stout pair of horses, albeit one of them required the frequent use of "timber" to his sides and back, and after a couple of hours or more reached our destination.

The mine is located about one mile west from the Marmora road, in a wild, uncultivated region. It commands, however, an extensive and magnificent view, being probably the highest point in that or the adjacent Township. In a clear day the village of Stirling, 16 or 18 miles distant, can be distinctly seen, and the Oak Hills and Murney Mountain near Chiaholm's Rapids, as well as the hills beyond, can be easily discerned. Along the top of this mountain or hill, which at its western point ends almost perpendicularly, the needle has traced a vein of ore of over 1,500 feet, with a width varying from 60 to 100 feet. A test pit was sunk about 500 feet from the west end, of 18 feet in depth, and here the vein shows a width of about 50 feet. The principal work, however, has been done near the western end of the vein, and here are at present employed in blasting and removing the ore, some 40 to 50 men. At a depth of fifteen feet the vein shows a width of 18 feet, and as the miners go down, the ore presents a better appearance. From the level ground at the west end, a cutting into the hill is being made, and it is intended to tunnel under the hill to a depth of about 100 feet. From present appearances the extent of the iron deposit here is almost illimitable, its value as far as has been developed has been ascertained by assay to be about 57 per cent, and as the quality is improving as the work goes deeper, it gives promise of being one of the best iron mines in the Township. A large quantity of this ore has been hauled to the line of railway and stored on a platform ready for shipment, but on account of the horrible state of the roads, the work of hauling has been suspended for the present. When the work of mining has been more extensively developed here, it is proposed to convey the ore to the railway track by means of a tramway. A route has been surveyed which is of easy grade and is about three miles in length. This mine is owned by Messrs. C. J. Pusey, A. E. Wood and Mr. O'Hara.

Our next visit was made to the Seymour mine, and rather than renew our acquaintance with the ups and downs of the Madoc and Marmora County road, it was suggested that the driver take the horses back to Madoc and meet us at O'Hara's School House, on the old road leading north, while we would take a cut across the country on foot. The distance across was said to be about four miles, but owing to the zig-zag course our guide took, now climbing a steep hill, fording across a deep morass, jumping over creeks, picking our way along logs burnt and rotten, and finding oneself reclining on the soft surface of a granite boulder—and with varied other unpleasant experiences which told of scratched hands and bruised corns, and tired bodies, we found or imagined the distance to be at least double the number of miles. It was therefore with considerable relief and a grateful feeling that the point of attraction came in sight, and gladly did we welcome the appearance of the carriage. A drive of a mile or more brought us to the residence of Mr. Charles Hutcheson, jr., who by the way, is General Superintendant of the mining interests of Mr. Pusey, including those in the Snowdon district, and here we enjoyed a repast which only a hungry man knows how to appreciate.

After dinner, a short walk brought us to the famous Seymour mine, which has been previously fully described in these columns, and the location of which is known to most of our readers. Operations were commenced here by Mr. C. J. Pusey in May, 1879, since which time between 6,000 and 7,000 tons of ore have been taken out. In December last, the sinking of a shaft was commenced which has now reached a depth of about 80 feet from the surface. The dimensions of this shaft are 7x9 feet, and it is intended to sink it 60 feet deeper, at which point will be the first working levels of the mine, and from this point drifts will be extended in the vein east and west from the shaft. At the present depth the vein shows great regularity, the vein continuing from the surface to its present depth with a regular thickness of 18 feet, with well defined foot and hanging walls. The quality of the ore continues the same, being entirely free from phosphorous, titanium and sulphur, and yielding in the furnace over 63 per cent of metallic iron.

This ore has been tested in a number of large Iron Works, including several Bessemer Works, and in every instance has given entire satisfaction.

Arrangements are now being made to work the steam drill, and a new steam hoist is being introduced which will materially facilitate the work in the shaft, and probably enable the proprietor to make regular shipments of ore in about sixty days.

Where the veins are already worked the walls are well secured by timber, thus ensuring perfect safety to the miners who are working in the pits and in the shaft.

After the completion of the shaft and opening the workings on the first level, it is the intention to still further sink the shaft to a depth of 100 feet, at which point the second working level will be made. When the shaft has reached a depth of 100 feet, it is the intention to drift eastward on the vein to the railway track, which runs close to the works, at which point a permanent shaft will be sunk, and at which all future work will be done.

At present a tramway runs from the shaft close to the track of the railway, and the ore is dumped into the cars. The shops, boiler house, tool house, and office, all adjacent to the mine, possess every convenience, and everything connected with the works gives evidence of thoroughness and permanency. Mr. C. J. Pusey operates this mine.

The Brooks Mine, in which Mr. Pusey is interested, having associated with him some other parties resident of the Township, is located on lot 9 in the 6th concession of Madoc, about three miles from the terminus of the railway track, and three quarters of a mile from the Hastings Road. It is only newly opened, but as far as developed, it shows a 40 feet vein actually developed and over 100 feet by needle attractions. In length the needle attractions show over 100 feet. The quality of the ore is very superior, an analysis of a surface specimen showing over 68 per cent. of metallic iron entirely free from titanium, and sulphur, and scarcely a trace of phosphorous, making it certain that this is one of the best known ores for Bessemer purposes, yet discovered. For convenience and economy in working, this will be one of the most desirable mines in the Madoc district. At present a dozen men are employed at this point, but it is intended putting an additional number at work within a few days.

Mr. Pusey contemplates commencing operations very shortly on two or three other mining properties, about which we will have something to say in the future.

In connection with Mr. Pusey's operations it may be mentioned that the men in his employ have organized a Medical Association for their own benefit in case of sickness or accident in any of the mines. Each man contributes 50 cents per week, and Mr. Pusey contributes a percentage on each ton of iron ore which is removed from all the mines, out of which fund miners are paid $3.50 a week in case of sickness or disability from accident in the mine, and in case of death the sum of $350 is paid to those entitled to receive it. The system is found to work very satisfactorily, and the fund shows at present a considerable balance on hand. We understand it is the intention of Mr. Pusey to establish a Library and Reading Room at each of the mines, which will be a great boon and advantage to the men in his employ.

In addition to his operations here, Mr. Pusey is largely operating in the Snowdon District, about 70 miles north from Port Hope, on the line of the Victoria Railway, at which point he is now opening five different mines. The ore there is very similar in quality to the Madoc ore. As has already been mentioned in these columns, Mr. Pusey is making arrangements to establish telephonic communication between Madoc and Snowdon, which will be of great convenience not only to himself, but to the public. More anon.

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

DEAR SIR,—Allow me to trespass on your kindness by a few remarks on the "Church Parades," which I see advertised in your columns, and which seem now to be one of our spring and summer amusements. It is often necessary, from a sense of duty, to take the unpopular side in some things, but as that is very often the right side, one must not hesitate to take it. I would ask the thoughtful and religious part of our community, if the reverence for and the holy quiet of the Lord's Day is promoted by military displays and bands of music in our streets? Would any of the ministers among us commend the practice of an individual who wandered to a different place of worship every Sunday? I would suggest that what would be wrong for one can hardly be right for many.

I know I am an old-fashioned person, but I regard the object of going to church to be for worship of the Almighty God, and I think that solemn thoughts and devout demeanor are its proper accompaniments. Are these objects likely to be attained by drawing a crowd largely composed of giggling girls, and careless youths, who look on the whole thing too often perhaps as a good joke, and a holiday entertainment. All this might be very suitable if we wished to advertise a place of public amusement, but I submit that churches should be for holier purposes. When, a year or two since, the volunteers attended St. Michael's Church, a Roman Catholic paper commented very favorably on their liberality but took care to intimate that conscientious scruples would not allow Roman Catholics to act in the same way by attending services of other religious bodies. I do honor consistency at all events and I fear that when people try to show by a careless or complimentary attendance at all kinds of churches that they believe all religions equally true, they may end, as I fear too many have already done, by thinking them equally false. I cannot think that those who go to church for show are likely to go to pray, and are hardly likely either to be benefitted by a sermon which, however good the preacher's intentions may be, is still regarded as preached to please and flatter those who have honored him by their attendance. I do venture to think that church going should not be connected with compliments conferred or received, for I at least think that the church is not for man (that is, for man's pride and display), but for the Lord God.

I remain

Very truly yours,

J. W. B.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

LONDON, April 21.—The Mayor of Cork has intimated that the civic hospitality will be afforded the officers of the relief ship, Constellation.

AMERICAN.

CHARLESTON, Ill., April 21.—John Mason, a wealthy German farmer, who kept a small store 8 miles north of here, was assassinated at his home last night, by an unknown person who called him out.

MARSHFIELD, Mo., April 21.—71 victims of Sunday's storm have been buried, 25 or 30 more are dying and 150 seriously wounded. A babe about 18 months old, whose mother was killed and friends all wounded, was found yesterday in a ravine north of this town, where it lay all night. Another child two years old was yesterday afternoon found in a tree top where it had been nearly 24 hours, considerably bruised, was to day claimed by its parents, who live three miles from south town. It is reported that from 30 to 40 persons have been killed by spurs of the tornado in the country and that the town of Consicona in Barry Co. is as badly wrecked as this.

FORT SMITH, Ark., April 21.—A tornado on Sunday caused great havoc, especially at Oak Bower, where five persons were killed and many injured; 26 houses were swept away.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 21,—James Jelly was brought from Mississippi yesterday, on a charge of murdering a young woman three years ago. He showed the officers where the body was buried. Lynching is threatened.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Seth B. Hunt, one of the oldest dry goods merchants in New York, has died.

The general competition for the membership of the Rifle team to go to Ireland, takes place at Creedmoor, about the middle of May.

Regarding the Syracuse convention, the World says it rests now with the National convention at Cincinnati to give the divided democracy of New York a candidate upon whom they can unite, or to elect Grant.

The Times says the net result of yesterday's deliberations, leaves the Democratic party of New York a little further from harmony than it was before.

The Tribune says the net result is Tilden has a solid New York delegation, which will be admitted to the Cincinnati convention, and Kelly has an equally solid anti-Tilden delegation which will not be admitted.

The Herald says the result of yesterday's proceedings is a substantial victory for Tilden.

The Great Storm

FURTHER PARTICULARS

81 COFFINS USED.

MARSHFIELD, Mo., April 20.—The situation is more easy to-day and will improve as people become more calm. The dead are being buried as fast as possible, and the carcases of dead animals hauled away. There have been 81 coffins used, and there will probably be four or more to night. Six died since last night. The wounded embrace nearly all the town and fifty more are seriously hurt, and no doubt many of them will die. There are a good many dead children and negroes whose names cannot be learned. A great many of the wounded are so scattered that they cannot be found. Abundance of provisions and shelter will be furnished. Many think the wounded will have to be taken away from here to some other place where they can receive better treatment.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21.

City and Vicinity

THE TIE TRADE.—A train consisting of 24 cars laden with ties, will be brought in to-morrow over the B. & N. H. R. from the vicinity of the iron mines for the use of the Grand Trunk.

THE INSTITUTE.—At the Institute for the Deaf and Dumb there are in attendance at this date 235 pupils, 160 of whom are males and the remainder females. The general health of those in attendance thereat is excellent.

PASSENGER TRAFFIC.—Travel on the line of the Grand Trunk Railway westward still continues very brisk, as is attested by the number of passenger coaches used on each train destined Occidentally. Last evening's express was drawn by two locomotives and contained fifteen cars.

CITY HALL.—The lecture to be given to-morrow evening, by the Rev. Jacob Freshman, promises to be so attractive that it is expected that there will be a large attendance. Let none miss the rare opportunity of hearing a lecturer so distinguished for eloquence and power. The Mayor will preside.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.—The operations for the season have opened very favorably, as already several buildings have been erected. The probabilities are that a considerable number of dwellings will be built during the summer and fall, but it is not likely they will be of the style or costliness of those of last year.

LUMBER NOTE.—It is not now expected that the work of driving the logs down the Moira River, will be commenced before the first of the ensuing month, as the ice in the back lakes is still strong. Several of the tributaries of these lakes are however open and driving has already begun on them preparatory to pushing the work on the lakes before the water falls.

FOR THE WEST.—A train consisting of 19 cars, 6 of which were occupied by passengers and the remaining number filled with goods and general effects of those who were on their way, followed the express from the east last evening, bound for Manitoba. Such was the desire to "go west" that a passenger train of nine cars followed the morning express bound westward to-day.

SAILING NOTE.—The catamaran owned by Mr. J. J. B. Flint made her first trip yesterday and followed that trial by another this morning. Those who were on board speak in high terms of the staunchness of the boat and aver that she is speedy and very seaworthy. As yet she is rather slow in staying, but in time that difficulty will be remedied and she will become a satisfactory and ready sailer.

WARNING.—Those who fish illegally should bear in mind that the penalty for so doing is a severe one and will be strictly exacted in every instance. The open season expired on the 15th of April, and those who catch pickerel, &c., during the spawning season will be brought before the Police Magistrate, as the Fishery Overseer and his assistants are determined to vigorously enforce the law.

OTHELLO.—The production of this great Shakespearian tragedy by the Histrionic Association at the Opera House last night under Masonic auspices, attracted a large audience. The performance was fully as satisfactory as on the first presentation of the play, and in some respects even better, and entire satisfaction was given to those who were present. The Association have "The Merchant of Venice" in rehearsal, and will shortly produce it with a good cast.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—The anniversary of England's patron Saint, which occurs on Friday, is to be celebrated by a public dinner at the Dafoe House in the evening. On Sunday afternoon, the 25th inst., the members of the Society and all Englishmen and sons of Englishmen who accept the general invitation to attend, will assemble at the City Hall at 2:30 p. m. and proceed to Christ Church, where the Rev. Dr. Clarke, who is one of the Society's Chaplains, will preach the annual sermon.

STRAW SHIPMENT.—Shipments of straw continue active, and nearly all that is put up in this section of the country goes to American points. Boston has received a large supply from this city, so also have Troy and Albany. Yesterday Mr. N. McCammon sent two cars to Waterford, New York, and will forward two more of the same in a few days. Each car contains 150 bales and each bale weighs 170 pounds and is bound with wire. The trade must be a profitable one, as several persons in this locality are engaged in it.

FRATERNIZING.—A number of the Brockville Oddfellows will visit here on Monday next and unite with their Belleville brethren in celebrating the anniversary of their order, which will occur on that day.

HUNTING.—Ducks and geese are reported as being quite numerous in Big Bay and large numbers have been shot. A Front Street merchant visited the locality above named on Monday evening and succeeded in knocking down seven pairs.

HORSE BUYING.—Good cariage horses are now in demand and fair prices are being paid. Good rangey stylish animals readily command $125, whilst a well-matched team can easily get $275. The animals bought are for the American market.

FARMING.—Spring work has already begun in many localities, but in many places where the land was low ploughing has been backward. In many places already a variety of seeding has been done and the general spring work considerably advanced.

CRICKET.—The Port Hope Cricket Club have again secured a lease of their grounds, and will consequently be to the fore with the willow this season as usual. If possible a match ought to be arranged with them by our local club, as the Clubs are old and worthy antagonists, and the best of good feeling has always prevailed amongst the members of each.

ICE.—Notwithstanding the large quantity of ice which has been shipped from this Province to the other side, the supply, from appearances—in the shape of demands—seems altogether inadequate. Letters of inquiry concerning the glacial solid are noted by our contemporaries, and several have been received here, asking the price at which it is held. A warm season will be held by those who have ice for sale as an indication that they have a bonanza.

ANOTHER RAID.—The city police and County Constable Wert made a descent last night upon the house of ill-fame known as "The Farm," where four women and one man were arrested. Three other men made their way to the roof, but they were, by a well-directed volley of hard-heads, propelled by the sinewy arms of the policemen, compelled to follow the example of Crockett's coon and "come down." They were permitted to escape. The keeper of the house was fined $20, the male inmate $10, two of the female inmates $10 each, and the alternative of non-payment was three months in gaol.

SUN MUTUAL.—We are in receipt of the report of last year of the Sun Mutual Life Insurance Company. This we cannot consider anything short of a really good report, especially when the depressed state of business generally during the past year is considered. The company shows a clear profit for the year of $47,996.90, after having struck off the sum of $14,519.93, to cover every possible depreciation in the Company's securities to date, thereby leaving the Company's assets for the ensuing year represented at their strictly cash market value. We have been shown the Government Superintendent's certificate of valuation, which shows that the liabilities under policies with the Sun Mutual have been valued by the Government's regular standard rates, thereby making it necessary for the Company to carry a much larger rest fund than if valued by any of the other tables commonly used in valuing the liabilities of insurance companies in this country. Mr. W. T. McIntyre, of Belleville, is general agent for this Company. The local agent is Mr. J. P. Asslestine.

HAVERLY'S COLORED MINSTRELS.—This first class mammoth organization, which is composed exclusively of colored men, is to give a performance in the Opera House on Monday night next. What an influential newspaper, published in the most critical city in America, thinks of them, is shown by the following extract from the Boston Daily Globe:—"The programme was a brilliant one, and its peformance far exceeded even what the fame of the manager would lead one to expect. The end-men, ten in all, were almost numerous enough to form an entire minstrel troupe of the ordinary old-fashioned pattern, and the specialties were original, captivating, marvellous, and surpassingly ludicrous. Each feature of the programme merits especial mention, but the praise would be so uniform as to become tiresome. Of such an entertainment, the critic must content himself with saying that there was nothing to condemn and everything to approve."

Marine Notes.

The steamer Alexandra will commence her season's work on Saturday next, when she will arrive here from her winter quarters in Picton, proceed to Trenton, return thence on Monday morning and leave here for Montreal at 9 a. m. The Alexandra, which is owned by Mr. A. W. Hepburn, of Picton, comes out as good as new this season. Her machinery has been thoroughly overhauled and put in complete order, saloon (which is one of the finest on any steamer on inland waters) repainted and refitted, and false sides placed on the hulls, thus rendering the boat stiffer in every respect. Capt. Smith, who is well and favorably known as one of the most skilful and experienced of steamboat men, will again be in command, with his right hand man Patrick Feery, as first mate and sailing master, and Mr. F. CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.—As I have been repeatedly informed that certain parties in this city who are trying to sell furniture (?) by auction and private sales in auction rooms, have been and are now making use of my name and trade reputation, by urging as a guarantee for the quality of the goods that they belong to me, and were made by me—which assertion has but one truthful inference, viz., that the stuff would never sell on its own merits—I beg to inform the public that I have no furniture on sale at any auction rooms, nor am I in any way connected with bankrupt sales of so-called furniture, by auction or otherwise: notwithstanding my name being erroneously connected by advertisement or design with the "assignees' instructions," "bankrupt stocks," &c. But I am pleased to say that I continue at my regular place of business, where I am enabled by experience and close application to business, to sell furniture and all goods in my line, at prices and values which DEFY COMPETITION—as witness the numerous compromises, assignments, and bankruptcies, which have occurred in my line of business.

CARPETS.

WE are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers.

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealer telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, five, ten, and even twenty-five cents per yard is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

But as day after day Charles lay in his bed watching Woodford as he moved about the room, the conviction became more and more irresistible that it was his old friend and guardian Tobby Spratt who was before him. The features were certainly not quite as he remembered them, but then twelve years had passed in the interval, and this period of time of necessity caused two influences to operate. The boy was very young when he parted from Tobby, and his memory, no doubt, failed to retain in perfect minuteness the features of his face—these twelve years as they passed over his head must have altered him somewhat—so that it was not surprising that Charles could not altogether identify the features of Woodford with those of Tobby Spratt.

As the days passed, however, and as memory dwelt on the scenes in the showman's caravan, at the Sow and Pigs in Ratcliff Highway, and in the house of Mrs. Stubbs in Lambeth Walk, the more he was continually before it the face which suggested these scenes to his contemplation, Charles grew more and more certain that this was none other than Tobby Spratt.

And if Woodford was Tobby, could Mary be Myra? How earnestly and intently he looked at her, scanning—as he could easily do without being observed—the form and face to detect in them a resemblance to his little and dearly loved companion of those happy days—the beautiful fairy who was the joy and sunshine of all their lives. Here he felt recognition to be far more difficult, for twelve years must have made a prodigious change on her, as they had made on himself. He was quite conscious that they who had known him as Charles, the abandoned and unknown boy of eight years, could not recognize him as Charles Ravensworth, a full grown man of twenty, boarded and educated, and withal the son and heir of the squire of Singleton Hall. In like manner he could not expect to find in Mary Woodford the lineaments or expression of the almost infant Myra, with whom he danced on the tight rope, gathered wild flowers in the meadows, and played on bright summer days by the brink of the sparkling stream, when the caravan had halted in the moor or in the common, or on the outskirts of a pretty English village.

And yet, when he gazed intently upon her, with the conscious purpose of discovering identity which the development of time had concealed, he found points of resemblance hardly to be mistaken. The glorious golden hair which had shone like a halo on Myra's head had darkened towards auburn, but its profusion and glossiness had not abated, though it was looped up in single braids, as befitted a pure maidenly taste. The round chubby face, with its red cheeks and sparkling eyes, had grown into an oval countenance of sweetest expression, while those large blue eyes were the same—clear and beaming in their innocence and truth. The silvery voice and the merry peals of childish laughter had changed for the maturer charms of girlish loveliness, modified beautifully by the graces of intelligence and mutual refinement. With his own improved powers of thought and feeling, Charles reflected that Myra must have grown into just such a maiden as Mary Woodford, and very soon he entertained the conviction that the two beings whose kind ministrations he was receiving were dearly loved friends whose loss he had so sadly mourned, even though other kind friends had taken him up and raised him to a far higher scale of life.

It may easily be supposed that when the conviction fairly settled itself on the mind of Charles, it filled him with the most intense interest and profoundest wonder. How had they come into their present position so different and so gratifyingly superior to their former situation! That they should have changed their name was natural enough, for it was of the utmost importance that everything connected with a mode of life which society did not consider respectable should be concealed, but the great wonder to Charles was that they should have risen so far above their former circumstances, and reached a sphere so useful and so honored. How had Myra received her education, and become fitted for a teacher! It was like Tobby, certainly, to save her from the unenviable life to which she seemed destined, and the docile, gentle, and purehearted Myra would, he knew, second all the efforts her protector made to accomplish this object. But how had they found the opportunity, pressed on all sides as they were by poverty and hard necessity! He could not doubt that the most patient and arduous striving had been involved in it, and the manifestations of a degree of self denial which could be prompted only by a purpose so virtuous and estimable. But he longed to know the particulars of the upwards struggle, and to learn the history of their success—above all, he longed to reveal himself to them to amaze them first by showing them he had penetrated their disguise, and then to give them a glad surprise by telling them that he was Charlie, who had been separated from them so painfully, yet for a providential purpose of such wondrous mercy. Oh! the joy that must follow such a disclosure!—the mere anticipation of it was a rapture in itself.

His pleasure, however, was damped by remembering that he was not free to confide to mortal the secret that he was not the son of the Squire of Singleton Hall. Lord Eagleheart had insisted on a solemn engagement being entered into to have this fact for ever concealed. He made that an indispensable condition of a union between the youth and his daughter, and Mr. Ravensworth, acknowledging the propriety of it, had bound himself, Lydia, and Charles by a solemn obligation never to divulge it. It was a secret to be confined for ever to the breasts of those who already knew it—viz., his Lordship's family. To all the world besides Charles was to be known as the true and only son of Philip and Lydia. This obligation had been freely taken by the whole of them, and it must now lie like an inviolable seal on the lips of Charles, preventing him from making himself known to Tobby and Myra, even should he obtain certain proof that the Woodfords were indeed the friends he suspected.

This was not yet a matter of perfect certainty, however strong were his suspicions; but one evening the proof was given to him and his suspicion became absolute knowledge. It was the evening of the day previous to that on which he was to be removed to the Hall, and after tea, as, sat down to read to him. Philip and Lydia, Lady Eagleheart and Dora had been with him for the greater part of the afternoon, and the excitement of their presence having made him weary, his lassitude was observed by Mary, and she, instead of beginning to read, began to sing to him in a low soothing strain. The effect she sought was produced for gradually and imperceptibly his eyes closed, and he dropped asleep.

Then she drew a cloak gently and silently round his shoulders, and quitting the room joined her father who was at work in the garden.

She had been gone but a few minutes when Charles awoke, and finding himself alone, was tempted by the beauty of the evening to go into the garden. He had never done this without leaning on the arm of one of them, and smiled to himself to think how surprised they would be when they saw him walking alone.

A Good Housewife.

The good housewife, when she is giving her house its spring renovating, should bear in mind that the dear inmates of her house are more precious than many houses, and that the impurities need cleansing by purifying the blood, regulating the stomach and bowels to prevent and cure the diseases arising from spring malaria and miasma, and she must know that there is nothing that will do it so perfectly and surely as Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines. See other column.

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in in a strong and healthful condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidity increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately intro uced. Boschees German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 18-8, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Directions accompany the wrapper, so that persons can use it without a physician if so desired. Does not interfere with any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents Sample bottle, 10 cents.

The Hunter!

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and resort to subtlety to secure his prey. Such life is one of great attraction, and is usually very methodical, putting up with the coarseness of the camp. Sometimes his camp is enlivened by the presence of an enthusiastic, when expenses are ignored and every possible adjunct to comfort is provided. Old "Sharp Eye," the leader, knows the favorite spots where game may be expected, and he plants himself thereabouts. Then comes the rude rouse, the excitement attending the pursuit, the fatal shots ringing through the air, the gathering of the game, and the return to the camp, animate with feasting and the stories of the hunters. It is splendid to have a good hunt. It is a good thing, also, to hunt for diseases in the human system, to drive them away. And for this commend me to DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS. They are the most experienced hunters after diseases known.

MR. M. GILES, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, 77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know to be safe,) and then the tonic powders put her in good condition—meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and she are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck." Again thanking you for your prompt reply, I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 15, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble, under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to rapidly fail and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent nervous symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine after commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke about for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is the best medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.

About the 20th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Wasting Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James I. Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, a can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only slight and the action of the heart is less fearible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me. I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but fung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,

LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

PRICE, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or properly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical men examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them unsound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

In medicine all true knowledge comes from studying the causes of disease. The action of these causes upon our organism determines the nature and seat of the malady they produce. A cause which only acts on the stomach will produce a disease of the stomach; and so of causes which act on the lungs, liver, kidneys, bowels, or nervous system. Every known cause capable of producing consumption first acts on the lungs. A small chest, a cramped position of the body, confinement in badly ventilated rooms, congestion and inflammation of the air passages, all act by impairing the breathing and preventing the proper action of the lungs. Consumption results from this interference of the function of the lungs, and the disease which results fixes itself upon that organ.

Now, how should a disease so produced and so located be treated? We should withdraw the patient as fully as possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If that organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we should treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the real point of difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and it is the point which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the physician to be able to point to the result of his practice in proof of the wisdom of his prescriptions. Even at the risk of being accused of egotism, I will venture to say that the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation speaks for itself by the substantial good it has accomplished and is accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. I can point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair. I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians of eminence had pronounced the case "hopeless." And the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and the lungs; they give the patient medicine to swallow and I give them medicine to inhale. But this difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

Every disease of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence, a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation. We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they are imperfectly and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the surface of the body chilly and the nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by proper diet, clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

If impossible to visit the office personally, write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, together with a copy of my "Medical Treatise on Diseases of the Breathing Organs." Address.

Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION

TUESDAY, April 20.

When the debate closed last night, Mr. White, of Cardwell, had the floor. This afternoon he resumed and proceeds with the discussion. His idea is that the discussion of the history of the question was not what Mr. Blake sneeringly called the discussion of antiquities, but the discussion of the foundation of the present national obligations and the present national interests, was one which at once took the ear of the House. That Mr. Mackenzie, in 1874, could reasonably have refused to go on with the alleged "mad bargain" with British Columbia, but did not do so, was also pressed home on the notice of Mr. Mackenzie. When Mr. Mackenzie was entering into the Carnarvon terms, he had already added three millions to the taxation. Mr. White laid great but not unnatural stress upon the language of Lord Carnarvon in recommending to Mr. Mackenzie's Government the fulfilment of the terms which Mr. Mackenzie himself had suggested, and which Mr. Mackenzie had adopted in his minute of Council as his own policy. Lord Carnarvon's conviction that these terms would be loyally carried out was fallsified in a melancholy way. As Mr. White said, when Lord Carnarvon reads the debates for the past week, if he does so at all, he will be rather surprised at the perfidy of men whom he was depending on to carry out loyally the terms they had agreed upon.

Mr. White made exceedingly strong points by reading orders-in-Council one after another, each admitting that the taxation actually had been raised by three millions by the Reform Government, while year after year has been pretending to stick by the promise of the statute, that the taxation should not be increased. He pressed home also the fact that at the very time when Mr. Mackenzie was making his most confident declaration of his progressive policy in the matter of the Pacific railway, Sir Richard Cartwright was confessing a deficit of $1,901,000. With perfectly stunning effect, however, he read from Mr. Mackenzie's speech of 1877, which was delivered in the presence of Mr. Blake, to show that Mr. Mackenzie had then declared that the sending of the rails to Yale was in order that the people of British Columbia might not think their speeches were mere empty promises, and that construction would be begun in British Columbia early in the year. This part of Mr. White's speech was received with great applause by the House. So also was the reference to Lord Dufferin's Victoria speech, and the denunciation he had made of any man who would attempt "basely" to deceive himself or Lord Carnarvon, and the inference which was drawn that the Government was base which consented to abandon Lord Carnarvon in order to secure Mr. Blake.

Mr. Mackenzie's absurd declaration that he had called for tenders only to find out the cost of the work was also exposed in a very telling manner, Mr. White taking up first, the evidence supplied by the surveys and reports, which should have given all needed information; and, second, the articles in the Grit press, which declared that Mr. Mackenzie would have begun this work a year ago last September. But all that had gone before was nothing to the force with which Mr. White quoted Mr. Mackenzie's speech of last session, in which Mr. Mackenzie actually promised to support the Government in their railway policy, if they would only state the special line in British Columbia which they intended to build, and which he indicated as the Yale-Kamloops line. This was delivered with irresistible effect. The way in which the reason for Mr. Mackenzie's change of opinion had been brought about by the presence of Mr. Blake in the House, and the effect of Mr. Mackenzie's conversion as shown in his sudden discovery in the blue books of a great number of ill reports concerning our North-Western lands, these points were driven home with immense force.

Mr. White referred to Mr. Blake's singular statement about the unlikelihood of Irish emigration, and, with amusing aptness, said that perhaps it was intended to signalize Irish succession and the downfall of Scotch ascendancy in regard to the Opposition leadership. Mr. Blake's mistakes or misstatements, as to the relative sales of lands in the United States and Canada, his mistakes or misstatements as to the public indebtedness, his calculation of the national progress in indefinite dollars and cents, these things were all dealt with at some length by Mr. White. Mr. White made a strong defence of the claims of British Columbia from every point of view and concluded by a fine peroration, in which he condemned the policy of the Opposition, who would build up a political success on national repudiation and dishonor. The applause which followed was certainly due to a very able, complete and effective speech, worthy of the subject, and worthy of the House.

Mr. Anglin contended at length that the late Government had manifested remarkable energy and vigor in advancing the work of construction on the Pacific Railroad. They endeavored to carry out all the obligations entered into by the Macdonald-Cartier Administration with the British Columbians, but the latter appeared determined to exact the literal fulfilment of the terms rather than the spirit. Continuing, he contended that the country was not in a position to increase its expenditure without forcing the whole of the Provinces into irretrievable ruin. In concluding he denounced the existing Customs tariff as being in its effect upon the shipping interests only rivalled by the record of destruction by fire and pillage by the Barbary and Algerian corsairs.

Mr. Macdougall, in a well directed speech appeared to indicate a preference for the construction of the Pacific Railway as an undertaking by private capitalists and not the Government. He claimed that Mr. Blake's amendment was not the logical sequence of the speech which preceded it. Instead of moving, in deference to the opinions of Mr. Mackenzie, that the construction of the Yale-Kamloops branch should be postponed, there by intimating that it ought not to be constructed, he should have moved that the construction of the Road be abandoned west of Winnipeg. Considering the whole of the circumstances, he would vote against the amendment and in favor of the Government policy because the latter had promised to proceed slowly with the construction of the Burrard Inlet section.

Speeches against the amendment were delivered by Messrs. McLennan, Dawson and Girouard (Jacques Cartier), who claimed that it was tantamount to repudiating the terms of union with British Columbia, besides retarding the development of the country.

Mr. Cockburn (Muskoka) condemned the Government's policy in abandoning the construction of the Georgian Bay branch, and claimed that that road would have been of great public use when completed.

Messrs. Barnard and Schultz continued the debate on the Ministerial side, and Mr. Burpee (Sunbury) on the Opposition.

At 1:40 the members were called in, and Mr. Blake's amendment was declared lost on the following division:—Yeas 49, Nays 131—majority against the amendment, 82. Mr. Skinner, the member for South Oxford (Grit) voted with the majority. The House resolved itself into Committee of Supply, passed an item, and adjourned at 2.15 a. m.

Milwaukie packed 345,783 hogs last winter a loss of 103,438 for the season.

Paris annually consumes about six millions of crayfish, at a cost of $70,000.

The number of new works issued in Germany in 1879 amounted to 14,179, as against 13,912 in the previous year.

Last winter there were killed in France 5,328 will boars, 5,036 badgers, 6,771 foxes, and 557 wolves and young wolves.

There are 60,000 locomotives in the United States, and each contains 2800 different pieces, requiring renewal every ten or twelve years.

According to the latest returns, Copenhagen has a population of 23 ,000. In 1850 it contained 129,000; in 1860, 156,00 , and in 1870, 181,000.

There are ninty-five lakes in Iowa, covering an area of 62,000 acres. Should these dry up, as some are doing, the land willbelong to the Government.

Paris has 602 painters in oil, 193 miniature painters, 159 pastel and fan painters, 107 sculptors and 154 moulders, not counting the many photographers, decorators, colorists, &c.

De Lesseps estimated that it would cost 200,00,000 francs to construct the Suez Canal; it actually did cost about 450,000,000 francs, half of which were stolen from Egypt, making that country bankrupt.

In the sixty-one years elapsed between 1815 and 1876, the number of emigrants from the United Kingdom has been 8,424,942, of which number there have gone to the United States 5,407,075 persons; to our North American possessions, 1,549,010; to Australia, 1,154,628; and to other countries, 243,229. This shows an average emigration for the sixty-one years of 130,060, and if we take the average value of each emigrant for himself and what he takes with him at £200 each person, that gives a sum total of £1,684,958,400.

The paternal Government of Japan provides its children with post-office savings banks. Of these there were last year 595, an increase of 303 as compared with 1878, and of 576 as compared with 1875, the year of their establishment. The statistics show a rapid advance in other respects. The number of depositors in 1879 was 27,085, more than twice as many as the year before. The deposits amounted to $381,105.77, an increase of nearly fifty-five per centum. The amount of interest paid was $15,305.73, nearly three times as much as the year before. The figures speak well for the growing thrift of the Japanese and the careful management of the investments. The paternal Government does not manage the business gratuitously, but as the revenue derived from the post-office savings banks last year was only $1,401.85 the charge is not excessive.

Management of Hens.

I propose to furnish to you a brief sketch of my success in keeping hens for the past year, ending Jan. 1, 1880, as I think it a very gratifying proof that hen keeping, to a certain extent at least, may be made to pay in dollars and cents, as well as in the æsthetic influences that the care of any kind of stock in animals has upon one's mind. For it cannot be denied that the care of creatures dependent upon us in every way has an enlarging and ennobling influence.

My stock numbered, Jan. 1, 1879, thirty-eight hens and laying pullets, and averaged forty in number throughout the year, with two cocks. My hennery comprises the space beneath my wood house, and is about twelve feet square and six high. It has a northwesterly exposure, and one end and a part of two sides are formed by excavating the slope upon which it sets. A never failing rivulet of pure, cold water runs through the centre. My experience in the keeping of hens is limited to a year or two past, and therefore my success cannot be due in a large measure to skill or training.

For food I have used oats, corn meal, and shorts by turns, together with the scraps from the table and kitchen; which last I think hens place at the head of their bill of fare. I also keep them well supplied with ground oyster shells, and ashes or dry earth to burrow in. The manure is often removed, and replaced by dry earth, and no offal or other source of foul smells is allowed. My hens are of no particular breed—a general mixture, in fact.

The cost of keeping the hens one year was $33.86, cost of raising thirty-three chickens was $9.06, making a total of $42.92. In Jan., 1879, had 26½ dozen eggs at 38 cents per dozen, $8.55; Feb. 34½ dozen at 36 cents, $12.17; March, 40½ dozen, mostly at 26 cents, $11.05; April, 39½ dozen at 23 cents, $9.05; May, 45 5 6 dozen at 20 cents per dozen, $9.17; June, 33 7-12 dozen at 23 cents per dozen, $7.72; July, 25 7-12 dozen at 25 cents per dozen, $6.40; August, 20 5-12 dozen at 25 cents per dozen, $5.10; September, 18 dozen at 27 cents per dozen, $4.86; October 15½ dozen at 33 cents per dozen, $5.12; November, 9 dozen at 42 cents per dozen, $3.78; December, 16½ dozen at 38 cents per dozen, $6.33. Total receipts of eggs were $89.26; 33 chickens brought $21.30; sold manure for hen's gain in stock, $4.35; an overcharge in food account, $2.15. Total of receipts $120.06; total expenses, $42.92; leaving a balance of $77.14 of net profit, unless figures lie. The average number of eggs to a hen for a year was a fraction less than 98; cost of keeping a single hen, 84½; cost of raising one chicken, 27½ cents. The eggs were mostly sold to consumers, although those sold on the markets brought within a cent or two on a dozen as much as the former. Eggs that can be warranted as fresh are always in demand.

In conclusion, I see no reason why hen and egg farming on a larger scale may not be equally as successful provided that one goes into the business determined to make as great a use of his brains in it as in any other calling; that the hens are distributed in small and well isolated flocks, and great attention paid to cleanliness.—N. BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, APRIL 22.

The "Wheat Robbery" and the Coal Tax.

The Globe evidently feels uneasy at the complete and consequently galling exposure of the misstatements that it made in regard to the now thoroughly exploded "wheat robbery" which it charged against the N. P., as it never loses an opportunity of seeking new grounds for attack on this subject. In its issue of the 18th inst., the Opposition organ, in replying to a correspondent, formulates a series of indictments against the duty on wheat, the first of which is as follows :

1. The coal and other taxes upon transportation companies have caused increased expenses and a rise in freight charges. As the rates for through freight are settled without any regard to the cost of the service, but only in competition with American lines which pay no coal tax, it follows that Canadian local freights must pay the tax not only on the coal burned in hauling Canada crops, but also the tax on the coal burned in hauling American grain to market through Canada. The coal tax thus hits our farmers in two ways, and by increasing the cost of getting their grain to Liverpool, decreases the price paid for the grain here.

This is a very formidable assertion, but after all it is only an assertion, and one which we believe to be incapable of proof. If Canadian local freights have been raised, let the Globe state the fact on authority which the people will believe—that of the railway managers or their official publications; and if rates for local freights have been increased, let it also be stated on the same authority what the rates for through freights are, as compared with those prevalent before the coal tax went into operation. In other words, let the organ inform its readers whether the rise on freight rates—if such has occurred—is not of a general character. In the meantime we deny that there has been any such increase. Assertions are easily made, but proof is generally lacking for those made by the Grit organ. The fact is, we believe, that the heavy traffic which the through lines have been carrying since the N. P., came into effect has enabled the railway companies to handle it more economically than they could have done a lesser amount of freight. This is so plainly apparent, if there be any profit to the railways in carrying through freights—and the efforts and expenditure of the Grand Trunk Company to regain the connection with Chicago, from which Vanderbilt had cut them off, is proof direct that there is—as to need no argument to sustain it.

We come now to No 2 of the Globe's growls, which is as follows :

2. The N. P. has caused, and will continue to cause, a decrease in the bulk of freights sent from England to Canada. Consequently vessel owners, in order to pay the expense of the voyage, must charge more for the freight from Canadian ports to Liverpool. This further reduces the amount coming to the Canadian farmer.

Perhaps the best answer to this assertion is the simple statement of these facts :—For the first six months under the N. P. the decline in free and dutiable goods imported from Great Britain was but 7 per cent., which certainly could not cause such a decrease in the bulk of freight sent from England to Canada as to have any bearing whatever on ocean freights. And further, the amount of tonnage entered at and cleared from Montreal and Quebec in 1880 was greater than it was during the preceding year, so that there could have been no scarcity of tonnage, and if rates were higher—of which no evidence has been given—the increase must therefore have arisen from the greater quantity of grain carried over the Canadian route—a trade which the Globe, as it is now compelled to acknowledge, falsely, predicted would be ruined by the coal duty. This fact should also be remembered, that the increase in the amount of freight carried by the Grand Trunk was not caused by the resumption of direct connection with Chicago, which was opened only a very few weeks ago.

On the point as to the effect of the coal duty on through freights we confront the Globe with the prophecies which it made. On the 20th of March, 1879, or less than one week after the revision of the tariff, it put forth the following gloomy augury with regard to the forwarding trade of the lakes and river St. Lawrence :

Under the new tariff the duty on American grains will cause them entirely to abandon the Canadian route, because it is impossible to ship in bond without an increase in the expense of forwarding which will be quite sufficient to turn the scale in favor of the American routes.

The result, as all the world knows, was a very large increase in the amount of grain forwarded by the Canadian route.

Then as to the railways, it said on the following day :

Then again, the duties on wheat, corn, etc., amount to a virtual closing of the Grand Trunk Railway as a means of transport for the cereals of the Western States to tide water. The struggle for Western freights was previously of the sharpest description. It is perfectly hopeless to think that our railroads will be able to compete with the American lines, when the former are weighted with a coal tax which the latter does not pay.

The Grand Trunk's having during the past season carried a very much larger quantity of the cereals of the Western States to tide water than ever before is a fitting answer to the false prophecies of the free-trade theorists, who now acknowledge their failure to prophesy correctly by putting forward the plea above referred to which has no foundation in fact, but their other assertion, which may be taken as in the nature of a prediction, is just as wide of the mark as are the others from the same source.

In regard to the Globe's fourth charge, that the N. P. prevented a rise in the Toronto market to correspond with the great speculative movement carried on by J. R. Keene and his associates, it is only necessary to say that we recently occupied much space in effectually proving, from the organ's own columns, that, whilst during the year before the N. P., the difference in favor of Toronto was only 23-100th part of a cent, it was during the first year of protection 3½ cents higher in Toronto. This, too, against the best sustained attempt ever made to force the price of wheat up in Chicago, and which had been carried on with wonderful perseverance and an immense amount of capital for at least a year. Now that this ring has been broken, the difference in favor of Toronto on Saturday was no less than 15¾ cents, and this, we think will be quite satisfactory to farmers who have wheat to sell, as well as to the public in general.

The Pacific Railway Debate.

The debate on the Pacific Railway policy of the Government and Mr. Blake's amendment proposing to postpone the commencement of work on the British Columbia section ended on Thursday morning in a great triumph for the Government, the amendment proposed by Mr Blake being rejected by 131 to 49, leaving a majority of 82 against the unpatriotic proposal of the Opposition. The division was, despite the pronunciamento of the Globe in favor of a vigorous and comprehensive policy, purely a party one, but one member of the Opposition having the courage to vote against his party and the promises made for it by its leaders in previous years. But then the Grit party were never patriotic and never will be. The Opposition cut a very sorry figure during the debate, Mr. Mackenzie, their now nominal and formerly real leader being shown to have thoroughly committed himself to a policy which would necessarily have proved more expensive than that of the present Government; to have violated the restriction imposed on the scheme by Parliament, namely that the work should not be proceeded with so rapidly as to cause an increase of taxation; and finally to have stated in 1878 that he intended to build, to have advertised in that year for tenders for the construction of, to have paid $32,400 for the transportation of rails for, and to have agreed last year to support the Government in the construction, of the very section which Mr. Blake's resolution proposed to postpone until some future time. Mr. Mackenzie has certainly not much reason to rejoice at the position in which he has placed himself, and this he must feel all the more keenly as the expected division in the ranks of the supporters of the Government not only did not occur, but one member of his own slender following voted against him. The country is to be congratulated on the result, which will be satisfactory to the people as a whole.

The division list is appended for purposes of future reference:

Marmora Correspondence.

A brick-yard is shortly to be opened near the village. It is to be hoped this, together with the other increasing signs of life and activity visible in almost all kinds of business at present, are satisfactory evidences of "another hum."

The weather at last begins to look somewhat more like "beautiful spring," although on the 10th inst. a "blizzard" on a small scale swept over this Township, and Taurus has been behaving generally more like his predecessor Aries.

Mr. R. Neil has sold his farm to Messrs. Rothwell & Co., of New York, for $4,000. Gold has been discovered on the place, and is expected to yield remuneratively.

A shaft has been sunk on the farm of Mr. W. Deacon, which promises to be a good thing.

It is said that Mr. Ira Cook and sons have made this season 4 cwt. of maple sugar, of good quality. They are certainly very enterprising in this, as well as every kind of business they engage in.

The Assessor for Marmora and Lake has at last about completed his "heavy task," and gives some rather humorous accounts of his travels in the northern parts of the latter township.

Farmers are now generally beginning their spring's work. Fall crops so far, owing to the scarcity of snow during the winter, are not at present looking very well, but it is hoped that with the reviving effects of the warm spring rains and sunshine, they may yet recover.

Private letters from Messrs. C. Isted and B. B. Beddome, who are now at work on the C. P. R., state that money would be no inducement to make them return to Ontario,—also that there is a great rush to Manitoba this season, and that the hotels in St. Boniface and Winnipeg are crowded to excess with guests. They state that wages are from $1.50 to $1.75 per day, and that car-loads of spikes and fish-plates for the railroad, go west every day. That the only stony ground they have seen yet is a slight elevation of land near the Provincial Penitentiary.

There is just 55 minutes difference between St. Paul's and Marmora time.

Mr. Flint's Speech on Building and Loan Societies' Bill

For the Intelligencer.

MR. EDITOR :—In your condensed report of what I said in reference to Loan Societies, you make me to say : "It was not the case with all Societies, however, as he knew one in Hamilton that had collected as much as 22½ per cent. on loans." If you will look over my speech as published in the Citizen of the 17th, you will find I did not use the word Hamilton, nor had I any reference to that city or any Society for the loaning of money therein.

I made a mistake in using the word "President," and which I afterwards explained to Senator Hope, in reference to his contradiction.

Yours, &c.,
BILLA FLINT.

Ottawa, 20th April, 1880.

[NOTE.—The report referred to by Mr. Flint was copied verbatim from that published in the Mail and Globe of the 17th inst.]

THE BIDDULPH TROUBLES.—A London report says : "The Lucan troubles have had a fresh development. Mr. John Kerr, of Clandeboye, now demands an inquest on the ground that the stable boy at Kinson points to him as the probable incendiary. He desires to clear himself. Father Connolly, it is reported, is about to leave Biddulph on account of the late troubles, to be succeded by Father Murphy, of Dublin, who was the former pastor. Mr. John Kennedy, father of John Kennedy, who is a prisoner charged with participating in the Donnelly massacre, is annoyed by the discharge of firearms about his place at all hours of the night, which he construes as a menace. He is very much alarmed."

BRITISH COLUMBIA AND THE PACIFIC RAILWAY.—There has been laid before the British Columbia Legislature some correspondence with Sir Michael Hicks Beach relative to the Pacific Railway. There is a circular letter dated October 20th, in which the Colonial Secretary expresses his gratification that the efforts made by the Government were accepted as a pledge of good faith by the province and that under the circumstances he did not think it necessary to interfere.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—A heavy southeast storm for the last 48 hours, unprecedented at this time of the year in the northern portion of this State, with rain falling heavily in the valleys and snow on the mountains. There is danger of a general flood in Sacramento Valley.

ST. LOUIS, April 21.—Prof Tice, who went to Marshfield to investigate the phenomenon connected with the storm on Sunday telegraphs that everywhere along the track of the tornado there is evidence of waves of water flowing in the rear of the cloud spouts. Geo. Gilbert and wife and four children were on a visit in the country and the centre of the tornado passed within six yards of them. The wave of water was apparently 15 feet high and rolled in the rear of the point of contact of the cloud spout with the earth. It rolled over them and in a second was icy cold drenching them thoroughly. The tornado, as far as is known, commenced in Arkansas. In Stone County it was very severe. In Crew Creek settlement 10 persons were killed. On Flat Creek 6 were killed.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., April 22.—No doubt the man arrested near Point Jervis, N. Y, is the notorious Patsey Devine, of Alton, who, with Harry Williams, the noted "Thug," murdered Aaron Goodfellow, of that city, in 1879.

BALTIMORE, April 22.—Three seamen who started in a boat on Monday to board the Russian steamer, were all drowned.

TENAFLY, N. J., April 22.—James Blouvelt, aged 80, while mentally depressed, hung himself yesterday.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The morning papers are filled with details of last night's disaster at Madison Square Garden. Mackay, Superintendent of the affair, says that at 9:30 his attention was called to a cracking of walls in the art gallery, he went there promptly and found the room full of people, fearing the walls were about to give way he sent a man to turn off the gas from the regulator below and then requested the people to leave the room on the pretence it was so warm that the pictures were being injured. Many protested that they had paid admission, but meanwhile the gas lights were being slowly turned down and the visitors left. At this time pieces of mortar were falling from the ceiling and the action of the dancers in the adjoining room caused the floor to vibrate and the wall to shake ominously. McKay was turning to leave the room when he heard a succession of sharp reports and saw the outer wall go out. The roof fell at once. As the walls fell, the 7th regiment was passing down 8th Avenue on dress parade. The news of the calamity reached Col. Clarke, and he halted his command and told them to take off their coats and do what they could. After the disaster, Jay Gould was seen in Delmonico's strangely excited, inquiring whether his son had been hurt. The following were killed :—Mrs. W. A. O. Hegeman, Miss H. L. Willett, Marie Connelly, nursemaid to Mrs. Hegeman. Among the injured is Wm. M. Tilleston,—doubtful if he survives. He was one of the managers of the approaching dog show, —was editor of The Country, and connected with Forest and Stream. One report says half of the pictures in the art gallery are ruined, and that the 13 bronzes were not seriously damaged. Another report says when the ceiling fell the plaster and timbers caught on the upper part of the frames which protected the canvas in most instances.

Arrived, the Herder from Hamburg.

TWO SIDES TO A STORY.—That there are always two sides to a story is well illustrated by the following from last evening's Montreal Star: "Contrary to the general order of things, and to the statement in the Opposition papers, that the flow of emigration was to the States, there were last evening, over three hundred Eastern States residents taking their departure for the great North-West via this city. There were twelve first class cars on the regular train; and it was found necessary to despatch a special of sixteen cars afterwards. There were over four hundred pieces of bonded baggage. The passengers were all of the better class and take capital with them. This fact would seem to indicate that in the matter of an exodus, as in other things, there are always two sides to every story."

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, APRIL 22.

City and Vicinity.

POLICE.—There was one lone tramp in the cells last night.

REMINDER.—Rev. Mr. Freshman's lecture in the City Hall to-night. Subject: The Jews, their manners and customs.

TIMBER.—The quantity of timber shipped over the Grand Junction from Hastings by Messrs. Buck & Stewart was 68 cars.

RELIEF FOR HULL.—The Dominion Telegraph Company will send messages free to the distressed people of Hull, when signed by the Mayor or Secretary of any Relief Committee.

FOR MANITOBA.—Four car loads of horses went westward to-day by the Grand Trunk Railway destined for Manitoba. The necessary food for their journey followed the train.

LICENSES.—The License Commissioners met yesterday to examine the applications which were laid before them. They will meet again a few days hence to decide upon the applications.

ANOTHER BIG TRAIN.—Last night's express for the west was made up of 14 cars, namely 11 passenger, 1 smoking and postal and 2 baggage cars. It was a "double header," that is, it was drawn by two engines.

ST GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—Mr. Henderson, of the Dafoe House, is preparing for presenting a tempting spread to the St George's Society and their friends, whose annual dinner will take place at his hostelrie to-morrow night. Let there be a large attendance.

A BIG ROBBERY.—A telegram has been received here warning the the police to be on the look-out for a thief who yesterday, at the Grand Trunk station at Montreal, walked off with a satchel belonging to another person, which satchel contained $15,000.

HEAVY FREIGHT.—Our northern roads are doing a heavy freight business at present. Forty-five cars of freight came into the city over the two roads to-day. The manager, Mr. Luttrell, has worked up the business of the roads so that they are now doing a good paying business.

FORCIBLE RESCUE.—It is stated that Mr. Bull, Division Court bailiff, yesterday seized three horses, on execution, in Trenton. He took the animals to the stables at Gilbert's hotel, but during his absence three men (one of them a colored man) entered the stables and claimed the horses as their property. Mr. Gilbert disputed their ownership, but the men made off with the horses. Mr. Bull and other parties followed in pursuit, with what success has not yet been learned.

ANOTHER BRAKESMAN KILLED.—On the afternoon of the 21st inst., an accident occurred at the G. T. Station, Brockville, by which a brakesman named McDonald, from Montreal, formerly of Belleville, while attempting to board a freight train which was in motion, fell on the rails and had both legs so badly smashed that the physicians found it necessary to amputate them above the knee. The unfortunate man lies in a critical state and slight hopes are entertained for his recovery.

PROGRESS IN HASTINGS.—The Star says:—"Is it the N. P. or what? The coming summer promises to be a busy one for mechanics in our village, for in addition to the Coughlan and Fife brick block now erecting, Mr. A. Shearer is to build a brick residence, Mr. C. Striker, a frame residence on Albert Street, Mr. Peters a frame tenement on New St. and also an Elevator on the south side and Mr. H. M. Fowld an Elevator on the north side of Water Street, east of bridge. These with the railway and bridge, will furnish employment to a large number of mechanics and laborers.

A GHASTLY DISCOVERY.

A CHILD'S FOOT FOUND.

At about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon a boy visited the Police Station and announced that he had found the foot of a small infant close to the Grand Junction Railway track, in rear of the pottery. Officer Newton was at once despatched to the place indicated, but whilst on his way there, some other boys had brought the small relic of humanity to the station. Newton procured a shovel and turned over a good deal of earth in the vicinity of where the find was made, in the hope that he would discover the rest of the body, but found nothing.

The foot, which is in the possession of the police, is apparently that of a young infant, and had evidently been severed just above the ankle. The cut is clean enough to have been done with an axe or other sharp instrument, rather than by the wheel of a train, as if is thought by some persons to have been made.

When the foot was discovered it lay in a pool of water about eight feet from the railway track, and its appearance denotes that it had probably lain there for some weeks. That there has been a tragedy is strongly suspected, and the police will devote their energies to its elucidation.

Along the Docks.

The anticipations of vessel owners and sailors are now assuming an acceptable shape as the carrying rates are better and the wages in advance of what was paid last year. The rate for lumber, which was as low as 65c per M. during the past two years, has increased to a dollar per M and a still further advance is confidently expected, as the majority of the vessel owners prefer the upper lake trade, as there they are able to secure a better class of freight and better rates.

All the vessels which wintered here are now engaged in the general trade of the lake, with the exception of the David Andrews, which has been abandoned near Oswego.

There is a large quantity of poplar wood on the Grand Junction railway dock awaiting shipment to Charlotte, N. Y.

The planking on the above named wharf, which was broken in many places by the dumping of iron ore upon it, was repaired yesterday by a gang of carpenters.

The schooner Murray is being loaded with ice at Bleecker's dock. Owing to the shallowness of the water, her cargo was taken out to her in lighters. She is destined for St. Catharines and will probably take on a deck load of hop poles for Charlotte.

Two cars of coal were sent to Bridgewater via the Belleville and North Hastings Railway and one car, similarly laden was forwarded to Hastings, over the Grand Junction Railway.

A car of peas for Downey & Preston came in yesterday over the Grand Junction Railway from Campbellford.

The ferry steamer Prince Edward keeps up her regular trips, but experiences considerable difficulty in entering her slips on stormy days.

The work on the scow John Wesley is being pushed forward rapidly, and Captain Mullins expects to have her ready for work in about two weeks.

The schooner Belle is having some repairs made to her rudder and rudder post. This was necessitated by the misfortune experienced by her in Big Bay.

The yacht Mabel is being put in shape for the season and is now being repaired and painted.

A boom of logs which belong to Flint & Holton and which drifted from its moorings and broke up during the gale on Monday, was picked up yesterday and put together in the harbor on the eastern side of the island.

The schooner O. S. Storrs, light, passed up for Trenton yesterday afternoon. She will load with lumber for Oswego.

Rowing and sailing have once more begun, and every fine day skiffs and sail boats are to be seen on the surface of the water.

The scow Fannie, laden with hard wood lumber, which had been brought from Oshawa by rail, left for Mill Point yesterday morning.

A quantity of hop poles and poplar lies on the lower dock, near the lighthouse, awaiting shipment.

The schooner Olivia, with lumber, left last evening for Oswego.

Mr. Flint's catamaran was again out yesterday afternoon, with a party of ladies and gentlemen.

The work of booming and rafting the timber of Buck & Stewart which was brought down over the Grand Junction Railway from Hastings was begun yesterday. The quantity already here will be supplemented by another supply which will be brought over the Belleville and North Hastings Railway from El Dorado and vicinity.

The schr. M. O'Gorman from Oswego, light, for Trenton, where she will load lumber, passed up this morning.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, April 22.—The Queen has accepted Lord Beaconsfield's resignation, and has sent for Lord Hartington. The Standard says that Hartington will advise the Queen to entrust the commission of forming a Government to Gladstone.

NEW YORK, April 22. — Arrived, the Amerique from Havre.

LONDON, April 22.—Arrived, the Bristol.

9 a. m., it is now certain that the Ministry has resigned. The Standard says we have reason to believe that Lord Hartington, if summoned, will represent to the Queen that the task of forming a Government is one to he feels at present unequal, and that he will advise the Queen to entrust the commission to Gladstone.

The Times speaks to similar effect and adds. The Queen will act strictly in the spirit of the constitution, and will not hesitate to entrust the premiership to whichever statesman may be finally indicated as the natural leader of the party, alluding to the Queen's reported aversion to Gladstone.

WINDSOR CASTLE, 1 p.m., April 22.—The Queen has accepted the resignation of Beaconsfield, and sent a special messenger to Hartington desiring his attendance at the castle. Hartington will leave for Windsor almost immediately.

LONDON, April 22.—The Lord Mayor of Dublin has invited the officers of the United States Frigate Constellation to a ball at the mansion house. The officers have accepted.

NEW YORK, April 22.—The Post's Cohoes special says the great strike at the Harmony mills was ended by an amicable adjustment.

UTICA, N. Y., April 22—At 4 a.m., the sides of Nail Creek culvert, of the Erie Canal east of the guard lock, west of Utica, gave way. The Utica and Frankfort level emptied within 2 hours. The cellars and first floors of 30 or 40 houses are flooded. It is estimated that it will require 2 to 4 weeks to fix the breaks

LONDON, April 22.—During the gale yesterday on the Scottish coast, 19 fishermen were drowned.

Hartington went to Windsor Castle alone. It is believed that he will advise the Queen to summon Gladstone to form a Cabinet.

Arrived out, the Helvetia and Canada.

LONDON, April 22.—The Marquis of Hartington started for Windsord at one this p. m.

The Standard says that the Queen's messenger after delivering a despatch to Hartington proceeded to the residence of Lord Granville but is uncertain as to whether Granville has also been summoned.

ANTWERP, April 22.—Petroleum, 17¾.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Wm. M. Tileston, injured at the Madison Square garden last night, is dead. Another victim is reported to have died at the hospital.

CORK, April 22.—The Mayor and citizens have invited the officers of the frigate Constellation to a civic banquet. The captain accepted but intimated that the officers should first fulfil an engagement to banquet with the committee of the Herald relief fund. The Constellation will discharge at Cork.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The President nominated Edgar M. Marble, of Michigan as Commissioner of patents. Jos. K. McCammon as assistant Attorney-General. In the Senate Baldwin introduced a Bill authorizing the construction of a bridge across the Detroit river.

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, April 22.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the lower lakes, fresh to brisk winds, gradually shifting to north and east, partly cloudy warm weather to-day, with showers in some localities followed by cooler weather to-night.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Indications: for lower lakes, cooler, cloudy with rain.

Bogus and Counterfeit.

There are no genuine Hop Bitters made or sold in Canada, except by the Hop Bitters M'f'g Co., of Toronto, Ont., nor can there be, for the sole and exclusive right to use the name Hop Bitters is secured to said Company by the laws of Canada, by 2 registered trade marks, and it is a heavy penalty for any one to use the name Hop Bitters or make or sell anything pretending to be like it. Druggists and consumers should remember this and shun all spurious, injurious stuff made by others or elsewhere. Hop Bitters is the purest and best medicine made.

A CITY IN RUINS.

Hull Almost Entirely Destroyed by Fire.

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE HOMELESS

Many Poor Creatures Injured and Some Killed.

(From the Mail.)

OTTAWA, April 21.—The city of Hull is in ruins, at least fully one half of it. A devastating fire broke out in a house occupied by B. Sabourin, on Bridge street east, this afternoon, and, owing to a high wind, spread rapidly, both in a northerly and easterly direction. Despite every means available, the flames could not be checked in their fury, and building after building was destroyed. The houses were, with few exceptions, light wooden ones, and furnished the best of material for the conflagration. The Hull, as likewise a portion of the Ottawa, fire brigade set resolutely to battle with the flames, which, however, they were unable to contend with. The whole area of ground composed of Church, Duke, Lake, Kent, Albion, Wellington, Charles, Central, Wright, Hannah and several other streets were burned. The heat was intense, and the smoke so dense that the city was almost shrouded in darkness.

The fire raged in fierce intensity from half past three o'clock until seven, when the wind changed fortunately, and it was got under control. It is estimated that between seven and eight hundred houses have been destroyed, and over four thousand people homeless. Nor was the disaster unattended with fatal results. Several lives are known to be lost, whilst reports are current that at least a dozen have perished.

It is known positively that a woman named Latremouille was burned, also a man named Ouillette. The woman was confined yesterday, and was unable to leave the house. Ouillette was seen rushing from his blazing dwelling into the street and fell dead. He was terribly burned. Numerous accidents occurred.

The area of ground over which the fire travelled is a mile long by four hundred yards wide, and to-night the smouldering flames tell too well of their devastation. In numerous cases the occupants saved their furniture, which is now piled on the public streets. Horses, cows and pigs, as well as other domestic animals perished. It is a sad blow to this place, and will cause a good deal of suffering and destitution to those who have been rendered homeless. The property destroyed was mainly occupied by laborers, who will be unable for some time at least, to rebuild. There is very little insurance as the companies would not take risks, deeming it too hazardous.

The calamity is one which has long been prophesied, and it has come at last in its greatest force. Steps have been taken to raise subscriptions to relieve the distress. Handsome contributions have already been raised and to-morrow night the City Councils of Hull and Ottawa will meet to take action in the matter.

His Excellency the Governor-General telegraphed to the Mayor of Hull, signifying his willingness to assist in any movement for the relief of the homeless. Thousands of persons from the city visited the fire, and at one time there were but 40 members in the House. The Governor General and Princess Louise and staff were among the first to arrive, and remained for some time. Fortunately none of the great lumbering mills were destroyed, although at one time Batson & Currier's mill was in imminent danger.

The damage is roughly estimated at from $500,000 to $600,000.

OTTAWA, April 22, 2 a. m.—The body of another woman, named Goyotte, was found an hour ago in the ruins of her house in Hull, It was terribly charred.

LATER.

OTTAWA, April 22.—The Hull fire is completely out. The desolation is very great. Loss half a million. Five thousand people are homeless and many of them are sick. Ottawa is sending large quantities of provisions. It is raining hard.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

We would not trespass on your valuable space but in consequence of a communication having the signature of Mr. John G. Frost, furniture dealer of this city, and the inference being clear that we as auctioneers were the party he meant. In reply, we were never under the impression that Mr. John G. Frost was not satisfied with the result of the sale we had for him. And any other furniture we will have on sale by auction will speak for itself, as it will be direct from the manufacturers. We also deny we made use of his name to effect a sale, or put out handbills or posters bearing his name as his furniture.

The public are aware that he is not a manufacturer, but only a dealer, like ourselves, with this exception, he buries the dead, we do not. With regard to his paying a hundred cents to the dollar, that is his own business.

Consignments of any kind of goods solicited to be sold at auction at our ware-rooms, and liberal advances made in cash if required.

Just received instructions by mail of a large furniture sale, when due notice will be given through the columns of this paper.

Yours respectfully,
W. & D. PATERSON,
Auctioneers.

"TEABERRY," the newest wonder for whitening the teeth, delightfully to the mouth. To try it is to become a friend to the piquant, irresistible, popular Dentifrice of the day. d&wly

Don't Give up.

What if you have tried different "put up" medicines in vain. Have you not been equally dissappointed in some physicians? Do not consider your case incurable until you have made a thorough trial of Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines. They are chemically pure, of uniform strength, and have come into general use by reason of superior merit. In case of general and nervous debility, consumption, bronchitis dyspepsia, "liver complaint," scrofulous bunches, ulcers and eruptions, the Golden Medical Discovery is a speedy and positive cure; while thousands of women who had for years been bed-ridden, have, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, have been restored to perfect health. The introduction of these two remedies has revolutionized the treatment of chronic diseases. Patients are no longer depleted and salivated, as the tonic and alterative properties of the Discovery long since demonstrated a better way. Ladies need no longer submit to the use of the caustic and the knife, as the Favorite Prescription is guaranteed to cure the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women. Mrs. S. M. Kemper, of Galladuet, Ind., writes, "Your Favorite Prescription and Pleasant Purgative Pellets have saved my life."

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.—As I have been repeatedly informed that certain parties in this city who are trying to sell furniture (?) by auction and private sales in auction rooms, have been and are now making use of my name and trade reputation, by urging as a guarantee for the quality of the goods that they belong to me, and were made by me—which assertion has but one truthful inference, viz., that the stuff would never sell on its own merits—I beg to inform the public that I have no furniture on sale at any auction rooms, nor am I in any way connected with bankrupt sales of so-called furniture, by auction or otherwise: notwithstanding my name being erroneously connected by advertisement or design with the "assignees' instructions," "bankrupt stocks," &c. But I am pleased to say that I continue at my regular place of business, where I am enabled by experience and close application to business, to sell furniture and all goods in my line, at prices and values which DEFY COMPETITION—as witness the numerous compromises, assignments, and bankruptcies, which have occurred in my line of business.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

With the aid of a stick he walked slowly out of doors, and managed, though not without difficulty, to reach a yew covered arbor, which stood at the top of a grassy slope and fronted the south. He expected to find his friends either there or in the vicinity, but they were apparently in some other part of the garden, for his eye did not light on them, and he sat down alone on the seat under the over-hanging yew.

A gravelled footpath ran along close behind the arbour, and ere long he heard their footsteps approaching on this walk, and sat quietly expecting them to enter the arbor.

But they paused a moment that Woodford might tie up a rosebush, and as he did so he continued the conversation.

'It is the very man who brought Charlie to the van, and gave him up to Silas Morgan,' he observed, and the youth's heart bounded, for he heard the words distinctly.

'How strange if it should,' responded Mary.

'Very strange, dear, but I am certain of it. There can't be two more in England with such an odd name as Huffey White, and both of them robbers. No, no; depend upon it this is the same fellow, and he was after the same kind of robbery. You have heard me tell you how Charlie fell into his hands in Glasgow!'

'He and two other men were robbing a bank, weren't they!'

'To be sure they were, and Charlie having been deserted that night by Dick and Bet, was wandering about the streets, and, finding the bank door open, he, acting as a child does, went in and came upon them riffling the safes. That was the story Charlie told me, and there's not the slightest doubt that it was the truth. The others wanted to kill him, but White would not hear of it, and carried him to Morgan. I remember when I awoke in the morning, the little fellow was lying sleeping beside me.'

'Oh!' exclaimed Mary, with animation, 'and don't I remember when I pushed the curtain aside and saw him sitting on your bed with his large dark eyes staring at me. I thought I had never seen such a——'

Mary stopped all of a sudden, for at that moment she had turned the corner of the arbor, and caught sight of Charles. She started violently, and blushed crimson, then remembering that nothing had been said which a stranger could understand, she recovered herself and loudly exclaimed—

'Mr. Ravensworth, I thought you were in the house asleep.'

'Bless my heart, sir, how ever did you venture out by yourself, and in the evening air, too!' cried Woodford.

'Nay, the evening is beautiful,' answered Charles, with a beaming smile. 'And I came out to beg Miss Woodford's pardon for being so rude as to fall asleep while she was reading.'

'What nonsense! I saw you were wearied, and designedly sang you asleep. Had I thought you would awake so soon I would not have gone out. I am so sorry.

'What! sorry for giving me an opportunity of enjoying this beautiful sunset,' said Charles gaily. 'I would not have missed this for a great deal—especially as it is the last evening I am to spend in your paradise of a cottage. Do you know I am actually sorry to leave it for the Hall, though you have reason enough to be thankful to get rid of me.'

'Ah, sir, I hope you do not think so,' said Woodford, earnestly. 'It would grieve both me and Mary more than we can say if we imagined you thought so.'

TO BE CONTINUED.

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidity increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately introduced. Boschee's German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents. Sample bottle, 10 cents.

The Hunter!

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and resort to subtlety to secure his prey. But his life is one of great attraction. He is usually very methodical, putting up with the coarseness of the camp. Sometimes his camp is enlivened by the presence of an enthusiastic, when expenses are ignored and every possible adjunct to comfort is provided. Old "Sharp Eyes," the leader, knows the favorite spots where game may be expected, and he plants himself thereabouts. Then comes the rude chase, the excitement attending the pursuit, the fatal shots ringing through the air, the gathering of the game, and the return to the camp, animate with feasting and the stories of the hunters. It is splendid to have a good hunt. It is a good thing, also, to hunt for diseases in the human system, to drive them away. And for this commend me to DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS. They are the most experienced hunters after diseases known.

MR. M. GILES, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stiffe lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition —meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—A week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a beeline for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

CARPETS.

WE are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers.

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealer telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, five, ten, and even twenty-five cents per yard is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. G. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly, J. MONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

December 19th, 1878.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet my physician on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.

About the 20th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

Epileptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.,

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effect of your medicine, as I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do sincerely believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.,

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used it in the form of Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me. I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars in this case and I constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or properly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical men examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them sound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

In medicine all true knowledge comes from studying the causes of disease. The action of these causes upon our organism determines the nature and seat of the malady they produce. A cause which only acts on the stomach will produce a disease of the stomach; and so of causes which act on the lungs, liver, kidneys, bowels, or nervous system. Every known cause capable of producing consumption first acts on the lungs. A small chest, a cramped position of the body, confinement in badly ventilated rooms, congestion and inflammation of the air passages, all act by impairing the breathing and preventing the proper action of the lungs. Consumption results from this interference of the function of the lungs, and the disease which results first itself upon that organ.

Now, how should a disease so produced and so located be treated? We should withdraw the patient carefully and possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If that organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we should treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the real point of difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and it is the point which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the physician to be able to point to the results of his practice in proof of the wisdom of his prescriptions. Even at the risk of being accused of egotism, I will venture to say that the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation speaks for itself by the substantial good it has accomplished and is accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. I can point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair, I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians of eminence had pronounced the case "hopeless." And the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and I the lungs; they give the patient medicine to swallow and I give them medicine to inhale. But this difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

Every disease of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence, a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation. We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they act imperfectly and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the surface of the body chilly, and the nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by properdiet, clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

If impossible to visit the office personally, write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, together with a copy of my "Medical Treatise on Diseases of the Breathing Organs." Address.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION

WEDNESDAY, April 21.

In the House of Commons, Mr. Pope (Queen's) introduced a Bill to amend the law respecting the removal of obstructions in navigable waters by wrecks. He stated that wrecks of vessels were often allowed by their owners to obstruct navigation, and the purpose of the Bill was to make owners liable for the expense the Government might be put to in having such obstructions removed. The Bill was read a first time.

Mr. Casey moved for papers relating to the investigation of the affairs of the 10th Royals, which motion was withdrawn after a short debate.

Returns regarding the allotment of Indian lands at Yale, British Columbia, and as to the efficiency and discipline of the North-West Mounted Police were ordered, also as to the number of seduction cases tried in the various Provinces during the past six years.

The House went into Committee on a Bill to regulate the encumbering of real estate by loans of money or otherwise. The Bill as amended in the Banking and Commerce Committee was further amended in unimportant respects, and the Committee rose and reported. On the motion for concurrence

Mr. Orton moved the recommittal of the Bill to amend by providing that no higher rate of interest than eight per cent. per annum might be charged, and providing also for certain penalties against those charging a higher rate.

Sir John Macdonald said they could not vote upon the amendment until it should have been printed in the Votes and Proceedings.

Mr. Orton said if the Bill was not passed to-night its passage during the session would be risked, as he would, therefore, withdraw his amendment.

Mr. Weldon moved the three months hoist in amendment to the motion for the third reading.

The amendment was declared lost on a division.

Mr. Oliver moved the recommittal of the Bill to strike out the fifth clause. Lost on a division.

The Bill was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Colby moved the second reading of the Bill to amend the Inspection and Sale Act, providing for the inspection of petroleum and the production thereof. He did not think it could be well to impose a higher test than 115° because he had been informed by Dr. Edwards, a very high authority on such subjects, that in proportion as they went above that figure they destroyed the illuminating properties of the oil. Besides, they compelled the consumer to pay an unnecessarily high price for the article. The result of the operation of the present law in that regard had been, he believed, that a good deal of smuggling had taken place. The very people who had asked them to reduce the test from 115° to 110° at which point it had remained for eight years, now came and wanted it raised to 120 or 130.

A debate ensued which, on motion of Hon. Mr. Baby, was adjourned.

THE HULL FIRE.

Description of the Desolated City.

SCENES AND INCIDENTS.

VERY LITTLE INSURANCE.

(From the Globe.)

OTTAWA, April 21.—Another terrible disaster has occurred to awaken the sympathy and call forth the benevolence of the Canadian people. Little did the thousands of the quiet, simple-lived working people of the city of Hull imagine when on this beautiful sunshiny morning they went to their daily toil that before night many of them would find their little homes laid in ruins, and themselves left shelterless and penniless in the world. Yet such is the fact. Within the short space of three hours this afternoon 700 homes, about one half of the city, have been destroyed by fire, and 4,000 people rendered homeless. And what makes the calamity all the more deplorable is the circumstances that the sufferers are the very class of people who can least afford to bear it, and that they have probably lost their all, without even the prospect of compensation in the shape of insurance.

The city of Hull though not commonly classed in the geographies with the other cities of the Dominion, is none the less incorporated as such, with its Mayor and Council, and all the other institutions of an urban community. It is about the same age as the present century, having been founded in 1799 by the late Philemon Wright. It is situated on a low, flat stretch of land on the north side of the Ottawa River, and directly opposite the capital of the Dominion. In 1874 or 1875 it contained 10,000 people or more; but to-day, owing chiefly to the decline in the lumber trade, its population has been reduced to something like 8,000. The place is in fact nothing more than a large and closely populated lumbering settlement. The inhabitants, who are almost exclusively French Canadian habitants, are as a rule employed in various ways in connection with the lumber industry. The match factory, planing and grist mills, pail and broom factories, etc., of Mr. E. B. Eddy are the leading features of the place, and afford employment to several hundred men, women and children. In the winter many of the men are engaged in the woods chopping, and in the summer in driving logs and rafting. A few work in the iron mines behind the city, while others find their means of subsistence in the saw mills about the neighborhood of Ottawa. The homes of these people which compose the city of Hull are literally a collection of wooden shanties thrown together without any regard to symmetry or order, and divided by narrow, crooked, filthy lanes which claim to be called streets. Looking towards it from Parliament Hill, one's eye can take in at a glance the whole place and its surroundings. About five miles beyond the city rise the Chelsea Mountains, while the city itself extends from the Chaudiere Falls on the west to a point opposite the Rideau Falls on the east. Along the river's edge for about half a mile a large space is occupied by piles of sawn lumber, as much as fifty million feet, and valued at about five hundred thousand dollars. The only buildings of any consequence in the place besides the factories are a large stone Roman Catholic church at the eastern end of the city and near the water's edge, a bishop's palace, a convent in connection with it, the Town Hall in the centre of the market place, about a hundred yards to the west, a fine three-story college of the Oblat Fathers in the heart of the town, and a small stone Episcopal church. Owing to the tinder-like character of the great mass of the houses the awful calamity of to-day can hardly be called a surprise, and the only wonder is that with the high wind which prevailed any portion of the town escaped at all.

Several different theories were afloat as to the origin of the conflagration, but the one most generally believed is that the first spark was lit in the house of a man named Sabourin, a cabman living on Bridge Street near Church Street. No fears being entertained that the fire would spread to the efforts made by the firemen were not sufficient to meet the demands of the case. The flames, aided by the brisk breeze blowing at the time, quickly spread to a small store occupied by one Gauthiette, and thence to other houses near at hand. The scenes during the fire was distressing in the extreme. On the ferry wharf were hundreds who had come from Ottawa. There were women with little children, all weeping bitterly for the homes of which they had in such an awful manner, and with so little warning been deprived. Nearly all of these had many others who arrived down to the wharf, were without hator any other extra wrapping, having evidently been obliged to quit their houses as quickly as possible in order to save their lives and children. By the streets leading to the bridge also were women and children hurrying out of the city to seek shelter elsewhere. Appreciating the extreme danger in which they had been discerned at the distance, and made themselves heard each with its own peculiar harshness. In the streets in which the fire had not yet caught the scene presented was one which those who witnessed are not likely to forget. Men with perspiration, smoke, and dust forming a grime upon their faces which rendered the expression of awful earnestness all the more intense, rushed with frantic eagerness to seize the little that their hou-es contained and bear it to a place of safety. Women went to and fro carrying every description of household furniture that could be carried, and no matter how trifling the article might be, clutching it with as tight a grasp as if it were a jewel casket. The roads were blocked with carts and wagons of all kinds, the drivers urging the horses forward at a speed which threatened the lives of all who succeed and recrossed so often, apparently oblivious to the danger. The entire of sidewalks of Hull under the most favorable circumstances are not of a character to provoke admiration, but with a terrible fire such as this raging they were considered by many than no street or sidewalk at all. Facing on Main street is an open lot, at one time the site of what was known as the Piche block, which was consumed by fire some years ago. Here a large number of people who had furniture to save fled, as to a haven of refuge. In about an hour after the fire started the whole lot was strewn with furniture from every house in the district near at hand, forming a collection such as only imagined than described. Numbers of people sought safety for themselves on the marshy land near the lake, already alluded to. One poor man, after having carefully covered an old mattress over with water the bluff found, to his great distress, that it had caught fire, and he was obliged to tear it open and scatter half the contents to the winds. A burly French Canadian woman had thrown her effects in a heap near a small marsh pool, and was busily occupied in throwing water over them with a dipper. What good they would have been to her after such a drenching she herself would probably have been unable to explain. In Albion street, as before mentioned, gangs of men were busy tearing and battering down houses. The flames and excited faces, the strange mixture of French and English exclamations and expletives, the utter recklessness with which these operations were conducted, but increased the general excitement. Long after one of these houses had caught fire, when there was every danger of its falling down, pieces of useless board were seen coming out of the window propelled by some unknown force, and then a man appeared at the window and called encouragingly to the hook and ladder men to come on. Yells went up from the throats of the crowd of spectators who thronged about, mingling the man in all sorts of uncomplimentary names to "Come down out of there." After this rather vigorous coaxing the man came down the ladder raised for the purpose, and in answer to the expostulations of the crowd answered with a strong English accent, "That house is safe enough. I've been a fireman for forty years." After a few minutes of the burning roof fell in with a crash. As the people hurried to and fro one neighbor would be heard to say anxiously to another, "Are you burned on?" The answer was too often a hurried "Yes," as they both passed on their way.

The Governor-General and the Princess Louise with their suite, rode over on horseback, and were present during a considerable portion of the time the fire was in progress. While they were standing on the corner of Albion street and a small side street a teamster driving along as rapidly as the bad roads would permit, and wishing to pass, called out, apparently not being unaware whom he was addressing, "Get out of the way you fellows on horseback."

The incident created considerable merriment among the crowd.

Owing to the peculiar nature of the houses destroyed, to the fact that nearly all the occupants were the owners, and to the highly undesirable nature of the risks, the loss will be but little, if at all, compensated for by insurance.

The only life lost so far as can be ascertained was that of Mrs. Goyette, whose remains were found this morning. There was little insurance. The losses are estimated at from $300,000 to $600,000. It is estimated that between six and seven hundred buildings were burned, counting stables, &c., as the number of dwellings destroyed total up 486 by actual count, showing that there must be about that number of families rendered homeless by the disaster and counting an average of five to a family, represents 2,500 persons. The number of buildings destroyed on each of several streets is as follows: Bridge street, 35; Church street, 102; Duke street, 64; Hannah street, 16; Lake street, 47; Wellington street, 30; Wright street, 42; Central street, 40; Charles street, 52; Kent street, 6; Albion street, 5; Victoria street, 17.

A meeting was held in Hull to day, at which E. R. Edgar gave $1,000 for the sufferers, Mr. Alonzo Wright $500, and Mr. Chapleau, the Premier, $100.

The Chaudiere lumbermen have offered to supply lumber gratis to assist in rebuilding.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, APRIL 23.

The Catastrophe at Hull.

The lamentable disaster which has occurred at the city of Hull, which lies on the eastern or Quebec side of the Ottawa river, and opposite the city of Ottawa, must have excited a lively feeling of sympathy in the hearts of all who have read of it. Almost entirely composed of small wooden houses, which were tenanted by the men who are employed in the great saw mills and Eddy's match and pine factory, which are there clustered about the Chaudiere Falls, whence the motive power of most of them is derived, the city offered a tempting prey to the flames. A fire of small dimensions occurred on Wednesday afternoon, and favored by the strong wind blowing, reduced more than one-third of the city to ashes, rendering 5,000 people homeless. Compared with the Chicago and St. John fires, this disaster is small in extent—small in the amount of pecuniary loss—but is comparatively greater by far in the desolation which it has caused. As we have said the people of Hull are poor, their little all was consumed in their buildings, upon which in most cases no insurance could be had owing to their highly inflammable nature, and now the sufferers by the fire have nothing between them and starvation but the charity of the capital and the not very wealthy district surrounding it. But little aid can be given by the locality, and it is therefore incumbent upon residents of other places to come to their assistance. The sooner such action is taken the better, as the emergency is a pressing one, and we hope to see Belleville do her share in relieving distress of so serious a character.

Notes by the Way.

OUR MINERAL WEALTH.

On Lot 8, in the 7th concession, about two miles from the line of Railway, is what is known as the "Sexsmith mine." The work of opening this mine was commenced in Oct. 1879, and has since been actively prosecuted under the management of Mr. S. Munson, who represents the firm of Cleveland, Brown & Co., and other extensive iron firms in Cleveland, Youngstown and Chicago. Work was begun by a cutting of about 15 feet wide made into the hill, and then through the intervening rock into the vein, which a needle attraction shows a width of 75 feet and a length of 150 feet. A shaft is now being sunk 75 ft. distant from the pit, which is now 25 feet deep, and here very good ore has been struck. After going down about 40 feet deeper, it is the intention to leave this as an air chamber, and drift into the hill. The principal work thus far has been done at the first cutting, where a pit has been opened 35x75 feet wide, and they are now working on a face of 35 feet, the floor of 35 feet width showing good ore. Several pits have been opened on the property, all showing ore, and apparently three distinct classes, one of which appears to be entirely free from sulphur and titanium, and one in which a considerable trace of sulphurets appear. Repeated tests at the furnaces, however, show that the sulphur works very free, giving little trouble. The firm have been running these ores in the furnaces at Youngstown, and the reports show that a fine class of iron is being made. Since operations were commenced, Mr. Munson has shipped about 900 tons direct to the Youngstown furnaces. The ore is of a high grade, showing from 60 to 65 per cent. of metallic iron. At present some 30 to 35 men are employed at this mine. It is the intention to construct a tramway from the mine to the railway track, and as there is an easy grade the cost will be comparatively trifling.

Mr. Munson is preparing to commence work on lot 18, in the 2nd concession, on which several pits have been opened, showing good ore, and giving promise of extensive deposits. The firms which Mr. Munson represents are not only engaged in mining but are in the market to purchase any ores that may be offered, their furnaces requiring all the ore that can be furnished by Madoc properties.

On lot 9 in the 5th concession is what is known as the Andrews mine, which has been worked now about five months. The mine is the property of Messrs. C. H. & W. C. Andrews, prominent iron men of Youngstown and Cleveland, Ohio, and operations here have been conducted under the superintendence of Mr. H. S. McMinn. The needle attraction showed a vein of over one hundred feet in length with a width of over 60 feet. Near the top of the hill an opening was made which, after going down some ten to fifteen feet, discloses a vein of about 26 feet. At first the ore was considerably mixed with lime, but as the pit goes deeper the ore becomes purer. This mine is about two miles from the railway track, and the ore has to be hauled by waggon. On account of the bad state of the roads, very little ore from this mine has been shipped recently. Reports from the furnaces of the Messrs. Andrews at Youngstown, where a large quantity of it has been worked, speak very favorably of the character of the ore. Some twenty to twenty-five men are employed here, and now that there is a prospect of settled roads this staff will be increased, and shipments made more regularly.

At the famous red hematite mine close to the gravel road, we found operations of mining almost entirely suspended, nearly all the employees being engaged in road making. The road from this mine to the railway track—about three quarters of a mile in length—has been in such an execrable condition as to make it almost impassable for any kind of vehicle, and as to hauling ore over it, it was altogether out of the question. In this contingency Messrs. Coe & Mitchell some time since put a large force of men at work on the road, using the waste rock for the road bed, and intending to cover it with broken metal. So far the work has been fairly done, and when finished, if properly covered with small stone and gravel, it will be a capital road. Since our last visit to this mine a boiler house has been erected, and by means of a powerful derrick, the ore is hoisted and dumped into the waggons. A large pit or shaft is being opened at the north-eastern part of the mine, from which a good class of ore is being taken, and at the southern and western portions, a good deal of work is being done, the ore still presenting about the same rich character which has created for this ore such a demand from the iron men of the United States. As soon as the road to the railway is finished, a large force of men will be put to work in the mine, and shipments on an extensive scale will be resumed. Since the mine was opened, 6,218 tons of ore have been shipped to the United States.

Reference was made a few weeks ago to what is known as the "Dufferin Mine," which is situated about a mile from the village of Malone. Openings were made in this mine last summer, which showed a quality of magnetic ore superior to anything yet discovered in the Township of Madoc, and a number of test pits recently opened, show a continuance of the vein over a greater area than was anticipated when the mine was first discovered. The vein is of great width, with regularly defined foot and hanging walls, and the indications so far as developed, give promise of a most extensive deposit of remarkably pure ore. Active operations were resumed at this mine about a month ago by Capt. Mitchell, and at present some twenty-five men are employed. The mine is distant about four miles from the railway track.

Other mines have been opened north of the terminus of the Railway, but until this road shall have been extended, vigorous operations can hardly be expected. A good deal of "prospecting" is going on, and it may be possible that before long other valuable iron properties will be discovered and opened. But in consequence of the recent heavy fall in pig iron, operations will in all probability be conducted on a more moderate and less speculative basis.

Having pretty much covered the iron operations now being carried on in the Township of Madoc, while at Malone, a visit was made to the gold mills in that village. It was here the famous Dale and Feigel Mines, which promised so richly, are located, but at which work is at present temporarily suspended.

A short time since, operations were suspended at the Feigel Mill and mine, Mr. Stewart's lease having expired, and that gentleman having leased and purchased other valuable property in connection with some New York parties, took hold of what was known as the Severn Mill. This was remodelled, considerably enlarged and put in first-class order. Mr. Stewart's large experience, assisted by well known mining experts in introducing new features in the mill and machinery, have made it one of the best mills in the country. It is a ten stamp mill, but the stamps being larger give it a capacity equal to twelve and a half of any other stamps. The mill is located close to the river, is frame, 40 x 58, and substantially built. Power is supplied by an engine of 35 horse power. Adjoining the mill is the furnace building now in course of erection, and close by is the assay office. The furnace consists of a revolving iron cylinder 24 ft. long, with 4 ft. diameter, slightly inclined, and lined with fire-brick, with four shelves running from end to end for the purpose of stirring the ore automatically, the fire grate and fire being at the lower end, and passing through the cylinder, into arsenic chambers about 10ft. square. The machinery is so arranged that the furnace will revolve once in four minutes. At the upper end of the furnace and covering the first two arsenic chambers, is a drying floor of three-eighths boiler plate 9 x 10 ft. On this the ore is placed, and when dry is fed into the furnace by means of a pipe and screw. It is claimed that this furnace will thoroughly roast and oxydize 12 tons of ore per day.

The mill has as yet not done any crushing, but has been amalgamating for a week with very satisfactory results, the ore amalgamated being concentrated ore from the Williams and Gatling mines and yielding from $35 to $90 per ton. A considerable amount of ore—probably 300 tons—besides a large quantity of concentrated ore from the Gatling mine, is now at this mill, and it is expected the mill will be fully prepared to commence crushing next week.

Mr. Stewart has recently opened on the Neil property, about a mile south of the Severn mill, a vein of arsenical or mispickel ore, the quality of which is sufficient to warrant extensive developments. A test shaft has been sunk which has reached 15 feet, and from this a quality of ore is being obtained which promises exceedingly well. The vein shows now a width of six feet, has been traced three hundred feet, and is looked upon very favorably by mining experts.

Adjoining this property is what is known as the Pembleton lot, owned by Messrs. Robertson, Donovan, Stewart and Truaisch. Some very rich arsenical sulphurets showing free gold have been taken from this lot, and the work of development is now going on.

On lot 5 in the 9th concession, several small openings have been made by Mr. Stewart, showing the same quality of mispickel ore which exists at the Gatling and Williams mines, and the value of which has been demonstrated beyond question. It is expected this mine will be extensively worked during the coming season. The character of the ores in this section is such as to warrant the expectation that profitable results will follow the present developments. In connection with the operations of Mr. Stewart and his associates some twenty men are employed.

The Wooler Case.

The Mystery Yet Unsolved.

Chief McKinnon Still Working.

(From Our own Special Reporter.)

WOOLER, April 22d, 1880.

The mystery which has surrounded this case since its occurrence has not yet been solved and the sombre clouds which have darkened and obscured it have not been dispelled, even through the aid and vigor of the detective. It occupies the attention of the residents of this locality with almost the same strength and tenacity that was made so plainly manifest during the holding of the inquest and any new development is keenly looked for and awaited with almost intense interest. The appearance of a stranger in the village is a signal for the renewal of the stories and incidents connected with this mystery, and his headquarters are an attractive point for the usual anxious gossiper. There is but one public house in the village, and there do those who appear to have interested themselves in the details and surroundings of this case, congregate and talk matters over. Each one has a solution of this mysterious problem; not one of the old and astute heads but has a theory concerning this affair which in their minds must commend itself to the man of ordinary thought and plain intelligence. Suggestions wise and forcible and impressively uttered were advanced in regard to the case, only to be set aside by the statements of some old logician or thoughtful philosopher.

At the conclusion of the testimony adduced before the Coroner the jury returned an open verdict. The case thus remained inexplicable to them and equally so to the residents of this locality and baffled the skill of those who were endeavoring to lift the veil which enshrouded this remarkable mystery.

All sorts of suggestions are made regarding it; all manner of theories are advanced concerning it; the thoughtful wisecare has one, the habitual hotel frequenter has another, whilst the gossiping house-wife is not without her opinion in the premises. But still it is a mystery.

Another visit to the wreck of Haskin's home reveals but little change or alteration since my last visit. The debris of the building is gradually disappearing under the influence of the elements, whilst the remnants of the stove and other like material are vanishing by the hands of attentive neighbors or visitors. All around the place an air of quiet prevails, and few there are who now appear to take any interest in what was once the old man's home. Almost everything moveable has been taken away and doubtless the barn—which by the way is quite a substantial structure—would also be taken off should circumstances permit. Quiet and dismal as the place was before, it is more so now, and its isolated and tenantless position now makes it anything but attractive to the former neighbor or visitor.

"What has become of his gun," is a question that is asked by many, and although diligent and almost unwearying search has been made for it no trace of the lock, stock or barrel can be found. In vain have the ruins been examined to discover some trace of it or some of the silver money which the old man was known to have had, but all in vain.

Chief McKinnon is still engaged in trying to unravel this mystery, but as yet he has been unsuccessful. This afternoon, in company with another Officer, he went off in the country westward and though he was only to be gone a short time his absence was anything but brief. It was reported that he had a clue and was going to make an arrest, but whether or not he did so I was unable to learn.

General dissatisfaction was expressed by the villagers with the singular conduct of the village peace officer, as had it not been for his interference, Haskins' body might, they assert, have readily been taken from the house whilst it was on fire, and thus would it have been definitely ascertained if the old man had met with foul play or had come to his end through an ordinary cause.

Is the case a tragedy or a catastrophe yet engages the attention of all and is a problem that time alone can solve.

The farm was some time since willed to S. F. Gould, and owing to his death now revert to his heirs. Its arable qualities are not o much worth, but there is some good wood standing. It is fairly well fenced and is well drained, but its location is too much out of the way to make it desirable for residence. It was the result of the labor of a life time, an l which achieved, was the scene of its owner's tragic death.

The $15,000 Robbery.

Montreal papers of last evening contain additional accounts of the $15,000 robbery which occurred in that city yesterday. It appears that Mr. Wall Turner, bookkeeper for McNamee & Co., contractors, drew $15,000 from the Bank of Montreal, counted it at the office counter, and carried it safely to his residence. At a short time previous to the departure of the 10 p. m. western train, Mr. Turner entered the Pullman car, carrying a satchel which contained the money he had drawn. He deposited it in his seat, left his seat for a moment to speak to some friends on the platform, and returning a short time after, to his horror, found that the satchel and the $15,000 were gone. It seems that Mr. Turner has been in the habit of paying the men on the works of the Company, and came down from Hamilton on Sunday morning with Mr. McNamee. He paid the Point Fortune workingmen on Tuesday, and was to have gone west to pay the Welland Canal men last night, intending to meet Mr. McNamee at Prescott Junction. It is believed that the robbers must have followed Mr. Turner from Hamilton and lay in wait for him here. Yesterday Detective Cullen saw two men loitering near the Montreal Bank at mid-day, and entering he informed the paying teller. Mr. Turner had gone with his money by that time, having spent nearly an hour counting it on the counter. The whole amount was in "tens," "fives," and "fours," with $200 in silver.

Detective Fahey and the Chief of Police were soon acquainted with the affair, and the telegraph wires ticked the warning over the country, but nothing has become known as to the whereabouts of the men.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

PARIS, April 23.—At a grand banquet to LeLesseps last evening by the founders of the Panama Canal enterprise, DeLesseps warmly eulogized the American press and reporters. Toasts were drank to the American and French republics. The representative of Columbia offered the toast "The success of the Canal."

LONDON, April 23.—The Queen has intimated to the Duchess of Marlborough her intention of conferring the Royal order of Victoria and Albert upon her. Lord Edwin Hill Trevor will be raised to the peerage with the title of Lord Dungannon.

AMERICAN.

DETROIT, April 23.—The expensive farm buildings of Jas. F. Joy, four miles from here, were burned. Loss $20,0 0.

RICHMOND, Va., April 23rd.—A large hay storage warehouse was burned last night, the flames spreading to Carrington's brick tobacco warehouse, but were finally got under control. At the same time a fire broke out in Smith's 4-story junk establishment, and at 1:30 this morning is still raging. Other buildings are threatened.

CINCINNATI, April 23.—Near Carrollton on Wednesday Graham Ormsby, his mother and sister a young lady friend and while on the way to attend Ormsby's wedding, were thrown into the river by their horses running away, and all were drowned except Ormsby.

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., April 23rd.—Sidney Shores was fined $500 yesterday for marrying his step daughter, aged 13, last February.

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—A Cuban expedition left here on Wednesday on the clipper steamer Tropic. The cargo comprised munitions and a new torpedo boat. The Tropic is one of the fastest steamers in the mercantile marine.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Nearly 4,300 emigrants arrived yesterday.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The Herald's London special says Lord Salisbury refuses to recognize the justice of the claims of American fishermen for $1,030,000 damages for Fortune Bay, N. F. attacks on them. He takes the ground that the United States fishermen in drawing their seines from shore were transgressing privileges granted them under the treaty, which does not include the right to land for the purpose of drawing seines from the shore. In fishing with seines, American fishermen were violating the local laws in existence when the treaty was concluded.

The builder of Madison Square Garden wall declares that the roof gave way because of over-heading of the timbers by gas. Vanderbilt, who claims that the wall was built with great care, is inclined to accept this view. The most completely ruined painting was "The Wreckers," by Luminais, owned by George C. Leavitt, valued at $10,000. The large canvas of Bierstadt, King's river canyon with mount brewer in the distance, the largest painting in the exhibition, escaped harmless, valued at $20,000. It is thought fully three-quarters of the pictures will be found unhurt. The Herald estimates the loss to the pictures at $25,000. The Sun repeats the story that Col. Tileston, one of the victims who dined with the party last Saturday, became very much excited when he discovered that the unlucky number of thirteen guests were at the table.

SURPRISE.—Last evening a party of ladies and gentlemen, numbering about thirty, surprised Mr. and Mrs. Sager at their residence in West Belleville. The evening was spent in social conversation, games, music, and other amusements, the party breaking up about midnight, all having spent a very pleasant evening.

IMPORTANT SALE.—The attention of our readers is directed to the announcement of the auction sale of the piano, furniture, carpets, &c., of Mr. Jacob Wilson, who is about removing to Montreal. The assortment of articles to be offered is not only large but nearly new and first class. Catalogues will be issued giving particulars.

DISPLAY OF GAME.—The Picton Times says:—"On Thursday ev'g last Judge Jellett had no less than 57 wild ducks spread out on the grass in front of his house, the result of that day's shooting at West Lake. The Judge also brought home 5 fine pickerel, one weighing 12½ lbs. The Judge is an enthusiastic sportsman and seldom comes home without a good bag of game."

ST GEORGE'S DAY.—To-day is the anniversary of the patron Saint of England, whose achievements as a champion of the right have given to his memory the position which it occupies as the idol of the English people. The anniversary of Shakespeare—probably the greater celebrity of the two—will be celebrated by a dinner at the Dafoe House to-night. No doubt the occasion will be one of much interest.

SALE OF MINING LANDS.—Representatives of New York capitalists, have purchased—at a price said to be $15,000—lot 8, in the 5th concession of Marmora, owned by Mr. Jeremiah Loucks. On this lot there is a fine deposit of asbestos, which the new proprietors will at once proceed to develop. There are also said to be deposits of gold and silver ores in the same vicinity, specimens of which have been brought to town.

THE JEWS.—An eloquent and instructive lecture was delivered last night by Rev. Joseph Freshman on the subject of "The Jews." Taking the Jews at the cradle he followed them through life to the grave, illustrating the rites of circumsion, exhibiting phylacteries and other articles worn by those ancient peoples. His lecture was very interesting as to the customs and manners of the Jews. He wound up with an eloquent appeal in aid of Jew missions.

DANGEROUSLY ILL.—We regret to learn that Mrs. Jaques, the esteemed wife of the Rev. Dr. Jaques, President of Albert College, is dangerously ill from inflammation of the lungs, caused by a cold taken nine days since when attending a meeting in the City Hall. Dr. Willson, who is in attendance, states that the case is one extremely critical one, and in this opinion, Dr. Sullivan, of Kingston, who was called in for consultation fully coincides. A slightly favorable turn was reported this morning.

The Civic Deputation in Ottawa.

Murray Canal, the Harbor, Public Buildings, and the Iron Industry.

Satisfactory Interviews with Ministers.

The civic deputation, composed of the Mayor, Ald. D. B. Robertson (Chairman), and Ald. Jellett, who were accompanied by Alex. Robertson, Esq., M. P. P., returned from Ottawa last night and report having had entirely satisfactory interviews with Ministers in reference to certain matters with which they were charged.

Their first interview, which was held with Sir Charles Tupper, Minister of Railways and Canals, took place on Wednesday morning, the Hon. Mr. Bowell introducing and Mr. John White, M. P., accompanying them.

The object of the deputation having been stated, Sir Charles replied stating that he was not satisfied with the necessarily cursory examination of the locality which he had made in January last and would again visit the locality during the summer. He would either send or be accompanied by an Engineer, who would make a new survey, and on his report the route for the canal would be determined upon. The Government would not at this session ask for an appropriation, but in all probability they would do so next session and commence work during the coming year.

Sir Leonard Tilley, Minister of Finance, was next seen, in reference to the iron interests, the deputation asking, as a means of securing the smelting of the native ores in Canada, that either the duty on pig iron of foreign manufacture be increased, or that a drawback on the coal used in the manufacture be given. It was explained that this would not affect the coal trade of the Maritime Provinces, as anthracite coal would necessarily be used.

Sir Leonard, after a full interchange of views had been had, and the subject thoroughly discussed conversationally, assured the deputation that he would give the subject his prompt and earnest consideration, he being apparently disposed to regard the matter favorably.

At about 11 p. m. the deputation had an interview with Hon. H. L. Langevin, Minister of Public Works, and laid before him the subject of the dredging of the harbor, the construction of a breakwater from the foot of Dundas Street to the northern point of the island, and the selection of a site for and the erection of the Government building.

In regard to the dredging, the Minister said that the dredging of the outer harbor would be gone on with during the summer. As to the proposed breakwater, he said he approved of the idea, if it were found to be practicable, but the interests of the people on the west side of the river would have to be considered. An engineer would be sent so soon as the lowness of the water permitted to examine and report, and if his report were favorable a dredge would be sent to cut a channel 100 ft. wide to the sahery, and to do such other work as was necessary. The site for the public building had not been selected, but the Government proposed to do so shortly. No further appropriation than the $6,000 for the site would be made this session, and he could not engage to have the structure completed next year. He would, however, suggest, that, as had been done in other places, the City Council select and purchase the site, of which the requisite dimensions would be furnished them if they decided to do so. In such case an engineer would be sent to examine and report, and if approved of, tenders could be asked for and work proceeded with this year to the extent of the $6,000 appropriated, and the building would be finished next season.

The members of the deputation are naturally highly pleased with the favorable manner in which their representations were received and with the courtesy of their reception by Ministers. They also state that valuable assistance was rendered by Hon. Mr. Bowell, Messrs. White, Brown and Keeler, M. P.'s., and Mr. Robertson, M. P. P.

THOMPSON'S NEW SASH FACTORY.

Five months ago, Mr. Hercules A. Thompson's sash factory and shingle mill, on the west side of the river, near the lower bridge was destroyed by fire, with all its contents. The loss was a grevious one to Mr. Thompson, but with highly commendable energy he set to work to re-establish himself in business. The building was rebuilt, new machinery of the latest and most improved construction procured, and on Monday he will re-commence work in a factory in every way superior to that which fell a prey to the flames on the morning of the 21st, 1879. The machinery consists as follows: a re-sawing machine, the purpose of which is to bring lumber to a uniform thickness. It will saw any thickness perfectly true, or make any bevel required, and will be largely utilized for sawing picture backing. Messrs. Goldie, McCulloch & Co., of Galt, are the manufacturers. A three sided sticker from the manufactory of the same firm will do a very useful machine. A large iron surface planer which went through the fire has been thoroughly refitted and is as good as new. A tennoning machine which will cut tenons 8 inches wide has been supplied by the A. M. Gibson Manufacturing Company of Stratford, as have also a slat tennoning machine, a wiring machine and a foot mitring machine, which, with some other machinery makes a tolerably complete outfit. The shingle machine, which is of the self acting variety, passed through the fire, and has been made better than before.

The engine and boiler have been put in complete shape, and the main belt, which is of the best leather and 13 inches wide, will convey power enough to make the machinery "hum," as it is to be hoped Mr. Thompson's business, in which Mr. W. Boswell is also understood to be interested, will do in the future, without any interference from the "fire-fiend."

In the second story is a large apartment suitable for a workshop, for which purpose it will be rented.

In closing, the attention of the City authorities is called to the fact that the sidewalk in front of this factory remains in the partially destroyed and dilapidated state in which it was left by the fire. It ought to be rebuilt, and at once, as in its present condition it is unsafe.

A CANADIAN ARMY RESERVE SCHEME.—A cable telegram says:—A scheme has been drawn up with the approval of the Canadian Government for the establishment of an army reserve, to consist of 10,000 men drawn from the Dominion militia, who will be liable to service in the Dominion, England, or abroad in the event of Great Britain being involved in war.

Belleville, April 20, 1880.

JOHN G. FROST.

Hon. Mr. Brown.

He is Said to be Dying.

The Mail of to-day contains the following sad news:—The country will be pained to learn that Mr. Brown had a relapse yesterday, and that at three o'clock this morning he was lying at the point of death. We understand that the hon. gentleman became unconscious towards evening, and that he is passing away painlessly. It is possible, of course, that by a favorable change he may be snatched from the jaws of death, and the people of the Dominion whom he has served so long and so faithfully according to his lights, will earnestly hope that such may be the case. But, and we say it with profound sorrow, the hope hangs by a very slender thread.

The Globe, strange to say, makes no reference to Mr. Brown's condition.

LATER BY TELEGRAPH.

The following telegram, however, received this forenoon confirms the Mail's unfortunate tidings, and leaves scarcely any hope of his recovery.

TORONTO, April 23.—The Globe says Hon. George Brown had a refreshing sleep and is taking some nourishment, but is still very low. Hon. George Brown was said to be in a dying condition this morning. He is not suffering much.

TORONTO, 2 P. M.—The evening Telegram says at 12:45 to-day the possibility of Hon. George Brown's recovery was more favorably regarded by his physicians. His condition, however, is by no means hopeful.

STILL LATER.

Bennett, alias Dickson, charged with having shot and wounded Hon. Geo. Brown, was up at the Police Court this morning. He was remanded when the critical condition of the sufferer was made known by Mr. Fenton. As the prisoner was being led down to the cells a constable told him of the critical condition of Mr. Brown. Bennett was dumfounded, and finally said, "I cannot believe he is so bad."

RAILWAY RECEIPTS.—The Grand Trunk Railway traffic receipts for the four weeks ending 10th April, 1880, aggregated $821,434, an increase in that period of $211,209, with a decreased mileage of 118¼ miles for the Riviere du Loup Line, which is equal to $17,000 of traffic included in last year, making an increase of $228,309 in the four weeks.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

LONDON, April 23.—Arrived out, the Utopia, Hotherage and Wisconsin.

WALLA WALLA, Oregon, April 23.—Wm. Lishan and wife, new settlers from Umatilla agency, were found murdered in bed with their heads cut in pieces. The property was undisturbed. There is no clue.

Lord Hartington and Lord Granville went to Windsor this morning. On their return they drove to the residence of Lord Gladstone. There are three leaders now in consultation. It is believed Lord Granville conveyed the Queen's request for an interview with Lord Gladstone, who will probably proceed to Windsor Castle to-day.

PARIS, April 23.—The navvies employed in the Mt. Cenis railway tunnel have struck, on account of wages being paid in Italian paper money. They marched to Lugano and assembled before the contractor's house, but were dispersed by the military. Payment in Italian notes should be prohibited.

LONDON, April 23.—The Porte has notified the Government of Montenegro that the cession of the territory will commence to-day, and finish on the 25th inst. Some Catholic Albanians have already left the ceded territory. It is uncertain what will be the attitude of the Mahommedan Albanians.

CHICAGO, April 23.—The car barns of the City Railway have been burned. Loss $35,000.

CABUL, April 23.—General Stewart entered Ghazni on the 20th inst., after a successful battle the day before in which the Afghans lost more than one thousand men were killed. Stewart's loss was 17 killed and 117 wounded.

LONDON, April 23.—Additional advices from Cabul represent that Stewart while marching 25 miles south of Ghuzni encountered 15,000 Afghans. While he was preparing to attack 3,000 of the enemy's horse rushed on both flanks of his force. After an hours desperate fighting the enemy were beaten and and the whole body dispersed.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Cox, Chairman of Foreign Affairs, reports the back joint resolution for the relief of the widow of Sir Henry Bulwer treaty as a unanimous report of the Committee, also a joint resolution for the commission to ascertain the basis of reciprocity with the British Provinces.

QUEENSTOWN, April 23.—The Town Council have decided to give a banquet to the officers of the Constellation.

C. G. Doran, one of the Commissioners, and advanced Nationalist, who opposed the presentation of an address to the Duke of Connaught on the occasion of his visit to Queenstown, and protested against the feasting of the American Sloop-of-War, a country scourged by famine, and urged that they be presented with addresses, and that the money for the banquet be given for charity,

NEW YORK, April 23.—The Graphic's Washington special says Secretary Ramsay considers Schofield's order complimenting the West Point cadets premature and unwarranted and he will notify Schofield to this effect.

Bogus and Counterfeit.

There are no genuine Hop Bitters made or sold in Canada, except by the Hop Bitters M'f'g Co., of Toronto, Ont., nor can there be, for the sole and exclusive right to use the name Hop Bitters is secured to said Company by the laws of Canada, by 2 registered trade marks, and it is a very penal y for any one to use them. Hop Bitters are made or sell anything pretending to be like it. CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.—As I have been repeatedly informed that certain parties in this city who are trying to sell furniture (?) by auction and private sales in auction rooms, have been and are now making use of my name and trade reputation, by copying as a guarantee for the quality of the goods that they belong to me, and were made by me—which assertion has been a wilful and unfounded inference, viz., that the stuff would never sell on its own merits—I beg to inform the public that I have no furniture on sale at any auction rooms, nor am I in any way connected with bankrupt sales of so-called furniture, by auction or otherwise; notwithstanding my name being erroneously connected by advertisement or design with the "assignees' instructions," "bankrupt stocks," &c. But I am pleased to say that I continue at my regular place of business, where I am enabled by experience and close application to business, to sell furniture and all goods in my line, at prices and values which DEFY COMPETITION—as witness the numerous compromises, assignments, and bankruptcies, which have occurred in my line of business.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

Charles held out a hand to each of them, and gazed with wistful tenderness into both their faces. Then he drew them forward and seated them, one on each side of him.

'No, my kind, kind friends,' he warmly returned, and his voice was almost broken by emotion; 'I know full well the genuine character of your matchless devotion, and that all you have done for me has been done out of a spirit of human tenderness, which yields you abundant satisfaction in its very exercise. It was all the sweeter and more grateful to me to receive it when loving and sympathizing, because I know how unfeignedly they were rendered. Why, you would not even allow any of us to thank you.'

'No, indeed, sir. There was no cause, and——'

'I have obeyed you hitherto,' interrupted Charles, and restrained the expression of my unutterable gratitude; but to-night you must not—you must not—deny me the privilege. Never, never can I tell you a tithe of what I feel for your unwearied service, but it would be unbearable pain to me to go from under your roof with all my thanks unspoken. The time I have spent with you has been to me a season of blessed experience, most cheaply purchased by the sufferings and weakness through which I have passed. So far as I am personally concerned, I really feel inclined to forgive this notorious ruffian Hoffey White, for the blow he gave me since to it. I am indebted for the recipt of kindness so extraordinary and society so sweet and refreshing to my spirit as yours has been. There, I will say no more, for I see it distresses you, but I feel we understand one another, and this happy period of my life will never fade from my memory.'

'I assure you, Mr. Ravensworth,' said Mary with a blush, 'my father and I count it a piece of good fortune to have had you with us in your illness.'

'Yes, that is true,' exclaimed Woodford, 'And we rejoice that you have got so well over it. As to the robber being forgiven, that is not to be thought of, and I am glad he has been found, for he might have done other wicked crimes. I hear he is an old criminal.'

'An offender of twelve years' standing at any rate,' returned Charles, for he was one of those concerned in the great Glasgow Bank robbery, and he was an escaped convict even then.'

'They'll surely not allow him to escape again,' said Mary, her indignation deepening at the moment by a sight of the scar on the youth's brow.

'No. I rather think his career is finished now,' observed Charles. 'Morcv is wanted on such a man, and becomes a wrong to society.'

'How cleverly the Squire had him caught said Woodford. 'If you had not chanced to see his face, and been able to describe it, he would never been found out, for who would have thought that the robber was lodging at the Beresford Arms?'

'Who, indeed?' cried Charles with a laugh. 'The whole robbery was planned by a master in the art.'

'See,' cried Mary, 'the sun has set, and the damp evening air will hurt you. Let us go into the house.'

They rose and assisted him into the cottage, and as he lightly leaned on Mary's arm, and gazed down into her beautiful face, a thrill of delight ran through his bosom like a delicious joy.

'It is true,' he murmured, when he had retired to rest. 'I was pretty sure of it before, but the proof has now been given me.

'This is Tobby and Myra.'

On the following day Mr. Ravensworth came down from the Hall in a carriage full of cloaks and cushions for the easy removal of the invalid, and when the Squire descended to enter the cottage he brought from under a covering a very fine timepiece which with his own hand he placed in the best room, all unknown to the inmates, whom it was destined to surprise when it began shortly afterwards to strike the mid-day hour.

Mary came from the school to wish Charles good-bye at the gate, and she and her father stood watching the slowly retreating vehicle till it entered the great gates of the avenue and was lost to view. Mr. Woodford went to his favorite garden occupations, and Mary returned into the cottage alone.

It seemed to her silent and solitary now, and a sadness came upon her such as she had never before known.

The flower he had gathered that morning in the garden lay upon the table. It was an early forget-me-not, and, snatching it up, she kissed it, and laid it away into her own private drawer. Then she sat down and burst into tears.

Ah, Mary, Mary there is another private drawer in which you have laid something up. In that little heart of yours is hid away with jealous care a love for Charles Ravensworth, and with it the dark bitter feeling that it is unwarrantable and hopeless. Her cheeks and temples burn with shame as she makes the confession to her own soul, trying to despise and scorn herself for her weakness, and passing the very hardest judgment on the pure and her treachery, as she called it, to her womanly dignity. She trembled lest her shameful secret should be suspected by her father, and, with a prayer for strength to hide it and forget it, she hurried away to make preparations for the dinner.

And does poor Mary deserve to be despised and scorned for losing her heart to Charles Ravensworth? Such fine qualities as his she had never before come in contact with, and it is no wonder if that she, who could so well appreciate manly excellence and nobility of nature, should have her affections drawn forth towards it? It was nonworthy love which had taken possession of her heart.

All true this, but Mary knew—for Mr. Ravensworth had told her—that Charles was already betrothed, and that Dora Eagleheart was to be his wife. Her great sin in her own eyes was in allowing tender thoughts to gather round a man who already belonged to another. This was covetousness, if not theft in her estimation. Well, she had this melancholy comfort to give herself, that if she had sinned she would bear the penalty—that, in silence and alone, she would endure the pangs of misplaced affection, and without an audible murmur see Dora Eagleheart the bride of Charles Ravensworth.

She could not conceal from herself that in any case it was mad presumption in her a poor village schoolmistress, to think tenderly of the Squire's son and heir. His station was far removed from hers—their spheres must be for ever apart, and 'twas fit that not she but Lady Dora should become his wife.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A Good House wife.

The good housewife, when she is giving her house its spring renovating, should bear in mind that the dear inmates of her house are more precious than many houses, and that their systems need cleansing by purifying the blood, regulating the stomach and bowels to prevent and cure the diseases arising from spring malaria and miasma, and she must know that there is nothing that will do it so perfectly and surely as Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines. See other column.

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in in a strong and healthy condition. It is not a patent medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately into used. Boschees German Syrup was introduced into the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any throat trouble or cough. Price 75 cents Sample bottle, 10 cents.

The Hunter!

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and resort to subtlety to secure his prey. But his life is one of great attraction. He is a free man, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any throat trouble or cough. Price 75 cents Sample bottle, 10 cents.

MM. M. GILES, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan: 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little oil, petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston & Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition — meaning by a purge, Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" [afraid] on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

WE are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealer telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, five, ten, and even twenty-five cents per yard is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics qualified, stalement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine daily is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M.D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 15, 1879. Yours truly, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly state that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve and I was confined to the house all winter. I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a general breaking up of the whole system. My physician pronounced it bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I got all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I continued its use, using both bottles and have taken all with the following result; Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, gains in spirits daily, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving wonderfully. My friends are daily expressing the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 24, 1878.

About the 20th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it, and all seem greatly recover. I am gratefully yours,

Epileptic Fits

ST. PAUL, MIN. January 4th, 1878.

JAMES L. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind it had was a very bad case when I left home. I really believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

H. W. BATES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES L. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was counseled to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends. I have gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

MANHOOD:
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

The Lecture, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or properly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical man examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them unsound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

In medicine all true knowledge comes from studying the causes of disease. The action of these causes upon our organism determines the nature and seat of the malady they produce. A cause which only acts on the stomach will produce a disease of the stomach; and so of the other organs, the lungs, liver, kidneys, bowels, or nervous system. Every known cause capable of producing consumption first acts on the lungs. A small chest, a cramped position of the body, confinement in badly ventilated rooms, congestion and inflammation of the air passages, all act by impairing the breathing and preventing the proper action of the lungs. Consumption then results from this interference of the function of the lungs, and the disease which results fixes itself upon that organ.

Now, how should a disease so produced and so located be treated? We should withdraw the patient as fully as possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we should treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the real point of difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and it is the point which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the physician to be able to point to the result of his practice in proof of what he says. Other men may object, at the risk of being accused of egotism, I will venture to say that the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation speaks for itself by the substantial good it has accomplished and is accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. I can point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair. I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians pronounced the case incurable and "hopeless." And the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and I the lungs; they give the patient medicine to swallow and I give them medicine to inhale. But this difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

Every disease of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they act improperly and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the surface of the body chilly and the nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by proper diet, clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

If impossible to visit the office personally, write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, together with a copy of my "Medical Treatise on Diseases of the Breathing Organs." Address.

The New Magdalen.

BY R. L. CAREY, JR.

The Memphis Appeal, a short time ago told the story of a fallen woman of that place, Mollie Cooke by name, who owning a gilded palace of sin, turned it into a sanctuary for the yellow fever sufferers and with her hands nursed the sick and dying back to life again, until at last wearied and exhausted with her watching, she too fell a prey to the fever. I am told that a marble shaft, the gift of the city, now marks her resting place in the cemetery there and it seems but a fitting tribute to one who gave all she had—her life—to redeem the errors of the past.

The yellow death came stealing
Up from the river's edge;
Up from the dark, dark morass
With its tangled fringe and sedge;
Up from the misty bayou
On the south wind's tainted breath,
Till the skies grew dark at Memphis
With the shadowy wings of death.

The air grew dense and silent,
The wild bird ceased its song,
And the strong men cried in anguish,
"How long, O, how long?"
But the skies gave back no answer,
Death's pitiless scythe still swung
And the harvest the reaper gathered
Was the harvest of old and young.

The babe in the cradle sleeping,
In the flush of morning light,
With a smile of dimpled features,
In a coffin might;
And the man who knelt at evening,
Thanking God for the strength he gave,
Lay down to sleep at dawning
In the cold and narrow grave.

The pavement only echoed
To the wheels of the passing hearse,
As it bore to the silent city
The victims of the curse;
And the voice of the stricken mourners,
Who heard not the rustling wing,
But saw on the sable pall-cloth
The seal of the saffron king.

Then out from the gilded palace
Of sorrow and sin and shame,
Clad in the robes of scarlet,
The fallen woman came;
And the song of the noisy revel
Gave place to its stately hall
To a prayer for the dying,
And a woman's soft footfall.

Back from death's dark portal,
From the verge of an unseen land,
Came many a wandering mortal
At the touch of that woman's hand;
Till the Nurse, Angel Pitiful,
Touched her with his tainted breath,
And asleep in snowy garments,
She lay in the arms of death.

Oh, girl with the jewelled fingers,
Oh, maid with the golden tress,
Will that woman's glorious action
Count less than thy studied prayer?
Have the angels looking earthward,
A love more tender seen
Than that of this fallen woman—
The new true Magdalen?

LAID BY.

I hear them stir ing below;
Voices I know in the sunshine of hope
And steps I know are in mine ear,
Still passing to and fro,
And I ask my heart, Shall I never more
Of mine own will pass through that door?

I ask, Oh! is it forever
That I have ceased to be
One of that group around the hearth,
Sharing their sorrow or their mirth?
Am I forever laid by,
From all concern with the things of life,
Done with the sorrow, and toil, and strife?

Shall they carry me forth in silence.
With blind and sealed up eyes?
Shall they throw the casement wide to the air
And gather mementos here and there,
As they think with tears and sighs,
"This she was fond of—and this she wore,
But she never shall need them any more."

Sympathy, Human and Divine.

What would this world be without sympathy, human and divine? This is the one redeeming element in its government with out sympathy, philosophy without sympathy, science without sympathy, art without sympathy, religion without sympathy, can do nothing either to elevate human character or ameliorate human wretchedness. Governments may enact laws and enforce them; philosophy may expound the nature of things and discover and manifest to thoughtful reason their underlying rationale; science may investigate and accumulate facts in every department of knowledge; arts may multiply human forces and increase power with little short of omnipotence; and religion may rear its countless sanctuaries, and establish the most imposing ceremonials, but without the volume of dogmas as articles of belief—but without the elements of sympathy, they are not even reformatory, much less redeeming, in their beneficial results as affecting the highest well-being of our race. Selfishness is supreme where sympathy is utterly wanting, and selfishness can put forth no helping hand to distress, can minister to no sorrow, knows no compassion. Sympathy, on the contrary, is that which feels for, and participates in, the sufferings of others, and endeavors and executes, as far as possible, ways and means for their relief. Sympathy is love, benevolence beneficence.

But more human sympathy cannot suffice without the co-operation of the divine. Human sympathy alone is weak and powerless to the great end for which this noble principle has been ordained. Without the partnership of the sympathy of Him who made man, and who is the source of all real efficiency for good in man and for man, all human sympathy existing, as an evidence of divine sympathy also existing, for human sympathy is a divine in-spiration in man. Man sympathizes because God sympathizes, and God sympathizing is proof that there is hope for our race, however lost and miserable it may be.

Governments (human) are wont to be selfish rather than sympathizing in the administration of their political affairs. They seek for national aggrandizement, more than for human weal irrespective of national distinctions and affiliations. And philosophy and science and the arts, however they may be servants of the best forms of civilization among men, have nothing to do with sympathy as a reforming and saving power in the race. They rather create an aristocracy of selfishness, and leave the great mass of mankind portions of mankind to sink into a deeper contrast of ignorance and brutal degradation. And religion,—we do it a gross injustice when we even suppose that it may be destitute of the sympathetic principle. It is religion in form, and not in fact, if it is thus destitute. True religion is divine and human sympathy conspiring together for man's salvation from every curse and cause of suffering,—from every evil,—in his personal and social character, condition and destiny. This is the true medicatrix, the curative principle, implanted in the race to which we belong. And true religion is that which reveals to us a God-man,—a divine person constituted of the two natures of God and humanity, in the person of Jesus Christ, of whom we are authorized to say, "For that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted."

In this person of Jesus Christ, therefore, we have both divine and human sympathy combined in one person and so operating, not for his own personal benefit, for that would be selfishness and not sympathy, but for the sole benefit of mankind,—that he may be able "to succor them that are tempted."

And wherever of mankind believes in this divine—human sympathizer with human sorrows, human sorrows, human miseries, human woes, from whatever cause they may proceed, enters into communion with him in his peculiar and distinguishing sympathy for our suffering race. And this is human sympathy inspired by the divine, and in its nature it is also like the divine—pure, unselfish, benevolent, self-denying, self-sacrificing, intensely earnest, persistent, world wide, and no respecter of persons. If we have not the mind of Christ, we are none of his. Christians, therefore, have the mind of Christ,—the same mind of sympathy for a lost and suffering world. "For me to live is Christ" is the language of the true Christian's heart, and the true Christian's life. Hence it becomes characteristic of those who are the genuine disciples of the Lord and Saviour, that they are "ready to every good work, ready to distribute, willing to communicate."

"I look to Jesus, when my zeal,
And faith, and love are dead and cold;
Then doth he Calvary reveal,
And makes me in his service bold."

Rev. W. T. Findlay, in Sunday School Times.

The Reliable Man.

The reliable man is always there when he is wanted. You do not have to send to twenty different places after him; if he is not at home, his wife can tell you where he is. The reliable man always tells his mission to his wife.

He is not fool enough to marry a woman he cannot trust.

He is not much of a talker, but he thinks a great deal. He looks at a subject in all its bearings before he expresses himself. If he should be elected governor, he will carry state affairs with a just and firm hand.

In private life, he will always have plenty of kindling wood ready in the morning. No running round in the cold, after him, before he has made his toilet. He won't be likely to whip the children when they don't deserve it. He can tell you what is a religious or political belief, which does not accord with his own, without going into tantrums.

He can give and take and keep his temper if it is an hour's discussion.

He knows there are people in the world besides himself. He believes that this planet will continue to be run with a moderate degree of success, after he shall sleep with his fathers.

He never tells what he would have done "if he had only been there."

If he makes you a promise, you know he will keep it, unless the fates before you for its redemption. If he states a fact for a fact, you know that you can credit the statement. If he sells you a horse, and warrants him "sound" you need not look for spavin or a ringbone, after the first day's hard driving.

His word is as good as his bond. He is honest; you can trust him to do as he agrees. You need not watch him. He will do just as well without it. He has respect for himself, and would be ashamed to have his own soul convict him of dishonesty.

If you are in trouble, you know you can expect help from him. If you are "down in the world," he will stand by you. If other friends have forsaken you, he will uphold and support you.

In society the reliable man is worth his weight in gold. In the church he is invaluable; he will pave the contribution box, when the wardens are laid up with bad colds; he will take care of his minister's horse, when he goes away for a day's pleasuring; he will help the ladies put the new vestry carpet, and he is ready to stir the oyster stew, or lend the elevation from the kitchen, when the society have an "old folks' supper."

All the girls like him, and all the boys respect him, and his wife is proud of him and lays great stress on what "my husband" says—for she knows he is reliable. And we devoutly wish there were more like him!

Widow Kay.

Mrs. Ray sat beside her glowing grate, gazing into the embers and plying her knitting needles industriously. The wild winds of a December night whistled around the corners of her cottage, rattled the window blinds and sought in vain for some service through which to penetrate to the warmth and cheeriness within. The mind of the widow buried itself in the past. How short seemed the time since she was a light-hearted, frolicing child, and father and mother lavished upon her that caressing care which springs only from parental tenderness. How sweetly did childhood glide into womanhood, and how like a bright dream was the memory of her first acquaintance with Dr. Ray, the minister's son. Then she thought of the bright summer morning that had witnessed their nuptials, of the fresh June roses and of the delicate white blossoms that had been culled from her own flower garden to form a bridal wreath; and she remembered how her heart had bounded with joy and pride when the bridegroom had whispered that the bride was fairer than the snowy chaplet.

Thus how sweetly the years had glided by bearing their rich freightage of joy. Her only child, a noble boy, had grown to manhood estate, and become a commissioned officer in the navy, and her heart had cherished him with a mother's fond love and pride.

Then came the memory of darker days; her husband had resigned his charge, and become an invalid; and soon after came the heartrending news that the good ship Henry, of which their son was commander, had gone down in a gale, and that all on board had perished. Dr. Ray sank rapidly under this great sorrow, and two months later was laid, with Masonic honors, in the village cemetery; and Mrs. Ray found herself, at the age of forty-five, a widow and childless. But little property was left her—only the pretty cottage, with its pleasant grounds; and even that was mortgaged for one third its actual value. But just when she had expected to be deprived of this last relic of happier days, the mortgage had been sent to her by mail, accompanied by a certificate from the mortgagee that the debt had been fully cancelled. But to whom she was indebted for this kindness Mrs. Ray could never ascertain. During the two years that had supervened between that time and the present, she had, at frequent intervals, received supplies of money in the same mysterious way, quite sufficient to meet all her wants. Who was her secret friend? True, she had many friends who seemed always seeking to make her present happy, and to win her from the contemplation of the gloomy past; but she could think of none rich enough in worldly goods to supply her thus bountifully, and so her conjectures were fruitless. But to-night Mrs. Ray was alone; and as she reviewed the various events of her life, and thought of her lost husband and child, the busy fingers ceased their labor, the knitting lay forgotten in her lap, and a tear drop found its way down her cheek and fell upon the folded hands. What muttered it to her that this was Christmas Eve, she had none to make her Christmas merry.

A loud rap at the door startled her. She glanced at the clock on the mantel—half past nine! Who could seek her dwelling on so late a night, and at so late an hour. She hesitated a moment, and then went to the door and asked who sought admittance. There was no reply. She heard a receding step on the icy pavement; she opened the door and found a basket, containing a large turkey already prepared for cooking, and a note tied to the basket handle, which read thus:

"A merry Christmas to Mrs. Ray, and a contribution to a Christmas dinner—by which the donor intends to invite himself and a few Masonic friends.

"Well, this is a strange proceeding," said the widow to herself. "Himself and a few Masonic friends; who can it be? I wish the turkey could talk and unravel this mystery; but the turkey was a Mason, too, so far as secrecy was concerned; so Mrs. Ray contented herself with a resolution to do the hostess in good style, and to demonstrate to her as yet unknown guests that she was no mean cook.

The next morning Mrs. Col Cook dropped in just to wish Mrs. Ray a merry Christmas, and learning the mysterious advent of the turkey, declared that her Bridget should come right over and help prepare the dinner.

"And you will come with the Colonel and dine with us," said the widow.

"Certainly, if you desire it, and I will come early and help prepare the dessert."

It was singular how like magic a splendid Christmas dinner assumed form and shape. Mrs. Cook sent Bridget home for a supply of fruits and sweetmeats, and Bridget did not overhear the words whispered in Bridget's ear, "Tell Mrs. Cook we are ready."

"I think," said the widow, looking out at the window, "that it is time the unknown made his appearance with his Masonic friends. Ah, here they come; one, two, three, four, five, six. Mr. Norton and Mr. Baker, with their wives, Col. Cook and—a stranger.

"Oh," said Mrs. Cook, "that is Capt. Howard, an old friend of my husband, who is visiting at our house. Bridget, put the turkey on the table."

Mrs. Ray met her guests at the door, rallied the gentlemen on obliging a poor widow to give a Christmas dinner, and kissed the ladies if they had been parties to the plot.

Mrs. Baker replied that "it was the gentlemen's idea entirely, and was not at all to be considered at; since it was a well established fact that most Masons were fond of good dinners."

"And are you a Mason, Mrs. Ray?" asked Rev. Mr. Norton, the affable who had been introduced to her as Capt. Howard.

"I am," was the reply.

"Come, come," said Mrs. Cook, "the dinner will be cold."

Hats and overcoats, furs and bonnets were laid aside, and the party were soon in the dining room.

"I will do the carving," said Mr. Cook.

"No," said the widow, "you shall not, unless you are the person who brought the turkey. The donor of the fowl shall carve it."

"Well, then," said the Colonel, "I must resign the position to Capt. Howard."

Mrs. Ray looked amazedly at the stranger.

"Who—where—I do not understand it," she said.

"Then you do not recognize me," said the Captain.

Mrs. Ray fastened her eyes upon him. "Great Heaven!" she cried; "can this be true! It is my son Howard, risen from the dead!

His arms were about her; she was weeping joyful tears upon his bosom. The other ladies laughed and cried by turns, and even the gentlemen found a pocket-handkerchief convenient.

"There it is," said Mrs. Cook at length, "I told you the dinner was getting cold, and yet you must all take the time for a cry."

Howard Ray led his mother to the table, and taking a seat beside her, proceeded to do the honors of the table, while Mrs. Cook poured out the coffee, and no happier party could have been found on that day. Nor was there a merrier Christmas than in the humble cottage of the widow Ray. The handsome young Captain told them the story of the "Good ship Henry," and of his miraculous escape; of his subsequent capture by a British man-of-war, and his unfavorable prospects of his reaching his home sooner. That he had arrived only the evening before, and meeting Col. Cook as he stepped out of the stage-coach, he had with reluctance consented to remain incog. until the morrow, that all might enjoy the reunion together; that during the previous evening he had learned that the Masonic Lodge had relieved the old home of the mortgage resting upon it and had ministered to his mother in his absence.

"And now, dear mother," he said in conclusion, and drawing her closer to his side, "let us unite in grateful acknowledgements of the truly care of the widow in her misfortunes."

So the problem was solved at last. It was not one kind friend, but many, who had ministered secretly to her wants.

Reader, this is no fancy sketch; it is founded wholly in fact and but one of many instances of unostentatious benevolence which might be truly related.

Gems of Thought.

Fly in all haste from the friend who will suffer you to teach him nothing.

What a great sorrow leaves behind is often far worse than the sorrow has been.

The Reformation was cradled in the printing press, and established by no other instrument.

Nothing is truly infamous but what is wicked; and therefore shame can never disturb an innocent mind with a just reproach.

To despond is to be ungrateful beforehand. Be not looking for evil. Often thou drainest the gall of fear while evil is passing thy dwelling.

He who thinks no man above him but for his virtue, nor any below him but for his vice can never be obsequious or assuming in the wrong place.

Men are often capable of greater things than they perform. They are sent into the world with bills of credit, and seldom draw to their full extent.

The exhibition of real strength is never grotesque. Distortion is the agony of weakness. It is the discloated mind whose movements are spasmodic.

There is one single fact, which one may oppose to all the wit and argument of infidelity, viz; that no man ever repented of being a Christian on his death-bed.

'Tis the fancy, not the reason of things, that wakes us so uneasy. It is not the place, nor the condition, but the mind alone, that can make anybody happy or miserable.

He who indulges his senses in any excesses, renders himself obnoxious to his own reason; and to gratify the brute in him, displeases the man, and sets his two natures at variance.

Microscopic holiness is the perfection of excellence. If a life bear an examination in every hour of it, it is pure indeed. To live by the day and watch each step is the true pilgrimage method.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, APRIL 24.

Spread-Eagleism.

The following paragraph is going the rounds of the newspapers in the United States:

"In four of the great English Spring races American horses have passed the judges well in the lead. Through absurd technicalities they in two instances were ruled out and the race given to the second horses which were English. In the other two instances the judges find no excuse for closing out the winners, and notwithstanding their nativity, their owners were accorded the spoils. It is clearly demonstrated that the American horses are the better stock. In the races decided against them their speed and bottom were manifestly superior to those of their competitors, and though heavily handicapped, they won fairly the stakes for which they were entered."

The above is a fair specimen of the manner in which the citizens of the United States are taught to believe that their country is the "greatest country in the world," and is a good example of that spread-eagleism so prevalent among our neighbors as to have become a recognized trait in the public character, and which finds a fitting embodiment in many fourth of July orations.

The misfortune in reference to this flattering paragraph is that it is a cunningly compounded statement of fact and fiction, expressly concocted to suit the public taste by importing a victory over "the Britishers," and at the same time infringing the fair play to which the gentlemen of the mother country have always, and justly, laid claim in all that regards sporting matters of whatever character. The fiction, as we shall show, forms by far the larger portion of the extract. In the first place, in only two of the great English spring races have American bred horses finished first, and in the Liverpool spring cup Parole was properly disqualified for violating one of the most imperative rules of racing law, namely crossing or running in front of the next horse when less than two lengths ahead. The same jockey who rode the American horse in this race, lodged a similar objection on behalf of a horse which he rode at Newmarket last year and sustained it. That this was not an "absurd technicality" is proved by the fact that all the leading sporting papers of New York unite in declaring that no other decision could have been given.

The only other case in which an objection was lodged against an "American," horse was in a minor steeple chase, in which Muscadin was objected to on the ground of insufficient description, but the stewards threw out the objection. But Muscadin is not an American horse in any other sense than this, that he was purchased a few weeks ago by Mr. James Gordon Bennett, of New York. The horse is English or Irish, and never saw America.

That Messrs. Lorillard, Keene, Sanford, and Ten Broeck have sent some good horses to England is beyond dispute, but that they are "the better stock"—that is, better than the English horses—i not so clear, as the best informed turf writers in the United States place the best English horses a little ahead of the best American horses, not only in speed but in stamina and weight carrying power. This was conclusively proved last year, when Parole, certainly the most successful and probably in all respects the best American bred horse that has ever ran in England, was decisively beaten by Isonomy, a younger horse, which conceded him (if we recollect aright) 14 pounds in weight over a long course and won very easily. Witness also running at Newmarket on the 20th, 21st and 22nd inst., when some of the American two year olds were readily beaten by the better class of English colts and fillies of the same age, and Parole was only able to finish in the ruck, though carrying only two pounds more than the winner, a younger horse.

We have no desire to even attempt to disparage the spirited attempt of American owners of racehorses to win the highest honors of the British turf with their native race horses, but a portion of the press of their country, by absurd misstatements and unwarranted charges of foul play in matters concerning which their gross ignorance is apparent in every line of their productions, will but dim the lustre of any possible achievements of the equine champions of their country.

THE $15,000 ROBBERY—Four persons have been arrested in Montreal suspected of being concerned in the $15,000 robbery. Nearly $500 in Bank of Montreal Bills were found in their possession, and some of the prisoners were identified as those were watching and following Mr. Turner, book-keeper, while he was in the Montreal Bank.

St. George's Society.

THE ANNUAL DINNER.

The St. George's Society held their annual dinner in the Dafoe House last night, there being a moderate attendance, the company numbering about 60, amongst whom were Alex Robertson, M. P. P., the Mayor, Messrs. John Sutherland, Thos. Wills, Thos. Kelso, Ald. Robertson, Jacob Wilson, I. B. Graham, Ald. Farley, Chas. Wilkins, R. Elvins, W. R. Barber, A. Brignall, J. P. Reeves, Rev. Dr. Clarke, Chief McKinnon, Walter Alford, W. W. Northcott, J. D. Breese, and others.

The dining room was neatly decorated, and the spread and attendance were all that could be desired.

Lt.-Col. Hulme, President, occupied the chair, and Mr. R. Newbery City Clerk, 1st. Vice-President, filled the vice chair.

The President, after the viands had been dismissed, made a few congratulatory remarks, in the course of which he stated that the Society has done much good during the past winter. The finances of the Society were as a consequence not now in a flourishing condition, but this could not be helped, as a deserving person did not meet with an empty hand. He gave as the first toast "The Queen," all of the audience rising and heartily joining in the National Anthem. Letters of regret were received from the Presidents of the St. Patrick's and St. Andrew's Societies which the President appropriately remarked upon.

The usual loyal and patriotic toasts were drunk with enthusiasm, Capt. Farley and Lieut. Col. Sutherland speaking on behalf of the army, and Commodore Wilkins responding on behalf of the navy; the speech of the latter was particularly humorous and effective. Mr. Taylor also sang two songs very effectively.

"The Day and all who honor it," was replied to by Mr. Wills, who in the course of his remarks regretted that but few of those who sat with them around the board in former times were present now, having passed away, and what were left could be counted on one's fingers. He trusted the sons of St. George would put down tyranny and treachery, and look with pride on the picture of St. George and the Dragon. There were present but two or three who sat with him 32 years ago in the Empire Hotel. He urged union among Englishmen, and that nationality would retain its proud position—one that is now respected the world over. He concluded by returning his thanks for being called on to reply to the toast.

"The Land we left and the Land we live in," was the next toast.

Rev. Dr. Clark responded to the first part of the toast in an eloquent speech, in which there was an undercurrent of genuine wit. He said in drinking to the toast, it was to the health of England's children and England's glory. There was no reason to hide their heads when England was referred to, or to blush when her name was mentioned; for her career had no parallel in history. It was unique, the nation being composed of an aggregation of all nationalities and the best elements of all those nations had twined around each other and beautifully blended to produce the British nation. There was but 1½ acres for each Briton in his native land, yet they had been able to control the affairs of the whole civilized world. Other nations listened to the words of England and were very cautious how they conducted their affairs. Englishmen were only satisfied when grumbling and growling and other nations listened to it, and it was curious that the English always insisted on national honor and on fulfilling national obligations. No one need blush to hear the praises of England referred to once a year, and we of this generation should conduct ourselves as creditably as our ancestors. The position of England was to teach the other nations honor and truth, which was a proud position to occupy, and it was not too much to presume that Britain stood foremost in all the arts of peace amongst the nations. Their mission was to cultivate the love of honor, and of truth, and to indicate how to live and how to die, and they should meet oftener and make themselves better acquainted with the history of their native country, the foremost of all nations. The field presented to them was equal to their energies, and he believed their energies commensurate to their requirements. Their language was the youngest of all, but like themselves was composed of the most expressive features of all others, and was the most flexible and finest of the languages. Like Aaron's rod, it was swallowing all other languages. Their mission was to anglicize the language of the earth, for the time would come when it would absorb all other languages. The Rev. gentleman concluded amidst applause.

Song by Mr. Walter Alford.

"The Sister Socisties" was the toast next honored.

Alex. Robertson replied on behalf of the St. Andrew's Society, regretting the unavoidable absence of its President. Scotland was a small but important part of the Island, but the southern end of the Island, regulated its affairs—he might say those of the world. Still Scotland and Ireland would not take a back seat. Sentiment should not be ignored, as upon it depended to a large extent the Government of the world, and it was proper to meet and do honor to their patron saint, and emulate with equal virtues. They should plant their flag on the great prairies of the North-West and rally around it a hardy and intelligent population who would honor and defend it.

Mr. Thos. Kelso made response on behalf of the St. Patrick's Society. He alluded in a humorous manner to the history of Ireland, and said the two little islands which form Great Britain had always been a terror to evil doers. When an Englishman was offended the whole nation was offended, witness the Abyssinian affair. Wherever an Englishman was the Government felt bound in honor to protect him.

This concluded the regular list of toasts from the chair, the President then announcing the services on Sunday, and hoped that a good representation of the friends of St. George would present themselves at the City Hall on Sabbath next for the march to church.

The initiatory line of toasts having been filled, the Vice-Chairman with a well selected strain of remarks gave the "Senate and House of Commons."

Song by Mr. Alford.

"The Local Legislature" was replied to by the member for West Hastings, Mr. Robertson, who, in a neat and appropriate speech, expressed the compliment paid him and endorsed the sentiments attested by previous speakers. His remarks were to the purpose and were received with the applause they certainly merited.

"The Mayor and Corporation" elicited appropriate responses from the Mayor and Ald. Robertson and Farley.

"The Ladies" were duly toasted and replied for by Messrs. Barber and D. B. Robertson.

"The Press" was fittingly responded for by Mr. Wills.

The regular lists of toasts having been disposed of,

Mr. J. P. Reeves rose and proposed the toast "Absent friends and those who formed the first St. George's Society in Belleville." In doing so he referred to the absent and the dead, and said he was glad to see that there was one present who had attended at the formation of the first St. George's Society in this place—he referred to Mr. Charles Wilkins.

Mr. Wilkins, who was called upon, said that he had attended the dinner at which the first St. George's Society in Belleville was formed. There were but eleven Englishmen present at that dinner, of whom there were three survivors, namely: Messrs Henry Corby, sr., John Wonnacott and himself. Mr. Wilkins continued to give some interesting reminiscences, and concluded amidst applause.

After some other toasts the company separated, well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

EUROPEAN.

MADRID, April 24th.—The Cuban budget, voted yesterday, fixes the ordinary expenditure at $34,000,000, and extraordinary expenses over $9,000,000.

According to ancient usage of the Spanish court, the royal physicians meet at the beginning of the fifth month of the Queen's pregnancy and draw up a medical report. An official announcement is then made. The event will be celebrated by public festivities. The Royal Family and Court, accompanied by a splendid retinue and escort will proceed in state to the Cathedral of Atocha through streets lined with soldiery to attend Te Deum. This programme will be strictly carried out on Sunday and Monday next.

AMERICAN.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 24.—Allan Larose, who poisoned his father and mother to obtain possession of their estate, has escaped from the State lunatic asylum.

LEXINGTON, S. C., April 24th.—Alexander Williams was hanged yesterday for murdering Smithfields four years ago. He protested that the killing was untentional. His mother witnessed the execution, and urged the sheriff to hurry up, so she could reach home before night.

NEWPORT, R. I., April 24.—Jennie Van Zandt, a well known operatic singer, obtained a divorce from her husband on account of desertion yesterday and was given the custody of her daughter Marie, who has just made a successful debut in opera.

The damage to Madison Square garden by the recent disaster is estimated at $7,000. About 25 pictures, it is now believed, have been ruined.

The steamer Ohio brought over 1,300 steerage passengers yesterday from Bremen. The passage lasted 16 days; 13 children died on the passage.

NEW YORK, April 24.—The Herald's Washington special says the refusal of the English Government to recognize our claim for damage for the Fortune Bay outrage will put a stop to all movements for Canadian reciprocity. Congress will probably at once ask Evarts to communicate the papers in the Fortune Bay business. It is most probable the result will be a demand for the abrogation of the fisheries treaty, and the repeal of the statute which exempts from duty Canadian fish and fish oils.

Matthew Thomas, aged 12, hung himself in Paterson yesterday because his mother whipped him. Several younger children were in the room when the deed was committed and they thought he was playing.

THE HULL FIRE.—The $7,000 voted by the Dominion Parliament has been placed to the credit of the Hull Relief Committee. The following statistics of the fire are published by authority: Houses burned, 400; aggregate number of tenements, 800 or 900; number of homeless people without food, 4,000; estimated loss, $200,000; fatal casualties actually known one woman and one child.

CHEESE NOTES.

On the 19th, 1,461 boxes cheese were sold at Utica at prices ranging from 11½c. to 14½c., and at the Little Falls market 2,153 boxes were sold at prices ranging from 11c. to 13c.

The following is a table of comparison at that date for the last three years:

	Receipts.	Exports.	Cable.	Freight	Price
April 20'58,	11,812	13,637	63s.	35s.	12c.
April 19'79,	6,568	17,265	41s. 27s6d.		8c.
April 17'80,	14,868	6,410	72s.	35s.	15c.

CHEESE.—The demand has much improved this week, and as the present demand would exhaust our stock here in a few weeks—unless the imports increased in quantity—it is not unlikely that we are on the eve of an advance in price, and that our market will be entirely denuded of stock before the arrival of any considerable quantities of new make. At present holders are selling finest qualities at 71/ to 73/, and fine at 67/ to 70/, there being no lower grade offering.

BELLEVILLE, SATURDAY, APRIL 24

City and Vicinity.

NO CHANGE.—There is no change reported in the condition of Mrs. Jaques since last night.

LECTURE.—The Rev. D. Mitchell will deliver his lecture on Sir Walter Scott in the City Hall on Monday night.

PERSONAL.—Mr. H. C. Kennedy, of the Morrisburg Courier, who has been on a visit to Winnipeg escorting a large party of emigrants, is in town, on a brief visit to his mother.

PERSONAL.—Mr. George H. Pope, who has been representing the cattle interest of Lingham & Son at Boston, New York and Baltimore, returned home last evening on a brief visit to his family and friends.

BUSINESS NOTE.—The Oswego Times of Monday says:—E. W. Rathbun & Co., of Mill Point, Canada, are shipping through Oswego in bond a large invoice of doors to Dundee, Scotland, and of mouldings to England. The stuff is being loaded on the cars to-day.

THE MINSTRELS.—On Monday night Haverly's celebrated troupe of colored minstrels will give a performance at the Opera House. The reputation of this company is first class and they will probably attract a very large audience.

ST GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—Members of this Society and all Englishmen and sons of Englishmen are reminded of the walk to church to-morrow afternoon. The sermon will be delivered in Christ Church by the Rev. Dr. Clarke.

ESCAPED.—The men who stole the horses from the stable at Gilbert's hotel, Trenton, have escaped to the other side of the line. A telegram received by Mr. Bull, bailiff, who made the seizure, apprised him that the horses were shipped below Picton last night on the steamer Armenia for Cape Vincent.

THE TIMBER TRADE.—The timber recently brought from the northern part of this country and Hastings will measure about 32,000 feet and will be forwarded as stated before. It consists of elm, ash and pine, and all things considered is a good specimen of what our forest can produce. But one more train load is expected, after which it will be probably rafted and towed away to its destination.

RUNAWAY.—A team of horses attached to a buggy, driven by Dr. Cook, V. S., who had two ladies with him, ran away when coming down Murney's Hill yesterday afternoon. The doctor was unable to check their speed until they reached the hill near the Dafoe House, where they were stopped. No damage was done.

SAD ACCIDENT.—A sad accident occurred at the woolen mill Campbellford, on the 23rd inst., causing the death of a young woman named Ellen McReed. By some means her clothing came in contact with the main shaft, and she was drawn in and carried around at a fearful rate. She lingered for two or three hours in great agony, when death ended her sufferings.

MR. WILSON'S SALE.—Attention is called to the very attractive sale of a Durham piano, fine furniture, carpets, curtains, &c., at the residence of Mr. Jacob Wilson, Charlotte Street. Many very handsome household ornaments and valuable books will be sold. This is an opportunity rarely offered, and no doubt will be taken advantage of by many. Free lunch at noon.

ODDFELLOWS' CELEBRATION.—The 61st anniversary of the Independent Order of Oddfellows will be celebrated on Monday. The programme includes a march in the afternoon to St. Andrew's Church, where the Rev. Mr. McLean will preach a sermon appropriate to the occasion, and in the evening an entertainment will be given in their hall. Doubtless there will be a large turn out.

Marine Notes

The steamer City of Belleville will commence on Monday next to run between Kingston and Picton. She will leave every morning at 7:30 and return from Picton at 2:30, thus giving ample time for the transaction of business in that town.

The schrs. Peerless and Flora Carveth are loading lumber at Rathbun's mill.

THE BRITISH MINISTRY.—After their interview with the Queen yesterday morning, the Marquis of Hartington and Earl Granville drove straight to Mr. Gladstone's house where a consultation took place between the three Liberal leaders. Lord Hartington advised Her Majesty to send for Gladstone, who proceeded to Windsor Castle last night and has undertaken the task of forming the new Cabinet.

Eastern Dairymen's Association.

A meeting of the Directors of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association was held in the Dafoe House at 2 p. m. on Friday, the 23rd inst.

There were present: Messrs. K. Graham, Sidney, President; P. Hinman, Grafton; Ira Morgan, Metcalfe; P. R. Daly, Holloway; W. S. Yates, Sidney Crossing; D. Derbyshire, Farmersville; Jno. R. Craig, Toronto; H. Ashley, Secretary, Foxboro; and D. Vandewaters, Sidney.

The President having called the meeting to order, the Secretary read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved.

The Secretary said he had a communication from the Directors of the Kingston Central Fair, offering all the accommodation required for their cheese and butter show.

Also from Mr. Hill, Secretary of the Industrial Association, Toronto, stating that they will give $500 in prizes and a gold medal for dairy products, provided the dairymen will hold their annual show there, adding all such sums given by the Dairymen's Association, and a subsequent letter stating that the offer holds good until the 28th of April.

Also a telegram from E Casswell, regarding the proposed holding of a union show at the Provincial Exhibition at Hamilton.

The President stated that the Agricultural and Arts Association had offered $500, provided the Eastern and Western Associations had their exhibitions jointly and under their auspices and gave $250 each. It was necessary to make a decision at an early day, as the prize list would have to be arranged. He also referred to the offer of the Toronto Industrial Association, but expressed a strong preference for having their exhibition in connection with the Provincial Association, because in such case they would themselves control the exhibition. Therefore in getting up their prizes they would arrange them for an article for export, which was of importance, as the great bulk of their goods were for exportation and not for home consumption. They would also select perfectly unbiassed judges, who would have no special favor for any particular kind of cheese. In relation to the unpleasantness with the Kingston press, he said the directors had accepted the offer of the local Committee to do the necessary local advertising and make all other arrangements required for the success of the Convention. This arrangement the Kingston Committee had not carried out. He would have been glad to see the reporters of the Kingston papers present at the Convention held there but the reporter engaged to report officially, could not, as the Kingston newspapers asked, furnish them with reports, and that free of charge. The fault lay with the local parties in Kingston and not with the Board. He referred also to the proposed engagement of Prof. Arnold to deliver lectures at the various factories, but had been unable to procure his services last year, but he could now be engaged at $10 a day and expenses. He had also had a communication with Mr. Harris, of Antwerp, New York, who offered his services for the same purpose. It was desirable to consider whether they would engage a person to lecture and deliver practical instructions, also whether they would hold a show, and if so where and what amount of prizes they would offer.

The Secretary read a letter from Mr. Harris, whose terms are $5 a day and expenses, and a telegram from Prof. Arnold, who asks $230 a month and expenses.

The President stated that Mr. Harris' brother had made the cheese at the Union factory, Napanee, which took the sweepstakes prize at the International Dairy Fair. Miss McAdam, who was a thorough expert, could be secured at $600 for the season. Prof. Arnold's sweet curd system on its first trial had been a failure, but the cheese which he made later in the season was first-class. The Government were prepared to assist them as they assisted themselves, and they ought to have 1,500 members.

Mr. Craig said that there was an opinion abroad that the quality of cheese made in the Eastern district was inferior to that made in the Western district and averaged 1c to 1½ per pound less. He and Mr. Morgan had done their best to disabuse the mind of the Minister of Agriculture on the subject, and they should do something towards removing that impression. If practical instruction were given it would have that tendency.

Mr. Daly thought the best way to set those doubts at rest was to meet the Western manufacturers on their own ground.

Mr. Vandewaters considered that it would be a good thing to create emulation amongst the cheesemakers, although he believed that there were as good cheese makers in the County of Hastings as Prof. Arnold.

Mr. Hinman was of opinion that they should engage a man who would be an authority. The impression spoken of by Mr. Craig was probably derived from buyers. He was quite satisfied with Prof. Arnold's explanation of his comparative failure on his first visit, which was borne out by the result of his second visit. He moved, seconded by Mr. Derbyshire, That in the opinion of this Association it is desirable to secure the services of a competent person to visit the factories and give instruction in and lectures upon the arts of fine cheese and butter making in the Eastern district, and that a committee be appointed to select such person.

The President said there was an idea in the west that there were no good farmers, dairymen or stock raisers—in fact no men of brains east of Toronto, but the East had beaten the West in a majority of former exhibitions, and at the International Dairy Fair at New York. Let there be a good fair competition between the two sections, and if the West excelled then let it be shown.

Mr. Morgan said he was surprised to find that the Minister of Agriculture had entertained the view that the cheese made in the Western district was so much superior to that made in the Eastern district, and Mr. Craig was deserving of much credit for disabusing the Minister's mind of that wrong idea.

Mr. Ashley supported the motion, saying Prof. Arnold was a most scientific and a thoroughly practical man. He urged that the present system of selling was bad, as the offers made should be on open market, and placed upon the board. By the present system the price is averaged, the maker of fine cheese getting too little, whilst cheese not quite so fine sold at too high a price.

Mr. Derbyshire believed the cheese made in the East was as good as the Western cheese, and the butter was better. By the use of the best implements and the hiring of the best cheese makers, the finest article would be secured. In his opinion, there would be so large a make this season that inferior goods would bring low prices; and he hoped that the services of a practical, competent person should be secured, and early in the season.

Mr. Vandewaters said all this discussion and expense would be saved if the cheese makers would attend their conventions. They should have no makers who were too niggardly to attend the conventions. If they would do so they could make Prof. Arnold's cheese or Mr. McAdam's cheese if they had brains, and if not they did not want them.

The President said any instructor would find a different class of milk at every factory, and so comparative failures would result at times. He highly eulogized Prof. Arnold as an instructor and gave instances of his ability in that line. At the same time, he was not thoroughly wedded to his principle, though believing him to be the best man they could secure. He thought if they secured an instructor the factories should pay one-half of the expense.

Mr. Ashley said he would pay $5 a day for the services of Prof. Arnold or $2.50 per day for those of Mr. Lewis. He would keep either a month at his two factories.

The President said the expert could visit such factories as paid for his services.

The motion was then put and lost.

The next question, as to the desirability of having a cheese show, was decided in the affirmative unanimously.

Mr. Craig moved that the offer of the Agricultural and Arts Association be accepted.

The President supported the motion.

Mr. Derbyshire wished the show held at Kingston, but failing that would support the motion.

Mr. Morgan thought they might have a supplementary exhibition at Kingston, confined solely to the Eastern district.

Mr. Derbyshire moved, seconded by Mr. Bissell, that the exhibition be held at Kingston.

Mr. Vandewaters moved, seconded by Mr. Yates, to accept the offer of the Toronto Industrial Association.

The discussion was continued till nearly 6 p. m., when the meeting adjourned until 7:30.

WRECKED ON LAKE ONTARIO.—A despatch from Hamilton says there seems to be now little doubt that the vessel Northman, owned by A. M. Robinson, of that place, was wrecked off Port Credit, in the storm on Thursday last, and the captain and crew drowned. There were eight on board, principally from Quebec, the captain being Frank Cavarette.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION

THURSDAY, April 22.

In the House of Commons after routine, the following Bills based upon formal resolutions were introduced:—

By Mr. Baby—To amend and consolidate the laws respecting duties imposed on promissory notes and bills of exchange.

On the third reading of the Bill respecting the Militia and defence of the Dominion of Canada. Mr. Ross (Middlesex) moved in amendment that the Bill be referred back to the Committee of the Whole, with instructions to eliminate the fourth clause, which provides for the establishment of canteens in regimental camps. The amendment was made in the Committee, and the Bill passed the third reading, as also did Mr. Baby's Bill to consolidate and amend the Acts respecting the Inland Revenue.

After recess the Minister of Justice's Bill to amend the Act respecting cruelty to animals was advanced a stage. The following Bills, also under his charge, passed through their first stages:—

An Act respecting Dorchester Penitentiary.

An Act continuing for a limited time the Better Prevention of Crime Act, 1878.

An Act respecting the Ontario Reformatory for Boys.

An Act respecting the Reformatory for juvenile offenders in Prince Edward Island.

An Act respecting the Industrial Refuge for Girls in Ontario.

Also an Act to amend the law of evidence in certain cases of misdemeanour.

A message from the Governor-General was received recommending a grant of $7,000 for the relief of the Hull sufferers from fire. On motion of the Premier, seconded by Mr. Mackenzie, the House went into Committee, and voted the necessary sum.

The House then went into Committee of Supply upon the estimates. The vote for the Intercolonial and Pacific Railway on capital account were made, after which that for Ocean and River Service was considered. Under this head the Premier made an important announcement in regard to the item of $50,000 for subsidizing a line of steamboats from Canada to Rio Janeiro, Brazil. He said that the Brazilian Government were about to select a building in Rio where Canadian products such as were required in Brazil could be exhibited, and that the Canadian Government were going to procure and exhibit in Montreal specimens of such American and British products as were exported to Brazil, so that Canadian manufacturers could study the class of goods with which they would have to compete for this important trade.

The vote under the head of Fisheries was adopted, as also were several others of minor interest,

The Committee rose, and the House adjourned at 1:10 a. m.

A Blind Crowd.

Detroit Free Press:—The subject of color blindness came up at a ferry dock saloon the other day, and an old ex-captain offered to test the eyes of several sailors present. He got off his stool, laid down his pipe, and began:

"Now, boys, what's the color of my nose?"

"White!" they replied in chorus. It was red as a beet, but they were after a drink.

"Correct," said the captain. "This convinces me that your eyes are all right as to the color of white. What is the color of my hair?"

"Gray."

"Correct again, except the sandy spots. You'll all pass on white and grey. What is the color of that dog out there?"

"Black."

"So it is. And the color of this chair is—what?"

"Red."

"And of this?"

"Blue."

"And what is my general appearance? That is, if you saw me forty rods off how would you describe me?"

"As a perfect gentleman," was the ready reply.

They thought they had him then. He started for the bar, but halted, and finally sat down and had no more to say for a long ten minutes. After they had despaired of getting any beer at his expense, and were about to go out, he suddenly said:

"Ah boys, one more question. If I should treat this crowd, what would be the color of the liquid?"

"It would be the color of beer," they hopefully shouted.

"Blind as bats—worse case I ever saw!" he mumbled, as he took his hand from his pocket. "It would be exactly the color of ice-water."

Fretful People.

Some people are always fretting. It is a habit. They fret with equal facility about something and about nothing. A real cause or an imaginary cause serves them equally well.

Such people make not only themselves but everyone around them uncomfortable. Rain or shine, sunlight or darkness, health or sickness—it is all the same to them. Nothing ever was, nothing ever will be, exactly right.

Now this habit of constant fretting is to be guarded against. It is extremely disagreeable. One fretful person is enough to put a whole household out of sorts. And the habit is contagious. The influence of one fretful person is apt soon to be shown throughout a whole family.

It is a habit early acquired, but very difficult to guard against.

Fretful people indulge in the habit without being conscious of it themselves. If they could hear themselves as others hear them they would be surprised. They little dream of the discomfort they produce. One unhappy disposition is enough to blight the existence of all who dwell under the same roof.

Cling the Closer.

We heard a delightful sermon recently from the text, "And a little child shall lead them." We take out little child in our arms out of the bright gas-lit parlor, to its bed. The hall is dark, and almost unconsciously the tiny arms tighten, the head nestles closer in its trust, because we have come away from the light. So God, for the sake of having us cling more closely, sometimes carries us in the dark. Perhaps it is the loss of property, or the going out of dear ones forever from the home, or the weary struggle for bread or the coldness of those who had been valued friends. Perchance we have been misjudged, or harshly criticised, or unappreciated. God is carrying us in the dark. Do we cling closer and trust more fully?—Congregationalist.

The New Gatling Gun.

According to the London papers, all the most terrible and deadly weapons of war hitherto introduced appear to have been thrown into the shade by an improved Gatling gun which was exhibited recently by Dr. R. J. Gatling to a number of experts, at the offices of Sir William Armstrong & Co. This weapon is capable of firing 1,000 shots per minute and killing a man or horse at a mile range. The gun has a compact appearance, can be taken apart, and easily carried about, can be applied to military or naval use, and the mechanism of it is simplicity itself. The revolving barrel has 10 compartments, into which, as they whirl round, metal cartridges drop from a tall oblong case over the centre of the barrel. At each turn of the handle 10 shots are fired, and their dispersion is accompanied by a sliding apparatus. The size of shot in the rifle calibre gives of this class ranges from musket-balls to half-pounders. By the use of this implement, 3 men can do the work of 300 riflemen. A ¼ of a million dollars are said to have been spent in experiments necessary to perfect the gun, which is now regarded by military experts as a complete success.

As P. T. Barnum was selecting a turkey in one of our markets, the owner drew his special attention to a large fat gobler. Suspecting it was an antediluvian, Mr. Barnum said, with a smile, 'What do you sell that old gentleman for?' With an air of triumph the owner replied, 'I sell him for a profit.' A prophet! Oh, an apostle! He was a patriarch, was the quiet response. The study of sacred history terminated.—Bridgeport Standard.

A Good House wife.

The good housewife, when she is giving her house its spring renovating, should bear in mind that the diseases of her house are more precious than many houses, and that their systems need cleansing by purifying the blood, regulating the stomach and bowels to prevent and cure the diseases arising from spring malaria, miasma, and she must know that there is nothing that will do it so perfectly and surely as Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines. See other column.

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidity increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately introduced. Boschees German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 18 8, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Try one if you believe in any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents. Sample bottle, 10 cents.

The Hunter!

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and resort to subtlety to secure his prey. But his life is one of great attraction. He is usually very methodical, putting up with the coarseness of the camp. Sometimes his camp is enlivened by the presence of an enthusiastic, when expenses are ignored and every possible adjunct to comfort is provided. Old "Sharp Eye," the leader, knows the favorable spots where game may be expected, and he plants himself thereabouts. Then comes the rude chase, the excitement attending the pursuit, the fatal shots ringing through the air, the gathering of the game, and the return to the camp, animate with feasting and the stories of the hunters. It is splendid to have a good hunt. It is a good thing, also, to hunt for diseases in the human system, to drive them away. And for this commend me to Dr. Henrick's Sugar Coated Pills. They are the most experienced hunters after diseases known.

Mr. M. Giles, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt peetre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition—meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

WE are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealer telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, five, ten, and even twenty-five cents per yard is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. G. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases. Yours respectfully,

Oct. 12, 1879. A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and can candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,

December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of, for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since attending with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

GENERAL DEBILITY

Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, Loss of Appetite, Nervous Prostration, Asthma and Consumption

IN ITS FIRST AND SECOND STAGES, ARE CURED BY THE USE OF

Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

As this preparation is entirely different in its combination and effect from all other remedies called Hypophosphites, the public are cautioned that the genuine has the name of FELLOWS & Co. blown on the bottle. The signature of the inventor, James Fellows, is written with red ink across each label, and the price is $1.50 per bottle. Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites is prescribed by the first physicians in every city and town where introduced, and is a thoroughly orthodox preparation.

For Ague, Anæmia, Intermittent Fever, Consumption, General Debility, &c., &c.

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES L. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine. I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALKER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully, LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

Sold by all Druggists.

ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or properly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical men examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them unsound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

In medicine all true knowledge comes from studying the causes of disease. The action of these causes upon our organism determines the nature and seat of the malady they produce. A cause which only acts on the stomach will produce a disease of the stomach; and so of causes which act on the lungs, liver, kidneys, bowels, or nervous system. Every known cause capable of producing consumption first acts on the lungs. A small chest, a cramped position of the body, confinement in badly ventilated rooms, congestion and inflammation of the air passages, all act by impairing the breathing and preventing the proper action of the lungs. Consumption results from this interference of the function of the lungs, and the disease which results fixes itself upon that organ.

Now, how should a disease so produced and so located be treated? We should withdraw the patient as fully as possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If that organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we should treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the real point of difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and it is the point which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the physician to be able to point to the result of his practice in proof of the soundness of his principles. I am not at the risk of being accused of egotism, I will venture to say that the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation speaks for itself by the substantial good it has accomplished and is accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. I can point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair. I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians of eminence had pronounced the case "hopeless." And the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and I the lungs; they give the patient medicine to swallow and I give them medicine to inhale. But this difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

"Every disease of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence, a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they act imperfectly and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the surface of the body chilly and the nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by proper diet, clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

If impossible to visit the office personally, write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, together with a copy of my "Medical Treatise on Diseases of the Breathing Organs." Address.

Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION

FRIDAY, April 23

In the House of Commons, on motion of Mr. McDougall, the bill to incorporate the Canadian Telegraph Company was referred back to the Committee on Railways, Canals and Telegraph lines.

The House went into Committee of Supply, and in reply to Mr. Mackenzie, Sir John A. Macdonald said it was the intention to have respectable museums at Ottawa and Montreal.

In reply to Mr. Scriver, in regard to the items $67,800 for Indians, Ontario and Quebec,

Sir John Macdonald said he agreed that it was desirable that the question should be settled. The only proposition which had been made was that a tract of land should be given the Indians on the Upper Ottawa, and the gentlemen of the Seminary had agreed to grant a considerable sum, $20,000 he believed, in order that they might have the lands. The Indians had, however, declined the offer, on the ground that the amount was insufficient. As regarded the condition of the case just now, it had been hanging in the Courts from year to year and from term to term. Mr. McLelan, who had been acting on behalf of the Indians, had been endeavoring to press the matter to adjudication and secure a judgment, but hitherto no judgment had been obtained. As to the question of title, he (Sir John) could give no assurance that the question would be settled at an early day. As to sending Indians from the North-West, that would be a very expensive operation, and he did not know that it would be received with favor by the people where going to that country, as the Indians could not be put on the same footing settlers, and the plan could only be looked upon as one to get rid of the question.

Mr. Scriver said he was informed by Mr. McLelan that the question now before the Court of Review would not settle the question of title at all, and that gentleman had been desirous for a long time of bringing a suit in such a way as to dispose of that question. There were some technical difficulties which could only be removed by the action of the Government, which action had so far been solicited in vain.

Sir John Macdonald said he could not say as to that, but the Government had pressed for a settlement of the special case between the Seminary and the Indians for the purpose of having the matter decided in the Supreme Court. The gentlemen of the Seminary had expressed their willingness to have a case prepared for final adjudication upon the question of title.

The item then passed.

Several other items were passed and the House adjourned.

Sowing Grass Seed.

The production of domestic animals and manures depend so largely upon our grasses that the necessity of their cultivation is universally recognized.

In England over thirty distinct species are employed for different soils and purposes. In this country the number sown scarcely exceeds a dozen. The advantages of the larger number are, that mixed grasses are found to feed animals more profitably than one kind, and that a greater weight can be produced per acre. Some kinds are of more nutritious quality, while others are permanent; the period of maturity differs, so that when mixed, some are always in the best condition for pasture, and some for meadow, and some prosper best in moist and others in dry seasons in another. These, and other considerations which might be mentioned, show the advantage of cultivating a greater variety than is usually found in the pastures and meadows of the United States.

The time for sowing seed is here. Although very much has been said by the advocates of fall seeding to prove that that period possesses advantages over any other, the fact remains that spring seeding is preferred and practised by far the greatest number of farmers throughout the country, and, as we believe, with them rests the weight of the argument. A wide difference of opinion also exists in regard to the quantity of seed per acre. Extreme opinions obtain on either hand; but the proper quantity to sow is governed largely by circumstances. Thin seeding, when the season is favorable, may succeed on a well deeply pulverized soil, while with poor seed on light, thin land, failure and disappointment would be the result. Safety in any case lies in a sufficient quantity of seed to ensure a catch, else weeds will be likely to unsurp vacant places and injure the grass. Early seeding is important in obtaining a good catch. Fall preparation of the land enables the farmer to sow early and obtain a good crop of hay. None but fresh, bright seed should be sown, whatever may be the kind or mixture. Much of the failure that attends this branch of farming is the result of using immature, foul and comparatively worthless seed, a large portion of which fails to germinate while the land is overrun with noxious growths. Clean culture is a pre-requisite of good farming, and the use of foul seed generally results in requiring at the farmers' hand, a vast amount of additional labor year after year in efforts to exterminate the pests thus introduced. However good the appearance of seed may be, it may be expected that all of it will not germinate because of a lack of vitality, and besides this some that is good will not come, on account of being covered too deeply, hence the utility of sowing a sufficient quantity to insure a catch. As a rule, the depth at which the most seeds of different grasses germinate is half an inch. Circumstances, however, of season and soil exert more or less influence in this matter.—Prairie Farmer.

AUGUST FLOWER.

The immense sale and great popularity of Green's August Flower in all towns and villages in the civilized world has caused many imitators to adopt similar names, expecting to reap a harvest for themselves at the expense of the afflicted. This medicine was introduced in 1868, and for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, with their effects, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Stomach, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart, vertigo, etc., etc., it never has failed to our knowledge. Three doses will relieve any case of Dyspepsia. Two million bottles sold last year. Price 75 cents. Samples 10 cents.

Eastern Dairymen's Association.

EVENING MEETING.

The Chairman called the meeting to order at eight o'clock.

A letter was read in which the value of the labors of Prof. Arnold were extolled and his general ideas approved of. A letter from the American Dairyman, written by Hon. Harris Lewis, was read endorsing the foregoing.

In reply to an enquiry of Mr. J. C. Jamieson a letter was read relating to the establishment of a cheese board here, which it was hoped would be accomplished.

Mr. Derbyshire, of Brockville, spoke disapprovingly of the action of the Kingston press during the session of the Dairymen's Convention of Kingston. At Brockville he was satisfied the press would give good and faithful reports of the meetings of this Association, but the same would be was confident, be done here. He was sure the Kingston press was narrow and contracted in its ideas and did not do any good for the Association.

Mr. K. Graham thought the Kingston papers received as much as the Belleville papers did and the former received more than the latter and the accounts of the Association attested that fact.

Mr. W. S. Bell, of the INTELLIGENCER, who spoke by request of the President, said he considered the Association as of great value and importance and general interest and that the paper that would not report the proceedings of the Dairymen's Association would be lacking in enterprise. The Belleville press and the Toronto press as well had always reported the Conventions, as a matter of news, as the Dairy industry was one of the greatest industries in the country and was deserving of encouragement and support.

Mr. Graham was pleased to have reporters present at their meetings of the Association, as it was an essential to have the meetings of the Association fairly reported to the papers. Impure milk, the speaker averred, carried more people to the grave than intemperance. Good milk was what should be sought for and that had been the object which he long desired. He, for his part, desired to extend every courtesy to the press and nothing was more distant from his mind or the intentions of members of the Association than to do any thing that was not right.

Mr. Bell spoke of the usefulness of the press and urged on the adoption of a resolution, if the Association had time which would have a tendency to condemn the reporting of the press in cities, towns and villages, and so curtailing the privileges of the press.

Mr. Derbyshire again spoke of the ill-treatment of the Association by the Kingston press.

The report of the Finance Committee was read and presented as the following exhibit: Receipts $1,684.29; expenditures $1,331,21; Balance $353.08, which was somewhat lessened by the expenses incurred at Kingston during the holding of the convention at that city.

The report was adopted.

The propositions to hold the next cheese and butter show at either Hamilton, Toronto or Kingston were presented by the President, and that of Hamilton in connection with the Provincial Exhibition was accepted, the exhibit to be made at Hamilton.

Mr. Craig demurred to the holding of two exhibitions and fancied that an instructor in cheese-making would be conducive of more good than two cheese shows.

Mr. Ashley approved of paying a competent instructor to learn cheese makers to improve the quality of their work. He pre'erred the holding of one cheese show this year and the expenditure of an extra sum for the benefit of those who wished to improve themselves in the manufacture of cheese.

Mr. Daly said the cheese makers of this section needed instruction. He favored the making of gilt edged cheese and the employing of one who could make an improvement on the old process.

In response to an enquiry, Mr. Graham said that some years ago it was attempted to establish a cheese market in this place, but the expense attendant thereon was so large that some of his friends (Mr. Yates) lost $270. Market fees mitigated against such an institution, and legal efforts resulted to the detriment of those interested.

A motion to appropriate $250 to hold a cheese and butter show at Kingston in connection with the Central Fair, provided that association would give a like sum, was voted down.

A motion to give $250 for the employment of a competent cheese maker to give instructions in cheese making was carried.

After it had been decided to hold the next Convention at Brockville, the meeting adjourned.

A Dissenting minister who was an ardent admirer of Mr. Gladstone, in praying for a blessing on the ex-Premier, used the somewhat ambiguous words that he and his fellow-redeemers of England might "hang together." On hearing this prayer, a brother sitting below, who was accustomed to say "Amen" in prayer time, and who approved of Lord Beaconsfield's policy in the Eastern question, exclaimed, "Amen, amen; may they be hanged together!" The Radical parson felt that he was misunderstood, and by way of explanation said, 'I do not mean 'hang together' in the sense which our brother down below means it. I mean, may they join hand and conspire to hang together." "Amen, amen," replied the Conservative worshipper. "I don't mind what the 'cord' is, so long as they hang by the same cord."

The New Gatling Gun.

According to the London papers, all the most terrible and deadly weapons of war hitherto introduced appear to have been thrown into the shade by an improved Gatling gun which was exhibited recently by Dr. R. J. Gatling to a number of experts, at the offices of Sir William Armstrong & Co. This weapon is capable of firing 1,000 shots per minute and killing a man or horse at a mile range. The gun has a compact appearance, can be taken apart and easily carried about, can be applied to military or naval use, and the mechanism of it is simplicity itself. The revolving barrel has 10 compartments, into which, as they whirl round, metal cartridges drop from a tall oblong case over the centre of the barrel. At each turn of the handle 10 shots are fired, and their dispersion is accompanied by a sliding apparatus. The size of shot in different calibre guns of this class ranges from musketballs to half-pounders. By the use of this implement, 3 men can do the work of 300 riflemen. A ¼ of a million dollars are said to have been spent on experiments necessary to perfect the gun, which is now regarded by military experts as a complete success.

SOME tobaccos spurt up in the pipe while smoking, with little crackling explosions. This is caused by the addition of foreign matter to assist the combustion. When the purity of the tobacco is not tampered with and it has been properly taken care of, this combustible foreign matter is wholly unnecessary. For in that case it burns at a lower temperature than almost anything else. Nothing of this kind is seen in smoking the "Myrtle Navy." It burns with steady combustion throughout.

BELLEVILLE, MONDAY, APRIL 26.

How Is It?

The Globe says in its issue of the 23rd: "Our correspondent 'Canadian,' whose letter appears in another column, complains that the Grand Trunk and Great Western Railway Companies neglect the local traffic in order to carry through freight."

On this it remarks: "It is probable that the shippers of through freight are at the same time abusing the companies for giving too much attention to local traffic. The fact is that the rolling stock of the railways has not yet been increased in proportion to the great additional demand for transportation created by the good crop of last year and the general revival of business. The railway managers do all they can to accommodate their customers, but have not the means to satisfy everybody. The local demand for cars will no doubt be met by an increase of rolling stock as soon as prudence warrants."

The organ is not consistent with itself, for if the duty on the coal used in hauling through freights be really paid, as it asserted a few days ago by the local traffic, there would be no lack of cars for the latter, even if the through business suffered a little. The Globular memory is evidently too short.

A Cheese Market.

Notwithstanding that the County Council have signified their intention to grant $100 in aid of establishing a cheese market here as yet no steps have been taken by the cheese manufacturers themselves towards establishing such a market.

That such a market once established here would be of great benefit to manufacturers as well as buyers there is no doubt, and it only remains for those most interested to take the matter in hand and make it a success. An effort was once made to establish a cheese market here by our local cheese manufacturers but without success, since which the extent of our dairy district has been largely increased by the operations of our local railways, so that the number of factories affected and interested in such a movement is very much increased.

The dairymen of the Seymour district have already established a market at Seymour, but as the following letter received by a gentleman in this city from a leading cheese man in the Seymour district shows they are anxious to establish a market at some more central point:

"Menie began manufacturing cheese on the 19th inst., Royal, Woodlands, Brae and Seymour West Factories will commence operations on the 26th inst. The dairymen of Seymour intend holding their first cheese market on the 3rd Tuesday in May. The factories in the County of Peterborough have established a semi-monthly market in the Town of Peterborough this season. Those interested in the sale of cheese in the County of Hastings and Prince Edward are behind the times. Why do they not bestir themselves? Union is strength; combine and obtain the telegraphic reports of the markets at Utica, Little Falls, Woodstock, Ingersoll and Liverpool, and thus be posted on the value of the cheese at the time of sale, and refuse to sell anywhere else but in some central place where these reports can be obtained. Men of the north, arouse and establish a market in Stirling, follow the example of the dairymen in the west, and instead of one or two buyers we will soon have a dozen giving us a fair price in an open market for our cheese."

St. George's Society.

ANNUAL SERMON.

The annual Sermon of this Society was preached in Christ Church yesterday after noon by Rev. Dr. Clarke, one of the Chaplains. The attendance was not so large as on the former occasions of this anniversary, owing no doubt to the weather.

The sermon was one very suitable for the occasion, and was very attentively listened to. Rev. Dr. Clarke took as his text the 43rd verse of the 20th chapter of Matthew: "Therefore say I unto you, the kingdom of God shall be taken from you and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof." He said: When we look into the starry heavens and contemplate the boundless universe, or dwell on the countless number of worlds which float amid the immensity of space, we instinctively ask, who made these and why were they made? Then from the profoundest depths of nature comes the answer—God made them all, and he made them for a purpose; and further, the ursual comparison and apparent irregularity which seem to stamp the whole with lawlessness, finds a solution in the mathematically defined laws which govern each body in perfect harmony with the whole assemblage, revealing a successive chain of causes and effects which impresses the mind with the conviction that order is the first law of nature, and of nature's God; that the boundless problem which presents itself to our gaze is Prometheanin its nature, though puzzling to us. Our ignorance of those laws and our inability to solve the great puzzle of nature, is no evidence that the whole is an absolute mystery. And so i is with the great problem of human history; before us lie stretched out on the plane of man's observation 6,000 earthly revolutions, and we know not how many more; but these sixty centuries appear to the unmeditative as great a puzzle as the starry vault does to the untutored beholder of the heavenly bodies; yet in the one case as well as in the other, all that is necessary is to know, in order to be convinced that the apparant antagonism which seems to exist within the field of the telescope's range is no more capable of being solved than the apparent contradictions which lie in provoking seeming hostility within the range of mental observation.

In the heavens stand here and there worlds of immense magnitude in seeming disorder—but correct astronomical knowledge reveals the fact that they are in the line of order, and moving in the great march of harmony. And so it is in human history; here and there stand in bold prominence the predictions and statements of the great teachers of mankind, in apparent contradictoriness, and seemingly meaningless confusion; but a more extended acquaintance with history and a more accurate knowledge of the relation between the facts of history, enable the student to see that these are harmonious landmarks which may lead him to correct conclusions and enable him to formulate the lessons which history is intended to teach, and he may further learn that as in the case of the planets so in human history the same unerring hand controls them both. In the history which we have in the sacred writings, there is a twofold record, a record of accomplished facts and also a prediction of future events. Much more extensive learning and candor are necessary in separating these and dealing with them so as to enable the expositor to award them their proper place in human history. Our text is one of those statements and forms a prominent landmark in sacred history. Apart from the implication that the author had the authority to announce it and the power to execute its provisions, it contains two leading thoughts a detractive threat, and a prospective promise. He said, Jews to whom this was addressed were distinguished in having a divinely revealed polity. For eight centuries ten-twelfths of them were scattered among the nations and now the remaining portions were to be like Aaron devested of their official insignia and given to another.

He remarked that it did not necessarily follow that that nation to whom the Kingdom was to be given was then in existence as an acknowledged power in the earth, as this would not be in harmony with the long succession predictions which as time passed resolved themselves into history. Palestine was promised and given under oath to a nation which was unborn and the promise was renewed again and again, to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and hence the nation to whom the distinguishing gift of the Kingdom of God was to be given need not be looked for among the then existing nations but was to be looked for in the evolution of history, although not revealed by name, but was known by the possession of certain characteristics. It is a fact that many factors point to our own British nation as the one which has the greatest claim to this high distinction, and should the arguments so accumulate and point with moral certainty to the British people as that nation to which God has given such a distinguished position, then there is a great future before us and on us rest great responsibilities.

We may acknowledge that our origin is lost amongst the ethnologic history which one day may be made clear, and can now only say, so far as we can read this history that there has been an upward progress of accumulation and consolidation going on for centuries, until now we stand peerless among the nations, and unique in history. Of this position we may pardonably feel proud, and may from our past history anticipate the golden age in the future.

It is not the language of boastfulness, nor of unjustifiable preference to claim that England to day is the first among nations, and that her sons are distinguished by those qualities and characteristics which peculiarly render a nation truly great, that her children possess the greatest security for life and property and may well claim that she is the only nation that is distinguished by that English manliness which exalteth a people. To the stranger and persecuted she offers a home and is ever the friend and protector of the sorrowing and distressed. From England as the centre and heart of the British Empire radiates the finest qualities of human nature and the brightest achievements of the human intellect.

He said that England's glory is her children and her national strength lies in her love of truth, her self-reliant spirit beautifully blended with her faithfulness to God. The chart of her future has been gradually evolving itself under the genius of hoary wisdom This chart we may well follow, both in its political and religious features, since both bear the stamp of honor, earnestness and manly worth. We may safely copy the example of those who prized honor and truth better than life and develop this inheritance by extending our counsel and aid to our countrymen who may cast their lot with us by relieving the needy and consoling the distressed, and by practising honor, love and patriotism amon ourselves, for these and similar objects of charity and good will the St. George's Society of Belleville exists. But while we thus exercise those queenly virtues of charity and benevolence to the worthy and needy of our kith and kin, let us not ourselves forget the duty we owe to the motherland, to her institutions, her religion, and her God, nor yet to the land of our adoption, for it is a part of the British Empire and must share its glory and if need will cheerfully bear our share of its trials. In Canada as Englishmen, we are in our own country where every man enjoys the rights and liberties of Englishmen, and where we enjoy to the full all that can be translated to the western world of the grand old constitution. This blessing it is our duty to guard and defend. Let us do this by planting in Canada English honor and virtue. Then England's glory shall be ours—ours to enjoy while we live, and ours to leave to our children when we die. Let us fear God and honor our good Queen, cherish the British constitution as of priceless value, love the brotherhood, and practice that pure religion which is the glory of old England; and then, and then only, shall we be the worthy sons of a noble ancestry. Let us so live that when the members of this Society shall follow our bier under the folds of the red cross flag of St. George to our final resting place, they can truly say—there rests a true Englishman.

A collection was taken up in aid of the charitable fund in connection with the Society, at the close of the sermon, and the choir rendered the National Anthem very nicely.

The Wooler Mystery.

Concluding History of The Case.

(From Our own Special Reporter.)

WOOLER, April 23, 1880:

The catastrophe or tragedy which was enacted on the night of the 10th inst. is a profound mystery. The efforts of a competent and skilled detective have failed to lift the veil which covers this horrible affair, and time alone can reveal whether or not the old man came to his death by unlawful means. The case is a singular and remarkable one and now is certainly incapable of solution.

The widow of the deceased, who is now 60 years of age, to day took possession of the farm on which she had lived and on which she had entered as a bride. Time has not dealt leniently with her, as her brow is furrowed and her hair is silvery white. Old Father Time has left his impress upon her and now in the sere and yellow leaf she has gone back to the home that once was her's.

The oxen which I alluded to as having been taken away at the instance of Mrs. Haskins on the 14th, were sold to a cattle dealer in Brighton and are now his property.

Before the ordinary bustle of the day began to manifest itself this morning the secluded and isolated spot owned by Haskins echoed with the rattle of lumber and the clink of the hammer. Schuman, accompanied by his wife and mother-in-law, drove on the farm with a supply of rough boards, scantling, nails, &c., and at once proceeded with the task of erecting a house on the vacant property. No one interfered with them, as notwithstanding the deed in trust of the property, the general opinion is that it is lawfully hers, and the probabilities are that her possession of the farm will not be disturbed.

Thus ends the history of a case which has excited general attention, but which the skill of the detective could not unravel or solve.

Marine Notes

The schr. M. O'Gorman, from Trenton with lumber for Oswego, passed down this morning.

The Desoronto came up to-day from Picton in place of the Armenia, which has been once more disabled.

An active trade in lumber is being done at Trenton and to facilitate its transport, a large number of vessels are required. On Saturday two schooners passed up and were followed by no less than five during yesterday afternoon.

The steamer Hastings arrived on Sunday morning, having been delayed by the taking on board of a considerable quantity of cord-wood. She went to Trenton and came down this morning with a car load of horses the property of Holbrook & McQuoid, which will be taken to Cape Vincent, and from there forwarded to New York by rail.

The favorite steamor Alexandra, bright, fresh and trim in her new suit of paint without and within, and her usual excellent appointments, came up on Saturday afternoon and left this morning on her first regular trip of the season for Montreal.

The steam barge Solon H. Johnson, of Clayton, New York, arrived here yesterday morning. Soon after her arrival she broke the head of her cylinder, but the damage is of no great moment and the repairs required will be made here. This barge will load poplar wood at the Grand Junction Railway dock for Oswego.

The Olivia came in on Saturday and will take a cargo of ice from Bleecker's mill for St. Catharines.

The Florence came in yesterday afternoon and will load with lumber at the Flint & Holton's Mill.

The Belle, of Hamilton, left for St. Catharines to-day with ice.

The carrying trade is now looking up and the hopes of vessel owners and sailors have risen considerably.

The propeller Indian, which is owned by Messrs. Gilmour & Co., is being converted into a steam barge at Kingston. Capt. Cuthbert will command her.

OAKVILLE, April 24.—A portion of a vessel was washed ashore on the farm of Mr. John Patterson, about two miles west of Oakville, this morning. Upon examination a body was found to be fastened to the wreck. The wreck appeared to be a part of a cabin, with a window in it, but has no marks to indicate what vessel it belonged to. It was painted white and had a green blind on it. The body was hanging in the window when found. The corpse is that of a man, apparently a Frenchman, about thirty-six years of age, five feet eight or nine inches in height, dark complexion, dark hair and light moustache. The body was brought to Oakville, where it is at present in charge of the Chief Constable. The Coroner refuses to hold an inquest under the new Act. [There is a possibility that the wreck may be a portion of the Northman, and the body found that of one of the crew.]

It was only of a few minutes duration, followed by a dead calm. Its course marked a space 30 rods wide and 10 miles long. The destruction of life and property was terrible. It killed outright Mrs. J. Langley and two children of Alonzo Cutler, One of the Cutler children was found in a brush pile 200 yards from the house with part of its skull gone. A LIFE-BOAT'S CREW.

IN A BRAVE ATTEMPT TO SAVE THE LIVES OF OTHERS SIX OUT OF SEVEN LOSE THIER OWN.

DETROIT, April 24.—On Thursday night the north wind drove a vessel, name unknown, on the reef at Morrison's Shoe, four miles below Huron City. On Friday morning a life-saving crew from Station No. 2 attempted to rescue the crew, but when within a quarter of a mile of the vessel the life-boat swamped. The men clung to the submerged boat, but, chilled by long exposure, they dropped off one by one until only the captain was left. He finally drifted ashore with the boat. The names of the lost are:—Robert Morrison, Caseville, Mich.; M. Sayers, Fort Austin, Mich.; Denis Dugan, Grindstone City, Mich.; James Pottenger, Huron City, Mich.; Walter Hepthe-ridge and James Martin, Walkerville, Ont. The crew, excepting the last two, last season rescued the crew and passengers of the propeller Bertschy, which went to pieces near Grindstone City, one of the greatest feats ever performed on the lakes.

REMINDER.—Remember Rev. Mr. Mitchell's lecture in the City Hall to-morrow night.

FLOWING EASTWARD.—The tide of travel seems to be flowing eastward, as to-day's noon express was made up of 10 cars.

POSTPONED.—The Chancery case Grand Junction Railway Company vs. Belleville, was on Friday postponed for two weeks.

THOSE OARS.—The oars with which Hanlan distanced "Father Time" at Chautauqua Lake, can now be seen at the St George's restaurant.

OPERA HOUSE.—Haverly's celebrated troupe of colored minstrels will give a performance to-night. The Company is a numerous one and contains some of the best talent in the business.

LICENSES.—The Commissioners for West Hastings will meet to-morrow to decide upon applications. In East Hastings the number of licenses issued this year is two less than last year's issue

BRIDGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH.—The Pulpit of the Bridge Street Methodist Church was occupied yesterday by Rev. N. R. Willoughby, who has returned to his pastoral duties fully recovered from his late severe illness.

SEASONABLE RAINS.—A steady and gentle rain fell during several hours of yesterday afternoon and evening, and during the night a much heavier fall succeeded. This is just what was wanted to forward vegetation, as the temperature has materially risen since the rain fell.

THE DRIVE.—A correspondent writes from York River to the Madoc Review: "Driving has commenced on the various Creeks running into York Branch, and it is to be hoped the water will hold good for the lumbermen to get all their logs down this spring, Messrs. Brunson & Weston having a larger drive than in former years."

DEBT OF NAPANEE.—The total debt of the town of Napanee, funded and floating, says the Beaver, is $31,000. Of this sum $30,500 is represented by debentures, and $500 is a floating debt. $3000 of debentures mature on the 1st of July next. These will not be paid but the council will, at its next meeting, submit a by-law to issue new debentures to retire those maturing next July. Happy Napanee.

SALE.—The catalogue of the great sale of furniture, pictures, mirrors, carpets, &c., at Mr. Jacob Wilson's residence, Charlotte St., on Thursday, covers everything in the housekeeping and decorating line, besides many useful and ornamental articles. The piano is a very fine one and pronounced by judges extra fine in tone.

SERIOUSLY ILL.—The many friends of Mr. Jas. Glass will regret to hear that he was taken suddenly and seriously ill on Friday night, which was followed by an apoplectic fit on Saturday. His condition during Saturday night and Sunday was exceedingly critical, but we are glad to learn that he was considerably better this morning, and his physician expresses hopes of his recovery. May they be speedily realized will be the wish of a host of sympathizing friends.

P. E. RAILWAY.—The summer freight rates of this Railway come into force on Monday, the 26th inst., and are put down very low being 12, 10, 8, and 6 cents per 100 lbs., for 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th class respectively; for grain per 100 lbs., (in car loads) 3½ cents, flour per barrel 8½ cents in car loads between Trenton and Picton. Efforts are being made to obtain a corresponding reduction between Montreal and Trenton on the Grand Trunk Railway, which if successful would no doubt be patronized by every business man in Picton.

RUNAWAY.—On Saturday forenoon a team of horses owned by Mr. Darling, of Huntingdon, ran away on Front Street. The owner, who had been in a store, ran out and caught the reins, but the horses kept on, and Mr. Darling, who was thrown from his feet, was dragged for some distance, and finally was compelled to let go, but not until his face was severely scratched. After smashing the waggon to which they had been attached, and which was left in the road near the upper bridge, the frightened animals were at last secured after a long run.

OBITUARY.

MRS. J. R. JAQUES.

The dangerous illness of this highly esteemed lady, from which she had suffered for nine days, terminated fatally on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The sad announcement has been received with the deepest regret throughout the city, and warm expressions of sympathy for the bereaved husband and afflicted relatives. Though for but a few years a resident of our city, her labors as an organizer of Christian work, in which she greatly excelled, and in behalf of charitable and other worthy objects, have been productive of an immensity of good, and her works will live after her. The following excellent sketch of her busy career, for which we are indebted to a sympathizing friend, will be read with great interest:

Hammiette Lyon, wife of Dr. J. R. Jaques, was born in Benton, State of New York, June 24, 1830, and died April 24, 1880, being at the time of her decease 49 years and 10 months old. She was the daughter of Colonel Samuel C. Lyons, Counsellor at law. Having been converted in early life under the labors of S. C. Adams, the evangelist, and joined the M. E Church. She spent several years in Genesee Wesleyan Seminary in Lima, and qualified herself for the position of public school teacher, which position she occupied for sometime with marked success. She took her diploma as graduate of the Wesleyan Genesee Seminary in June 1854. J. R. Jaques graduated the next day in the University of Genesee College, located in the same campus as the Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, and these two young graduates with valedictories of their respective classes and both devoted to Christian work, were immediately elected Principal and Preceptress of the Troupsburg Academy in New York State. Here they entered on their career of earnest work for the church and humanity. At the close of the first Academic year in July, 1855, they were married. At the close of the second year as Preceptress of Troupsburg Academy she was elected Preceptress of Mansfield Classical Seminary, Pennsylvania, a new and important institution just established by the Eastern Genesee Conference of the M. E. Church. Here, with her husband, who had charge as Principal, she labored with earnestness and success, mingled with sorrow on account of the sickness and consequent blindness of her first-born son. This affliction, with others that came in the order of Providence, gave a tinge of sadness to her character, which the Divine Artist was already shaping into fitness for greater work in the future. In a year the burning of the Seminary buildings liberated her and her husband for other work assigned by Providence for a period of five years, from 1857 to 1862. She was the untiring helper of her husband in pastoral work in Elmira, Hornelsville, and Rochester, New York.

Her bible classes were increased from 6 or 8 to 50 or 60. In the Rochester first M. E. Church she sought and found and brought into the Sunday School 100 scholars in one year. After her husband's temporary failure of health and consequent return to the educational work in 1862, she established and maintained for two years a ladies school in the city of Rochester, New York, with such success that she was elected in 1864 Preceptress of the Rochester Collegiate Institute, where she stayed till, in 1865, her husband was elected professor of classics in Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington, Illinois. Here she organized a weekly prayer meeting for christian women and workers, which, began at her own pastor's, grew into a congregation so large that it was removed to the large central Churches of the city, and resulted in inestimable good. This more public work was entered upon with great reluctance, after a struggle of soul prolonged for months and years; she ever spoke of this period 1869-70, as the most critical of her christian life. Her spirit, at first reluctant even to rebellion, at last submitted to the Divine will, to rescue the perishing by earnest and even public labor. She assembled the leading christian women of all the Churches of the city, and succeeded in organizing them into a society for christian work. The result was a great work of reformation and beneficence. She also founded in the city a home for the friendless, which was a monument of her restless zeal and prudent management. When the Woman's Educational Society was organized, she was made Financial Secretary, and entered in 1874 upon perhaps the greatest work, which was the raising of a subscription of nearly $12,000 for the purchase of a building and campus for the Female College in connection with the Illinois Wesleyan University. This work was done with enthusiasm and success, and in September, 1875, she had the great joy of personally superintending the opening of the building for its work, that is destined to perpetuate her name as a benefactor through the future. During the same period of much activity and extensive travel through the State in behalf of the college, she also exercised her office as Assistant State Secretary of the Women's Missionary Society, by establishing many branch Missionary Societies in the M. E. Churches in the State of Illinois.

In the autumn of 1875 she closed her labors in Bloomington, Illinois, after a residence of 10 years in the city, during which her qualifications for large Christian enterprises had become known far and wide. On her departure to Belleville, Ont., the public press of Bloomington indicated in no ordinary terms the high estimate in which she was held by all classes. In Belleville she was again a helpmate of her husband, President Jaques of Albert College, by occupying the position of Preceptress of Alexandria College for ladies, for a period of four years. During this period she did Christian work in revivals and in private visitations, as opportunity was presented.

She was also instrumental in organizing the Woman's Missionary Society of the M. E. Church in Canada, which was adopted by the General Conference in September, 1878. On her resignation as Preceptress, she engaged more actively in the work of evangelising and elevating the masses, by organizing the Woman's Christian Association of the City of Belleville of which she was made President.

The last few months of her life her activity in visiting and rescuing the fallen, the falling and the afflicted, filled her daily hours and her dreams by night.

Her person in earlier years, somewhat slender and in later years somewhat larger was always commanding, and her complexion florid, which had the appearance of health and strength, but through all her years of activity her constitution was exceedingly delicate and much of her work was done with physical weakness. It cannot be fully known just how many she led to the altar of prayer and to Christ, but it is estimated that nearly 1,000 were led directly through her labors to commence a christian life.

She never, amid all her public labors, forgot her domestic duties, and was a devoted wife and mother. Now that she has gone many, very many, will mourn her departure, for earth was made better by her life and by her death. Through all her distressing illness of nine days she gave utterance to expressions of perfect confidence in Christ and of perfect peace of soul. As for many years "Thy will be done" had been the motto of her life, so it was fitting that the same submissive words should be the testimony of her last hour.

She died amid the whispered music of christians' song, in which were blended the voices of christian women.

Presentation.

The following account of a presentation, which we copy from the Preston (Lancashire, England) Herald of April 7th, has much local interest, as it relates to the Rev. G. S. Filliter, son of Geo. Filliter, Esq., of this city, formerly a resident of Belleville:

PRESENTATION TO THE REV. G. S. FILLITER, ASHTON.—Last night, the churchwardens of St. Andrew's, Ashton-on-Ribble, waited on the Rev. G. S. Filliter, at his residence, for the purpose of presenting him with a handsome testimonial, which had been subscribed for by members of the congregation, in recognition of his services as curate of the parish during a period extending over three years. Mr. Filliter is leaving Ashton, having accepted a curacy under the Rev. C. E. Thomas, vicar of Hemsworth, near Wakefield, and will enter upon his new duties about the middle of this month. The testimonial consisted of a pocket silver communion service of chaste design, a purse containing £28 5s, and an address, neatly engrossed and appropriately framed. Upon each of the articles comprised in the communion service was the inscription, "Presented to the Rev. G. S. Filliter by members and friends of St. Andrew's Church, Ashton-upon-Ribble. Preston, April, 1880." The address, which was signed by the Rev. Canon Armstrong, vicar of Ashton and rural dean, the churchwardens, sidesmen, and representatives of the congregation, was in these terms:—"To the Reverend George Sisson Filliter, B. A., Durham, curate of St. Andrew's, Ashton-upon-Ribble, near Preston.—Reverend and dear Sir,—We, the members of St. Andrew's Church, Ashton-upon-Ribble, ask you to accept of this address, together with a silver pocket communion service and a purse of gold, as tokens of our affection and esteem during the three years you have gone in and out amongst us ministering in the Gospel of God. We wish to acknowledge your services in the church, your reverent and careful performance of divine worship, your earnest and instructive sermons, and in the parish your kindly efforts to comfort those in trouble, whether temporal or spiritual. We also desire to bear testimony to the valuable and kindly help rendered by Mrs. Filliter in the foundation of the mothers' meetings and the girls' friendly society lately established amongst us. We trust that in your new sphere of labor God in His good providence will grant you health and strength to continue your efforts in the parish in which your lot is to be cast." The presentation was accompanied by kindly expressions of the good wishes of the congregation towards Mr. and Mrs. Filliter, and the rev. gentleman acknowledged the gift in feeling and appropriate terms. On Monday evening the gifts were exposed to view at the school-house, Ashton, and a number of the subscribers and others availed themselves of the opportunity to inspect them.

Trenton Notes.

The village now wears a very business like aspect and a large trade is being done by the merchants and hotel keepers. An air of push and enterprise seems to prevail, and now, as the place is to become a town, it is more lively than ever. It has grown remarkably fast of late and contains many fine hotels, stores and private residences.

Building operations are as yet not brisk, but before the season closes it is confidently anticipated that a large number of buildings will be erected. At this time there is being erected a large brick building on the corner of Water and Ferry Streets, will contain a hall for public amusements and entertainments. The structure being prominently located will form a decided acquisition to the prominent buildings of the village.

There are about twenty ice houses along the mouth of the river and on the docks, and it is said fully 10,000 tons of ice are stored in these glacial granaries awaiting shipment to American ports.

The lumber trade is beginning to boom, as is attested by the fact that Gilmour & Co's large steam mill is now running night and day. A number of cargoes have been already shipped to Oswego this season, and more will follow as soon as arrangements can be made with vessel owners to take it.

There is considerable grain in store—held as prices are not satisfactory. As the farmers are busy now, but little and few are the additions made to the stock in store.

As is usual in the Spring, street improvements are much needed, and the crossings in particular need attention, which it is presumed they will ere long receive.

The yacht R. D. Cumming has been finished in fine style and will shortly be put into her "native element."

The steam yacht, built by Alex. Cuthbert, for Mr. S. Stephens, of Brockville, is now at the water's edge ready for launching. She is a fine specimen of marine architecture, and will no doubt prove to be fast.

Holbrook & Co. have recently purchased a large number of excellent carriage horses, which they will shortly ship to New York.

There is a large quantity of baled straw and poplar wood held here, which will be shipped to the States during the coming month.

The work of erecting the new bridge will shortly be commenced. This was a decided necessity, as the present structure was sadly dilapidated and decayed.

There is but little doing around the docks, but ere long activity will manifest itself in the shipping of grain and other commodities now lying in the warehouses and on the wharves.

ONTARIO SCHOOL OF ART.—The annual prize distribution to the successful pupils of the Ontario School of Art, Toronto, took place on Saturday afternoon. The Gold Medal, given by the Minister of Education, for shaded drawing from the antique cast, was won by Miss B. Walker, Belleville. This was closely contested by Miss Windeat

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

MANCHESTER, April 26.—Cornelius Shiers, upholsterer and paper hanger, also a large speculator in buildings, has failed. Liabilities £630,000.

A London correspondent says the absence of the Prince and Princess of Wales from the wedding of Princess Frederika, of Hanover, and Baron Powell VanRaminger, at Windsor on Saturday last and the Princess' visit to congratulate Gladstone, has been much commented on. The marriage of the Princess Hanover to her father's secretary has caused considerable friction in the highest circles.

A Constantinople despatch says the Powers demand that the frontier evacuated last week, and since occupied by the Albanians, be immediately reoccupied by the Turks and surrendered to the Montenegrins, in accordance with the terms of the Convention.

A Vienna despatch confirms the statement that the Albanians have occupied fortified positions ceded to Montenegro. The Montenegrins refrain from hostilities.

BRESLAU, April 26.—A boiler explosion at Koenigsruhe resulted in the death of 6 persons.

DUBLIN, April 26.—An important manifesto of the land league in anticipation of the Parnell conference proposes the establishment of a department to buy up land and create peasant proprietary by advancing the whole of the purchase money to tenants at 5 per cent. interest per annum for 35 years, and to suspend all ejectments for non-payment of rent for two years while this and other comprehensive reforms are being carried out.

The Hunter!

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and resort to subtlety to secure his prey. But his life is one of great attraction. He is usually very methodical, putting up with the coarseness of the camp. Sometimes his camp is enlivened by the presence of an enthusiastic, when expenses are ignored and every possible adjunct to comfort is provided. Old "Sharp Eye," the leader, knows the favorite spots where game may be expected, and he plants himself thereabouts. Then comes the rude chase, the excitement attending the pursuit, the fatal shots ringing through the air, the gathering of the game, and the return to the camp, animate with feasting and the stories of the hunters. It is splendid to have a good hunt. It is a good thing, also, to hunt for diseases in the human system, to drive them away. And for this commend me to DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS. They are the most experienced hunters after diseases known.

A Good Thing.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in Medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the affection and leaving the parts in in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidity increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately introduced. Boschees German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents Sample bottle, 10 cents.

A Cross Baby.

Nothing is so conducive to a man' sremaining a bachelor as stopping for one night at the house of a married friend and being kept awake for five or six hours by the crying of a cross baby. All cross and crying babies need only Hop Bitters to make them well and smiling. Young man, remember this.—Ed.

A Good Housewife.

The good housewife, when she is giving her house its spring renovating, should bear in mind that the dear inmates of her house are more precious than many houses, and that their systems need cleansing by purifying the blood, regulating the stomach and bowels to prevent and cure the diseases arising from spring malaria and miasma, and she mustknow that there is nothing that will do it so perfectly and surely as Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines. PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

MR. M. GILES, ESQ.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition — meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said :—"Darned if I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

CARPETS.

WE are now showing a large Stock of CARPETS in new patterns, and the prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for years to come.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealer telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some pretext or another for making an abatement, five, ten, and even twenty-five cents per yard is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

WELLAND CANAL

Notice to Machinist Contractors.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned (Secretary of Railways and Canals) and endorsed "Tender for Lock Gates, Welland Canal," will be received at this office until the arrival of the Eastern and Western mails on THURSDAY the 3rd day of JUNE, next, for the construction of gates, and the necessary machinery connected with them, for the new Locks on the Welland Canal.

Plans, Specifications and General Conditions, can be seen at this office on and after THURSDAY, the 20th day of MAY, next, where forms of tender can also be obtained.

Parties tendering are expected to provide the special tools necessary for, and to have a practical knowledge of, works of this class, and are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same; and, further, an accepted bank cheque for a sum equal to $250, for the gates of each lock, must accompany each tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.

The cheques thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfilment of the contract the party or parties whose tender it is proposed to accept will be notified that their tender is accepted, subject to a deposit of five per cent. of the bulk sum of the contract—of which the sum sent in with the tender will be considered a part—to be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General within eight days after the date of the notice.

Ninety per cent. only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the work.

This Department does not, however, bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By Order,
F. BRAUN,
Secretary.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Aneamia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.
GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.
C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LINER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.
December 19th, 1878. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve. and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879, Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878,
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,
R. W. HAMILTON, M. D.

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land. Address

ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or perfectly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical men examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them unsound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

In medicine all true knowledge comes from studying the causes of disease. The action of these causes upon our organism determines the nature and seat of the malady they produce. A cause which only acts on the stomach will produce a disease of the stomach; and so of causes which act on the lungs, liver, kidneys, bowels, or nervous system. Every known cause capable of producing consumption first acts on the lungs. A small chest, a cramped position of the body, confinement in badly ventilated rooms, irritation and inflammation of the air passages, all act by impairing the breathing and preventing the proper action of the lungs. Consumption results from this interference of the function of the lungs, and the disease which results fixes itself upon that organ.

Now, how should a disease so produced and so located be treated? We should withdraw the patient as fully as possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If that organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we should treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the real point of difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and upon the point which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the writer of an advertisement to be able to point to cases in proof of the wisdom of his prescriptions. Even at the risk of being accused of egotism, I will venture to say that the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation, such as I employ, is the substantial good it has accomplished and is accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. I can point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair. I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians of eminence had pronounced the case "hopeless." And the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and I the lungs, and given the patient medicine to swallow and I give them medicine to inhale. But this difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

Every disease of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence, a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation. We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they act imperfectly and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the surface of the body chilly and the nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by proper diet, clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

If impossible to visit the office personally, write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, together with a copy of my "Medical Treatise on Diseases of the Breathing Organs." Address.

Five Weeks Amongst Greek Brigands.

COLONEL SYNGE'S NARRATIVE.

(London Daily News.)

SALONICA, March 31.

Colonel Synge returned to Salonica in Her Majesty's ship Condor, looking very little the worse after his five weeks' captivity. Thanks to his robust constitution, the mental anxiety he must have undergone when at the mercy of a band of ruffians, and uncertain of his fate from day to day, has not left any bad effect upon Colonel Synge. We give a few particulars of his captivity, gathered from his personal narrative. The brigand band, which consisted of about forty, laid siege to his house in a most systematic manner. They first gave meat to the dogs to keep them quiet. They then kept up an incessant fire, aiming at the lower panes of the windows. Colonel Synge was sitting in an arm chair as he heard the bullets falling about him. He had just returned from his journey to Djuma, and at the moment had not any guns out, having unmounted and locked them in their cases previous to his departure. He, however, soon possessed himself of one by breaking open the case and returned the fire, but the brigands broke open a door and gained access to a quantity of hay, to which they set fire, threatening to burn down the house if he did not surrender. It was not till he saw the smoke rising in the room that he gave in. At the ferry-house on the Vistritza, three men were killed. They recognized Nico and another man, and fired on them first, hitting Nico, who then engaged in a duel with them with a yataghan. Colonel Synge begged them hard to spare the third man's life, promising to pay any ransom, but Nico presented a gun at his head and shot him dead. Colonel Synge was bound at the two elbows, the rope passing across his neck, and had his eyes bandaged during the daytime. They travelled at night, and, from Colonel Synge's account, must have made a considerable détour. On the second night he was kept the whole time in a cave, not far from Catterina, guarded by five men, and, save that he had to put up with very indifferent fare—bread and goat's flesh—and had to sleep on a bed of dried fern, he never experienced any bad treatment at their hands. They had no fires during the day, fearing to be detected through the smoke. Once he was threatened to be roasted alive. It would appear that the chiefs of another band, unfriendly to Nico, came to the dragoman of the Consulate, proposing to catch him and bring him to Mr. Blunt, if he would then negotiate for an exchange of prisoners. On coming to knowledge of the men guarding Colonel Synge, and they told him that had this proposition been made to Nico earlier he would have fryed him, covered him with petroleum, and placed him over a fire. Mr. Blunt, however saw too much danger in the scheme to entertain it. When the money was being counted Nico examined carefully every piece to see that they were not marked, and insisted on a delay of twenty-four hours before allowing the Colonel to be set free in order to enable him and his band to leave the neighborhood, having from the first refused an amnesty. Nico is a young man not more than twenty-five, short of stature, with a fine head and face, possessing great intelligence and beloved by his band. Among them were six Greek deserters, but the rest were Ottoman Greeks and Wallachs. In spite of the enormous ransom paid, Consul-General Blunt and his dragoman deserve the greatest praise for the zeal and perseverance they showed in bringing the affair to its happy termination.

The temperature of the milk ought to be, in the dry, warm season (May to November) 90° to 93° Fahr.; from November to May, two to five degrees higher, and no further heating must take place. The time of coagulation—that is, the time from the adding of the rennett until the cutting begins—ought to be about twenty minutes, or not over thirty minutes, and the cheese vat must during this time be covered with a lid. The curd must be cut with great care. The long knives should be used one way and then the other, so as to divide into little squares. After this the mass is stirred to make it still finer; first very slowly, then a little quicker. When it is sufficiently fine, it is left for some minutes to settle, upon which the whey is drawn off, and the curds are heaped up in the middle of the vat and covered with a bell shaped cover, that the greater part of the whey may run off without reducing the temperature to the curds. After this it is cut with a knife into small squares, and passed twice through the curd mill.

The mass, which now ought to be of a temperature of 82° to 93°, is gently placed in smooth layers in the cheese-hoops, which are then put into the press. The cheese is turned three times—the first after the lapse of an hour, the second after the lapse of two hours, and the third time two hours later, when the date of its manufacture is affixed. In the evening the cheese is taken out of the press and laid for four days and nights in a strong salt pickle, in which it is turned every twelve hours, and each time a handful of coarse salt is spread on the cheese. In the winter the cheese is kept for two or three weeks in a dry place being carefully turned daily, so as not to damage the edges. Now the cheese should be placed in a dry cellar, and must continue to be turned every day and dried with a cloth.

In summer, when the air is dry and warm, the fresh cheese may be taken direct from the pickle to the cellar, which ought to be kept dry and well ventilated. Special attention is required as to the temperature and time of coagulation, as well as to the cutting and the draining of the whey; and it is stated that it is of the greatest consequence that the mass of curds be as warm as possible when placed in the cheese-hoops, and it therefore must not be omitted to cover the curds while heaped up in the middle of the cheese vat that the whey may run off.

If the buttermilk is not taken immediately after the stopping of the churn, or is heated together with the skim milk, it will spoil the cheese by making it bitter.

Full pressure should not be put on when the cheese is first goes to press, but the pressure should be increased gradually.

Here it will be seen is a marked difference in the manufacture of skimmed cheese from that generally adopted in this country, and the manner of applying the buttermilk, the chief difference between which and the whole of the other features, may be suggested.

I am rather [illegible] of skimmed cheese, unless there is a market for it out of the country. It would seem as be seen at this time of the year as important after May next, as at this time to increase the home consumption of cheese, and in order to do this the richest and finest varieties must be put upon the market. Skimmed cheese, however well made, must always be inferior to whole milk goods when manufactured in the best manner, and my chief opposition to skims is that they are distributed too much among our home trade to the exclusion of the finest goods, and that the less cheese is consumed among our home population than there should be, or would be, if the finest goods were always readily to be had in our markets. Of course more or less skimmed cheese will always be made so long as it pays for producing it; and if it must be made, it should be of the best quality of its kind. It is therefore of the highest importance that the different methods of producing it be laid before our manufacturers, that they may catch suggestions and make improvements by adopting some part of the processes of others, when it seems practicable and desirable.—N. A. WILLARD, in Country Gentleman.

Buttermilk in Skim Cheese—The Danish Method of Using It.

Considerable attention has of late been called to the dairy manufacturers of Sweden and Denmark. The fact that Swedish and Danish butters sell in London at a very high—usually above that from other countries—and the fact that Danish butter is sent largely to the tropics, outselling any other brand, have caused a good deal of inquiry concerning the dairy methods that have brought about these results.

These important improvements in dairy manipulation date from the discovery of Swartz that milk set in ice water and reduced speedily to a temperature of 40° to 44° will throw up cream in twelve hours, and hence, all other things being equal, a more uniformly good product results than from old methods, unless the greatest care and skill are exercised. In other words, the ice method acts in a uniform way, producing the cream in about twelve hours from the time of drawing from the cow, and requiring no practical skill or watching.

When cream is taken from milk in twelve hours after setting in ice-cold water, a delicious if the skimmed milk will be very fresh and of good flavor, since the low degree of temperature has kept it from entering upon decomposition. This milk is utilized for manufacturing skimmed cheese, which, it is claimed, is improved in texture and richness by the use of buttermilk coming from the churning of sweet cream. And as large quantities of butter and cheese for sweet cream in Denmark are employed for packing in tins to supply Brazil, India, and other tropical countries, the sweet buttermilk can be had for the purpose above indicated. Mr. Busck, the manager of the Danish Preserved Butter Co'y of Copenhagen, has described the process of making skimmed cheese, as inaugurated at that establishment, and the method may afford some suggestions to American skim cheese manufacturers. Mr. Busck says, in order to obtain the best result, it is necessary that the sweet butter milk should be mixed with the twelve hours old skimmed milk, and a suitable proportion would be one hundred pounds of buttermilk and 400 to 600 pounds of skim milk. The buttermilk must always be taken immediately after the stopping of the churn, and will then give a good result both as to quantity and quality. The skim milk in the cheese vat must always be heated and ready to receive the buttermilk as soon as the butter is taken from the churn. The quantity of rennet to be employed depends upon the freshness of the milk—the richer the milk, the more rennet. Of Hansen's liquid rennet extract, it takes two to three hundredths of a pound of the rennets to one hundred pounds of milk.

Dymond to the Fore.

Ever since the late member for North York was overtaken by the disastrous 17th of September, he has been browsing round the Provincial crib at Toronto, and many have been the stray crumbs which have fallen his way. He was employed to make sundry extracts from old reports and put them together in the shape of a pamphlet on the new territory, for which he pocketed a couple of hundred. Then sundry minor commissions were entrusted to him, and when the elections were coming on he was entrusted with the task of getting up a hand book to guide the faithful. It is to be presumed this last came out of the pockets of the pairty; but what's the use of owning a Government if you have to support the party penalisation? Dymond got another job had to be provided for this party gem, and as there were no municipalities waiting to have their affairs enquired into by a Government commissioner, the expedient of appointing an agricultural commission was hit upon. With the abundant means of obtaining information respecting agriculture which we have in Ontario—with agricultural societies in every township, horticultural societies in the towns, fruit growers' associations, dairymen's associations, poultry associations, an Agricultural College, a Board of Arts and Agriculture—people thought information could be got at a trifling expense and more thoroughly without an expensive commission. But then that would make a place for anybody, and so a commission had to be appointed.

The names have just been made public, and sure enough, there is the inevitable Dymond, while the Globe informs us he "will discharge the more directly executive duties of the commission, manage the correspondence, collate and arrange the information collected, and conduct such portions of the enquiry as may from time to time demand close and continuous personal attention;" the other gentlemen giving their services gratuitously. That is to say, Dymond is to be the commission and draw the pay, while the others are thrown in to give a look of importance to his labors. Would it not be better to provide a permanent office for this party pensioner at once?—Owen Sound Times.

—There is no place like San Francisco for enterprise after all. Last week the wife of a well-known business man, residing on Ellis street, eloped. The departure was discovered about 10 o'clock in the evening, and at the same hour the next morning the husband had the furniture sold at auction, and delivered up the key of his house to his landlord the afternoon of the same day. He was terribly afraid she would change her mind and return.

BELLEVILLE, TUESDAY, APRIL 27.

The Pacific Railway Debate.

The following opinion, which is expressed by the Montreal Journal of Commerce—a journal which deals with public questions irrespective of party—will not be accept. able to the Opposition, who, having by the Carnarvon terms, committed the country to a certain course, now seek to repudiate their own agreement for factious purposes. The Journal says:—"So far as we can judge upon the merits of the question at issue, we are of opinion, 1st, that, as to the working expenses, it is of comparative indifference which opinion is correct as bearing on the prosecution of a work which all are agreed to be necessary under the circumstances. 2nd. As to the proceeds of land sales, no matter whether the Ministers or Opposition are correct in their estimates, the work must be proceeded with, and we must hope for the best. 3rd. As to the prosecution of the work on the Yale-Kamloops section, which is really the practical point at issue, we think that the Ministers have the best of the argument, and that, adverting to Mr. Mackenzie's acceptance of the Carnarvon award, and to his proceedings when in office regarding that section, he is not in a position to object to its construction."

Marmora Correspondence.

Mr. B. Holland has sold the minerals on his place for the sum of $2,000. Messrs. J. & D. Kelly have purchased a large number of cattle during the past winter. A storm of snow and rain swept over here on the 17th inst. Saturday appears to be the usual day lately for the latter. The roads in consequence are almost impassable.

Only one shaft in the Gatling mine is now being worked, and but eight men employed. It is said that on May 1st the present company who have been working it vigorously pro tem will cease operations there.

A daring attempt at burglary was committed at the house of Mr. Stanlick, Malone, on the 16th inst. Capt. Mitchell had arrived that afternoon with a considerable amount of money to pay the men with, and after retiring for the night was roused from his slumbers by the sound of the window sash heavily falling. He sprang up with a loaded revolver in order to defend his life, and to shoot if necessary the would-be burglar, but was only in time to see him hastily fleeing towards Mr. M. Powell's barn.

Mr. Maybee, a brother-in-law of Mr. D. D. Johns, is now breaking the prairie sod in Manitoba on a large scale, and represents Manitoba as being "the finest country for farming purposes in the world." Of Emerson he also speaks in the highest terms.

"Dagon of the Grits."—Of Mr. Mackenzie's back down on the Pacific Railway question at the bidding of Mr. Blake, the St. John, N. B., Sun says: "The spectacle of Monday was so humiliating, so destructive of all respect for either the judgment or the patriotism of a man who has been the recognized leader of a great party, that the country may well stand aghast at the fall of this Dagon of the Grits."

Meteorological Service.—The meteorological service of Canada is becoming daily more popular and useful. The correctness of the weather probabilities, now verified in ninety-three instances out of every hundred, has led to a great demand for them from all parts of the continent. Through the enterprise of the head office, now under the superintendence of Charles Carpmael, Esq., aided by the telegraph companies, the daily warnings of the probable weather ahead are sent to about six hundred places.

British Fisheries.—There are about 50,000 boats engaged in the fisheries of Great Britain, and these give employment to over one million of the population. Nevertheless, fish are more plentiful than ever. In 1878 the number of tons carried on the railroads was 216 318; but this by no means represents the total consummation, for, taking the fish eating population of Great Britain at twenty millions, they would require 465,000 tons per annum if each person ate only two ounces a day.

Imports and Exports.—The Canada Gazette of Saturday contains the following statement of Exports and Imports of the Dominion: The imports for March were: Total dutiable goods, $5,460,814; coin and bullion (except U.S. silver coin) $17,346; free goods, all other, $1,164,414; grand total entered for consumption, $6,642,574. The exports were: Produce of the mine, $74,540; do fisheries, $342,275; do forest, $419,116; animals and their produce, $689,152; agricultural products, $1,140,745; manufactures, $338,890; miscellaneous articles, $67,964; totals, $3,172,721; coin and bullion, $502,223; grand total, $3,674,944. Of this amount $3,004,706 was the produce of Canada.

Deadly Wind Storms.—Each year now brings its deadly wind storm in the Western States, and usually it comes early in June. In that month last year 20 deaths were caused by a tornado which swept through Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska. In June, 1878, 100 persons were killed and wounded at Richmond Mo., and in June, 1877, nearly a score of lives were lost and $100,000 damage was done in Mount Carmel, Ill. The Wallingford (Conn.) storm, which caused the loss of over 30 lives, was in early August, 1878. Terrible as these disasters seem to us, they sink into significance beside a very recent wind storm which caused one of the most awful calamities ever recorded in the history of the world, and yet which has, we venture to say, completely passed away from the minds of the generality of even the usually well-informed. On Oct. 31, 1876, Bengal was visited by a cyclone which caused the death of 215,000 persons, by creating a wave which entirely submerged three islands. This statement is based on official returns from each police section in the districts swept by the deadly wind and waves, and is probably short of the truth. In 1864 a Bengal cyclone caused the death of 50,000 people. Such figures and facts as these emphasize rather the nothingness of man than the value and sacredness of human life, and seems a scathing sarcasm on the justice of nature.

GREAT FIRE.

THE OPERA HOUSE DESTROYED.

Other Property Damaged.

THE LOSSES.

Buildings devoted to the purposes of public amusement are proverbially subject to destruction by fire, hence it is that several of the greatest theatres and opera houses in the world have been burned down and rebuilt several times. Unfortunately the neat and comfortable Opera House erected in this city by Mr. George L. T. Bull in 1876-7, has formed no exception to the rule. A performance was given in it last night by the Haverly troupe of colored minstrels, and the audience gathered was one of the most numerous—and it might be added the portion of them who occupied the galleries the most boisterous—that had ever assembled there. The performance concluded shortly after 10:30, and Mr. Willoughby Wilkins the janitor, having made his customary tour of inspection, and finding all apparently safe, left at a little after 11. He was at the Dafoe House, when, at a few minutes after midnight, he was startled by the information that the Opera House was on fire. In company with Messrs. John Jenkins and Ald. McMinch, he at once ran to the place, and on opening the door leading into the dressing rooms, found the smoke so dense that for a moment he was prostrated by it, but recovering he opened the door of the baggage room and admitted a current of air, which dissipated the smoke.

The locality of the fire was anxiously looked for, and at length it was found seemingly below the stage; but how the flames originated there Wilkins says he cannot tell, as there had been no fire in the furnace—which is there located—since between 4 and 5 p.m. of the afternoon before. Hence he attributed the conflagration to an unextinguished cigar "stub," numbers of which, he says, were thrown about promiscuously by the members of the colored minstrel troupe.

The firemen, having been aroused by the alarm, soon made their appearance, and at once began to combat the flames, and with such effect that it was for a short time thought that they must succeed in saving the building. But the fire had secured a firm hold, and despite their efforts seized greedily upon the scenery and other highly inflammable material usually to be found in a theatre and rapidly won its way to the roof, where it soon established a dominion which was beyond control. The heavy roof afforded fine material for burning, and very soon long tongues of fire darted through it and the air was filled with sparks, which a northerly breeze carried in glittering showers to the roofs of adjoining buildings, and especially to the eastern end of the brick terrace on Campbell Street, immediately opposite, in which are located a number of offices, &c., that will hereafter be particularized.

The [illegible] to nullify the efforts of the firemen, for some time the front of this brick block became so hot that water thrown on it evaporated almost instantaneously in jets of steam, whilst the windows cracked and broke, thus giving the attacking fire a still better opportunity for success. At about this time, however, a welcome change in the situation occurred, the windshifting to the north-west, which carried the heat, flame and sparks to the southward and eastward of the structure for the safety of which the firemen had been so obstinately contending. Dr. Ridley's residence, an old and dry frame structure on the corner of Pinnacle and Campbell Streets, next became the object of contention. The flames would get a momentary hold of the roof, only to be driven back by powerful streams of water, and although menaced by the wall on the south east corner of the Opera House, which, having by this time been deprived of the support of the roof—it having fallen in—momentarily threatened to crush them, the firemen stuck resolutely to their work. At length this wall fell with a resounding crash, and the spectators held their breath, as two men of the Hook and Ladder Company were seen to be engaged, directly opposite, in removing furniture from the window of an upper chamber in Dr. Ridley's house. But fortunately the greater part of the wall fell inside of the building, and the avalanche of falling brick did not reach the south side of the street. The fire, however, was so fierce that although the house was saved, it was only at the expense of a portion of the roof and the liberal flooding of the whole structure with water. All the furniture, however, was removed to a place of safety.

Earnest work was also required to save the brick block belonging to Mr. Bull, and which was separated from the Opera House by nothing but a party wall of brick, but the work was successfully done, and with very little damage to the property, although the wall which enabled the firemen to save it will probably have to be taken down. In this block were located on the ground the Division Court office, Lazier's paper warehouse, the Crown Timber office, and a vacant store formerly occupied by Mr. Dickens. On the second floor are Messrs. Flint & Jellett's law offices, and the unoccupied rooms formerly tenanted by the Mechanics' Institute, but which have been empty for a length of time. The only damage to the contents of the building was by removal, and is of a trifling character, so far as can be ascertained, although Mr. Way, Crown Timber Agent, complains that some small portions of his office furniture were stolen.

The fire it may be stated, continued to burn until 5 a.m., but no further damage was done.

In Dr. Ridley's brick block on the south side of Campbell Street are located Mr Eugene McMahon's law office, the Weight and Measures office, Wm. Robertson's boot and shoe shop, Dr. Allen's office, E. B. Fraleck's law office and Dougall & Falkiner's law office. Damage here, as across the street in the Bull block, was confined to removal of furniture and papers, from which a slight loss was suffered. The Weights and Measures office and that of Mr. McMahon sustained the heaviest scorching, and although every pane of glass in each was broken, it is not thought that a paper is missing.

The floor of the barber shop in the west of the Metropolitan block was flooded by water which ran in from the street, and Mr. G. S. Tickell and others living on the east side of Pinnacle Street, in the course of the sparks as they were wafted along by the wind, had much difficulty in saving their property, but with a little aid from the firemen they were fortunately able to do so.

Dr. Ridley's residence is not so badly damaged that it cannot be repaired if thought desirable. The loss on this building will be about $200, and on the Dr's. brick block $100. The latter is insured but the former is not.

The Opera House is completely destroyed, nothing being left of it but a portion of the wall fronting on Pinnacle Street, and the side wall of the main building and addition on the north side and the party wall before spoken of, which divides it from the Bull block. The Campbell street (or south side) wall has all fallen, and the former pretty interior is a wilderness of blackened brick, mortar and charred timbers. The value of the building and contents, (including the scenery) was computed at from $12,000 to $13,000, and on this there was an insurance for $6,000 in the Western. The insurance on the whole property—that is, including the Bull block adjoining, was $10,000, of which $4,000 was on the block.

The destruction of this, the most elegant and commodious temple of the muses which Belleville has ever had, will be generally regretted by our citizens, the more especially as the prospects of its being rebuilt are not regarded as favorable. The effect of its erection has been to induce the best class of travelling companies to perform here, and generally to elevate the character of public amusements. It was opened to the public on the night of March 9th, 1877, by the Barnabee concert company, and the following sketch of the structure, which was given in our columns on the day following, will be of general interest now:

The enterprise of Mr. Bull has given to the public what has long been required, namely a place of public entertainment situated on the ground floor, with ample means of ingress and of exit in case of fire or panic, fitted up in a style equal to that of metropolitan theatres, and with accessories and facilities sufficient to attract the very best class of entertainments. During the past year the structure was erected after the plans of Mr. John C. Winnberg, a talented architect, whose untimely death by accident in the building has not been forgotten by our readers. The structure, which is of brick, two stories high (38 feet walls) and roofed with sheet iron, has a frontage of 58 feet on Pinnacle Street and 120 feet on Campbell Street. The main entrance, which is wide and spacious, is situated on Pinnacle Street. It admits to a commodious vestibule, wherein are situated the ticket offices. Access to the pit, paraquette and orchestra chairs is through folding doors in the centre and on the sides, and the wide stairs which wind up to the gallery branch off to the right and left. The gallery, which is of the usual horse-shoe shape, affords an excellent view of the stage from its every part, the seats sloping down with a considerable incline to the front, allowing those in the rear seats to see over the heads of those who are seated in the front. The first five rows have been upholstered, and are denominated the dress circle, the remaining portion being termed the gallery—perhaps "family circle" would be a more appropriate name. The lower portion of the house, the floor of which slopes at an angle similar to that of the gallery, is divided into pit, parquette and orchestra chairs. The first named division occupies the whole of the space beneath the gallery, the ceiling of which is 11 feet above the floor. Next is the paraquette, the seats of which are neatly upholstered and fold up. A neat railing marks the separation from the orchestra chairs, which extend to the front, the orchestra being railed off by a railing which extends across the front of the house. There are eight proscenium boxes, namely four on each side of the house—two on the stage and two on the gallery level in each wing. Seats are provided for 850 persons, but 1,000 could be amply accommodated.

The stage is commodious and is supplied with some ten sets of excellent scenery by Mr. Morris, of Toronto, who seems to have done his work well. All necessary accessories are furnished, and dressing-rooms are located on each side of the stage. The ornamentation of the interior (the dimensions of which are 60 feet long by 54 feet wide) is in excellent taste. The centre piece in the ceiling over the sunlight is a pretty and well-executed representations of Apollo in his chariot, and two mythical figures adorn the top and sides of the proscenium. The boxes are curtained with scarlet and white, the panelings above and beneath are light green, bordered with gold, relieved here and there with a touch of scarlet, and several pretty landscapes adorn the vicinity of the lower boxes. The panelings of the gallery are also landscape views very beautifully executed, the whole being the work of that clever artist Mr. Richardson.

Light is afforded by a large sunlight in the centre of the ceiling, whilst above the upper tiers of boxes depend peculiarly light and graceful looking chandeliers, and single globes are placed around the gallery, but a few feet apart, the whole affording a very brilliant light, and showing off the beautiful decorations to perfection. This description, brief and imperfect though it may be, will suffice to show that Mr. Bull has given to Belleville a temple of the muses second to none in Canada in point of elegance and of appointments, and to but few in dimensions.

An addition to the dressing room accommodation was afterwards made. Mr. George E. J. Hanwell, who had the building leased for a term of five years, three years of which time had expired, proved himself a capable and satisfactory manager. He lost some private property by the destruction of the house, and with him and the owner of the unfortunate structure we sympathize in the loss which they have sustained.

—A company for the manufacture of silk has been formed in Quebec, with a capital of $50,000, head quarters to be in Montreal. The shareholders are Messrs A M Foster, Charles Baillie, and Wm Minto, of Montreal, and W. B. Foster, of Toronto.

—Mr. Richard Blewett, the oldest resident of Napanee, and one of the first pioneers of that place, died yesterday morning at the advanced age of 93 years. He stated just before his death that he never took a dollar's worth of medicine during the whole course of his life.

—The Rev. L.O. Armstrong, of Emerson, Manitoba, who takes such a deep interest in the settlement of the Turtle Mountain country expected English families to arrive in Emerson between June and October to settle in that region.

—The feud in San Francisco has at last brought forth a fatal tragedy. DeYoung of the Chronicle, who last August shot Mayor Kalloch, though not fatally, was himself shot and killed by Mayor Kalloch's son on Friday morning. It was a cowardly and cold-blooded assassination, to say the least of it.

HON. GEO. BROWN.

Toronto, April 26.—The Hon. George Brown passed a comparatively easy night, but is excited again this morning. One of his medical attendants says that the mortification is spreading and whatever may be the opinion of his friends, they have little hope of his recovery.

Toronto, April 27.—Mr. Brown had a good night's sleep, and is considerable better this morning.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

The S. S. Circassian arrived out to-day, the 20th.

Bloomington, Ill., April 27.—At Padva township yesterday during a family quarrel Abraham Hendryx shot Bailey, his brother-in-law, dead, and his friend Stoneman fatally.

Frankfort, Ky., April 27.—Ex-member of Congress John D. White, now a member of the Kentucky house, charged Speaker Bigger yesterday with favoring dilatory legislation. The lie was passed, and after adjournment the parties had a rough-and-tumble fight in the State house grounds, White getting the best of the Speaker.

New York, April 27.—A Washington special to the Sun says the sub-committee on Ways and Means appointed to consider the the bill by Hurd to establish regulations as to imported goods in bond and with duties paid, &c., have unanimously agreed to report favorably.

Hurd introduced two bills; they have been amalgamated and slightly amended; reasons given in the report accompanying the bill are: first, the Canadian order prohibiting the transportation of American cattle through the Dominion; 2nd, that Canadian railways ought to submit to the regulations imposed upon our own railways engaged in inter-state commerce. 3rd, carrying goods through Canada in sealed cars offers opportunity for smuggling. 4th, it is a duty of Government to see no discrimination against American Railways is exercised by foreign Governments. The report criticizes the tariff of Canada as discriminating against the United States. Canadian Railways received last year more than $10,000,000 for transportation of American products. The report argues that negotiations should be opened with the view either reciprocity with Canada or to secure imp rtant modifications of the Treaty of Washington.

New York, April 27.—A gentleman whose name is withheld, has offered to build an Industrial school at a cost of $10,000, for teaching wood carving and painting, and pay its expenses for three years. The school to be under the supervision of trustees of the Metropolitan museum. The offer has been accepted.

Arrived, the Azalea from Queenstown and the City of Paris from Liverpool.

THE MISSING TRAINING SHIP.

London, April 26.—A despatch to the Times from Portsmouth says that no news has hitherto been received in reference to the missing training ship Atalanta, and even those who have been most sanguine are beginning to lose heart. The Channel squadron is now on its way to Bantry Bay, its searches at the Azores having evidently proved fruitless. The ships are expected to arrive in the Bay about the 8th of May, where possibly further orders may await Admiral Boyd. The only hope as to the safety of the safety of the Atalanta consists in the desparate supposition that she may have been driven far to the north, and the public will probably not rest satisfied until an examination of the coasts of Greenland and Iceland have been made.

—A terrible snow-storm, embracing an area nearly 200 miles wide, has visited Minnesota threatening the interruption of railroad travel.

CARD.

Dr Ridley desires to thank the Fire Brigade and the many gentlemen who so kindly and energetically lent him their assistance at the fire on his premises this morning.

FUNERAL OF MRS. JAQUES.—The funeral services of the late Mrs. Jaques, wife of Dr. Jaques, President of Albert College, were conducted by Rev. B. Lane, in the college chapel yesterday afternoon. Never before perhaps in the city has such universal and genuine sorrow been expressed by all classes of the community and all denominations of christians as was manifested during the services. The college chapel was crowded while numbers could not obtain admittance. All the clergymen of the city except two who had special engagements for the day, were present. Members of the Women's Christian Association, together with those to whom they had ministered, were among the chief mourners. After Mr. Lane announced that a fitting memorial service would be held sometime in the future; Rev. Mr. Mitchell read an appropriate scripture lesson; Rev. Mr. Willoughby announced a hymn, and Bishop Carman led in prayer; Mr. Lane then gave a short account of the life and labors of the deceased, after which the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Turnbull. Perhaps the most touching scene in the service was the uncontrollable sorrow shown by those whom the departed had rescued from a life of shame. As the procession moved away all felt that they had lost a friend. Dr. Jaques has certainly the sympathy of the entire community.

Marine Notes.

The tug Lady Franklin has arrived from Kingston with two barges, which are loading peas here.

The schr. Olive Branch arrived from Trenton yesterday afternoon and is loading rye for Oswego at Campbell's and Downey's.

The schr. Olivia is loading poplar wood for Charlotte at the light house dock.

The schr. Tranchemontagne arrived yesterday evening from Oswego light, and is at Rathbun's, loading lumber for Oswego.

The Kingston News says:—The mail boats will start this week for the season, the Algerian being the first. She will leave for Toronto and Hamilton on Wednesday afternoon at 5:30, and will be followed on Friday and Saturday by the Corsican respectively. On Saturday next, at 5 a. m., the Algerian will leave for Montreal, the Corsican and Spartan leaving the following week.

The theory of grain shifting in the case of the Northman is not looked upon as correct by vessel men. Some of them say that there is no danger of shifting when there is a full load. The opinion is freely expressed that the vessel sprang a leak soon after leaving port, and becoming waterlogged she sunk.

The Oswego Palladium of Saturday says:—"The schooner O. S. Storrs, Capt. Yott, left Oswego, light, Tuesday at 9 P. M. for Trenton, loaded lumber and arrived here at seven o'clock Friday night, making the round trip in two days and 22 hours, which is extraordinary time."

IMPROVING.—The friends of Mr. James Glass will be glad to learn that a decided improvement has taken place in his condition, and hopes are entertained that he will soon be convalescent.

DANGEROUSLY ILL.—We regret to learn that Mr. John Diamond, father of the Police Magistrate, is lying at the point of death. Mr. Diamond is in his 89th year and has long been been a highly respected resident of this city.

THE ODDFELLOWS' CELEBRATION.

A Very Successful Affair.

Sermon at St. Andrew's Church and Conversazione at Night.

In accordance with previous announcement, the members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows yesterday celebrated the 61st anniversary of their order. At 2 p. m. they assembled in their hall, and shortly after that hour formed in procession on Front Street, a few representatives of the Madoc Lodge taking their places in the line. Led by their handsomely uniformed band, all the members being neatly dressed and several of them wearing very handsome regalia, they proceeded on a long march of Front, Mill and other streets, finally reaching St. Andrew's Church, where a considerable number of the spectators who had thronged the line of march, had gathered.

The choir, having sung the opening ode of the order as they entered the church, and prayer having been said by the Pastor, the 100th psalm was sung. A portion of scripture from the 10th chapter of Luke, commencing at the 25th verse, was next read, following which prayer was again said, succeeding which the 79th hymn was sung.

The Rev. Mr. McLean then delivered his discourse, taking his text from Romans 14th chapter, and 7th verse, "None of us liveth to himself." He said he had chosen these words not so much as a text as a motto about which he wished to make a few remarks. These words enunciate a principle as old as the world, and had been illustrated every day, as when nations combined to use their forces. It was seen in the conference at Berlin, at which representatives of the chief nations assembled to find the basis of peace—in the fact that God had divided the nations into families to help each other. It was only by co-operation that men or nations achieved success. What was civilization but the result of the labors of all mankind? The words before them were powerfully endorsed by public opinion, which no one could set at naught. All, from the least to the greatest, pay a willing or unwilling homage to it, all wished to appear as well as possible in their own circle. It was an instinct implanted by God in the breast of man, that all should desire the well-being of their fellows. It was felt that it was noble to do much and risk much to save the life of a fellow man, or to alleviate the sufferings of our kind. The Saviour became poor that we should become rich, and as we gazed on the divine sacrifice we were filled with awe at the spectacle because we felt that it was godlike to live for others. Some lived as if they were lords of their own lives, but there was no such thing as independence as to life or means in this world. The rich man had to trust in his employees and the poor man in his employer. Was it not a fact that we were dependent on our early training and associations for what we are and what we are to be? Yet there was a power outside of this, which regulated our destiny despite ourselves, and betimes burst all our hopes. Were we not, then, dependent on the power of the Eternal? No man should, then, live in himself or of himself. He was a dispenser as well as a receiver, and influenced others as he himself was influenced, and for this giving forth of influence we were responsible. The man who was said to be only his own enemy brought tears to his home and set an evil example, and all would be held responsible accordingly. This idea should be graven on their minds and if it were, the young people would be freed from the evil effects of bad example and saved from ruin in this world, and hereafter. No man should seek to live for this world alone, for self-seeking was opposition to God and to be crushed beneath the heel of his power. To love God with all his strength and his neighbor as himself was the only true way for man to live. The Oddfellows' Association was one of men who did not live to themselves alone, as judged by their deeds, and were banded together to strengthen the weak and help the helpless. This he knew had been done and was still doing in this city. They had watched the beds of their dying brethren, had assisted the widows and did good deeds on behalf of the orphans. The fact that they were banded together for these purposes showed that they wished to do more than ever to sweep those evils out of existence. Let them take the words of the text as their motto and brood over them until they became incorporated with the whole warp and woof of the inner man and live for Christ. Thus they will be blessed for themselves and a blessing to others. He will dwell in us and teach us to live as He lived and walk as He walked, and the world would be the better for us, and when the last hour came, then they should see the bar of God arising, but they would have the light of the Master, who would be with them as they entered the valley of the shadow of death. Let them all feel that they were living not for themselves but for God.

At the conclusion of the devotional exercises the brethren re-formed their procession and proceeded by way of Church, Bridge, Pinnacle, Dundas and Front Streets to their Hall, where they disbanded.

THE CONVERSAZIONE.

The day's proceedings were wound up by a Conversazione in the Oddfellows' Hall, which was largely attended. After a parlor entertainment, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, dancing was begun to the strains of the quadrille band of the Association, and although interrupted by the fire at the Opera House, was continued till quite a late hour. The Madoc brethren left by special train at 2 a. m.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

Mary set all these things in array before her mind, fancying, perhaps, that her heart would be shamed out of its weakness. But in this, it must be confessed, she did not succeed. You see hearts are not to be commanded in their loves or hates. The judgement may comdem; the will may protest; but the rebellious heart sets at naught all caution and remonstrance, and cherishes its affections still.

No, Mary felt that, in spite of all proper considerations, she had a tender regard for Charles Ravensworth, and could not but tenderly regard him while the vision of his excellence remained in her soul. All that she could do she did, and that was to hide her secret still further down in the recesses of her 'private drawer,' and keep the very key thereof hidden, so that no one should see or suspect its existence.

Let us follow Charles to the Hall, which he was to see for the first time—the noble mansion and estate of which it was designed he should one day be master.

The carriage winded slowly along the wide avenue, lined with majestic beeches, and on either side could have been seen far stretching parks of the greenest verdure. Mr. Ravensworth had anticipated great pleasure in marking the feelings of the youth as his eye beheld for the first time the grandeur of his inheritance, but for the first half of the short journey their minds were engaged in matters very different.

Scarcely had they passed through the gates when Charles, as he lay back on the cushions, touched Philip's arm and said—

'I have something to tell you that will amaze you not a little. Who do you think those Woodfords are?

'Who are they?' returned Ravensworth with a smile; 'why Mary is the female teacher in our school; and, like a dutiful child as she is, she keeps beside and maintains her old lame father. That they are people singularly good and kind, you and the whole of us have had ample proof. As to who they are beyond this, I do not know for they were here before I purchased the estate.'

'I was not seeking information, but have information to give on the subject,' rejoined Charles, smiling in his turn. 'The Woodfords are old friends of mine under a new name.'

'Old friends, Charles!' cried Philip, with great interest, and a look even of alarm 'I never saw any sign of this. Neither you nor they looked or spoke as if you had been previously acquainted. Why is this?'

'Because we did not recognize each other. My suspicions were indeed raised, but it was only last night that I was made certain, and that by a conversation between them, which I accidently overheard.'

'And who, then, are they?' asked Ravensworth, with undisguised anxiety.

'Tobby and Myra.'

'What! the show people from whom the chimney sweep carried you off?'

'Even so—who were gone from Lambeth Walk when you went with me to find them and whom I have never heard of since,'

'Most extraordinary; and did they recognise you?'

'No,'

'Ha, that is fortunate. Surely, Charles, you—you never discovered yourself to them?'

'I have not done so yet.'

And you must never do so,' cried Philip with energy. 'Remember our engagement to his lordship.

'That was just what kept my lips sealed. But it was a hard trial, I assure you, to know them, and not to allow them to know me, when the revelation would have been so welcome.'

'It must not be, Charles; on no account must it be. Your past must be sunk in utter oblivion. Not a soul out of the Eagleheart family knows that you are not the son of Lydia and myself. And it is of the utmost consequence that the truth should be concealed. Therefore you must know the Woodfords as though you knew them not. It is interesting, no doubt, to have discovered they are your old friends, and we shall be all the kinder to them since we know it, though, indeed, we can hardly be kind enough after their great service to you in your illness. But on no account must you tell them that you are their old companion Charlie; and, in fact, it will be as well for us two to keep it to ourselves. Even Lydia shonld not be told of it. She has taken such a fancy to Mary Woodford that I am sure if she knew she could not refrain from telling her. So I trust you will agree to do as I wish.'

'As you please,' returned Charles, with an almost inperceptible sigh, for his acquiescence was accompanied with an inward regret. He felt how hard it would be to maintain an intercourse with his friends of the cottage and keep from them information of such great interest to them all.

They were now near the termination of the avenue, and the Hall appeared before them in all its massiveness. It was a comparatively modern structure, handsome and commodious. The domestics were mustered at the entrance to receive Charles, and was welcomed with much cordiality. Lydia had conveyed at once to the room which had been prepared for him, and here he was surrounded with every comfort and luxury.

MR. M. GILES, ESQ —Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition — meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said :—" Darned I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

AUGUST FLOWER.

The immense sale and great popularity of Green's August Flower in all towns and villages in the civilized world has caused many imitators to adopt similar names, expecting to reap a harvest for themselves at the expense of the afflicted. This medicine was introduced in 1868, and for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, with their effects, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Stomach, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart, vertigo, etc.,etc., it never has failed to our knowledge. Three doses will relieve any case of Dyspepsia. Two million bottles sold last year. Price 75 cents. Samples 10 cents.

The Hunter!

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and resort to subtlety to secure his prey. But his life is one of great attraction. He is usually very methodical, putting up with the coarseness of the camp. Sometimes his camp is enlivened by the presence of an enthusiastic, when expenses are ignored and every possible adjunct to comfort is provided. Old "Sharp Eye," the leader, knows the favorite spots where game may be expected, and he plants himself thereabouts. Then comes the rude chase, the excitement attending the pursuit, the fatal shots ringing through the air, the gathering of the game, and the return to the camp, animate with feasting and the stories of the hunters. It is splendid to have a good hunt. It is a good thing, also, to hunt for diseases in the human system, to drive them away. And for this commend me to DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS. They are the most experienced hunters after diseases known.

N. B.—We would respectfully draw attention to our mode of doing business on the one price system. Customers may rely with entire confidence on the fact that the prices we ask for the various qualities are as low as the same qualities can be had anywhere in the Dominion of Canada, for we buy these goods direct from the makers

There is a pernicious and deceptive practice only too common, of misrepresenting the grades of Tapestry and Brussels, the dealer telling customers the goods are worth so much, and then giving some protext, or another for making an abatement, five, ten, and even twenty-five cents per yard is thrown off the price first asked, and the customer is thus tempted to buy, thinking he is getting a reduction in the price, whereas he is after all actually paying more for his goods than we would ask in the first place.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anaemia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: - 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LINER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879, Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

Epeleptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES L. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitu for this under any circumstances.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land. Address

ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or properly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical men examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them unsound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

In medicine all true knowledge comes from studying the causes of disease. The action of these causes upon our organism determines the nature and seat of the malady they produce. A cause which only acts on the stomach will produce a disease of the stomach, and so of causes which act on the lungs, liver, kidneys, bowels, or nervous system. Every known cause capable of producing consumption first acts on the lungs. A small chest, a cramped position of the body, confinement in badly ventilated rooms, congestion and inflammation of the air passages, all act by impairing the breathing and preventing the proper action of the lungs. Consumption results from this interference of the function of the lungs, and the disease which results fixes itself upon that organ.

Now, how should a disease so produced and so located be treated? We should withdraw the patient as fully as possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If that organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we should treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the real point of difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and it is the point which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the physician to be able to point to the result of his practice in proof of the wisdom of his prescriptions. Even at the risk of being accused of egotism, I will venture to say that the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation speaks for itself by the substantial good it has accomplished and is accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. I can point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair. I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians of eminence had pronounced the case "hopeless." And the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and I the lungs; they give the patient medicine to swallow and I give them medicine to inhale. But this difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

Every disease of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence, a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation. We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they act imperfectly and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the surface of the body chilly and the nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by proper diet, clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

If impossible to visit the office personally, write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, together with a copy of my "Medical Treatise on Diseases of the Breathing Organs." Address.

Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION

MONDAY, April 26.

In the House of Commons, the Minister of Justice introduced a Bill to authorize the making certain investigations under oath, which it was explained, merely empowered the Departments to enquire as defined into the conduct and actions of subordinates.

Sir Leonard Tilley moved the House into Committee of the Whole upon the resolution providing for the increase of the issue of Dominion notes from twelve to twenty millions of dollars, with a basis of fifteen per cent. in gold and ten per cent. in Dominion securities. The Government had in their hands £500,000 sterling of the four per cents floated in 1878, which it was proposed to utilize as security. In proof that no danger need be anticipated because of the smallness of the gold basis, it was claimed that although the circulation was nearly thirteen millions of dollars last year, the Receiver General was only called upon to redeem in gold $1,500,000. It was proposed to only issue four millions of dollars this year, and a similar sum next year. To assist in distributing this sum the Government contemplated paying the Indians their annuities in Dominion bills, and to make all payments of less than $5 by banks payable in Dominion bills. The cities of Charlottetown, Winnipeg, and Victoria will be provided with branches of the Receiver-General's office.

Sir Richard Cartwright offered three objections to the Government's scheme. It was a long step in the direction of the Governments assuming control of the currency, secondly, on account of the currency's rapid return the Finance Minister, particularly in times of financial stringency, would experience great difficulty in keeping it out, and in his efforts to do so would probably increase the stringency; and thirdly, it would reduce the already small amount of gold held in the country. While he admitted his belief that the Government ought to share somewhat in the benefits arising from the circulation, yet he feared that the present scheme would only result in erecting a large part of the country's capital, the result of labor, from the active operation of trade.

Mr. Wallace (Norfolk) accepted the resolutions as a concession in the direction of adopting a National Currency, and he complimented the Government upon the courage they had manifested in taking this step. He could not, however, endorse the proposal to renew the bank charters for ten years, because it would bind up public opinion for that time, and therefore at the proper time he would move an amendment to these resolutions.

Mr. Charlton expressed mistrust as to the result of the Government's currency resolutions, and then proceeded to criticize the defence of a flat issue offered by Mr. Wallace. In an exhaustive speech he recited the past history of similar efforts, and pourtrayed their results, and sought to impress upon the House the necessity of acting upon the lesson which these events inculcated.

After a few remarks favorable to the resolution by Mr. McCallum the motion was carried.

In Committee Messrs. Anglin and Mills both briefly expressed their disapproval of the motion, to which a brief reply was offered by the Premier.

The resolution was adopted.

In the House it was concurred in on a division and the necessary Bill introduced.

Sir Leonard Tilley then moved the House into Committee on the resolutions renewing the bank charters on certain conditions already communicated to the public. He explained the meaning of the provisions in detail.

In Committee Mr. Plumb spoke at length in rather doubtful support of the present series of resolutions. He appeared to favor a gradual adoption of the American system of banking, and offered a caustic criticism of the arguments advanced in favor of an irredeemable currency.

Mr. Casey, who followed, although he endorsed Mr. Plumb's main arguments against the National Currency scheme, yet he could not favor the American banking system, because it was not sufficiently elastic.

Mr. Ross (Dundas) appeared to believe that the Government's scheme would prevent traders having small bills in their hands to meet the requirements of change.

Mr. McLean (Glengarry) favored the House with a few weighty arguments against the National Currency, and expressed doubt as to the wisdom of the Government's course increasing the volume of the currency.

Mr. Wallace replied briefly to the arguments advanced against his favorite scheme, and then moved in amendment to the first resolution that words be added to the effect that no bank whose charters are now renewed shall issue bills under the renewed charters to an amount exceeding that issued under their old charters.

After a speech by Mr. Boultbee in favor of a National Currency

Mr. Casey argued at length against it.

The amendment was negatived, the resolutions adopted, reported to the House, and incorporated in a Bill, which was read the first time.

The House resolved that Government business should take precedence on Wednesday.

The House adjourned at 12:45 a. m.

—It would very much surprise people if they were told how many things the Queen could do without consulting Parliament; and it certainly has so proved, for when the Queen abolished purchase in the army by an act of prerogative (after the Lords had rejected the bill for not doing so), there was a great and general astonishment. But this is nothing to what the Queen can, by law, do without consulting Parliament; not to mention other things, she could disband the army; she could dismiss all the officers, from the General Commanding-in-Chief downwards; she could dismiss all the sailors, too, she could sell off all our ships of war and all our naval stores; she could make peace by the sacrifice of Cornwall and begin a war for the conquest of Brittany. She could make every citizen in the United Kingdom, male or female, a peer; she could make every parish in the United Kingdom a "university," she could dismiss most of the civil servants; she could pardon all offenders. —Walter Bagehot.

Report of Canadian Canals.

The chief Engineer's Report of the Canadian Canals from Lake Erie to Montreal is a portly volume of 600 pages. It gives a history of some of these great works as well as an account of the recent enlargements and other improvements that have been undertaken by the Canadian Government, and now fast approaching completion. This report furnishes all information that can be desired, whether as respects the nature of the work, the difficulties to be encountered, the dimensions of the canals, the depth of the water, the number and size of the locks, or the difference in elevation between the two extreme points which these locks are intended to overcome. In addition to all this there are several maps and plans showing the course of some of these canals, with sections of locks, bridges &c. An enormous sum of money has been expended on these water-ways—enormous when it is considered how young the country, how small the population, and how little the accumulated capital in the hands of the people who may now be said to have accomplished these vast works.

Let us consider that the distance between Lake Erie and Montreal is about 375 miles, and that on this line of navigation there is now 70½ miles of canal, on which are 53 locks, of which the ordinary length is 270 feet, the width 45 feet, and the uniform depth of water on the sills, 14 feet. The difference in elevation between Lake Erie and Montreal is 550 feet, 533 of which has been overcome by these locks, and the balance absorbed in the gradual decline. The artificial part of these long and "magnificent water arteries" is spread over nearly the whole length and obtains different names at those points where they are required. The three principal sections are the Welland, Cornwall, and Lachine canals; while the less important are those of Burlington Bay, the Williamsburg canals, and the deepening of some portions of Lake St. Francis and Lake St. Louis. The present heavy expenditure has been undertaken to allow vessels of a large size to proceed from the upper lakes right through to the head of ocean navigation, and by securing a depth of 14 feet of water all through the course this object will be obtained. It is calculated that vessels of 2,000 tons will now be able to navigate the St. Lawrence and the lakes, and by a slight modification in the build of the vessels which the Chief Engineer informs us is now being introduced, the carrying capacity of these vessels may be increased 50 per cent., and therefore vessels of 3,000 tons burthen may soon be seen navigating these canals, and carrying the produce of the western States and of our own North-west to the Atlantic ports. When all the projected improvements have been completed, vessels large enough to cross the ocean may sail from the western extremity of Lake Superior to Montreal, or Liverpool for that matter, without the transhipment of a bushel of grain, or any other part of the cargo.

A period of fifty-five years has rolled along side the commencement of the construction of the Welland Canal in 1825, principally through the indomitable energy and perseverance of the Hon. Hamilton Merrit. It was then only a one-horse affair, though it was so far finished that vessels were passed through it in 1829. By a grant from the Government it was somewhat improved, and in 1833 the way was opened from Lake Erie to Ontario. In 1861 the Government assumed the control of the canal and undertook to improve it in many respects. The locks were extended from 100 to 120 feet in length, and from 22 feet to 24 feet in width, with nine feet depth of water. The report tells us that the improvement begun in 1842 fully doubled the original capacity of the canal, and those now in progress will, when completed, increase that capacity threefold. All these improvements could not be effected without a heavy outlay, and the sums expended on three principal sections—the Welland, the Cornwall, and the Lachine—were as follows :—

Paid to contractors and incidentals on the Welland up to December 31st, 1879	$10,233,820
Paid on the Lachine, for do	4,699,248
Paid on the Cornwall, for do	412,616
Total paid on these three works up to December last	$15,345,484

This is a heavy sum, but in course of time the country will receive a full return for this outlay, and it will facilitate interprovincial trade to an extent that no one has any conception of to-day, and it will, besides, give Canada a large share of the carrying trade of the Western States.

Origin of the Desert of Sahara.

A. M. Largeau in 1874 visited the valley of the Ighargar, with the intention of launching off to Ghadames to study the commerce of that oasis and test the practicability of diverting to Algeria the caravans that come there by the central route from Soodan. He questioned the chambas on the causes of the drying of the great Saharan streams, and found that all agreed in saying that these dead rivers once ran full through a country more fertile than the Tell (the region north of the Atlas Mountain's crest), but could only explain it by legends more interesting than satisfactory.

M. Largeau gives the following explanation of the change: "It is known that pastoral people have always been great destroyers of forests, for they need large spaces of ground to feed the flocks that form their wealth, and to promote security against the wild beasts that lurk in the forests. Even now the Algerian Arabs are seen firing the woods to enlarge the narrow limits imposed on them by colonization. Now, although the great Saharan streams have not been explored to their sources, yet it is known that they commence on the bare plateaux that are but the skeletons of heights once wooded and fertile. All accounts of the inhabitants of these regions agree on that point. Consequent upon the destruction of the forests, the periodical rains were replaced by rare and short though violent storms, the water from which, instead of soaking in as in past ages, slip by on the rocky mosses, carrying away the rich surface mold, and bring about the drying of the springs, and, as a consequence, of the rivers."—Lieutenant Seaton Schroeder, in Popular Science Monthly for February.

—There is no place like San Francisco for enterprise after all. Last week the wife of a well-known business man, residing on Elles street, eloped. The departure was discovered about 10 o'clock in the evening, and at the same hour the next morning the husband had the furniture sold at auction, and delivered up the key of his house to his landlord the afternoon of the same day. He was terribly afraid she would change her mind and return.

—It is said Sir Garnet Wolsely has been ordered to return to South Africa with all speed.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28.

The Opera House.

By the destruction of the Opera House it is generally felt that a severe loss has been sustained by Belleville, as the City Hall is now, owing to other places of amusement being devoted to other purposes, the only large public hall in the city. That fitis totally lacking in all the necessary accessories for the production of opera or drama is well known, consequently that class of amusements, at least such first-class stars as Mary Anderson, Adelaide Neilson, Mrs. Scott Siddons and others must necessarily give Belleville the go-by. The Opera House having familiarized our citizens with the best class of dramatic and musical entertainments, the deprivation of occasionally witnessing them will be severely felt. It is therefore, of great importance either that the Opera House be rebuilt, or that a similar edifice be erected. The site of the late building was in all respects convenient, and the public would, we believe, prefer it to any other for the purpose.

Already a good deal of talk has taken place in reference to the matter, and various reports are afloat. This much, however, seems certain, that Mr. Bull will not rebuild, whilst report has it that a capitalist yesterday made him an offer for the property, for the purpose of re-erecting the Opera House. It is to be hoped that such negotiations, if entered into, will succeed, as the gentleman indicated would without doubt erect a structure which would be a credit to the city. Failing this, the next best plan seems to be the formation of a Company for the purpose, and but little time should be allowed to elapse before action is taken, as the work will occupy at least six or eight months. Several gentlemen have, we are informed, declared their willingness to take stock in a company for the erection of an Opera House in amounts ranging from $500 each downwards. Should the negotiations which it is understood have been entered into between Mr. 'Bull and another gentleman fall through or result in nothing within the next ten days, we trust that steps will at once be taken to secure the formation of a Company. Belleville cannot well do without a first-class place for public amusements, and we are quite sure that the want will be supplied within the next twelve months.

Since the above was placed in type Mr. Bull has been seen, and states that the report as to the negotiations above mentioned is without foundation. He would, however, rebuild if a bonus of $3,000 were given to him, or would sell out to a stock company or an individual. Whatever is to be done should be done quickly.

A Heavy Storm.—On the 26th inst, a storm which almost amounted to a hurricane, passed over Berlin, Guelph and Oakville. At Berlin it blew in the gable end of a brick barn, and carried away several roofs of buildings. In the vicinity of Guelph some barns were blown down. At Oakville houses were unroofed, barns destroyed, fences blown down, a lady and gentleman were assisted out of their buggy and left lying in the road, and a man named Jas. Pickett was drowned.

A Warning.—Religious communities in Canada are warned by ministers of the gospel in the State of Vermont against a man and a woman, who have left that State for Canada under circumstances of necessity, and who have a way of passing themselves off as religious workers. We need not go into particulars with regard to these persons. While not forgetful to entertain strangers, the more people are on their guard against committing themselves to religious tramps, the better.

How it Works.—The Guelph Herald says:—Messrs Goold & Wilson have received another order for one hundred waggons for the North West, to be filled by the 5th May. Thus the N. P. is giving to Canadians a trade which formerly went to the United States. These are the kind of items that never find a place in the columns of Grit papers.

Strike at Valleyfield.—The strikers at Valleyfield cotton mills became riotous on the 27th inst., and tried forcibly to prevent those who were disposed to go to work. As soon as the Montreal Water Police came on to the scene, the trouble became worse. The police used their batons freely and fired revolvers loaded with blank cartridges. Showers of stones from the strikers met them on all sides, and after one of the police being badly cut they retreated to the factory. The Mayor and Councillors were present trying to keep down the mob, but after the pistol shots had been fired they were unmanageable. One of the mob, not a factory hand, was shot through the shoulder.

Where they Go To.—The Manitoba Free Press (Reform) in its issue of the 17th announced the arrival of Mr. R. Patterson, of Paris, Ont., at Winnipeg with 250 settlers. The Free Press said:—"This makes 1,085 souls that have come through in Mr. Patterson's three parties since March 1st, five weeks, and on enquiry Mr. Patterson states that not more than sixty of that number remained, or intended settling in the United States."

Prince Leopold.—The London World says: "We believe Prince Leopold's visit to Canada has not been abandoned, but is postponed on account of the impending announcement of his betrothal to a young lady of the British aristocracy."

—Robert De Coursier who was tried at Toronto for the murder of his brother at Lambton Mills in Sept. last was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged on the 16th of June.

THE DAIRY BUSINESS.

WHAT IT HAS GROWN TO IN THIS DISTRICT.

THE FACTORIES, PRESIDENTS AND CHEESE-MAKERS.

It is but a few years since the first cheese factory was started in this County, but the factory system once inaugurated has proved so successful that the cheese interest has become a leading, if not the leading, interest of the district.

We have taken considerable pains to procure a list of the Cheese Factories in this County, as well as Northumberland and Prince Edward, in the interest of the trade which we give below, with the name and P. O. address of the Presidents of the different factories and the names of the cheese makers.

Should any errors or omissions have occurred, we will gladly make the necessary corrections.

The barge Alabama will take 12,500 bushels of peas from Downey & Co.'s. The barge Princess will take 6,000 bushels of peas from Campbell's and Brennan & Vandervoort's, and the barge Anna will take 13,000 bushels of peas from Mill Point. All these barges belong to the Kingston and Montreal Forwarding Company.

Opposition Leadership.—The Toronto Telegram says it "is in a position to state that the frequently discussed question of the Opposition leadership is about to be settled at last. A caucus is to be held in a day or two and Mr. Blake installed as leader." The Telegram intimates that the arrangement will be carried out with the unanimous wishes of the members of the Opposition, and that perfect harmony prevails in the Reform ranks. It hopes much from Mr. Blake's former success in defeating Sir John Sandfield McDonald, though it says "he is lacking in backbone and pluck." In this connection we observe by the proceedings of the House of Commons yesterday as reported by the Globe, that before the House adjourned, Mr. Mackenzie announced that he had resigned the leadership of the Opposition, and in future would act as a private member on that side of the House. The Premier said that that was an announcement upon which the Ministerialists could have nothing to say, but personally he expressed the hope that the successor to the leadership of the Opposition would display the same ability, earnestness and zeal.

Daily Intelligencer.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 28.

City and Vicinity.

THE CELLS.—The cells were all but unoccupied last night, only one tramp seeking protection.

FISHERY SEIZURE.—A quantity of Pickerel caught out of season were seized this morning by constable H. Werte and handed over to Fishery Inspector Wilkins.

BACKWARD.—The spring season continues to be backward, with frequent gales and cold weather. Farmers generally have got well advanced with the sowing of their spring crops but on some farms the land is still too wet to work. In gardens work is progressing, but the season may be considered as being from one to two weeks later than usual.

SUGAR SOCIAL.—A social for the benefit of Bleecker Street Church was held last evening in the brick school house 2nd con., Thurlow. There were a large number of people from the city present. The programme consisted of Music and Readings among which were a couple of vocal and instrumental selections by the Miss Wickett's, and a song by Mr. W. Finkle and Brother. Readings were well rendered by Messrs. F. Marskel and F. E. Redick.

THE GREAT NORTH-WEST.—The Hastings Land Purchasing and Locating Association have had printed in the job room in connection with this office, a large number of pamphlets describing the Canadian North-West, and containing quotations from the leading Manitoba papers. The pamphlets are in the hands of the members of the Association. The Locating Committee, we understand, are soon to leave for the purpose of locating lands.

NEW CHEESE FACTORY.—A new cheese factory is in course of construction on the farm of Mr. Dennis Heyland, about half a mile south of the village of Stirling. The building is the old factory of Mr. Albert Chard, which was taken down and is being completely rebuilt by Messrs. S. S. Vandervoort and John Wrath. It is expected that the factory will soon be in operation.

TO-MORROW.—The great furniture sale at Mr. Jacob Wilson's residence, Charlotte St., takes place to-morrow. As all the articles to be offered are very select, no doubt there will be a large attendance. Such richly carved furniture, Brussels carpets, fine pictures and books, embracing a great many standard works, are rarely offered by auction. In addition to the articles on the catalogue a very handsome, silver plated tea service will be offered. Free 'bus for the accommodation of ladies will leave Lake & Jenkins' office every fifteen minutes.

YACHTING AND BOATING.—An addition of 18 inches is being made to the keel of the Gracie. This, it is expected will increase her speed and render her stiffer under canvass. To further conduce to this end, the yacht will be furnished with a cedar spar, carry no topmast, and have the weight of her top-hamper materially reduced. Stoneburg is doing the work. Mr. R. M. Roy yesterday launched a new single scull lapstreak craft which he built himself at odd moments during the winter She is a neat and nice little craft and performs admirably.

ARRIVED.—A Montreal despatch of the 28th inst. says the Polynesian is reported off Cow Bay, C. B.

PERSONAL.—We learn with pleasure that the condition of Mr. James Glass was very much improved to-day, and that he is rapidly progressing towards recovery.

"SIR WALTER SCOTT."—The lecture delivered in the City Hall last night by the Rev. D. Mitchell on the subject of Sir Walter Scott was largely attended. The Mayor presided and introduced the lecturer. The Rev. lecturer gave a very interesting biographical sketch of Scotland's greatest novelist, tracing his career from boyhood onward until he commenced the writing of poetry, in which walk of literature the lecturer properly classed him as amongst the first in an era of exceptional if not unparalleled brilliancy in the history of British poesy. Then he followed him as a writer of fiction—the vastly successful and for a long time mysterious "author of Waverly," whose fertile brain produced, even under the pressure of seemingly insuperable pecuniary troubles, these master-pieces of historical novels which will for all time occupy a foremost position in English literature. And so on to the close of a finally successful and in every regard honorable career. The lecturer used fine and at times eloquent language, and at the close of his discourse a vote of thanks, moved by Rev. Dr. Badgely and seconded by Rev. Dr. Clarke, was unanimously accorded him.

A FINE HORSE.—R. W. Newton, veterinary surgeon, and T. K. Joslin have purchased the thoroughbred stallion Leamington 2nd, and will keep him at Dr. Newton's stables during the season for serving mares. This horse, which was here last season for the first time, is probably the finest stallion ever brought into Canada, as he contains the blood of Leamington, Lexington and Glencoe, three of the most fashionable strains of blood in America. He was raised by H. Welch, at Chestnut Hill, Pa., and is from Susan Beane, dam of Sensation, considered by all horsemen the best horse on the American turf. Speaking of "Sensation," who is a full brother of "Leamington 2d," the Spirit of the Times says: "He has the beauty and symmetry which pure blood alone imparts, the bone to sustain his splendid frame, the size and length to lend him the spirit of the wind, and he is more robust and presents more constitution and substance with equally as much actual quality, as I have ever seen in any of the sons of imported Leamington. Between Leamington 2nd and Sensation there is said to be almost a perfect likeness, both being of same size color and marked alike. Leamington 2d is 7 years old, dapple brown, weighs over 1,100 lbs. and stands 16 hands high He is perfect in form and the use of such a horse must have a tendency to greatly improve the stock of the country. Terms for this horse will be so low that every one can use him.

Hyperborean.

Mr. R. B. Beatty, accountant for the Hudson's Bay Co. at Norway House, in the Northwest, who graduated at Ontario Commercial College in this city a year ago, has sent the Principals of the College the following statement of the temperature at his station during the past winter, which has been exceptionally severe:

Seasonable Topics.

—Board fences make good kindling, judging from the dilapidated appearance of some in town.

—Potato bugs will soon be forming delegations to wait on seedsmen to ascertain who have purchased seed potatoes for this year's crop.

—And now comes the frugal housewife with her reticule of carefully preserved seeds, and her talk about early vegetables, spring cleaning, taking down stoves and the like.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

CHEESE.—It is reported that the whole April make at Ingersoll has been contracted for at 12¼c to 12¾, that it is fully as fine as last year, but one-third short, a number of cows having been bought up by American dairymen. All the factories there are in operation. At Little Falls on the 26th 3,500 boxes of factory cheese sold at 11¾c to 14½c and farm dairy cheese at 10c to 13¾c. In Utica 2,400 boxes sold at 10c to 14¾c.

THE IRON TRADE.—A pointed editorial article in the last number of the Pittsburg Journal of Industry says that "notices were posted in all our iron mills last week, informing the workmen that on and after the 19th inst. the wages would be reduced 15 per cent, and that if these terms were not accepted, work would be suspended indefinitely."

GRINDING IN BOND.—By order in Council, the former order in reference to bonding wheat was changed on the 20th. Hitherto millers have been allowed to ship in flour the equivalent of the wheat imported. The new order in Council permits them to ship only the product of the imported wheat.

DIVIDEND.—The Merchants' Bank has declared a half-yearly dividend of 3 per cent.

Australia.

THE EXPORT TRADE OF FROZEN MEATS.

MELBOURNE, April 23.—The question of the export of frozen meats is seriously occupying public attention. The six million sheep and three million cattle grazing in Queensland admit of a weekly exportation of 2,000 tons of meat. Refrigerator works are to be immediately erected. Thousands of sheep were recently boiled down for tallow, and cattle were almost unsaleable.

The Charges of Immorality against Rev. Mr. Handford.

ACTION FOR DEFAMATION OF CHARACTER TO BE TAKEN AGAINST A PROMINENT MINISTER.

TORONTO, April 27.—There is great excitement in the city to-day over the charge of immorality brought against the Rev. Mr. Handford of the Congregational church. He is charged with criminal intimacy with the wife of a commercial traveller, who is frequently absent from the city, and a rather elderly maiden lady. At a special meeting of the congregation last night the rev gentleman denied the charges and offered to resign unless he had the entire confidence of the congregation. There will be a meeting of deacons this afternoon to give an official report on the subject. It is expected that this report will be in favor of the minister but that a split in the congregation will take place.

In a statement given to the Evening Telegram the Rev. T. W. Handford denies the charge made against him by Mr. Thompson. The Mail was the only paper to give an account of the investigation, and religious circles are very much excited to-day at the revelation. One of the ladies alluded to is about to bring an action for defamation of character against Rev. John Potts, of the Metropolitan church, who, it is said, was the first to spread the stories of Mr. Handford's visits to her house. Mr. Handford will not resign.

—Messrs Fourin Essiande and Cointefas, two French gentlemen, are at Quebec city connected with the cattle trade, and expect to have five French steamships at Quebec by the end of May to ship live cattle.

—Hon. Robt. Marshall, of St. John, N. B., has been elected Grand Master of the Masonic Grand Lodge, of New Brunswick.

—Foreign capitalists are said to have $30,000,000 in loan in the vicinity of Wall St.

—The steamer Caspian at St. John's Newfoundland, transferred nearly all her Halifax cargo and passengers to the steamer Newfoundland, which left St. John's on the 27th inst.

After leaving the University he associated with the revolutionists, and in accordance with their frequent habit he learned the trade to more readily influence the working classes. He was known at the palace as a clever carpenter.

LAMBERTVILLE, N.J., April 28.—The Pennsylvania Railroad machine shops, with their contents, and several offices, with one locomotive, were burned. Loss heavy.

PARIS, April 27th.—The long talked of resumption of diplomatic relations between France and Mexico seems settled. France and Mexico will simultaneously nominate representatives at their respective capitals.

PARIS, April 28.—Duc de Partone, minnister under Napoleon 3rd, will be prosecu ted for voting twice at different places. The offence involves imprisonment and suspension of civic rights.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 28.—In the Senate, on motion of Mr. Forster, the Bill in relation to taxation of stockholders in banks doing business in this state, was recommitted with instructions to strike out the enacting clause.

The Church of the Old Believers, which has been closed for the last forty years, will now be opened in consequence of a measure removing the disabilities of religious dissenters in Russia.

LONDON, April 28.—Twenty-six thousand weavers, employed in 118 mills in Blackburn district, to-day gave notice of their intention to strike in a fortnight hence unless their wages are advanced in the same proportion as was conceded to spinners and cardroom hands recently

WEATHER REPORTS.

TORONTO, April, 28.—Probabilities for the next twenty-four hours: For the lower lakes, mostly westerly to southeasterly winds, partly cloudy warm weather, followed by local rains to-night.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Indications: for lower lakes, warmer, partly cloudy.

Bogus and Counterfeit.

There are no genuine Hop Bitters made or sold in Canada, except by the Hop Bitters M'f'g Co., of Toronto, Ont., nor can there be, for the sole and exclusive right to use the name Hop Bitters is secured to said Company by the laws of Canada, by 2 registered trade marks, and it is a heavy penalty for any one to use the name Hop Bitters or make or sell anything pretending to be like it. Druggists and consumers should remember this and shun all spurious, injurious stuff made by others or elsewhere. Hop Bitters is the purest and best medicine made.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.—As I have been repeatedly informed that certain parties in this city who are trying to sell furniture (?) by auction and private sales in auction rooms, have been and are now making use of my name and trade reputation, by urging as a guarantee for the quality of the goods that they belong to me, and were made by me—which assertion has but one truthful inference, viz., that the stuff would never sell on its own merits—I beg to inform the public that I have no furniture on sale at any auction rooms, nor am I in any way connected with bankrupt sales of so-called furniture, by auction or otherwise; notwithstanding my name being erroneously connected by advertisement or design with the "assignees' instructions," "bankrupt stocks," &c. But I am pleased to say that I continue at my regular place of business, where I am enabled by experience and close application to business, to sell furniture and all goods in my line, at prices and values which DEFY COMPETITION—as witness the numerous compromises, assignments, and bankruptcies, which have occurred in my line of business.

CAST ON THE WORLD:

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

He grew rapidly strong now, and was very soon able to accompany Philip all over the estate, and even to ride over to to the Grange, where he saw Lord Eagleheart for the first time since his illness. His lordship had been in no very amiable mood of late, and did not unbend freely during the visit. He had just then a secret cause of annoyance in the new scrape got into by his former valet, Huffey White. He every day expected a message to come to him from White, from Bridlington Gaol, requesting an interview, and he was not in a position either to refuse or comply. It was not possible that he could again save White's neck from the gallows. Powerful as was his influence with the Government, it would be preposterous to expect that they would again, at his request, spare the life of so desperate and incorrigible a criminal. Then on the other hand, White would not be made to see this, and finding that he was to be hanged, he might, out of revenge, let out the terrible secret which would cover him—even the great Lord Eagleheart—with disgrace.

No wonder that his lordship was moody and irritable, but her ladyship and Dora made up to Charles for the host's want of courtesy, and when he left, they made an appointment with him to return the visit on the second following day, when he would show them all the beauties of Singleton Hall.

Little did they dream what momentous results were to follow from the visit thus arranged, or that it was fated to lead to discoveries which should alter the whole course of their existence.

CHAPTER XXIII.

AN OVERWHELMING REVELATION.

On the day appointed, Lady Eagleheart and Dora paid their promised visit to Singleton Hall. His Lordship did not accompany them, pressing business with his steward being the excuse he sent for his absence.

The day being a fine one they had the carriage made open, and enjoyed the beauties of the scene as they drove along. The distance was inconsiderable, for the two estates lay close to each other, being separated only by the high road running north and south. But as both properties were extensive, and as the mansions were placed somewhere near the centre of each, the Grange and the Hall were fully three miles apart even as the crow flies, and nearly four by the avenues, which route had to be followed by the carriage.

After luncheon was partaken of, it was proposed that they should form themselves into a walking party, and go to see a finely-wooded ravine situated at the other extremity of Mr. Ravensworth's property.

It was a bright, balmy, exhilarating day, early in May, and every one was in high spirits. Charles was nearly as strong as ever again, and insisted on having Lydia on one arm and Dora on the other, leaving Philip to escort Lady Eagleheart.

They found the ravine an enchanting place, and thought they would never tire of enjoying its beauties. This they could do without undergoing much fatigue, for seats had been placed at a short distance—in fact wherever one of the numerous fine views opened up—and reclining in these they could contemplate at their ease the romantic spot.

When at length they quitted it to return to the mansion, Mr. Ravensworth was the first to observe a black cloud had gathered in the west, and evidently laden with a heavy shower, was fast approaching. Not having anticipated anything like a change of weather, they were wholly unprepared for it, having neither umbrellas nor wrappers. It behoved them, therefore, to look about for a place of shelter, and the only available place near was the keeper's house, which stood at the end of the wood to the right. Thither accordingly they made their way as quick as possible, and got within the threshold as the first big drops began to fall.

The noise of so many feet entering the passage penetrated to the interior, and brought from the kitchen a stout, big-faced, elderly woman, who looked considerably flustered when she saw the number and quality of her visitors.

'Don't put yourself about Mrs. Morris,' said Philip. 'We have merely come in to escape the shawer that is about to fall.'

Mrs. Morris hastened to bid them welcome, though she felt ashamed to introduce them into the only chamber available at the moment, which was the kitchen, and where she and her husband had just been partaking of dinner. The visitors laughingly declared that the kitchen was just the place they would prefer, and into it the woman was perforce obliged to usher them with many protestations of its unfitness to receive such distinguished guests.

Her husband, a rough, burly fellow, was in the act of rising from the table as they entered, and his face of consternation brought a laugh from Dora's lips. The distressed keeper and his wife, were, however, soon set at their ease by Mr. Ravensworth, who affably entered into conversation about the man's duties on the estate. Seats having been provided for the entire party, and the shower having now begun to descend in earnest, they had the prospect of remaining for a little while, and the ladies entering into the amusement of the thing, began to talk and laugh gaily.

Charles sat unusually silent, gazing with peculiar intentness at the faces of the inmates of the cottage. He had a vague impression that these faces were not altogether strange to him. There was something in the features and expression both of the man and the woman which recalled countenances he had known at some former period, and he sat puzzled with the effort to remember when and where. It was a dim, hazy, intangible impression, which, do what he could, would not reduce itself to a definite recollection, and he tried to help the faint uneasy gropings of his memory by long and searching looks first at the one and then the other. The impression deepened as he gazed. At first he thought he must be mistaken, and that the idea would vanish when he scanned more particularly the two countenances which had so curiously produced this impression, but the reverse was the fact. The longer he looked the more convinced was he that at a former period of his life he had been in contact with these people, and it was annoying to be unable to recall time and place so as to identify them.

Lady Eagleheart noticed his intent scrutiny, and the restless uneasiness which accompanied it, and even Dora and Lydia, who had been talking to the woman about pigs and poultry, were beginning to observe it, when Mr. Ravensworth turned the conversation in the youth's direction by remarking,

'By-the-by, Morris, this is my son, your young master; you have never seen him before.'

'No, sir, that I haven't,' replied the keeper, touching his forelock respectfully to Charles. 'I'm mortal glad to see you, sir. You had bad luck in your journey to the south.'

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

AUGUST FLOWER.

The immense sale and great popularity of Green's August Flower in all towns and villages in the civilized world has caused many imitators to adopt similar names, expecting to reap a harvest for themselves at the expense of the afflicted. This medicine was introduced in 1868, and for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, with their effects, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Stomach, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart, vertigo, etc.etc., it never has failed to our knowledge. Three doses will relieve any case of Dyspepsia. Two million bottles sold last year. Price 75 cents. Samples 10 cents.

The Hunter!

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and resort to subtlety to secure his prey. But his life is one of great attraction. He is usually very methodical, putting up with the coarseness of the camp. Sometimes his camp is enlivened by the presence of an enthusiastic, when expenses are ignored and every possible adjunct to comfort is provided. Old "Sharp Eye," the leader, knows the favorite spots where game may be expected, and he plants himself thereabouts. Then comes the rude chase, the excitement attending the pursuit, the fatal shots ringing through the air, the gathering of the game, and the return to the camp, animate with feasting and the stories of the hunters. It is splendid to have a good hunt. It is a good thing, also, to hunt for diseases in the human system, to drive them away. And for this commend me to DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS. They are the most experienced hunters after diseases known.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

MM. M. GILES, ESQ.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition — meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the unqualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anaemia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.
GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.
C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practise prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Yours truly,
December 19th, 1878. J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20th, 1879, Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,
R. W. HAMILTON, M. D.

ST. PAUL, MIN., JANUARY 4th, 1878.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, ESQ.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.
JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR;—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

MANHOOD:

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED.

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of interna medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or properly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical men examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them unsound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

In medicine all true knowledge comes from studying the causes of disease. The action of these causes upon our organism determines its nature and how the malady they produce. A cause which only acts on the stomach will produce a disease of the stomach; and so of causes which act on the lungs, liver, kidneys, bowels, or nervous system. Every known cause capable of producing consumption first acts on the lungs. A small chest, a cramped position of the body, confinement in badly ventilated rooms, congestion and inflammation of the air passages, all act by impairing the breathing and preventing the proper action of these lungs. Consumption results from this interference of the function of the lungs, and the disease which results fixes itself upon that organ.

Now, how should a disease so produced and so located be treated? We should withdraw the patient as fully as possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If that organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we should treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the vital point of difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and it is the point which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the physician to be able to point to the result of his practice in proof of the wisdom of his prescriptions. Even at the risk of being accused of egotism, I will venture to say that the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation speaks for itself by the substantial good it has accomplished and is accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. I can point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair. I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians of eminence had pronounced the case "hopeless." And in the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and I the lungs; they give the patient medicine to swallow and I give them medicine to inhale. But the difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

Every disease of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence, a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation. We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they act imperfectly, and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the surface of the body chilly and the nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by proper diet, clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

If impossible to visit the office personally, write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, together with a copy of my "Medical Treatise on Diseases of the Breathing Organs." Address.

Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION.

TUESDAY, April 27.

In the House of Commons the Minister of Marine introduced a Bill making pilots' licenses renewable yearly, and preventing licensed pilots from being harbour masters.

Sir Leonard Tilley moved the House into Committee of Supply.

Mr. Mackenzie proceeded to advert to Mr. Musseau's motion last year, condemning the Governor-General for referring the matter to England. To sustain his contention that the reference was aiming a severe blow at the Dominion's independence in matters of domestic legislation, liberal quotations were made from the other documents to prove that the Governor-General opposed the reference that Sir John Macdonald wilfully misrepresented the position of affairs to the House, that the reference to England was requested by the Government and not by the Governor General, and that even after the reference had been sent back to Canada the Governor General only assented to the dismissal after he had thrown all the responsibility of the action upon the Cabinet. In conclusion he moved an amendment. In the amendment, which occupied several closely written pages of foolscap, he recited the whole of the facts elaborated in his speech, and embraced all the numerous extracts of remarkable speeches, etc., which constitute the parliamentary phase of the issue, and all the circumstances leading to the reference to England, which in a final resolution he condemned because of its being subversive of the constitutional Government which the Dominion now possessed.

The Premier called upon the Speaker to put the question. Cries of "Lost" were raised, when Mr. Laurier rose to second the amendment.

Mr. Laurier offered a warm defence of the integrity of Mr. Letellier's intentions, and challenged the proof of any conspiracy between the ex-Lieutenant-Governor and the Dominion Liberal leaders. He criticized the arguments in favor of the dismissal preferred by the Premier in his memorandum, and denounced the reference as a blow aimed specially at the liberties of the Province of Quebec.

Speeches in favor of the amendment were also made by Messrs. Casey and Casgrain.

The members were then called in, when Mr. Mackenzie's amendment was put and lost on the following division :—

YEAS.—Messrs. Anglin, Bain, Bechard, Blake, Borden, Bourassa, Brown, Burpee (St. John), Burpee (Sunbury), Cameron (Huron), Cartwright, Casey, Casgrain, Chandler, Charlton, Cockburn (Muskoka), Cockburn (Northumberland), Dumont, Fiset, Fleming, Flynn, Geoffrion, Gillies, Gillmor, Gunn, Haddow, Killam, King, Laroe, Laurier, Macdonald (Lanark), Mackenzie, Malouin, Mills, Oliver, Olivier, Paterson (Brant), Pickard, Rinfret, Rogers, Ross (Middlesex), Rymal, Scriver, Skinner, Smith (Selkirk), Trow, Weldon, Wiser, Yeo.—49.

NAYS.—Messrs. Abott, Allison, Arkell, Baby, Baker, Bannerman, Barnard, Beauchesne, Benoit, Bergeron, Bergin, Bill, Bolduc, Boultbee, Bourbeau, Bowell, Breeken, Brooks, Bunting, Burnham, Carling, Caron, Carpenter, Colby, Connell, Costigan, Coughlin, Coupal, Coursol, Currier, Cuthbert, Daly, Daoust, Desaulniers, Doinville, Drew, Dugas, Elliott, Farrow, Fitzsimmons, Fortin, Felton, Gigault, Girouard (Jacques Cartier), Girouard (Kent), Grandbois, Hackett, Haggart, Hay, Hooper, Hurteau, Ives, Jackson, Jones, Kaulbach, Keeler, Kilvert, Kirkpatrick, Kranz, Lane, Langevin, Little, Longley, Macdonald (Kingston), Macdonald (Victoria, B. C.), Macdonald (Cape Breton), McDonald (Pictou), Mc-Donald (Victoria, Nova Scotia), MacMillan, McCallum, McCuaig, McInnes, McKay, McLelan, McLeod, McQuade, McRory, Massue, Merner, Methot, Mongenais, Montplaisir, Mousseau, Muttart, O'Connor, Orton, Ouimet Perrault, Pinsonneault, Platt, Plumb, Pope (Queen's), Richey, Robertson (Hamilton), Robinson, Ross (Dundas), Roulean, Routhier, Royal, Ryan (Marquette), Ryan (Montreal), Shaw, Sproule, Stephenson, Tasse, Tellier, Thompson (Cariboo), Tilley, Tupper, Valee, Vanasse, Wade, Wallace (Norfolk), Wallace (York), White (Cardwell), White (Hastings), White (Renfrew), Williams, Wright—119.

After recess Mr. Macken zie asked the Finance Minister if he had any authority from the Lords of the Treasury to use as security on the Dominion currency the money which had been procurred for specific purposes on an Imperial guarantee.

Sir Leonard Tilley answered that if all the money were not required for public works the Government could do what they pleased with it.

The House then went into Supply, and was all the evening occupied in considering the item of $2,491,400 for canals, chargeable to capital. On the sub-vote for the Grenville Canal Sir Charles Tupper narrated the official account of the curious circumstances connected with letting the contract for this work. A further sum of $48,500 was voted for canals, chargeable to income. A number of special items were then discussed and voted. The Committee reported progress.

Mr. MACKENZIE—I desire to say one word with respect to my personal relations to the House. I yesterday determined to withdraw from the position of leader of the Opposition, and I do not intend from this time forth to act in any other capacity than that of a private member of this side of the House.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD—This is an announcement we have not anything to say upon on this side of the House. All I hope is that the hon. gentleman who takes his place will display the same ability, the same earnestness, and the same zeal in what he considers to be for the good of the country as the hon. gentleman who has just sat down. (Cheers.)

The House adjourned at 2 a. m.

—All the Canadian banks that have agencies in New York are calling in their loans, in consequence of a bill passed at Albany taxing foreign bank capital employed in that State the tax amounting almost to a prohibition. Other foreign bankers are also calling in their loans.

THE INTEREST BILL.

(From the Official Debate.)

Mr. WHITE (Hastings). I do not think there is a Bill which has come before Parliament this session of a more important character than the one now before the House. If the hon. gentleman knew how the Province of Ontario has suffered by the operation of Loan Companies and persons lending money he would not have moved the six months hoist to this Bill. I refer to a case in point. The Hamilton Provident & Loan Society loaned to a gentleman in the County of Peterborough $1,000. I received a letter from Mr. Roxburgh enclosing the statements of the Secretary, which are as follows :—

COPY.

NORWOOD, April 9th, 1880.

JOHN WHITE, Esq., M.P., Ottawa.

DEAR SIR:—Being much pleased with your remarks whilst the "Bill for regulating the encumbering of real estate by loans of money or otherwise" was under debate, I have taken the liberty of sending you a copy of a statement of the enforced liquidation of a loan from one of our Provincial Loaning institutions, and which is an instance of the extortions practiced on unsuspecting farmers by these institutions.

This loan was effected by a farmer in this neighborhood on the ordinary payment system, extending over a period of 15 years. He was a young man, newly married, just commencing life. He bought a farm and mortgage on which he paid from his own resources about $1,000 down, and borrowed from the Company the balance of the purchase money, $1,000 also.

His first instalment became due on Jan. 1st, '79. Through failure of crops and other causes he failed to send the money when due. Not all appeals to enable him to make up the amount were unheeded and on the 19th of March the Company leaving him in debt on the property, and on the 17th of April it passed into other hands, the mortgagor with the limited time given him being unable to make any arrangements to save himself.

In addition to this from no ejectment proceedings being taken, the mortgagor was led to believe that he would be permitted to reap the crops of fall grain he had in the ground. It was, however, given to the man who put in the barn when the Company placed a writ in the hands of the Bailiff and sold this also, leaving him stripped of everything.

You will notice that from the statement given his use of $1,000 for one year cost him $233.97, or over 23 per cent. Note also the exorbitant charges in connection with a sale of property, $210.09. There is also the minor item of $11.25, interest on arrears charged down to October 1877, although the property was sold in April, 1879. Of course this latter item simply goes to show how mercilessly these companies increase their claims at the expense of the poor borrowers.

Apologizing for thus troubling you, being to you an entire stranger, believing that you are earnestly desirous of obtaining some measure of protection to our unsuspecting farmers against the Loaning institutions, must be my excuse for doing so.

I am, dear Sir,
Yours respectfully,
(Signed) W. E. ROXBURGH.

Dear Sir,—

Yours truly,
H. D. CAMERON,
Treasurer.

This measure should undoubtedly be allowed to become law, and I am sorry the hon. member for Centre Wellington could not get his amendment in in order that we should have the rate raised. The hon. member for West Durham has drawn up the Bill carefully, and I am satisfied that it would be a great improvement on the existing law. We have heard a great deal about the large numbers of people that are leaving the country, but if this measure is not amended the exodus will be greatly increased in the future. I trust the six months hoist will not pass. The following is a statement furnished by the Provident Loan Society of part of the expenses of this loan. This statement bears the seal of the Company, which shows it is correct :—

Fruit notes.

Pear Blight.—A correspondent of an exchange says "that pear blight may be checked by digging down to the roots of the trees and throwing in a quantity of scrap iron." This would probably have the same effect as the use of iron filings, recommended in our issue of last week.

Coal Ashes for Fruit Trees.—The value of coal ashes for decayed and dying fruit trees, cannot be over estimated particularly for plum and apple trees. An old apple whose decaying bark and sickly foliage fore-told its speedy death, was completely renovated by emptying coal ashes around its roots during two successive winters, and removing them with the approach of warm weather.

A plum tree which appeared healthy and vigorous, blossomed finely and yet never bore perfect fruit, was treated with coal ashes in the following manner: In autumn the grass was cut away for several feet, and during the following winter th ee or four inches of coal ashes spread about it. The following spring it blossomed abundantly and the fruit did not fall off as usual, but became perfect in size. Experienced orchardists recommend this treatment for all kinds of fruit trees.—American Farm Journal.

WELLAND CANAL.

NOTICE TO BRIDGE-BUILDERS

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned (Secretary of Railways and Canals) and endorsed "Tender for Bridges, Welland Canal," will be received at this office until the arrival of the Western mails on TUESDAY THE 15th DAY OF JUNE next, for the construction of swing and stationary bridges at various places on the line of the Welland Canal. Those of highways are to be a combination of iron and wood, and those for railway purposes are to be of iron.

Plans, specifications and general conditions can be seen at this office on and after MONDAY, THE 31st DAY OF MAY next, where Forms of Tender can also be obtained.

Parties tendering are expected to have a practical knowledge of works of this class, and are requested to bear in mind that tenders will not be considered unless made strictly in accordance with the printed forms, and—in the case of firms—except there are attached the actual signatures, the nature of the occupation and residence of each member of the same; and further an accepted bank cheque for a sum equal to $250 for each bridge, for which an offer is made, must accompany each tender, which sum shall be forfeited if the party tendering declines entering into contract for the work at the rates and on the terms stated in the offer submitted.

The cheque thus sent in will be returned to the respective parties whose tenders are not accepted.

For the due fulfilment of the contract the party or parties whose tender it is proposed to accept will be notified that their tender is accepted subject to a deposit of five per cent. of the bulk sum of the contract—of which the sum sent in with the tender will be considered a part—to be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General within eight days after the date of the notice.

Ninety per cent. only of the progress estimates will be paid until the completion of the work.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, APRIL 29.

The "Hum."

The National Policy, despite the adverse criticisms and action of its opponents, continues to do its work effectually, not only by fostering the various industries of the country, but in preparing the minds of our neighbors of the United States for the renewal of that reciprocity which they put an end to in 1864. On this point we have the following telegram from Washington:

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 23.—The report accompanying the resolution for the appointment of a Reciprocity Treaty Commission, presented in the House to-day by Cox, shows the extent and importance of the trade of Canada. From 1872 to 1878, inclusive, the value of her exports was $372,834,000, and her imports $776,346,000. The trade between the United States and Canada ranks next to that between this country and Great Britain. The report alludes to Canada's protective tariff, and says it is of special importance that the question should be taken up now, before, under the influence of hostile legislation between the two countries, Canada shall become a producer rather than a consumer, and sufficient unto itself.

Thus, for purely selfish reasons, our neighbors are desirous of reestablishing themselves on an easy footing in our markets, from which they have been shut out since March 15th of last year. Now they are showing a desire to deal with Canada on fair terms, but their propositions may not be received to such an extent as they desire—certainly not, we should hope, so as to enable them to prevent Canada becoming a producer rather than a consumer, but in this regard we have entire faith in the present administration.

As to new and improving industries we have the following:

A company has been formed in Quebec for the manufacture of silk in that city.

Another foundry is to be started at Listowell shortly by Mr. Austin, formerly of the firm of Ilwraith & Austin.

Mr. Rosamond is about starting at Almonte a factory for the manufacture of worsted yarns.

Messrs. Twomey's new woollen factory at Napanee has commenced operations. The mill manufactures horse blankets, fine Indian blankets, tweeds, full cloth, yarns, &c.

Mr John Campbell, Mayor of London, is about to establish a branch of his carriage factory in Winnipeg.

Messrs. Goldie & McCulloch have commenced operations in their new safe works in Galt.

Fuller's flax mill at Stratford, which stood idle for some time, has been leased by the Messrs. Livingstone, of Baden & Listowel, who expect greater activity in that article.

An extraordinary pressure of work prevails at present in the G. T. R. workshops at Point St. Charles, and upwards of 1,300 men are employed, a large number of whom have averaged 13 hours work per day during the entire winter. At the corresponding period of last year the workmen made but three-quarter time.

Messrs. Scott & Bell, extensive furniture manufacturers in Wingham, lately shipped another car-load of furniture (the third this season) to Winnipeg. The hands are working full time and the firm (the members of which represent both sides of politics) are confident that but for the introduction of the National Policy, they could not have reached this market in the Northwest. The furniture dealers in Minneapolis and St. Paul formerly supplied Winnipeggers with furniture. Now London, Wingham and Toronto do the largest share of the trade.

The Berlin Paper Box Factory is now in full blast. They are at present engaged on a large order for 20,000 boxes from Messrs. Schofield & Co., Hespeler. Other orders are rapidly coming in.

A factory for the manufacture of scarfs, clouds and other knitted goods, is soon to be started in Berlin.

The St. John's Stone China Ware Factory now employs 250 hands, and a new warehouse is being built to accommodate its growing business. According to La Voix du Peuple, the Messrs. Black of that town will have another pottery erected by July next, which will employ 100 hands.

The flour and grist mills of Messrs. McKay & Co., and Thompson Bros., Ottawa, have to work night and day on account of the pressure of business. The latter mill will shortly erect an oatmeal mill adjoining their present premises.

The Napanee Beaver says: The important industrial enterprise, the Napanee Cement Works, is now in full operation, the stave department seeming to be the most active. The stave bolt slicer is now engaged in filling a contract for a million staves, which the managing director, Mr. A. McNeil, has made with the St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery of Montreal. It was in contemplation to ship the stave bolts laid in last winter, but it was considered better to convert them into staves at the works, thus giving employment to a number of men in Napanee who might otherwise be idle.

At Glenwilliams, Ont., a flax mill, a bobbin factory, an extensive woollen factory employing 80 hands, a wooden rake factory, a comb factory, and a cabinet factory all situated in that village, and which were closed under the Mackenzie-regime, have been reopened under the N. P.

The Clerical Scandal.

Further particulars are given in regard to the clerical scandal in the Toronto papers of the 28th inst. It is said this scandal was caused by the alleged intimacy on Mr. Handford's part with two sisters, one of them a married woman belonging to his own congregation. He was frequently seen walking with the younger of the two in the park, not only in the afternoon, but more frequently after dark. The prolonged visits also of the woman to his vestry gave grounds for new suspicions. These things gave rise to much talk and the rev. gentleman's strange conduct and stranger conversation, which was frequently interpersed with rough jokes, caused several of the older and most respected members of the congregation to withdraw from the church. This blew over for the time, but a visit of Mr. Handford to Buffalo and his attendance at a performance given in a low theatre in that city caused new agitation, and one of the most prominent deacons in the church, Mr. Jones Thompson, went to the pastor for an explanation of his conduct. His veracity not being questioned at the time, the explanation was satisfactory, and affairs glided smoothly on to all outward appearance, until the holding of a bazaar in aid of the funds of the church last winter. It is alleged that Mr. Handford did not account for four dollars of the money, and that his explanations were not satisfactory. Mr. Thompson was not willing to prosecute Mr. Handford, and as no definite charges were promulgated there was no investigation, the congregation refusing to authorize a general one by the deacons. Mr. Handford declines to say anything more than he said to the church meeting and has written to the Mail asking it to retract its charges, but without threatening legal proceedings. It was alleged that Mr. Handford had made very frequent visits to the house of the married lady concerned, but she stated that he had only been there one afternoon for months, and that her aunt was present all the time. She wished to institute an action for slander, but her solicitor states that there was nothing but mere gossip, and no evidence laid before him in which to found an action. The Globe editorially says of Mr. Handford:—"Re-entering the ministry here after being dismissed from it in England on account of an admittedly grave offence against morality, one would naturally expect a man in his position to be more than usually wary and to walk with more than ordinary circumspection. He has not done so and attempts to keep him in his position will be made in vain."

A meeting of the congregation was held last evening, but owing to the illness of the pastor, it was adjourned until Friday evening next.

Iron Notes.

Seven machines in Pittsburg produced last year 1,063,345 kegs of nails.

The fifteen car manufacturing establishof the United States turned out last year 37,350 pieces of rolling stock.

In a day of ten hours 100,000 needles are stamped and bored by a new machine just perfected in Westphalia, Conn.

There are 46 rolling-mills in Ohio, 32 of which are in operation.

In the South, there are 114 blast furnaces, 39 rolling-mills and steel works, and 48 forges and bloomeries.

There are fifty-one furnaces in blast in the Lehigh Valley, with an annual capacity of over 600,000 tons of pig-iron. The valley is perhaps making more pig-iron than ever before.

The second attempt in the United States to roll imported steel has just succeeded in Vermont. From imported English blooms, the St. Albans iron and steel works are rolling steel rails without a blemish.

Every mill in Pittsburg is now in operation in some one or other of its departments, the old Woods mill being the last to start. This mill has been idle for some time, but started up its sheet department a few days ago.

The Telegraph Supply Company, of Cleveland, is now running night and day, with a hundred men, exclusively on the Brush electric light apparatus, of which they are the sole manufacturers. It is said that they have orders on hand for months ahead, and up to this date sold over 15,000 lights.

BRITISH EXPORTS OF IRON.—In the first three months of 1880, the exports of iron from Great Britain to the United States, was 456,606 tons. Every available furnace having been put in blast in the United States, this quantity of iron exported from Great Britain has seriously interfered with the markets, and the price of pig iron has fallen considerably during the past two months.

—It is reported that the Marquis of Riporan, who was Chairman of the High Joint Commission at Washington, will succeed Lord Lytton as Viceroy of India.

ODANAH.

THE CITY OF THE NORTH-WEST TERRITORIES.

On every hand the indications are that the immigration to the North West Territories this season will be much larger than in any previous year. The great majority of the immigrants who have reached the North-west this spring appear to be settling in what has been well named "The Garden of the territories," the beautiful and fertile valley of the Little Saskatchewan River. The settlement of this district, only commenced in 1874, has proceeded so rapidly that thousands of prosperous farmers are now cultivating its magnificent lands. Many of the settlers write of their locations in terms of the highest approval. The country is undulating, is well watered and has a surface of rich black loam, from five to eight feet deep, with clay subsoil. It produces the finest crops of wheat, oats, barley peas, potatoes, roots, hops and vegetables. The farms open for sale and settlement are in grass, bluffs of trees being picturesquely scattered over them, providing the settlers with timber for full building and fencing purposes. Years of labor are not required to cut away timber and render the land fit for cultivation. The sod can be ploughed in the spring, seed down, roots planted and crops a cured in the autumn. The land produces an inexhaustible supply of hay and thousands of cattle and sheep can be grazed. The distance from Winnipeg, the present terminus of rail, way communication, is 140 miles, in a northwesterly direction. Fifty miles of railway west of Winnipeg will be opened for traffic on July 1st, another fifty in the autumn, and a third fifty on the 1st of July of next year. This third section will extend a short distance beyond the Little Saskatchewan. Excellent waggon roads lead to the district. Actual settlers can secure 160 acres free from the Government, with the right of purchasing 160 acres adjoining at a reduced rate. The Government offers the alternate sections for sale, without enforcing settlement.

Considerable anxiety has existed as to the point which the Government would select for the crossing of the Little Saskatchewan river by the Canadian Pacific Railway. This has now been decided and the line located to cross the river in township 15, range 18, west of the principal meridian. A Syndicate, owners of a large tract of land in the valley, have decided to establish a town at this point, to be called Odanah, and a staff of surveyors are now engaged in laying off the site into town lots, which will be offered for sale at an early date. Already the applications for lots are numerous and it is expected that a large number of buildings will be erected this summer. The Little Saskatchewan River affords excellent water power. Among the many other advantages possessed by Odanah, it may be mentioned that it is situate on the main road from Winnipeg to the great Saskatchewan district. It has a post office, with regular mail communication. The Government land office for the district is situate on the new town site. The Manitoba Telegraph Company's line, already in operation to Portage la Prairie, 70 miles northwest of Winnipeg, will be extended to Odanah, and an office established there in about two months. The contract for the second hundred miles of railway west of Winnipeg is to be vigorously pushed, in order that, as Sir Charles Tupper recently announced in the House of Commons, the line may be open to the Little Saskatchewan by July 1st, 1881, thus placing the settlement in direct connection with the railway system of Canada and the United States. Excellent white clay is found in abundance on the Syndicate's property. An experienced potter from Ontario has gone to Odanah to commence business. The plant for a newspaper is already shipped and a paper will be issued in a few weeks. There are valuable timber limits in the Touting Mountains, near the head quarters of the Little Saskatchewan and logs can easily be floated down to the town site for milling purposes. There are excellent openings for business men to establish themselves in a healthy prosperous locality, the rich agricultural resources of which cannot fail to make Odanah a city of great business importance. The Syndicate is prepared to deal with intending settlers on reasonable terms. Maps, prices of lots, &c., may be had from Ross, Ross & Killam, Solicitors, Winnipeg.

OBITUARY.

LIEUT.-COL. GEORGE FILLITER.

The announcement that George Filliter, Esq., died at an early hour this morning, from inflammation of the bowels, at the residence of his son, Mr. Henry Filliter, in Thurlow, was received to-day with great regret by the many friends of the deceased gentleman. Mr. Filliter, who had resided in or near Bellville for about 45 years, was a native of Dorsetshire, England, and consequently came here when quite a young man. He married in Kingston a sister of E. J. Sisson, Esq., of this city, and leaves three sons and one daughter. For a number of years deceased resided in Thurlow, a short distance from Belleville, and was commissioned as a Lieutenant Colonel in the Hastings Militia. Subsequently he returned to England for a few years, but came back to Belleville and has since resided in or near the city. A more kindly gentleman or a more genial true-hearted friend never lived, and many of the poor and needy will sadly feel the lack of the exercise of his unwavering but extensive benevolence, whilst friends and acquaintances will miss his cordial greetings and sprightly conversation. The family and relations will be heartily sympathized with in their sad affliction.

EMIGRANT CARS.—The Grand Trunk are building extra cars in anticipation of increased emigration this year. They are also building a couple of palace dining cars which are intended to be of a superb character.

DRIVERS WANTED.—An Ottawa report says:—Owing to the large emigration of laborers from the Ottawa Valley of late, the lumbermen there find considerable difficulty in securing sufficient hands to drive the logs and square timber out of the small streams before the water becomes too low for driving purposes.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Albany specials, The Herald says the bill taxing foreign capital is simply an old bill with an amendment, inserted providing for taxation of capital used or employed in this state. The Court of Appeal decided that foreign capital temporarily loaned was not subject to assessment and the assessment is made to cover this point. The act does not specify any rate of taxation. Capital to be assessed will be at the same rate of other personal property.

The Sun says that Governor Hoy will send back the bill taxing foreign capital, on the ground that the tax is too heavy. It is claimed that it will be over 3 per cent.

Hyl. Bogert, a broker, brother of the defaulting ex-Treasurer of the produce exchange who lately committed suicide was yesterday declared insane. His father, a prosperous merchant, killed himself 15 years ago for no assignable cause. Shortly afterwards the lady to whom eldest son blew out his brains in Hoboken.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Fernando Wood writes to the Herald denying that Conger made remarks attributed to him by the Herald in committee concerning stock jobbing in connection with Hurds' bills. Wood says: I have written a statement full to the committee in favor of making a report which your correspondent calls "bogus."

Rev. Hoyt E. Hunt, pastor of the Methodist Church at Woodsburgh, L. I. and residing in Brooklyn, was arrested last night charged with inhuman assault on a servant of Abner Jones, aged 11 years, and also assaulting a stepdaughter. Hunt alleges that it is a conspiracy.

DELAWARE, Water Gap, Pa., April 29.—The steamship Kittatinny, first ever reached Fort Jervis, has arrived here without an accident. It is 60 feet long, 14 wide and can carry seventy persons. The navigation on upper Delaware has at last been proved feasible. Great excitement prevailed throughout the entire Delaware Valley. Hundreds flocked to see the boat.

HON. GEO. BROWN.

We regret to learn that the intelligence from Toronto this morning respecting the condition of Hon. Mr. Brown is unfavorable, the early despatch stating that he was in an exceedingly critical state. The Kingston News gives the following as the real facts of his case, upon what it states as good authority:—"He was shot in the upper and outer part of the thigh, the wound being about six inches long. This caused mortification of the surrounding tissue, which sloughed off, setting up inflammation of the cellular tissue with suppuration, which extended under the skin.

It will be seen by the second despatch which follows, that Mr. Brown is better.

(By Telegraph.)

TORONTO, April 29.—Hon. Geo. Brown passed a good night, and feels a little bit stronger this morning.

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, APRIL 29.

City and Vicinity.

THE CELLS.—Last night there were three tramps and one prisoner in the cells.

LICENSE.—The License Commissioners for West Hastings will meet to-morrow for the purpose of further considering the matter of the issue of tavern licenses within their jurisdiction.

PERSONAL.—Mr. George H. Thomas left for the east by the noon train to-day. He will sail from Boston in a few days in charge of cattle for Liverpool consigned by Messrs. Lingham.

THE GRAND JUNCTION.—The Hastings Star says:—'Operations on the extension of the road to Peterborough, commenced on Thursday last, between the station and the point where the bridge crosses. Work all along the line will be vigorously pressed forward to completion."

PERSONAL.—Mr. Michael Egan, formerly conductor on the Grand Trunk, but now filling a similar position on the Pembina Branch of the Pacific Railway, was in charge of the train which conveyed the last large party of immigrants who went to Winnipeg under direction of Mr. Prittie.

THE GREAT NORTH-WEST.—The Hastings Land Purchasing Association have had issued from this office a very neat pamphlet for the purpose of advertising the terms upon which parties desiring can have land located for in the North-West, through their agency, as well as giving a description of the Souris River country and their reason why they will direct their attention more particularly to that district than elsewhere. The Association is formed of the first farmers of our County, and business men of principle. They advertise straight-forwardly, and from the manner in which their business will be conducted there can be no room left for suspicion. The H. S. P. A. were very fortunate in securing Mr. Thomas Hambly to act as one of the delegates in their interest; he having taken an extended tour through that country last summer for the purpose of gaining information respecting it, visiting and working on his farm, he acquired a successful acquaintance with the "Prairie Province," his four brothers in the Saskatchewan country, and one in Winnipeg will prove of good assistance to him and the Association. Messrs. Chas. Ashley and James S. Hamilton, are responsible men, and we feel confident that the interests of the Association will not suffer in their hands This is an excellent opportunity to invest money; parties wishing to obtain land in the North-West should send for pamphlet to the Secretary of the Association, F. W. Brenton, Esq., Foxboro P. O.

THE NEW PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS.—The Ontario Government have advertised for designs for the New Parliament Buildings to be erected in Queen's Park, Toronto, offering liberal premiums therefor. For the designs most approved of $2,000 is offered; for that approved of as second best $1,000; and for third best $500. Designs are to be received up to the first of August next, and all information in relation to the proposed buildings may be obtained from the Department of Public Works, Toronto.

CORRECTION.—In the report of the Opera House fire, Mr. Wilkins, the janitor, is made to say that he "attributed the conflagration to an unextinguished cigar stub, numbers of which he says, were thrown about promiscuously by the members of the colored minstrel troupe," Mr. Wilkins wishes us to say that in furnishing the information to our representative he said the fire "might have originated from a cigar stubb" but did not say that numbers were thrown about by the troupe.

Marine Notes.

The New Gladstone Ministry.

The personnel of the new Administration in England differs less than was anticipated from that of the last Gladstone Administration, and there is still less difference in the political complexion of the two than in their personnel. The following is a list of the Ministers whose appointments have so far been confirmed:—

First Lord of the Treasury, Mr. Gladstone.
Lord Chancellor, Lord Selborne.
Foreign Secretary, Lord Granville.
Colonial Secretary, Lord Kimberly.
Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, John Bright
President of Local Government Board, Mr. Stansfield.
Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Gladstone.
Lord President of Council, Earl Spencer.
Lord Privy Seal, Duke of Argyll.
Home Secretary, Sir Wm. Harcourt.
War Secretary, Mr. Childers.
Secretary for India, Lord Hartington.
First Lord of Admiralty—Lord Northbrook.
Secretary for Ireland, Mr. Foster.

EXTRA CABINET OFFICES.

Under Foreign Secretary, Sir Charles Dilke.
President of Board of Trade, Mr. Chamberlain.
Attorney-General, Sir Henry James.
Solicitor-General, Farrar Herschel.
Lord Chamberlain, Lord Kenmare.
Mistress of the Robes, Duchess of Westminster.

Of the above offices the first six and the Attorney-Generalship were held by the same individuals in the former Gladstone Ministry, while of the other members of the new Administration the following held different offices in the old one:—

Duke of Argyll, Secretary for India.
Sir Wm. Harcourt, Solicitor-General.
Lord Hartington, Secretary for Ireland.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Arrived, the State of Indiana from Glasgow.

LONDON, April 29.—The Catholic Archbishop of Dublin in a pastoral just issued says: "Doctrines destructive of mutual confidence are laid down by some public speakers as the first principles of morals. Patriotism is invoked as a spirit of disunion between priests and people. The evil genius of communism, which brought such woes on other lands, is only watching for an opportunity, which that disunion may give it, to try to establish its hideous throne among us. Our people have yet many wrongs, our educational system is imperfect, our land laws, though reformed, can still be employed as instruments of great injustice, and we must use every means on which God's blessing can be invoked to redress these wrongs."

LONDON, April 29.—Watkin Wilkins, Liberal, the elected member of the Commons for Carnavaska, has been appointed Solicitor General.

Herr Hartman, Socialist, elected to Reichstag from the 2nd electoral district, of Hamburgin, is a journeyman shoemaker.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Abe Cookley and Peter Luther have been arrested in Philadelphia for committing the great Manhattan Bank burglary in this city.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 29.—Four colored laborers were suffocated to-day by foul air in a well. Three are dead.

LONDON, April 29.—The bottle picked up containing a paper purporting to be a message from the missing ship Atlanta is undoubtedly a discreditable hoax.

LONDON, April 29.—The Parliament was formally opened to-day by Lord Selborne, Lord High Chancellor, the Duke of Argyle, Earl Granville, Earl Sidney, and Lord Northbrook, acting as the Royal Commission. The procedure merely consisted of summoning the Commons to the Bar of the House of Lords and requesting them to elect a Speaker. There was a fair attendance of the Commons, including many new members. Only 20 Tory and 14 Liberal Peers, 2 Bishops and 15 Peeresses were present in the House of Lords. In the Commons there was a meagre attendance of Irish members, because the meeting for conference on the land question at Dublin to-day detains Parnell and adherents. Some of the Irish members, including O'Donnell and Finnegan, sat on the Tory side of the house and some on the Liberal side. The House was very crowded.

NEW YORK, April 29th.—Williamson, Dr. Dix's persecutor, was sentenced to day to three and a half years in the State prison.

The body of a man was found hanging in the Central Park this morning. It is believed to be that of a German named Filbert, aged about 55; suicide.

Cookley and Luther, arrested for the Manhattan bank burglary, are clearly implicated by janitor Shevilin's confession. Detectives have been tracking them for a year, finally discovering their hiding place in Philadelphia. They made fierce resistance when arrested. All the members of the band are now arrested excepting Jimmy Hope, who was at the head of the gang.

VIENNA, April 29.—The New Free Press says: "We believe the position of Karolyi, Austra-Hungarian ambassador at London has become untenable because he had spoken scornfully of Gladstone.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'You refer to my stage coach adventure, I suppose I returned Charles, eyeing him harder than ever, for the moment the man's eyes were directed towards him the view of the game still greater force to the conviction that he was an old acquaintance.

'That I do, sir. I saw the mark of the stroke on your head still.'

'Ay, I suppose that will be seen for a long time to come,' said Charles, with a smile. 'In fact I am not sure if it will ever disappear.

'The cruel wretch!' said the woman, wrathfully. 'We are very glad, both Dick and I, that he has been caught; for, connection though he is of ours, he is the greatest blackguard in England.'

'Who is a connection of yours?' asked Charles turning eagerly towards her.

'Just that notorious robber, Huffey White, that the Squire sought so cleverly to the Beresford Arms—him as robbed the mail, and gave you such a wound on the head.'

'Do you know the fellow?' asked the Squire, in great surprise.

'Yes, your honor; we are ashamed to say so, but the truth is always the best, and when we knew him, Huffey White wasn't the bad man he is now.

'My sister was his first wife,' exclaimed Dick. 'She died many years ago, before Huffey took to his bad courses. It would have broken her heart had she seen him become a robber and housebreaker, though may nap had she lived he would have remained the decent and respectable man that he was when she married him.'

'I don't know that he would,' remarked Bet, with an angry shake of her head. 'In my mind he was always wild and unsettled, but I never thought he would go to the bad as he has done.'

'What tempted him to enter on his criminal career?' asked Philip, greatly interested by these unexpected information about the antecedents of such a desperate character, whom he had been the main instrument of capturing.

'Couldn't give you the least idea, sir. The last time we saw Huffy White was twenty years ago, and he hadn't entered it then.

'Don't you be too sure of that Dick,' put in Bet again. 'We hadn't heard anything bad of him then, to be sure, but the arrand on which he came to us had a bad look with it. How should we have had a child to get rid of if he had been keeping in honest ways?'

'A child to get rid of!' exclaimed the three ladies at once.

Dick and Bet a look scowling and savage as he dared do in the presence of their visitors. It was a pretty plain intimation that he highly disapproved of her imprudent words; but they were spoken, and he hastened to undo, as far as he could, the harm that might follow.

'Why, yes,' he said, 'the last time we saw Huffey White he came to leave a baby with us—an infant not more than two or three days old. As I told you, it is twenty years ago, and we have never seen him since, though we have heard plenty of his doings.'

'And was it his own child?' asked Philip, who, with the others was intensely interested.

'Well, he didn't say, but we took it for his.'

'Ah, you took it then?'

'Yes—yes, we took it,' answered Dick, with some hesitation, and now fully conscious that he had been drawn in to make dangerous disclosures.

'Was it a male or a female child?'

'It was a boy, sir.'

Don't Give up

What if you have tried different "put up" medicines in vain. Have you not been equally disappointed in some physicians? Do not consider your case incurable until you have made a thorough trial of Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines. They are chemically pure, of uniform strength, and have come into general use by reason of superior merit. In case of general and nervous debility, consumption, bronchitis dyspepsia, "liver complaint," scrofulous humors, ulcers and eruptions, the Golden Medical Discovery is specially adapted, and positive cure; while thousands of women who had for years been bed-ridden, have, by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, been restored to perfect health. The introduction of these two remedies is a revolutionized the treatment of chronic diseases. Patients are no longer depleted and salivated, as the tonic and alterative properties of the Discovery long since demonstrated a better way. Ladies need no longer submit to the use of the caustic and the knife, as the Favorite Prescription is guaranteed to cure the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women. Mrs. S. M. Kemper, of Gallaudet, Ind., writes, "Your Favorite Prescription and Pleasant Purgative Pellets have saved my life."

AUGUST FLOWER.

The immense sale and great popularity of Green's August Flower in all towns and villages in the civilized world has caused many imitators to adopt similar names, expecting to reap a harvest for themselves at the expense of the afflicted. This medicine was introduced in 1868, and for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, with their effects, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Stomach, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart, vertigo, etc.etc., it never has failed to our knowledge. Three doses will relieve any case of Dyspepsia. Two million bottles sold last year. Price 75 cents. Samples 10 cents.

The Hunter!

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and insert wearisome secure his prey. But his life is one of great attraction. He is usually very methodical, putting up with the coarsest food, and fare. Sometimes his camp is enlivened by the presence of an enthusiastic, when expenses are ignored and every possible adjunct to comfort is provided. Old Nimrod Frye, the hunter, knows the favorite spots where game may be expected, and he plants himself thereabouts. Then comes the chase. Now, accustomed to attending the pursuit, the fatal shots ringing through the air, the gathering of the game, and the return to the camp, animate with and the stories of the hunters. It is splendid to have a good hunt. It is a good thing, also, to hunt for diseases in the human system, to drive them away. For this we commend me to DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS. They are the most experienced hunters after diseases known.

LeComte & Perkins M'f'g Co.—Limited, Philadelphia & New York.

67th & Woollard Av.,
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1877.

MR. M. GILES, Esq.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, 77 just received, and I thank you for the information it contains. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely on her back loins and hips. She has improved one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition—meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove what your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised to-day to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why I'll buy her." Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will in a form perfectly palatable, and consequently delicate stomachs will assimilate the nutrition qualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed than by many physicians and the Hospitals for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food and medicine daily is marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 56 West Thirty-sixth Street, NEW YORK, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious.

C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, and in my private practice prescribed very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.
Oct. 12, 1879.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly believe it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice in affections of the lungs and other throat troubles, where we can consider it our only available agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.

Yours truly,
J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.
December 19th, 1878.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter I began to have bloody discharges which grew worse; I started to Florida, but grew worse every week; I returned, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician then told me that my lungs were affected Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was almost ready to give up my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following results: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue the use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL. As I have a friend who has not spoken aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is good and nothing like it. He was given up many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879. Very truly yours, C. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced to use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength daily and would advise other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover.

I am, yours truly,

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ten this, until I might be able to give an opinion of the effects of your medicine, as can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried. My wife can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that but for the use of your Syrup she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only slight and the action of the heart is much better: I am, sir, yours very respectfully.

D. WALTER OAKES.

Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prevalent. I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken countless of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents, or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

ON THE CURE OF THE LUNGS.

All diseases which are generally fatal are so because they are not understood or properly treated. Were this not so there would be no hope of progress or improvement in medical science. Consumption affords us a striking illustration of the fatality of a disease through the want of knowledge and lack of skill of physicians. Here we have a local disease, produced by causes which always first act on the lungs, regarded and treated as though the lungs were not at all affected. Medical men examine the lungs apparently to see if the body is diseased, and finding them unsound, assume that the stomach, not the lungs, requires treatment.

In medicine all true knowledge comes from studying the causes of disease. The action of these causes upon our organism determines the nature and seat of the malady they produce. A cause which only acts on the stomach will produce a disease of the stomach; and so of causes which act on the lungs, liver, kidneys, bowels, or nervous system. Every known cause capable of producing consumption first acts on the lungs. A small chest, a cramped position of the body, confinement in badly ventilated rooms, congestion and inflammation of the air passages, all act by impairing the breathing and preventing the proper action of the lungs. Consumption results from this interference of the function of the lungs, and the disease which results fixes itself upon that organ.

Now, how should a disease so produced and so located be treated? We should withdraw the patient as fully as possible from the operation of the causes, and earnestly set to work to repair the injury they have done to the organ affected. If that organ is the stomach, we should treat the stomach; and if it be the lungs we should treat the lungs. Unless we treat the lungs we cannot succeed in any case of lung disease. This is the real point of difference between my treatment of lung diseases and that of general physicians, and it is the principle which makes all the difference between success and failure.

It is always pleasant to the physician to be able to point to the result of his practice in proof of the wisdom of his prescriptions. Even at the risk of being accused of egotism, I will venture to say that the direct treatment of the lungs by inhalation speaks for itself by the substantial good it has accomplished and is accomplishing more strongly than any other medical improvement of modern times. I can point to cases saved by it after all other means had been tried and abandoned in despair. I can point to tubercles absorbed, cavities healed, and health restored after physicians of eminence had pronounced the case "hopeless." And the only difference, as I have already said, is they treat the stomach and I the lungs; they give the patient medicine to swallow and I give them medicine to inhale. But this difference is a question of life or death to the patient.

Every function of an important organ must affect the general health more or less. Hence, a proper treatment of the lungs involves something more than inhalation. We must regulate the liver when it is torpid, the kidneys when they act imperfectly and the stomach when it is weak. The circulation is generally impaired, the surface of the body chilly and nervous system irritable. All these complications must be met by proper diet, clothing, air, exercise and general treatment. But no attention to diet, air, clothing or treatment of particular symptoms without inhalation can ever succeed in curing any chronic disease of the lungs.

It is impossible to visit the office personally; write for "List of Questions," which will be sent free of charge, together with a copy of my "Medical Treatise on Diseases of the Breathing Organs." Address,

Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—SECOND SESSION

OTTAWA, April 28.

In the House of Commons Mr. Rufus Stephenson moved the adoption of the Hansard Committee's report, recommending the appointment of a permanent official reporting staff, and the publication of an official report daily, in newspaper form. A debate, participated in by Messrs. Jones (Leeds), Vallee, Blake, Casey, White, (Cardwell), Plumb, and Ross (Middlesex), ensued. Each of these members appeared to be willing to try the new proposal as an experiment, as the existing arrangement was admitted on all sides to be unsatisfactory. Mr. Blake added that if the new scheme did not give better satisfaction than the present did he could not promise the House that he would support any further votes on this account after next session. The report was adopted.

On the motion to go into Committee of Supply, Sir Richard Cartwright rose to "discharge his duty" towards the Government by making a speech and moving a resolution. He has no confidence in the Government, and of course the forty-eight other Opposition people faintly murmur their approval, particularly in the matter of civil government, which implies some wicked member to suggest that at least we have got a civil government for our money. After a not very long, not very acrimonious, and only slightly sarcastic speech, Sir Richard moved a resolution against the increase of $80,000 in the civil government. It was an unanimous effort. It reminded one of the family who, after a long discussion on economy, in which the horses and carriages and dress bills were discussed, finally decided to begin being economical by cutting off the subscription to the Times. Sir Richard had swallowed the expenditure of millions on steel rails, Fort Francis locks, Section 15, and other extravagances, but he thinks that this Government should at least cut down the salaries of the Civil Service.

Sir Leonard Tilley does not seem at all alarmed at Sir Richard's resolution. He simply reads for the instruction of that gentleman an extract from his budget speech of last year, in which the whole question of expenditure was dealt with, and declared that it was less than in any year since 1873. Sir Richard gently murmured his dissent to this proposition. But Sir Leonard Tilley goes on to point out the obvious fact that the expenses of civil government must inevitably increase somewhat by the customary process of promotion, that several salaries hitherto charged against other services were properly to civil government, that the development of the North-West, and the construction of large public works demanded an increase in officials here and there. Ministers are not the division of one department into two. All these things had necessarily caused an increase of expenditure. It was rather remarkable, as the Finance Minister pointed out, that Sir Richard Cartwright never attempted during the time when living was "cheaper," while salaries were the same, to reduce these salaries according to the theory broached to-day. To this proposition Sir Richard can deal with, and to reply, not even in a gentle murmur of dissent. Sir Leonard Tilley read the report of the sub Committee of the Library Committee, on which there are several Opposition members, showing that the Committee had recommended a considerable increase, and asked very naturally how men could vote for Sir Richard Cartwright after having signed this report.

After Sir Leonard had spoken, there is a very decided objection on the part of the House to hear any more speakers, and all those who rose were greeted with groans and noise and calls of "question," which the Premier refused his best to put an end to. Mr. Casey and Mr. Anglin, who seem to have deliberately placed themselves in the lists of ineffable bores, were especially badly treated.

Sir John Macdonald wiged Sir Richard Cartwright for his five years' neglect in curtailing the expenditure on the civil service. He took up the history of the civil service legislation from 1868, and read from Sir Richard Cartwright's bill introduced in 1875, by which all the salaries of clerks first coming in were made to start at $500, instead of $400 per annum. The maximum salaries of additional clauses were all raised by Sir Richard's bill. The time for promotion in the third class was also shortened. In the second class the same increases were made by the said bill. In the third class the first four annual increases were made. The bill did not become law. If it had become law it would have caused an expenditure of, probably, some hundreds of thousands of dollars.

After recess, the debate on Sir Richard Cartwright's motion was continued by Sir Charles Tupper. He dealt with the ex-Minister of Finance in regard to his estimates as a Minister. He said that Sir Francis Hincks had been bewildered by the extraordinary estimates of Sir Richard Cartwright. He proved, from the public accounts, that Sir Richard Cartwright in 1875 had brought in estimates amounting to $26,819,021, of which he challenged a contradiction. He pointed out how this newly converted economist had made himself responsible for the building of the whole Pacific railway, and now professed to be shocked by a necessary increase in the expenses of the civil government of about $60,000. In 1876, Sir Richard spent $2,148,000 more than the most extravagant estimates of his predecessors. He also rubbed in the Civil Service bill, which Sir Richard had not dared to make law, and which would have added immensely to the public expenditure. He pointed out how Sir Richard had run up the superannuation estimate from $64,000 to about $106,000 in his first year, and so on from point to point the Minister of Railways, with just that vehemence which the House relishes when the ex-Finance Minister is being dealt with, followed his opponent, flinging him at every stage, and showing the new economist in his former extravagant dress. The speech was applauded with much vehemence,

The House was in Committee all the night, and the usual process of what is called in Scotland "hecking" was gone on with. Explanations were demanded and received. The Minister of Customs was terribly ready with some explanations, particularly such as explained how many officials were paid out of "contingencies" who ought to have been on the list if Mr. Burpee had not been ashamed of them. It was on this point that last year Mr. McCuaig called attention to the case of the man whose extra salary had been charged to horse hire. Mr. Burpee looked nervously in Mr. McCuaig's direction when this point was reached to-night, but he was spared, for Mr. McCuaig, having last night sat it out on the canal question, does not need to be here to night at this unchristian hour.

The resolution of Sir Richard Cartwright was put and lost on a vote of 50 yeas to 127 nays.

Hints for May Work.

May is a very busy month, and there is so much work crowded into it that a farmer is in danger of being in a hurry. Every hour of work should be so planned that it will tell most effectually, and this requires considerable thought in order to do the most urgent and important work first, and leave undone those things which may be done almost as well bye and bye. As we sow so do we reap, and as this is the month of sowing the work done now will in great measure determine what the harvest of the year shall be. Keep pushing on, but with a plan.

Labor.—It must be admitted by every one familiar with farm work, that the labor problem is generally met, and it may fairly, from its importance, claim the first consultation in deciding upon the plan of operations for the year. The largest possible crops may not return a profit, if the labor in their production has not been well planned. One of the most important advantages obtained from a systematic rotation of crops, consists in the judicious distribution of labor throughout the year so that there shall not be a surplus at one time, and a deficiency at another that will require the employing of extra hands at the highest wages.

Mangels may be sown early this month. Our practice has been to sow in drills 30 inches apart, using six pounds of seed per acre. A liberal supply of seed is required to secure an even stand, and the plants should be thinned by striking a broad hoe directly across the drills so that single plants will stand 12 to 16 inches apart. Root crops are often a failure from defective thinning.

Clover.—An early rolling of clover to settle the roots that have been raised by frost will be especially appropriate after the open winter just passed. Fifty pounds of plaster per acre will often have as good effect as the larger doses of 100 and 200 lbs. that are recommended. Wood ashes on many soils will be found a useful application.

Meadows.—Pick up any stone that may have been raised above the surface from the action of frost. The roller may be used to bring the surface into good shape for the mower. Meadows are usually injured by the tread of cattle before the ground is fairly settled. The grazing of meadows in spring is at the expense of the hay crop. It is better to keep cattle in the barn until the pastures are ready to furnish them a full ration.

Jerusalem Artichokes are growing in favor; they are relished by nearly all domestic animals. They may be left in the ground all winter, and when dug in early spring are crisp and fresh and the most acceptable change in the feed. The round, short variety called "Brazilian" is best. The seed is cut the same as potatoes, furrows made 3 feet apart, and the pieces dropped 12 or 15 inches apart in the furrow and covered with a few inches of earth.

Sheep.—Sheep should be tagged before turning out to grass. Dry ewes may be fattened, and marketed as soon as possible. Lambs that are for early market, will need the best of care and extra feed. The good shepherd will look well to his flock and count it every day, so that no animal may get strayed far away and lost. The best way to kill ticks is to dip the lambs shortly after the sheep are sheared in Tobacco Water to which Sulphur is added.

Washing Sheep.—A deduction of about ¼ is made by the wool buyers for all unwashed fleeces, and this is right if the washing is properly done. Take it all in all it is best to wash the sheep, though there may be cases where it is not convenient, expedient, or even safe.—From the American Agriculturist for May 1.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, APRIL 30.

The Printing Contract.

After a very full and lengthy investigation into the alleged "crookedness" concerning the Parliamentary printing contract, the joint Committee on Printing find the charges proved and recommend to Parliament that the contract with Messrs. McLean & Roger be cancelled. A sub-committee consisting of Messrs. Stephenson, Ross, Haythorne, McFarlane and Bowell, has also been appointed to report on the best means of preventing such improper practices in the future, and thus a determination has been reached which will give entire satisfaction to the public generally.

The circumstances of the case are, in brief, that McLean & Roger, who had been the previous contractors, put in a tender for the work for the next term at a price which would pay them a good profit. But, in order to secure the field to themselves, they arranged with several other persons to put in bogus tenders at figures considerably below their own, and which were to be withdrawn when the proper time came, leaving the tender which the firm had made in their own name to stand. Their interest in securing the contract was, of course, very large, because if they failed in doing so, their valuable plant, the greater part of which would have been comparatively worthless for any other class of work, would have had to be sacrificed. So they paid their stool-pigeons liberally for their services, the price paid ranging from $12,000 downwards. The only obstacle to the complete success of the job from the first, was the bona fide tender of Mr. Patrick Boyle, of Toronto, who refused to enter the ring, despite large inducements. On the awarding of the contract to Mr. C. H. Mackintosh, of Ottawa, Mr. Boyle withdrew his tender, on the representation of a contract broker named Cotton, who as he himself testified, pocketed the $3,000 which he received from McLean and Roger, for the ostensible purpose of paying to Boyle. Mackintosh then withdrawing as a matter of course, Messrs. McLean, Roger & Co. got the contract, and the job was consummated. The Globe getting wind of the facts, but wrongly as to Mr. Boyle, commented severely on his conduct, and the result was that he brought a libel suit against his accusers, which, although he did not get a verdict, resulted in the whole game being exposed to a certain extent, and this exposure has been completed by the Parliamentary Committee, who at the same time justly declare Mr. Boyle innocent in the matter.

The Opposition organs of course blamed the Government in the premises, but as we have shown the contract was let by a Committee composed of members of both parties, and that the job was put up by those good Reformers, McLean, Roger & Co., in their own interest. True, they had some Conservatives in their pay, but these men operated solely in their own interest, and their evidence showed that the Conservative party had nothing more to do with the matter than had the Grit party. The job originated in the faulty regulations, which prevailed in 1874, when McLean & Roger obtained the contract by, it is said, similar means, and doubtless these regulations will be so amended as to prevent the recurrence of any such scandal in the future. We are glad that this exposure has been made, and hope that the lesson which it teaches will be for the benefit of all whom it may concern.

IMMIGRATION TO MANITOBA.—In the House of Commons, on the morning of the 29th inst., Sir John A. McDonald announced that the number of immigrants so far in the North-West, this season as noted at Winnipeg, was 7,000. The sales of land had been large and the demand was continuing. A separate account was being kept of land sales.

The Opposition Leadership.

Mr. Mackenzie having, as was expected resigned the leadership of the Opposition, Mr. Blake has succeeded to that position. The latter gentleman is doubtless the ablest man of the two, but his numerous crotchets unit him for leadership, and moreover he is fully as lacking in personal popularity as is Mr. Mackenzie. However, the matter is one which intimately concerns the Grit party only, and we can but express the hope that the new responsibilities which Mr. Blake has assumed will to some extent temper his judgment and govern his conduct. We also trust that his health which is not over vigorous, will not give way under the additional strain to which it will be subjected. An Ottawa despatch of the 29th says:

"At the Liberal caucus this morning Hon. Edward Blake was unanimously chosen Leader of the Party. It is said he made an excellent speech in reply, accepting the position, providing the party would give him its entire sympathy, counsel and support. He advocated united action and accord in all things, and pledged himself to leave nothing undone to consolidate their interests."

County Equalization.

Some of the Townships in the County of Frontenac not being satisfied with the equalization made in November last, resolved to appeal to the County Judge and Sheriff as arbitrators. These gentlemen made a most exhaustive investigation, and have given their judgment which appears in the Kingston News of the 29th inst. Fifteen townships have been increased by $941,687, while two have been reduced $11,737, leaving the net increase on the whole to be $929,950. The total assessment of the County as equalized by the Arbitrators is fixed at $6,352,517.

INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY.

INCREASE OF TRAFFIC.

The Truro Sun says: Never before during the history of the I. C. R. has there been such a rush of freight over it, as during the past month. Every engine and car has been fully occupied and every man on the road had extra work to do. The amount of business done at the Truro Station has been enormous. For the week ending April 10th, 2,247 cars were received; and 2,440 forwarded, and for the week ending the 17th, 2,300 were received and 2,325 forwarded. On the 6th instant 23 trains consisting of 438 cars arrived, and 24 trains of 470 cars left the station at Truro. On the 9th, 25 trains of 466 cars arrived and 50 trains of 443 cars left. On the 15th 25 trains of 538 cars arrived and 25 trains of 405 cars left. For week ending the 10th over 5,000 tons coal were moved on the Pictou branch, 4,769 tons of which passed the points at Truro Station. a portion of it was unloaded here, and the remainder forwarded to Halifax and Londonderry.

CROOKEDNESS AT LONDON.—The Mail's Ottawa correspondent says:—"It is sad to relate that the Postmaster, Deputy Postmaster, Inspector and Deputy Inspector of the London Post Office have all been suspended on account of the 'irregularity' which is the invariable cause of these arrests. It was at London that the case of Jarvis took place, and it is curious to remember that though he may have been guilty himself, he alleged a conspiracy of more guilty persons against him."

ALCOHOL IN HEALTH AND DISEASE.—The Mail's author, R. M. Bucke, M. D., Medical Superintendent of the Asylum for the Insane, London, has sent us a copy of his last pamphlet entitled, "Alcohol in Health and Disease." The author takes strong ground that alcohol is injurious when used in the most moderate quantities; that it lessens the comfort, the happiness and the value of life, just in proportion to the amount of it that is taken.

Up the Bay.

A Short Journey and What was seen During its Progress.

(By our Special Reporter.)

Yesterday was not the nicest kind of a day for an excursion or pleasure party and yet a representative of this journal, desirous of presenting its readers with other than the ordinary city local, sought the billowy sea of the Bay of Quinte, and proceeded by the steamer Dexterouto to Trenton for the purpose of presenting something new from that rising place.

The Dexterouto arrived here from Picton at eleven o'clock and soon after her lines were cast off from the dock, and a start was made for Trenton. The number of passengers on the trip was very limited, but then it will be remembered that Thursday was not the finest kind of a day for travelling. A strong south wind which prevailed made it a rather tedious matter for the steamer to turn, but at length she gained her course and then made the usual bee line up the bay. A schooner with her sheets spread to the breezes bowls along ahead of the steamer; another with an almost unpronounceable name speeds off from the dock at Ferry Point, whilst a third puts in an appearance to the eastward and rapidly comes towards the harbor. The surface of the bay is roughened by a strong southerly wind and white caps abound promiscuously and innumerably over its surface. At Ferry Point the clash of the falling lumber as it is laid on the deck of a schooner or piled along the dock attests the activity of activity which now manifests itself in the lumber "boom," whilst busy hands and stalwart arms are duly exercised in the work of stowing it. The "City of the dead" with its huge vault and lofty monuments next catches the eye, which is only removed from it as some other object attracts attention. Rednerville is reached; a solitary passenger appears, gets on board and once more is the steamer on its course. The sloping fields which adorn each side of the bay look very attractive in their spring garb, but the general outside work of the tiller of the soil is only here and there noticeable, as—owing to the dampness of the ground—the work of spring ploughing has been seriously interfered with and delayed. At Baker's Island the latest innovation in mail carrying and distributing presented itself and successfully demonstrated. The novelty consisted in that a letter which was to be left at that place, was snugly placed in the end of a piece of pine which had been partially split for the purpose, and on being thrown on the dock from the deck of the morning steamer was picked up by a resident or workman for delivery. (The name of the office at which the distribution was made is withheld for obvious reasons.) Above this locality the wind has a wide field to spend its force upon, and the sea is high, and the foaming surface larger than the steamer has hitherto encountered on the trip. The docks and lumber piles are almost deluged with spray and a general dampness pervades their localities as each successive wave spendsits force upon them.

At Gilmour & Co's. mill business is active and exhibits every evidence of unusual life and vigor. There is an immensity of lumber piled along the docks thereabouts, and a number of barges and schooners are loading with lumber for export to the United States.

There is a very large quantity of ice stored along the shore in houses awaiting shipment to American ports. Several cargoes have already been sent to Charlotte, and about 800 tons will be forwarded to Erie, Pennsylvania, as soon as vessels can be obtained for the purpose.

There are a number of Belleville business men located at Trenton and they report that trade with them is excellent.

There will be an excursion to the village from Picton over the Prince Edward Railway on the coming anniversary of the Queen's Birthday. Due attention will be paid to the visitors, and a pleasant day's enjoyment is confidently anticipated.

Gilmour & Co.'s mill began the running of day and night tours yesterday, and now a force of 300 men are given employment at their establishment. This firm have erected a cedar and bolt mill upon their property, which will soon commence operations and thus give work to an additional number of men. The average shipments of this firm are about nine schooner cargoes per week.

A grand time is expected on Dominion Day, when the village will be incorporated as a town. Due and necessary preparations will be made for the event.

At present there is not a single bank in the village, and the want of such an institution is greatly felt as the monetary transactions of the business men of the place has to be transacted in Belleville and cause serious inconvenience and delays.

Cuthbert has a new keel yacht in process of construction and has a large one (the Bloodhound) ready for her proper element.

The bailiff was again at work yesterday and a seizure of three cows was effected. The animals were driven to a hotel yard and were apparently safe, but in some unaccountable way they disappeared and could not be found.

And thus is life exemplified in Trenton.

MR. HAMMOND IN MONTREAL.—The Rev. C. Cushing writes to the Montreal Witness in answer to numerous enquiries, that of 1,420 persons who up to the 23rd instant have signed the Rev E. P. Hammond's Covenant Book, 490 are Methodists, 339 Presbyterians, 229 Episcopalians, 167 Baptists, 145 Congregationalists, and 43 other denominations or not given. The average age of the 1,420 is 14, which indicates that a large number of those who have signed are children. Since the 23rd inst., 200 additional names have been added to the Covenant Book.

To the Editor of the Intelligencer.

TWEED, April 28, 1880.

DEAR SIR,—A very successful Tea meeting was held here last evening (Tuesday), in the Bible Christian Church of the above place, thereby showing the respect in which the B. C. Minister, Rev. T. J. Sabine and lady, are held by the ministers and people of all denominations. After the congregation had partaken of the provisions provided by the ladies, the chairman, Mr. W. White, was chosen, whose reputation as chairman is well known by the readers of your paper. The choir was called upon by the chairman to open the intellectual part of the evening's entertainment. The speakers who addressed the meeting were—Rev. J. T. Tozeland, C. M., of Bridgewater, Rev. R. Lake, B. C., of Huntingdon, Rev. T. McAmond, M. E., of Tweed, Rev. W. Beer, B. C., of Cobourg, Rev. R. Walker, C. M., of Tweed, and the undersigned. The speakers whose names are mentioned above, spoke in the highest terms of the Rev. Mr. Sabine and lady, who are about to leave this place for another field of labor; the speeches were good and to the point. Before the meeting closed, Mr. Sabine was called upon, who with deepest feeling of love spoke of the kindness of the people of Tweed during his stay with them—their kindness will not be forgotten very soon by him.

Votes of thanks to the choir and to the chairman were given and received with thanks, and the benediction being pronounced closed the exercises of one of the most successful tea meetings ever held in the Tweed B. C. Church and which was enjoyed by the people of the surrounding locations of this place.

Proceeds, about $30, besides the provisions left for a social to be held this Wednesday evening.

In closing I would remark that the village of Tweed is one of the most remarkable villages ever came to my notice, considering its number of inhabitants, the position is high intellectually, for kindness and sympathy it can not be surpassed, for musical talent it is above the ordinary and if you and others wish to hear them I cordively invite you to attend the concert to be given in Belleville on the evening of May the 16th, in the Workingmen's Temperance Hall, in behalf of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Bible Christian Church.

Yours truly,
ANSELM SCHUSTER.

MORNING DESPATCHES.

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Arrived, the Belgianland, from Antwerp.

HAVERSTRAW, N. Y., April 30.—There is a strike among the brickmakers here; 2,000 men are idle.

DENVER, April 30.—Advices concerning the recent fighting between the Indians and Hatch's command in southern New Mexico, state the conquest will probably be long and severe. Work done thus far in breaking up this nest of thieving, murderous, treacherous Apaches will be of immense benefit, and will have the effect of hampering Victoria, breaking up his principal supply depot and trading and decreasing his power. The feeling among the people over the Indian outrages is intense.

NEW YORK, April 30.—The Herald's Philadelphia despatch reports that Gov. Hoyt has interested himself in behalf of the convicted bribers, and that Kemble and his fellow convicts will be pardoned to-day.

Arrived, the Nevada, from Liverpool.

MAX PLAUT, a well known stock broker in Montreal, his friends believe he has committed suicide. At one time he made $700,000 on Wall Street, and in trying to make it a round million, lost all.

The Tribune says a report was taken to various newspaper offices late last night that Vanderbilt had sold Jay Gould 100,000 shares of the Western Union stock for $10,000,000. No confirmation could be obtained. No reason known for selling.

3,850 emigrants arrived yesterday, which makes a total for the month of 43,261. The highest ever before reached was 42,743, in April '73.

At the investigation of the Madison Square Garden disaster yesterday, Wm. F. Rodgers, one of the builders of the wall which gave way, admitted that he had violated the building law, but said he followed the specifications according to custom. F. S. Curtis, Chief Engineer of the Harlem Railway, testified that the specifications were violated in regard to tie beams, which were to have been of one piece timber, but instead were pieced out by three sticks of smaller timber. Contractors asserted they could not get beams of right size and complete the work within the specified time.

Wealthy residents on the north shore of Staten Island are becoming terrorized by the frequent robberies. The house of Mrs. Hagerdorn, New Brighton, was badly entered by masked burglars, who bound and gagged her, and spent an hour sacking the house. The servants remained in their rooms, paralyzed with fear.

GENERAL ROSS' VICTORY.

The Viceroy of India telegraphs as follows:—"A messenger who arrived at Cabul on the 28th reports the people of Wardake and Logan attacked Gen. Ross on Sunday. After a severe engagement the enemy were completely dispersed, leaving 1,200 dead. Our loss is not mentioned. The district is much disturbed. Passage of letters is difficult. There is some excitement still in Khelat." A despatch from Cabul says Abdul Rahman has written to Gen. Roberts, professing his readiness to submit, and repudiating any Russian proclivities.

REMOVAL.

J. E. EAKINS, M.D., has removed his office and residence to Corner Hotel and Church Streets.

BELLEVILLE, FRIDAY, APRIL 30.

City and Vicinity.

LATE.—The express from the east was one hour late this morning.

THE CELLS.—There were five tramps and one prisoner in the cells last night.

TELEGRAPH POLES.—Two cars of telegraph poles arrived by railway this morning for shipment.

SNOW.—The coldness of the temperature was well illustrated this morning by a slight fall of snow.

NEW MAIL ROUTE.—The Prince Edward Railway will commence carrying the mails on Saturday, the 1st of May.

STORMY.—A heavy southerly gale, which blew yesterday, has been succeeded by a westerly blow of about equal force, and very low temperature.

THE WOOLER MYSTERY.—The Township Council of Murray have offered a reward of $200 for such information as will secure the apprehension and conviction of the murderers of Haskins.

INCREASE OF TRAFFIC.—The increase of traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk Railway for the week ending April 24th over the same period last year was $28,651, and for the 17 weeks ending April 24th $490,942, or an average increase of about $30 per mile.

CELLARS.—Housekeepers should give particular attention to cellars when they begin the renovation of their houses. They should not only have the benefit of a thorough ventilation, but they should be whitewashed and all decaying matter removed. Scrupulous care in these precautions will insure health.

FIRE IN MURRAY.—On the 27th inst., the barn of W. H. Phillips in the 7th con. Murray was destroyed by fire. A quantity of hay, 300 bush. of grain, 8 horses, 4 cows, two or three buggies, a new waggon, cutters, sleighs, harness &c., were all consumed. Loss over $3,000, insured for $700.

A BIG HAUL.—The Trenton Courier of the 29th says: On Tuesday evening Mr. Davern's men cast a net for mud-cats near the head of the Bay and brought about three thousand to shore. They cast again and their net rolled or the take would have been doubled. They are being prepared for the American market.

APPRECIATIVE.—The following extract we copy from a congratulatory letter received by Dr. Clarke, upon the views taken in the sermon preached to St. George's Society on Sunday last, a synopsis of which appeared in the INTELLIGENCER:—"I like very much your position with regard to Britain, and which is also most strenuously maintained by yours truly. She is the nation, and her eccleciasticism the kingdom—and which fact is being at present most universally developed." The writer's opinion is worthy of great weight.

ACCIDENTS.—The Madoc Review of the 29th inst. says: Three accidents occurred yesterday, one at the Sexsmith and two at the Hematte mine. At the former a man named Joseph Maiden fell some twelve or fifteen feet into the shaft, receiving a very severe cut over the right eye, besides other cuts and bruises. At the Hematite, Matthew Fraser had a finger badly jammed, and George Roberts received a wound on his head from a piece of iron which fell on him while in the shaft. Their injuries in each case were attended to by Dr. Sutton.

REMARKABLE FECUNDITY.—The Campbellford Herald records a very remarkable instance of what sheep can do in the production of mutton and wool. On the farm of Mr. W. Merrill, Percy Township, is a ewe that a few days ago astonished its owner by bringing forth a little family of four lambs, two of the male and two of the female persuasion. Twenty four hours after the event, the little creatures were placed upon the scales and showed themselves bulky to the amount of 33½ pounds. They were all living and are doing well.

AN INTERESTING CASE.—Twenty-one days ago Eddy Bartman, a ten year old son of Mr. Wm. Bartman, clothier, had the misfortune to run a rusty nail in the sole of his foot. Twelve days later he was seized with lock-jaw, and his person was so contorted that his body, from the middle of the back upwards, became bent backwards. The mouth remained partly unclosed, so that nourishment could be administered and by this means life has been sustained during the nine days that the seizure has lasted. The patient has suffered dreadfully from frequent convulsions, but this morning there were hopes that he would recover.

NEW MAIL ARRANGEMENT.—The Picton mail will close at Belleville on May 1st at 5 and 9 p. m. and will be received at midnight and at noon.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.—All concerned are reminded that on and after tomorrow Imperial measures will come into use, and the old wine measurement be discarded

INCENDIARISM.—The Madoc Review of the 29th inst. records several attempts at incendiarism in that vicinity. On Tuesday night of last week, a barn on the Hazzard property was burned; on Friday night, a barn and unoccupied house owned by Jas. Hough, Huntingdon, was burned. Both supposed to be the work of incendiaries.

SIGN YOUR LETTERS.—People often send to newspapers bright anonymous things, which could be used if they had the author's name as a guarantee of good faith, and that they had not stolen them. On general principles, if a thing is worth printing it is worth owning, and it is a mistaken delicacy which prompts the laying of literary foundlings at the doors of editorial rooms. If you have a word to say worth saying speak it and be not ashamed that you have uttered it. Of course there are notable instances where a great purpose may be subserved by the secrecy of the authorship. But this theory does not apply to the average newspaper contribution in prose or verse. The logical conclusion is obvious—sign what you contribute to the press.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH, MADOC.—The Madoc Review of the 29th inst, says:—The annual meeting of the congregation of St. Peter's Church was heldon the 26th inst., being the 23rd anniversary of the settlement of their pastor, Rev. D. Wishart, amongst them; and the annual statistical and financial reports prepared for the occasion presented many interesting features, exhibiting a very gratifying amount of progress in the past, and giving grounds for confidence and increased effort in the future. Mr. Wishart's pastorate began with a membership of 53, and the field of his labours had a radius of sixteen miles. Since then four different congregations have been separated from his charge, while the membership of the remaining portion has increased to 118. Twenty-three years ago there were 40 families in his diocese, now there are 80. During his pastorate he has baptized over 600 children, and admitted over 400 adults to membership. The stipend is now $900 per annum, and is paid in full. The church is free of debt, and has cost up to this time a little over $15,000. $224 were spent on it last year, and $226 given to the schemes of the church. There were raised, for all purposes, during the financial year, $1,209. There are 122 pupils attending the Sabbath School, and 100 volumes have been added to the library during the year. A numerous and energetic committee has been appointed for the present year. The Envelope System will receive a more thorough trial, with, it is confidently hoped, still more satisfactory results.

FRIDAY, April 30.

LUNACY.

James McGinnis was further remanded on the above charge.

VAGRANCY.

Joseph Fell put in an appearance on a charge of vagrancy and was dismissed with an order to leave the city.

Seasonable Topics.

The robins make it lively these bright mornings.

The grass is growing rapidly, and the trees are putting forth their buds and leaves.

The roads leading out from the city are in good condition, and rural driving is being largely indulged in.

This is a good time to be very careful about changes in the raiment. It is very easy to contract a fatal cold in these warm, changeable days.

Don't forget to make sure that doors and windows are fastened securely every night before you retire. Thieves are about, who are liable at any moment to break in.

The cattle on a thousand hills
Contribute to the milkman's wealth;
So does the water from the rills
That's slipped into the cans by stealth.

Ladies, beware of the man with clove in breath; he may show the cloven foot one of these days.

One of the hardest lessons in the world for a newspaper man to learn is that a lack of space and a lack of news never comes together.

Asparagus and rhubarb pie-plant come in hand-in-hand. These vegetable advents be true harbingers of spring.

If you want truth to go round the world you must hire an express train to pull it; but if you want a lie to go round the world it will fly; it is as light as a feather, and a breath will carry it.

The pebbles in our path weary us, and make us foot-sore more than the rocks which require only a bold effort to surmount.

Hastings Notes.

(From the Star.)

Mr. Blacklock is shipping his machinery to Colborne, where he has bought a fine water power and erected a knitting mill.

Mr. Wm. Orr brought down from Harwood on Saturday last, a large raft of timber to be used in the railway bridge here.

CHANGE OF TIME.—The train for Belleville will, until further notice, leave Hastings Station at 7.40 a.m., instead of 7.30 as before.

EXCURSION.—The rumor about an excursion, per the Grand Junction, from this place to Belleville is confirmed, and will take place on 24th May, Queen's birthday. Tickets for the round trip will be $1.25.

IT IS THE "HUM."—We have great pleasure in announcing to our readers, that there is every prospect of a large Cotton factory being erected in Hastings. The capital is fixed at $150,000, and a large portion of the stock is already subscribed. The mill will be 220 feet long by 50 wide, and will be built upon the east end of the island, south of the grist mill. When in operation it will furnish employment for 200 hands or more.

—The steamship Prussian is expected to reach Quebec this morning, the first ocean boat of the season.

—The Italian Ministry were defeated on a motion of want of confidence yesterday by a vote of 176 to 153, and has decided to resign.

—Lord Carlingford, better known as Chichester Fortescue, have been appointed to succeed Sir Austen Layard as British Minister to Constantinople.

—The Provincial Wesleyan, Halifax, says the Rev. Dr. Matthew Richey, many years ago a resident of Kingston, and father of Mr. Richey, M. P. for Halifax, has lost the use of his voice, through an attack of paralysis of the vocal organs.

Marine Notes.

The schooner George Suffel is hauled out at Mill Point for repairs.

The schooner Flora Carruth still remains aground near the north buoy on the middle grounds, opposite Northport. She is on hard and fast and difficulty will be experienced in hauling her off. A lighter was brought along side of her on Wednesday, and an effort will be made to get her off today.

The steamer Armenia is expected to resume her regular trips to-morrow.

The schooner Tranchemontagne, lumber laden, left yesterday for Oswego.

The schooner Peerless is loading lumber at the Eagle mill.

The schooner M. O'Gorman passed down from Trenton this morning with lumber for Oswego.

Water was let into the Welland Canal yesterday, and to day vessels will be let through.

The ice bridge above Quebec is gone, and navigation at that city may be said to be open.

The Oswego Palladium of Wednesday says: "McCarthy, the junk and grain dealer, has bought the damaged rye cargo of the schooner David Andrews, ashore five miles below here. Captain Williams will go down with steam pumps as soon as the vessel is lightered and try to pump her out and tow her to this port. She will be lightered immediately."

—The house of Geo. Clayton, Jas. Nairn, James Murdock and Lillie's hotel, at Marden, about four miles from Guelph, were all entered by burglars on Wednesday night, and money and valuables to the extent of about one hundred dollars taken. No clue has been obtained to the perpetrators.

—The meeting of Grand Trunk Railway shareholders yesterday was very harmonious The Board was tongratulated upon the result of its policy and the improved position of the Company, and Sir Henry Tyler's allowance was doubled.

COMMERCIAL NOTES.

HIDES &c.—Green butchers, hides are selling in Montreal at $10.50, $9.50 and $8.50 per 100 lbs for Nos. 1, 2, and 3 respectively. Tanners are paying $11 for No. 1 inspected, a carload having changed hands at that figure.

Sheep pelts are selling at all kinds of prices according to size; transactions have taken place at a range of from $2 up to $3 and as high as $3.50 each. Lambskins 25c@30c. Calfskins are firm at 14c per lb.

CHEESE.—The cheese market is steady at 14c to 15c for old and 13c for new.

PRODUCE IN MONTREAL.—Onions were very scarce and dear, and sold at $6 per bbl. for stock guaranted all sound. Tomatoes are quoted at $1.75 per box. Apples were in slow request at $3@$3 75 per brl for the best kinds, a few strickly choice brls bringing $4. Poultry was scarce and dear, $1 and $1.10 per pair being obtained for fowls dressed. Turkeys were quoted at 12@13c per lb.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

GLOUCESTER, April 30.—The schooner of the Proctor Brothers from the fishing banks lost two of the crew. The schooner Epes Tarr also lost two.

NEW YORK, April 30.—Arrived, Alsatia from London, and the Cornwall from Bristol.

LONDON, April 30.—Arrived out, the Viking, Gallia and California.

Both Houses of Parliament met to-day.

In the House of Lords, Speaker of the House of Commons Brand will report his re-election, and the Lord High Chancellor in the name of the Sovereign, will recognize and confirm all rights and privileges claimed for the Commons by their presiding officer. His business in the Commons will be the swearing in of members.

NEWPORT, April 30.—The fishing steamer Narragnsett, of Tiverton, has been sunk off Bridgehampton, L. I.

LONDON, April 30.—A Vienna correspondent of the Times says that the change in the British Parliament and Cabinet imparts an element of uncertainty into European politics The sending of an Austrian and German military deputation to St. Petersburg to congratulata the Czar on his birthday, is now connected by conjecture with the reconstruction of the triple alliance. The Prince of Bulgaria is expected at Belgrade to pay his long promised visit, and in view of the fresh impulse given to the aspirations of the Balkan population by the change in the British ministry, this visit is now regarded as the first step towards the alliance of the Balkan principalaties. The union of advancep liberal leaders in Italian chamber of deputies with regular opposition for the overthrow of Cairoli ministry, is brought into connection with change in the Government of England, which is supposed to have broken the spell, which has forced Italian to keep on good terms with Austria.

LONDON, April 30.—Capt. Potter and eight officers of the Constellation will go to Dublin on the 4th of May to attend a ball to which they were invited by the Lord Mayor. They will subsequently participate in festivities in Galway.

A Dublin despatch to the Times says Parnell's great national land conference yesterday must be pronounced a signal failure. The room was not half full, although there was no restriction regarding admission. There were not more than 250 present, including 18 members of Parliament. The names of the places from which the delegates came is sufficient to indicate how little claim the Conference had to the title of a representative Assembly. Some of them are a little more than obscure villages, to which fictitious importance was given by connecting them with the high sounding name of the National Land League. Some of the members represented local farmers' clubs. One came from Glasgow, three from London and one from Chicago. Letters of apology were read from several members of Parliament.

ST. LOUIS, April 29.—The Vulcan steel works resumed operations on the basis of prices adopted by the company.

Despatches from Losvegas contradict the report that ex-mayor Brown was murdered by the Indians.

OR,

The Border Marriage.

A STORY OF THE GREAT GLASGOW BANK ROBBERY.

CONTINUED.

'And what became of him— and did he live, did you bring him up, and where is he now?'

Dick was silent and looked very uneasily at Bet. The latter was by this time thrown into confusion also, and her face had grown as red as a peony. Their visitors sat looking at them with silent breathless astonishment.

'O, Dick,' burst out Bet at length, 'we may as well tell the truth. The boy was heavy on our conscience for many a day, and often and often we said to ourselves what a pity we did as we did.'

'That's the gospel truth Bet—for so we did,' said Dick, seeing that to stop short at that point would be worse than to make what he mentally called 'a clean breast of it.' 'Had we known that we were to settle down in this snug berth at the Hall here we would not have gone and left the boy; but I was out of work and we were starving, that's the fact—and—and, well we came south and left him behind. There you have the downright truth, and I can only say I'm sorry for it. By the time we saw that we were to stop on here the child was out of reach, and we had no way of finding him.'

'Do you mean to say, Morris, that you abandoned the child!' cried Philip, in horror—a horror reflected with no dimunition on the faces of the others.

Dick hung his head, and was speechless.

'What was we to do!' whined Bet. 'We had not a farthing to buy a bit of bread either for him or ourselves. Dick is steady now, Mr. Ravensworth, and has been for the last ten years, but he had taken to drinking before that and he had got out of work and everything down, till the landlord sold us up for rent, and we were left without hardly a rag to cover us. It was then we came south to seek for something to do.'

'And left the child to his fate!' said Philip with a shudder.

'We knew he couldn't be worse if we left him, and had every chance of being better. We said to ourselves that when the people found him he would be taken to the parish, and wouldn't starve, as we thought he would if we kept him.'

'But surely you made an effort to recover him when you settled down here!' exclaimed Ravensworth. 'Did you fail to find him again!'

'We knew it was no use trying,' answered Bet, 'for it wasn't the parish as has got him, but some one as wouldn't part with him again.'

'How did you know that!'

'Because we saw him, sir, not four months after, down in the village tumbling and dancing in a showman's caravan.'

'You what!' shouted Ravensworth, drowning the astounded exclamations of the ladies, who with one impulse turned their eyes on Charles. What a pale blanched face was that on which they gazed! He had, some minutes before, made the recognition which from the moment of their entrance he had been seeking in the face of the man and woman. At the sound of names they gave each other—Dick and Bet—the truth flashed on him like lightning, and he knew that before him were those who had the charge of his infancy. At the first mention of the child they had received from Huffey White he knew that it was of himself they were speaking, and sat, with parched tongue and quivering flesh, listening to every word that was spoken, so that, when words were uttered by Bet which gave a fearful revelation of the truth to his companions, and brought their amazed looks on him, they found him ghastly pale, and powerless with emotion.

'Yes it's quite true,' said Dick, holding up his head again, and speaking with animation. 'I got the undertaker's place here in July, and it was one day in the month of October that all the servants on the place went down to the village, for they heard that the muontebanks had come, and they were going to see them. Me and my missus here went too and we never got such an astonisher as when we saw two children finely dressed-up dancing in the caravan. It was a boy and a girl, and the boy was Charlie.'

'Charlie!' cried his listeners in a breath.

'This was the name we called him. Huffey White told us to call him that when he left him with us.'

The consternation of the group of visitors was indescribable. Doubt there could be none as to the meaning of what they were hearing. In the most unexpected way they had unveiled to them the mystery which had rested on the birth of Charles, the effect was naturally so great that Dick and Bet must ere long begin to wonder at it. As Philip felt it important that no suspicion should arise in their minds, he directed a meaning and warning look to his companions to restrain their amazement, and hastened to prevent particular observation by continuing the conversation.

—An Irishman, who had a very ragged coat was asked of what stuff it was made. "Bedad I don't know," says he, "I think the most of it is made of fresh air."

—A carpenter, was always prognosticating evil to himself, was one day upon the roof of a five story building upon which rain had fallen. The roof being slippery he lost his footing, and, as he was descending toward the eaves, he exclaimed: "Just as I told you!" Catching, however, in an iron spout, he kicked off his shoes and regained a place of safety, when he thus delivered himself; "I know'd it" there's a pair of shoes gone!"

MR. M. GILES, ESQ.—Dear Sir: Your favor of Jan. 20th, '77 just received, and I thank you for the information therein. I have been giving the mare a tonic powder in the morning and a little salt petre, pulverized in a mash, at night, and using Liniment freely down her back, loins and limbs. I procured one quart bottle from Johnston, Holloway & Co., and am satisfied that the trouble across the loins and kidneys is fast disappearing. The stifle lameness, I am pretty well satisfied, has been done for sometime. I shall give her the purge-ball, (which I know how to do), and then with the powders put her in good condition — meanwhile trying your Liniment on the stifle trouble, or in the loins and hip, which ever it may be. To prove that your Liniment and the rest are doing her good—a week ago she was "all gone" behind; on Saturday night, while walking her, she broke away, took a trot up and down a large lot, equal to about a three-mile trot, and then struck a bee-line for her old home. Her former owner was surprised on Sunday to see how she had improved, and said:—"Darned I don't think you will get that mare all right, and if you do, why, I'm struck!" Again thanking you for your prompt reply. I am respectfully yours,

GEO. K. CRUMBACK.

P. S.—If the mare gets all right, you will hear from me.—G. K. C.

AUGUST FLOWER.

The immense sale and great popularity of Green's August Flower in all towns and villages in the civilized world has caused many imitators to adopt similar names, expecting to reap a harvest for themselves at the expense of the afflicted. This medicine was introduced in 1868, and for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, with their effects, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Stomach, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart, vertigo, etc, etc., it never has failed to our knowledge. Three doses will relieve any case of Dyspepsia. Two million bottles sold last year. Price 75 cents. Samples 10 cents.

The Hunter!

A hunter's life is one of patience and hardships. Going into outlying and uncivilized regions, he must watch and resort to subtlety to secure his prey. But his life is one of great attraction. He is usually very methodical, putting up with the coarseness of the camp. Sometimes his camp is enlivened by the presence of an enthusiastic, when expenses are ignored and every possible adjunct to comfort is provided. Old "Sharp Eye," the leader, knows the favorite spots where game may be expected, and he plants himself thereabouts. Then comes the rude chase, the excitement attending the pursuit, the fatal shots ringing through the air, the gathering of the game, and the return to the camp, animate with feasting and the stories of the hunters. It is splendid to have a good hunt. It is a good thing, also, to hunt for diseases in the human system, to drive them away. And for this command me to DR. HERRICK'S SUGAR COATED PILLS. They are the most experienced hunters after diseases known.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach; and we make the un qualified statement that SCOTT'S EMULSION is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting Disorders of children, than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, September, 1876.

GENTS,—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used in my own family, HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.

Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M. D., Baltimore.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and able form. Yours truly, J. SIMONAUD, M. D., New Orleans, La.
other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeDecember 19th, 1878.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1876, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed, and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime: and I used various preparations, but they did not help me one bit. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following result: Cough and bleeding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a few bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up by many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.

Jan. 20th, 1879, Verp truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2d, 1878.

About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours, R. W. HAMILTON, M. D.

Epileptic Fits"

ST. PAUL, MIN. JANUARY 4th, 1878.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I have deferred writing to you ere this, that I might be able to give an account of the effects of your medicine, I can now safely say that it is undoubtedly the best I ever tried, as there can be no doubt that my little girl is in a fair way of recovery, and you must bear in mind, that was a very bad case and I do honestly believe that had I not given it to her, she would have been dead ere this; now she eats heartily and is gaining in flesh the fits are only partial and the action of the heart is less terrible: I am, sir, yours very respectfully,

D. WALTER OAKES.
Northport, Wis., May 6, 1879.

JAMES I. FELLOWS, Esq.

SIR:—I have been using your medicine for over a year now and with the best effects. I have used 12 bottles of the Hypophosphites, and it has made a new man of me, I have been ailing over six years with a number of diseases but lung difficulty was the most prominent, I have been under the care of a great many Doctors, and have taken quantities of medicine without any apparent benefit, but appeared to be still growing worse and weaker until I accidentally came across one of your circulars and was constrained to try your medicine, and I found its effects were almost magical, upon me and I was a surprise to myself and friends, having gained so rapidly in flesh.

I remain respectfully,
LAWRENCE DORAN.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name; no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

Sold by all Druggists.
